PREACHING SERVICE

Preaching service at Westminster Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, October 1, at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. C. Wool. Also, Mr. Wool will preach at Dunmore that night at 8 o'clock.

A Vesper service was held at the Swago Church on Sunday night Sept. 24th, by the Swago Farm Womens Club, with the president, Mrs. W. J. Yeager leading, assisted by the club members. The theme of the program was "The Music Trail", stressing the influence of music in worship. A number of the best loved hymns were sung following the story of their composition. At the close of the service all joined in the regular monthly Community Song Service.

This combined service was well attended.

VOL. 12 NO. 16

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, October 5, 1944

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Eleventh Naval District Headquarters, Great Lakes, Michigan, reports that four Pocahontas County, West Virginia, men are receiving their initial Naval indoctrination at the United States Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Their recruit training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill and general Naval procedure. During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruits to determine whether they will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate duty at sea.

When their recruit training is completed, these men will receive a period of leave. They are: Melvin R. Rose, 18; Jack L. Miller, 18, both of Hillsboro; George P. Baxter, Jr., 18, box 105, Marlinton; and Keith L. Smith, 18, Rt. 1, Marlinton.

Staff Sergeant Carl Ramsey has visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Townsend, at Lohelia, over the weekend. Carl has been in foreign service for over a year. He is an aerial gunner and has five German planes to his credit. Carl also has flown 28 missions over Germany and was among the lucky ones, never got a scratch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Williams, of Lohelia, have received word that their son, Daniel C. Williams, of the United States Marines, has been promoted to Sergeant. He is serving somewhere in the South Pacific.

Mrs. Grace E. Tracey has learned that her son, Lyle E. Tracey, who is stationed in the Pacific has been made Corporal. Another son, Wallace, is stationed in Germany.

Sergeant Reid Davis, of the Signal Corps, stationed at Camp Bowie, Texas, is spending his furlough here with his wife and his father, W. L. Davis.

John Randolph Kenney, Ph M 1-c, of the United States Navy, who is stationed at Glenwood Springs, Colorado, is spending a leave at Hot Springs, Virginia, with his wife and son, and at Marlinton with his mother, Mrs. J. L. Kenney.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Simmons, of Lohelia, have received word that their son, Corporal Roy Simmons, had arrived safely at his base at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, after spending an 8 day furlough at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ruckman were notified last Friday by the War Department that their son, Willis, had been slightly wounded in action in Italy on September 10th.

T-Corporal Elmer Shinaberry spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Louie McLaughlin. Elmer has recently been transferred to Ashford General Hospital, White Sulphur Springs, from McClosky General Hospital, Temple, Texas.

Mrs. Jewel Hamilton has received a letter from her husband.

Sergeant Russell Hamilton, telling of his safe arrival somewhere in France.

P. F. C. Robert L. Smith has returned to his army base at Alamogordo, New Mexico after a 15 day furlough at home with his mother, Mrs. Mary Doyle, at Mace. He has been in the army for 18 months.

Delbert Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Griffin of Cloverlick, is home on twenty days furlough. He has been in the Navy twenty-nine months and has seen service in the South Pacific and expects to return to that area. He took his training at Norfolk, Virginia, and in Florida. He is a first class petty officer.

Major D. L. Leisher, of the United States Army, stationed at Fort Worth, Texas, was visiting friends in town over the weekend. He has been at Woodrow Wilson Hospital in Staunton, Va. for treatment.

Pvt. Harry Lee Thomas stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas at Buckeye.

Announcements have been received of the birth of a son, Grady Fillmore Herold, Jr., at 10:35 A. M., on Tuesday, September 12, 1944, weight 7 pounds, 12 ounces, to Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Grady F. Herold, of Mercedes, Texas. Sergeant Herold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Herold, of Minnehaha Springs.

Pvt. Virgil Ray spent his furlough with his mother, Mrs. Zula Ray on Droop Mt. He also spent a few days with his aunt, Mrs. Wilbur Dolan and cousin Mrs. Garland Cook, of White Sulphur. Pvt. Ray is stationed at Parris Field, Texas.

An Eighth AAF Composite Station, England.

Staff Sgt. Rufus J. Elliott, of Boyer, is a member of a Bombardment Group which, with its Division has been cited by President Roosevelt for a bombing attack on targets in Germany, January 11, 1944.

Staff Sgt. Elliott is now entitled to wear the Presidential Citation Badge, a blue ribbon with a gold border, over the right pocket of the blouse.

This Group, which is commanded by Col. Howard Moore, of Llano, Texas, also has been commended by Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, Commanding General of the Eighth Air Force, and Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, former Commander of the Eighth, for outstanding performance of duty in the winter of 1943-44, when its planes led 80 per cent of the Eighth's bombing missions.

Staff Sgt. Elliott, who is ball turret gunner on a B-17 Flying Fortress, has been overseas 15 months. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Elliott of Boyer, and engaged in farming before entering the Army.

Mrs. Lottie Kellison, of Buckeye, spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Arnot McNeill of Edray.

For U S O

Dear Mr. Smith:

Congratulations on your appointment as chairman of the USO drive. It is a worthy cause and I know they picked a good man for the job.

Like all the service men I've met, I have had a good many occasions to appreciate the fine effort of the USO. Their Camp shows are wonderful and the centers established in towns near army ports everywhere are favorite gathering places for service men and their friends. These centers in strange towns and strange lands render invaluable aid to the boys on leave, and especially to those who travel. Many thousands could vouch for the comfort given them while travel worn and in need of a place to rest and enjoy the comfort of home until the next train arrived.

I know the folks back home have many burdens to bear and are called on to contribute to many good causes, however, I believe your efforts in this cause is well worth while.

Wishing you much success in your drive, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Cpt. Grady K. Moore,

APO 845

Rev. James C. Wool will preach at the Lennwood Church on Sunday afternoon, October 8, at 3 o'clock, and at Cass Presbyterian church at 7-30 o'clock.

Mrs. Margaret Gordon of Hillsboro, is employed at White Sulphur restaurant.

Mrs. Stanley McNeill of Newport News, Va., visited friends and relatives here last week.

Mrs. Rose Birchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grimes, and son Blair of Huntersville, were Sunday guests at the home of Wilbur Dolan, at White Sulphur. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Anderson Grimes who spent two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Dolan and Mrs. Garland Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip C. White announce the birth of a son, named Philip Carl, at the Wyandotte General Hospital in Wyandotte, Michigan, on September 24, 1944. Mrs. White will be remembered as Miss Marie C. Sharp, formerly of Marlinton.

FAMILY GATHERING

Mrs. Joe Dilley, of Clawson, had as Sunday guests her five sons, who had not all been at home together for several years.

Newman B. Dilley, G. M. 2-c, of the United States Navy, who participated in the invasion of France was home on furlough. He has won the medal for valor. He will return overseas after his leave.

Those present were Newman B. Dilley, G. M. 3-3, New York City; New York; Glen Dilley, of Cloverlick; Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Moore, of Fairview, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dilley and son, Darrel, of Lost Creek; Louis Dilley, of Quince; Quince and Lois Friel, of Thorny Creek; Gilbert, Ruth and Bobby Dilley and Mrs. Joe Dilley.

Government Needs

EXPERIENCE!

When you vote November 7, it will pay you dividends to remember that a public official, to be EFFICIENT, must have the right kind of EXPERIENCE.

Clarence W. Meadows, of Beckley, is experienced in the Legislative and Judicial branches of government as well as the Executive branch.

He learned the problems of a Legislature as a member of the House of Delegates from Raleigh County.

His executive experience was gained in two terms as State Attorney General.

Since 1942 he has served as Judge in the 10th Judicial Circuit.

Study his record in these positions which prepared him so well to assume the problems of a chief executive. When you do, we have every confidence you will—

American Legion Meets

The Regular Monthly Meeting of the Pocahontas Post No. 55, of American Legion, will be held Monday, October 9, at 8:00 P. M.

The program for the meeting will include the installation of officers by Post Commander Paul Overholt and a talk by Lt. Harry Lynn Sheets, home on furlough from the India-China area.

There will also be an exhibition of souvenirs and articles captured from Japs in the Pacific area, and sent home by the boys from that section.

Moving pictures of the Pacific fighting will be shown during the evening, entitled "U. S. Marines Capture Tarawa" and "Yanks Bomb Tokyo."

As several Marlinton boys were in the Tarawa operation, this film should be most interesting.

And to top the evening refreshments will be served, so a large attendance is expected for this meeting.

Williams-Elmer

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Frances Willard Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, and Edgar Moffet Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Williams of Marlinton.

The ceremony took place Saturday, September 16, 1944, at 6 p. m. in the Meadowsdale Parsonage, Fairmont, West Virginia, with the pastor, Rev. P. W. Arbogast reading the single ring ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Marlinton High School, in the class of '39, and for the past three years has been employed in Maryland.

Mr. Williams is a graduate of Marlinton High School, class of '33, and received his B. S. degree in Agriculture from West Virginia University. Since his graduation from the University, Mr. Williams has been engaged in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams will make their home in Marlinton.

Mrs. G. W. Gilmore announces the marriage of her brother, Cpl. Norman Dilley to Miss Margaret Ratzsch, of Everett, Washington, on September 1, 1944. Cpl. and Mrs. Dilley spent a few days visiting in Marlinton. Cpl. Dilley will return to Denver, Colorado, for advanced training in aerial photography. Mrs. Dilley will return to Everett, Wash., where she has employment.

Dr. Nickell, of Cass, sends in a big black bug and asks its identification. It is a "wheel" bug; so named for the hump like a chicken comb on its back; its "pronotum" to be painfully technical. The wheel bug belongs to family of assassin bugs; so called because of their cheerful feeding habit of sucking the life juices out of their neighbors, such as potato beetles, caterpillars, and the like. The assassin bugs were formerly known as "kissing bugs" a generation ago. This particular bug sent by Dr. Nickell is put down in the books under the latin name of arilus cristatus. This one is a full inch long. Sometimes wheel bugs are an inch and a half long. They are friends if we do not handle them carelessly. They have able beaks to be used with good effects on many kinds of caterpillars and other injurious insects.

Rodney Doyle, of Stony Bottom, sent in just the biggest "praying mantis," I have ever seen. Call it a devil's rear horse, mule killer, or soothsayer. This bug is called the praying mantis because its favorite pose is supposed to be a devout attitude of prayer, with its jaw like front legs doubled up in humble supplication. Take it from me, he is just another pious fraud; he is just waiting his chance to pounce upon and eat up another insect.

The mantid Mr. Doyle sends in, I can hardly think is one of the kind which has been common in these parts, stagmomantis. I happen to know that the oriental rear horse (paratenodera senensis) has been introduced in America and as long as ten years ago was common in parts of Pennsylvania. The oriental may be as long as four inches and more; as big as the one Mr. Doyle sent in. The markings correspond to his printed description too.

The mantids appear to be the only insects able to look over their shoulders. All are very beneficial since they destroy large numbers of injurious insects. To say quite a lot of insects. One book writer suggests the make good pets.

My young friend Jimmie Moore brings in a small dry land lizard, new, off or ground puppy. It belongs to the salamander family. While water lizards are often found on land, the difference to be noted is in the tail; one is tough and broad for swimming; the other is brittle and round. My hazy recollection is that this particular five toed dry land salamander was checked in by scientists only a dozen or so years since.

You know the old story about the salamander having the unusual ability to live in the fire. This big story evidently is an enlargement or the fact that the watery secretion of the skin might enable these animals to resist heat for a longer period than other forms. The best known salamander of these parts is the big water dog of the Mississippi drainage, hell bender to some.

The other night Bert McComb was fishing in the Greenbrier at the mouth of Oldham Run. All was peaceful and quiet except for the chorus of the katydid and other insects. Then the peculiar, plaintive, woman like wail of a panther was heard coming up the river. The beast came steadily on until it seemed to stop to smell on a bank overlooking the pool Mr. McComb was fishing. The next he heard was a great splashing as the panther started to cross from the east to the west side of the river. That was side Bert was on, so he just up and left for home right then.

All summer long James Workman and others have been telling me about a couple of panthers which have been living off the deer herds in Watoga State Park, Burnside, Marefice, Oldham, Nigh Gap and Carl Ridge and the Ray Thicket. Three or four partly eaten carcasses of deer have been found, covered with leaves.

I was reminded the other foggy morning that October, the crazy month for grouse was right on us. A young cock grouse whizzed by my head like a shot out of a shovel, as I was coming to work in the gray dawn. The bird had come from Price Hill, across town to Martins Mountain.

Monday morning Theodore Moore and E. S. McNeill found the tracks and other signs of a big buck deer in their garden just below the Marlinton bridge. The day before hounds were chasing deer to a fare you well on Buckley Mountain just a mile or so away. It is a good guess the big deer had come up the river and jumped into the garden, on his way to the woods on Jerico Flat. The prints were identical to those of a big old buck by size and the sticky feet.

Richwood Road To Open

The Richwood-Poohontas Road will be officially opened to traffic on Friday, October 20, 1944, in proper form and with due ceremony. The place is North Bend camp site, seven miles out from Richwood. The hours are 10:00 A. M. to 3:00 P. M. Come and bring your dinner; the coffee will be free; Sandwiches will be sold.

The committee on arrangements is V. B. White of Richwood, who is to pick his attendants.

The committee on program is Senator Fred C. Allen, June McElwee, Frank Baxter of Pocahontas county; George Worthington and R. L. Wolfenbarger, of Greenbrier County; Edgell Dean and Merle White, of Nicholas County. Publicity Committee is composed of Mr. Wiseman, of Nicholas Chronicle; Mr. Thompson, of Richwood Republican; Mr. Blake, of the West Virginia News; Mr. Herne of Greenbrier Independent; Mrs. Ferguson, of Marlinton Journal; Mr. Price, of Pocahontas Times.

State Road Commissioner Ernest Bailey, will be master of ceremonies. Invitations will be extended to Governor Neely, Mayor Boone Dawson, Judge Clarence Meadows, National Forest Superintendent, A. A. Wood, Major William Brewster and other men of State-wide prominence.

For twenty years and more—ever since our West Virginia wheeled into developing a State road system—a highway giving the city of Richwood outlet to the east and the upper Greenbrier a much better way to Charleston has been agitating. It is finally an accomplished fact, and what a fine highway it is too.

Leaving the hard road, No. 219 at Millpoint, up the pleasant pastoral valley of Stamping Creek; over Cranberry Mountain on an easy grade to reach an altitude of 4,000 feet; down the wooded ravine of Hills Creek, to cross to the drainage of the North Fork of Cherry without knowing it, thence on down stream to the industrial center of Richwood. This is twenty-eight miles linking hard road to hard road; over a really high mountain; twenty of the miles through the woods between houses.

How this road was built is an interesting story, to be written at length some time. First there were abandoned railway grades; then W.P.A. projects; then State road contracts; then a State prison camp; then the big Federal prison camp; then State maintenance and more state contracts. Last, but of great importance was the big annual boost money from National Forest road funds.

The Richwood-Seneca Trail road is a pleasant, modern highway. It will mean much to the convenience of the general traveling public and from the State Capital; it will mean more to the people of Richwood as a way out to the east; and to the people of all of northeast West Virginia, as a better and more direct way to Charleston.

Now that open toe and open heel shoes have focused attention on the soles of milady's footwear, designers have brought forth several ideas for making soles decorative as well as serviceable. One company (International Shoe Co.) has perfected a method of emphasizing soles by using a smooth, lustrous plastic and rolling over the edge of the sole for a platform effect. No stitching is visible on the bottom of the shoe, the outer sole being attached to the middle inside the shoe. Through the use of color in the comfortable plastic, designers envision a wide range of decorative effects.

The Dunmore Mountaineer 4-H Club held its last meeting of the club year at the school house on September 21. An interesting program on Victory was given by the members and all business for the year was finished by the club leader, Glenn Tracy. After the meeting the Club was treated to a delicious supper in the lunch room by Mr. Tracy. Following supper, the club leader motored to Seneca Forest for fishing in the Greenbrier river. Those present for the happy occasion were: T. E. Wanda and Eolyn Campbell, Johnny Hevener, Billy Brock Jr., Dorothy and Martha Campbell, Billy Waugh, Alberta Miller, Jo Betty Pritchard, Sue McElwee, Katherine Campbell and Glenn Tracy.

The Back Mountain Farm Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Sutton, with six members; Mrs. LaRose and Miss Mary Christine Mass present. The lesson was discussed by all the members. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Beverage, October 11. All members please be present.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish at this time to express our thanks to our friends in Marlinton for all kindness shown at death of our dear husband and father. May God bless each of you.—Mrs. E. G. Holmquist and Children.

Brush Burning

Another forest fire started in about to start and it is well for all to know restrictions on brush and debris burning laid down by the State Conservation Commission.

During the period October 15 to December 15, no burning is allowed without a written permit issued by State District Foresters, Game Protectors, or U. S. Forest Service Rangers. Such permits are good for only a 48 hour period and burning may not start before 6 P. M.

It is therefore, advisable for all who plan disposal jobs by burning to get it done before October 15.

In order to insure safety in burning, the same precautions should be followed even before the permit period starts. That is, to burn in the evening after wind has died down, with adequate help and tools to control the fire if it gets away. Finally to watch the fire until it is completely out.

On a recent Saturday afternoon a farmer at Auto failed to take this last precaution. The fire crept into his nearby woodlot, was fortunately noticed by some of his neighbors who dropped their farmwork to fight fire. Five acres of his woods burned before they had it controlled. The next day it had to be mopped up and patrolled to see that it didn't get away again. A little precaution would have prevented all this trouble.

IN MEMORIAM

In sincere loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, Newton Clutter who left us a year ago, and oh! the long lonely days and nights that have come and gone since when we have longed so much for your home coming from your work to be with us for awhile, but we know that our Heavenly Father knows what is best and we are comforted by knowing that our dear one is doing with all of life's cares and sorrows, and that we can go some time and find him where we will never be lonely.

Hast thou thought of me at night dear
When the snow was on the ground
While the storm beat on the window,
With its voice so loud and long?
I have thought of thee at night, dear.
Even as thou hast thought of me.
I come to the quiet haven,
Thou—out on the stormy sea.

So he thinks of thee at night, dear.
When the cold nights fall on thee
And his voice goes down through storm and sun,
There is rest dear one, with me.
Mrs. Newton Clutter, and Son.

MRS. MARY ALICE SHARP

Mrs. Mary Alice Gibson Sharp, departed this life the 5th day of September, 1944. She was a daughter of the late Lon Gibson and Clara Cleck Gibson. She was born and reared in Bath County, Virginia. She was united in marriage to J. B. F. Sharp. To this union were born six children. Henderson, Carl and Carrie Harper survive; Bessie McCarly preceded her to the grave. She is also survived by three full sisters: Mrs. G. E. Thomas of Hot Springs, Virginia; Mrs. Wheeler Gladwell of Huntington, and Mrs. Clara Cannon of Emporia, Kansas; one full brother, John Gibson, of Bushyong, Kansas; one half-brother, Earl Gibson, of Emporia, Kansas, and one half-sister, Edith Nelson, of Topeka, Kansas.

Her funeral was conducted at the Frost Church, of which she was a member, by her pastor, Rev. L. E. Saville.

She lived a consistent christian life for many years. Thus we note the passing of a noble woman. She was loved by all who knew her, a loving mother and a devoted friend.

"Let fate do her worst there are moments of joy
Bright dreams of the past which she cannot destroy
That comes in the night time of sorrow and care
And brings back the features that joy used to wear."—Moore

A. A. Sharp.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy shown us at the death of our husband and father. Walter Lee Ralston. May God's richest blessing be upon each one of you.
The Ralston Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Fisher and little daughter Alice Ann were visiting at the home of I. B. Shrader over the week end. Mrs. Shrader will return to South Charleston with them and will go on to St. Albans to visit her daughter Mrs. Gene Morgan.

Misses Gladys and Juanita Byers returned to Baltimore, last Wednesday, after visiting relatives in Marlinton.

COMMEMORATION IN ITALY

With The Fifth Army, ITALY
Sergeant Herman G. Monk of New York, recently was commended for outstanding performance of duty with the 88th Infantry Division on the Fifth Army Front in Italy.

Monk and another enlisted man carried their radio through a heavily mined field in order to make contact with their battalion commander, who then issued orders preventing other elements from entering the danger zone.

Monk moved forward through the field in the face of deadly German machine gun fire to make possible communication which minimized the battalion's casualties.

His action displays utmost devotion to duty and reflects great credit upon himself and the United States Army, the citation read.

AWARDED COMBAT DECORATION

With The Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Ward F. Hill, of Lobelia, has been cited by his regiment of the 88th Infantry Division and awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for actual participation in combat with the enemy on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

Standards for the Badge are high. The decoration, which was recently authorized by the War Department, is awarded to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat.

The handsome badge consists of a rifle set against a background of infantry blue, enclosed in a silver wreath.

Great Lakes, Illinois, Sept. 27. Among those graduating from an intensive course of Basic Engineering training at recent Service Schools exercises here was Patrick D. Fowler, 22, husband of Dorothy Lee Fowler, Hillsboro, W. Va.

This Bluejacket was selected for his specialized training on the basis of his recruit training aptitude test scores. Graduates from the twenty specialized courses taught here at the Service schools are sent to sea, to shore stations, or to advanced schools for further duty.

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors both far and near for every kind deed rendered, help with the use of cars, visits and the numerous nice letters and cards in the bereavement of our darling son and brother, Marshall Gray, who lost his life in France June 25, 1944. May God bless and help every one in our prayer.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shinnberry and Children.

Minter C. Moore of the Army, after 26 months service in the Aleutian, got broken up in a plane crash in Wyoming seven weeks ago. He suffered a broken arm and other injuries. He was in an Army Hospital seven weeks. Forty-two people were killed in the crash. Minter arrived home last week for an eleven day stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Moore.

Circuit Clerk

To the Citizens of Pocahontas County:
I am the nominee on the Democratic ticket for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County in the General Election to be held Tuesday November 7, 1944. This is the office I had to give up when I entered the Armed Forces in 1942. By reason of my absence in the Army outside the Continental United States, I will be unable to see the voters, so I take this means of soliciting your vote.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Headquarters AAF Station F-128, Office of the Chaplain.
August 16, 1944.

Miss Eva Jane Cloonan
Marlinton, West Virginia.

My dear Miss Cloonan:

Permit me to join with Lt. Colonel Everett W. Stewart, our Station Commanding Officer and Major E. E. Frink, in expressing our sympathy in your sorrow caused by the sudden death of your brother, Pvt. Clarence B. Cloonan, ASN 35396196, of the 14th Station Complement Squadron. His death was a shock to us all.

I know it must be difficult for you to understand why so many have to pay such a price that victory might be ours. We must all realize that a conflict so great as this one engulfs us and leads us along strange paths. Some of us will be spared to enjoy the freedom we are trying to make secure for us all. Others will not be so fortunate. They become a part of the tremendous price that is to be paid.

Your brother was a good soldier. He was always attentive to his orders and his officers never found complaint with his work. Though he never got to share in actual combat, he did play an important part in making this station a secure place from which our pilots go forth to their tasks.

I personally made the trip to the American Military Cemetery and took part in the funeral service which laid him to rest. Our prayers were for the Eternal Father of us might bear him up in the everlasting arms.

Regretting more could not have been done for Clarence, but praying that the God of love will be your comfort in these difficult days, I am

Sympathetically yours,
James N. Zeigler, Station Chaplain.

Mrs. W. G. Frazier, of Van Wert, Ohio, writes as follows to her father, C. B. Roman, giving details of the death of her brother, Lieutenant Donald Roman, who was killed in action on July 11th, as given to her by another brother, Captain Charles E. Roman:

August 27, 1944.

Dear Daddy:

Did you get my last letter? I had another letter from Charles E. telling me all about Dit and I know you would like to hear about it and even though it is a terrible thing it is a comfort to know Charles was there to take care of him. It does not very often happen that way.

Charles writes, "Due to censorship regulations I could not say anything about Don for 80 days. They are up today so now I can tell you that I know about it and have since the day it happened. I went over to see him on July 11. Arriving at the field he was flying from about 1:00 P. M. I was told by the men there that he had been shot down just two hours before. He went like a soldier and fast. He got a direct hit from an A. A. shell and never knew what hit him. His plane burned but he was dead before it caught fire. His body was not burned for it was thrown clear. He was flying over the front lines adjusting fire on an enemy battery that was firing on our troops.

The last his battalion heard from him was "100 short, fire for effect." He silenced the battery but lost his own life doing it. This is as much as any artillery man could ask for. He did his job and a good one. The Colonel gave me two days off and I took care of him. I have all his equipment except what he had on at the time. I talked to his Commanding Officer and got all the information I could.

There is one thing I want you to promise me and that is that you won't let this get you down for it is over and done with and nothing will bring Don back. Look at it the way I do. Don was just transferred to another division. That he will carry on there as well as he did in the last. We still have to go on.

Charles E. expressed it beautifully didn't he? He is a Captain now and going forward toward Germany. He seems to be filled with a cold fury for all Germans who are understandable.

Most close for now and put the twins to bed. Wilbur, Jr., is visiting in Atlanta. I sure do miss him. W. G. is in Baltimore today. Answer for I would like to hear of you all.

Love, Fay and all.

August 26, 1944

Dear Mr. Price:

I will drop you a few lines to let you know I am still living, and getting along O. K. so far. It is pretty hot over here on the Islands. It is not as hot here though as on some of the other islands.

They call the Hawaiian Islands the Paradise of the Pacific. You can see a rainbow all most every day. You can even see rainbows at night.

I have been fortunate in getting to see my kid brother, Albert, pretty often and we enjoy it very much too. I have a change in address again so will you please change my paper.

P.F.C. Lloyd Woods.

Mrs. Jess Parish, of Union, received the following letter from her brother, Cpl. Elza N. Baker who is in the Bermuda Islands.
Sept. 14, 1944.

Dear Sis:

I received your most welcome letter yesterday and sure was glad to hear from you, and glad to know you were well and getting along fine.

This leaves me feeling pretty good so far and getting along fine with a mashed and broken foot. This sure is a hot day here. How is Dick getting along now? Hope you can read this mess, for I am lying down writing. I guess I will get out of bed pretty soon.

I received a letter from Mother yesterday and they were all well and getting along fine. I hope you get another job before long. I don't know when I will get home, but I hope soon. I got my foot broken the 8th of Sept.

Well Sis, I will close, maybe I can do better next time.

Love always, your brother,
Elza.

Miss Polly Sydenstricker of Spring Creek sends this letter from her brother, S. Sgt. Dare L. Sydenstricker, U. S. M. C. R. who has been overseas twenty-two months.

Dear Polly and Dad:

How are the two kids getting along? Fine I hope. I am just fine. Guess it has begun to turn cold there by now. Sure wish I was there to enjoy some of that weather. I would probably freeze after being here in this hot climate. I may be back in the States by Xmas.

Dad, how are all the young women getting along back there now? Boy, I would like to be with a few of them. Could I have a time!

Polly, how is my pretty Sis getting along now? Boy, I would like to give you a whipping tonight. Remember when we had our little fights, and you would always wind up crying? Ha! you little baby.

Well sis, I haven't so much time now. You and Dad take good care of your selves. I will write again soon.

Dan.

Mrs. B. C. Peterson, of Marlinton, sends this letter from her son, Cpl. C. E. Peterson, who is somewhere in New Guinea.

Dear Mom:

Received your letter yesterday and was sure glad to hear from the best Mom in the world.

Well mom, I am still here and don't know when I will be able to come home. No, I haven't any pictures of myself but will try to send some later on.

I was sorry to hear that Burnett was over seas. That makes us all doesn't it? Anyway I hope it won't be long until we can all be together again.

Tell Dad and Wilma hello for me. Also tell him we will really celebrate when we get back.

No, I haven't any souvenirs at present, but will send you something later, probably a set of papers, but I know you wouldn't want that; anyway Dad might.

Well this is about all I can think of at the present time, so will close. All the love in the world to the best Mom in the world.

Cleofus.

Mrs. Mabel Burris received the following letter from her son, PFC. Frank Burris, of Cass, now serving overseas in France.

Dear Mother:

I will try to write a few lines to let you hear from me. Hope you are feeling fine.

I sure was sorry to hear about Carol Lee going to the Hospital. Wish I could have been there with her. I sure feel I would take her place anytime, if it was in Charleston.

Mom, I sure appreciate you sending those packages. All the boys here look forward to the day when their packages arrive, and that's the same with me.

Did you have a good time while in Baltimore. I sure wish I could have been along, but we will have to wait a few weeks yet. I think Marie is a perfect darling, even if we used to fight all the time. Those were good times. It was a little more easy than this one over here. I expect I will live in peace afterwards.

Mom, tell those people back there to get on the ball and answer my letters. I haven't received a letter in four days.

How is George getting along with his family? I would love to see the baby. I hope he won't be as mean as his Uncle. Although I can't say very much, ha!

Mom, there will be times when I won't have time to answer both yours and Marie's letters but I will always try to answer one of the other.

See, Mom, I sure feel sorry for the French people, there sure are plenty of homes torn up. I will tell you more about this country when I get home.

I am anxious to get The Pochontas Times so that I may be able to keep up with my friends. I guess I will have to close for tonight. Answer soon and write often. With love, Frank.

Mrs. Beck Riddle of Rt. 1, Marlinton sends this letter from T. Sgt. Morris Knox, of Easley, S. Carolina.

Dear Mrs. Riddle:

About 20 days ago I left Bert in Corsica, at which time he was feeling fine and in good health. There is no reason to worry about him. He is probably safer than he would be in the States.

Bert was in my crew. He was the best man I had. He should be a Sergeant, but there are no openings, and it is impossible to do so. I tried for him.

Mrs. Riddle, it looks like you did a very good job of making a man out of him. He is strong, honest, sincere, a hard worker and worships his family. I don't believe Bert has an enemy in the outfit. We have lived in the same tent for the past eight months and he is just gobs of fun and a darn nice fellow. He worries about you at home and is anxious to get back; and I believe your son will be coming home to you before Xmas. I may never see Bert again, but I will always be his friend.

Sincerely,
T. Sgt. Morris Knox.

Mrs. Lonnie McLaughlin received this letter from her brother, Glen, who is in a Tank Division in France:

Dear Sis and All:

Hello every one. How are we doing. All fine and dandy I hope I am okay myself and sitting here under a big apple tree; have time out to write a letter or two and I think I owe you a couple of letters.

This is a beautiful place here where I am and makes one think of the nice things back home. Sorry I can't tell you where I am; you will have to make one big guess and you will have it.

Where are the other boys now? Still in England?

Oh, yes, tell Elmer to go easy with those Louisiana girls for they are French.

Say Sis, did Raymond Shionberry go to the Army?

Guess I had better stop, the wind is trying to take my paper, and I have a nice chapped face and lips from the sun and wind.

Give the kiddies "Hi" for me, and tell Lonnie to take it easy, and maybe I'll be back to take that rabbit hunt soon. I saw a jack rabbit here this morning big as a dog.

Answer when you can sis.

Glen.

Mrs. Lucy Davis of Marlinton, received this letter from her son, Clarence Davis, S. 1 Class, of the Navy:

Dear Mother and L. W.

I received 3 letters from you both today and would love to answer each one but guess I can't do that out here. I am getting along just fine, only a few anxious to get back home. You ask me about those pictures. I would like to have them and I think they will get to me okay. Please send me some of L. W. and yourself as I have but one of you and none of L. W. I really got a nice picture from Gladys yesterday; one she had taken when she was home last spring.

About moving off the mountain as I wrote before, I think is a grand idea. It will be okay with me for that mountain is just too much for you to climb every time you go to church.

Mother I am sending you a money order. If there is anything you need please use it. If you can buy a place off the mountain, take all the money, I have in the bank and get it. I will send at least $50 home every month and double it now and then. So that will be a good start. Don't get me wrong, I won't bother you with my big family. ha!

About the hunting this fall. I have no idea when I will get back, for now that we have the Japs on the run, we can't let up or it will mean disaster. So I guess we will be gone a long time yet. I saw in the paper where ammunition would be sold to the hunters. Tell L. W. if he can, to get some 22 shells for me, in case I do get home.

I am getting The Pochontas Times now and will you please tell ole Cal to put some Field Notes in that for me.

Well I must close for this time but will try to write more often. Tell all the folks hello for me. I hope this finds all well and happy. As ever,

Clarence.

T. Sgt. Wm. Jeffries, writes to his mother, Mrs. M. F. Jeffries of Marlinton, from somewhere in New Guinea, under date of July 26, 1944:

Dear Mother:

To night I will drop you a line to let you hear from me. I am feeling fine and in good health. Boy this place over here is really getting old and the longer I stay here, the worse I hate it, but I had just as well like it for there is nothing one can do about it. We are having it pretty nice now and taking it pretty easy lately. I have lost quite a bit in weight, since I came here, but our food isn't as good as we had.

You were telling me of Fred writing but I haven't received the letter as yet. Have you heard anything more from Ira?

I am sending a poem for Mr. Price to publish in The Times, about my outfit.

Well I will close for now, answer real soon.

Marvin.

The long days of waiting was over. The dry running problems were through.

The Twentieth was headed to battle.

With a crew of men that was new.

No one could answer the question that was present in everyone's mind.

Would these men be fearless in battle.

Or quaking with fear, lag behind.

Then the test came swift as an arrow.

They had advanced to Lone Tree Hill.

When Hell broke loose in its fury That would make the bravest of hearts stand still.

Into this blazing inferno They pushed with all their might, For this Hill had to be taken And cleared of the enemy that night!

Everyone was busy with fighting None had time for fear. The question had already been answered, And these men had earned the right to cheer.

They had cleared the hill of snipers That had held up the advance for awhile

They had smashed up the machine guns and mortars And did it in true Yankee style.

These men can be proud of their outfit For it can be classed with the rest Of the outfits on the pages of History That have proved to the world, they are best.

And the Regiment can be proud of its men, Men with hearts true and bold That have done great deeds of Valor

That will equal the heroes of old.

It's no cinch, cinch, cinch to make a pinch, pinch, pinch

The "heavy foot" has been replaced by great headwork in Wartime driving. And that's a great hint for the future.

"Scorchers" are rare. The cops have to look twice—and even then what they mostly see is skilled, ticket-proof driving that earns their respect. For, as experts they know that's really how to get there, without taking it out on your car. You too, know it all the time, but war "skated" you to it—and you're staying alert. Now be still more alert to the perils of engine acids. These can be curbed by one handy move...by having your engine OIL-PLATED.

Changing to Conoco Nth motor oil—at popular prices—is all it takes to own an OIL-PLATED engine. One special characteristic of OIL-PLATING is the acid-resistance that evenly plumes research developed. This acid-fighter—OIL-PLATING—becomes surfaced to your engine's fine inner finish as closely as chromium plating could be. That's made possible by Conoco Nth oil's special ingredient whose magnet-like nature holds OIL-PLATING direct to metals—square in the path of the acids always created by every engine explosion. Contact between acids and metals is checked. That's so is corrosion.

And now here comes the nature of low engine temperatures—unable to clear out acids sufficiently. So now they could do their worst—but not with your engine OIL-PLATED by patented Conoco Nth motor oil. Change at Your Nearest Conoco station. Today. Continental Oil Company

ROAD TO RICHWOOD TO BE OPENED FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20. WITH BIG MEETING NEAR RICHWOOD

The long hoped for road to Richwood will be formally opened for traffic by a big meeting to be held at North Bend, near Richwood on Friday, October 20. The program begins at 10 o'clock, and will last until 3 p. m. There will be speaking, music by the Richwood Summerville and Marlinton High School bands. The dinner will be free; bring your own. Sandwiches sold on the ground.

Editor of The Times:

I note with delight the item in your paper relative to the formal opening of the Richwood-Pocahontas road on Friday Oct. 20, at North Bend Camp Site.

I have been anxiously waiting for years for the completion of this road.

I doubt if there is a road in the state that will mean more to the people as a whole, than this one.

It will not only bring out the additional wealth to the people of that section of the state; but it does more in opening up a region of scenic beauty heretofore unknown to but few persons.

I spent my early life as a boy amidst much of the route over which this road passes; and I know its wild life; its strange beauties, its evergreen forests wrapped in laurel and ivy; its rushing streams and rugged boulders.

It was amidst these scenes I got my inspiration for my day dream; and the blue print for my life ahead. And I am sure I will want to join the good folks of Pocahontas and Nicholas counties on this occasion and renew old acquaintances and the happy scenes of my childhood. I hope I will see you there.

Most sincerely,
E. G. Eagle

WAR FUND

To the Citizens of Pocahontas County:

The West Virginia State War Fund Drive is getting started. In the shape of reports coming in from all sections of the county. It is hoped by your committee that the citizens will cooperate with the individual workers and if they fail to do so, look them up and give your donation. You know all people are very busy now and the war situation is very grave.

All lodges, clubs, societies and civic organizations should contribute to this worthy cause, and will if it is called to their attention.

We were the fifth county in the state to raise our quota last year and let's do it again this year.

Our men and women in service are doing a good job for our country and let us home folks do a good job at home.

Congressman Randolph to Speak at Marlinton

Congressman Jennings Randolph will speak at the Court House in Marlinton on Friday night, October 20. Come and hear this eloquent speaker and most useful Congressman.

Congressman Jennings Randolph made public the following letter, which is of special interest to families of deceased war veterans.

For each member of our Armed Forces who has died in service the Government provide an American flag, which is presented to his family. If the boy died in this country and his body was returned to his home for burial, it is presumed that the flag that accompanied the body was retained by the family.

Those boys, however, who died overseas were buried near where they died; in those cases, a flag is available to his family upon simply filling out a brief application and presenting proof of death. The notice from the War Department, received by them is ample proof. All deaths of this war are eligible.

General Gregory believes that this matter, since it is a direct contact with the public, should be handled through you.

The family should secure Form 2008 (Veterans Administration) from the nearest Veterans Administration office of the local Post Office, produces the notice of death, state that they have not received a flag, fill out the form and either take it or mail it to the nearest Veterans Administration office.

After the facts are checked and the matter recorded, the flag will be forwarded to the family.

Cordially yours,
James V. Hunt,
Major, 2, M. C., Assistant

Infantile Paralysis

Last week five cases of infantile paralysis in four families were reported from the Greenbank community. Daniel Taylor, aged 15 years, was the fatal case. The schools of the whole district were closed, to open next Monday, October 16, if no more cases develop.

A message from the office of State Health Department in Charleston on Monday afternoon said their investigation showed the situation appeared to be clearing up all right, with no new cases developing. It appeared that in the five cases which developed there, the infection had probably happened a full month since.

CLINICS

THE MACE

The marriage of Lillian Nell Mace, daughter of Jacob A. Mace of Frost, and Pvt. George P. Zill son of Phillips J. Zill 1206 Glynndon Ave., Baltimore, Md., took place October 3, 1944, at Annapolis, Maryland, with Rev. Luther J. Noff officiating. The bride was given in marriage by the groom's brother, Mickie Zill, U. S. Navy Gunner.

The bride was attired in a gown of candlelight satin, with cap and veil of tulle, and heirloom of Brussels lace. Miss Hazel Quincy Handy of North Wilkesboro, N. C., was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Anna Burrack, of Salisbury, Pa.; Lois Taylor, Odenton, Md.; Ella Cozette, Salisbury, Pa.; Mary Morrow, Greenmont, Ave., Baltimore, Md.; Toby Griffin, Bristol, Tenn. and Naomi Mullins, Radford, Va.

The attendants were attired in mauve faille taffeta gowns, and carried sheaves of asters. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of American Beauty Roses.

Amos Ray Mace, paratrooper, brother of the bride served as best man. The ushers were PFC Truman Marshall, Charleston, W. Va.; Pvt. Harvey Boehannon, Little Rock, Arkansas; Chief Stewart Mack McBride, Baltimore, Md.; Sgt. Jimmie Gully, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Buster Cave, U. S. M. M., Hendersonville, N. C.; Sgt. Johnnie Rebert, of Baltimore, Md.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. George H. Lipscomb, of Curtis Bay, Md.

The couple will reside in their home in Baltimore, Md.

Cochran-Smith

Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Smith of Albion, Virginia, announce the marriage of their daughter Margaret Naomi to Mr. John M. Cochran, son of Mrs. Emma G. Cochran of Marlinton, W. Va.

The wedding took place in Bethel Lutheran Church on Saturday evening, October 7, 1944, at 8:30 o'clock. The bride's father performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of members of the immediate families and a group of intimate friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother Fredrick D. Smith, A. S., U. S. N. E., wore a white wool crepe dress and orchid corsage. She was attended by her sister Mrs. L. L. Loope and Miss Kitty Bland of Boykins, Virginia. Lt. Harry L. Sheets, of the U. S. Air Corps was Mr. Cochran's best man.

The wedding party consisted of the bride, groom, best man, maid of honor, bridesmaids, flower girls, ring bearer, and ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. B. Smith, where a delicious supper was served.

The wedding party was accompanied to the church by a procession of friends and relatives.

THURSDAY, OCT. 12, 1944

THURSDAY, OCT. 12, 1944

And now the honest truth repays
The debt they owe the earth
At autumn's autumnalia
And festival of mirth.

The generous trees are prodigates
With wealth their toil has gathered
As autumn's wealth accumulates
Their busy fingers gathered
In gaily colored currency
The passing year has minted
In every spectroscopic hue
That autumn skies have printed.

So printed with the golden ink,
Of sunsets, noons and dawn,
Moon silver, and with star gems blink,
Fall's treasury notes are drawn
At autumn's autumnalia
And festival of mirth
When honest, toiling trees repay
The treasury of earth.

Dear Editor:

Please do not think me unpatriotic, but I feel that I must come to the rescue of the boys in the service, whose letters to their wives and mothers are made public through your paper. Of course relatives are overjoyed to know their sons or husbands, whichever it may be, is thinking of them and loves them. We are glad to know these boys are getting along fine but the family affairs is none of our business and therefore of no interest to us.

May I suggest then, that you ask for information concerning the service men and instead of printing the letters they have written, choose only the parts of interest, such as his whereabouts, things of interest that he might have done, etc. and publish that.

I personally think that you are in a rut as far as this precious paper is concerned. So many read it word for word and enjoy all you write, but are more appreciative of anything else than a personal letter. The general comment is that there would be no Pocahontas Times if the war were to end. It seems to me that many years ago, when there was no war, your paper was chock-ful of interesting things, field notes, etc., and often half a sheet more was edited. My opinion is that there is a store of knowledge in your head that has

DEATHS

Walter Lee Hinton, aged 62 years, died September 14, 1944, from a heart attack at his home at Cam.

On Monday Sept 18, his body was buried in the Arboreale cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. Blackhurst.

He was the son of the late John H. and Patience Hamilton Relston. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Leslie Beard of Durbin and Mrs. John H. Wimer, of Waynesboro, Va. He also survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Gertrude Smith, of Dumore, and their eight children.

Funeral services were conducted from the Baptist church by Rev. Williams.

Mr. Holesapple had recently retired as Supervisor of track for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, after a service of 43 yrs.

Thus notes the passing of an honest, upright citizen. He will be greatly missed not only by his immediate family but by his friends and neighbors. He was always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need.

He is survived by his wife,
Mrs. Margaret Holesapple; three daughters, Mrs. Maynard Knapp, and Walter Shafer, both of Richmond; and Mrs. J. R. Barrodale of St. Albans; four sons, Eugene of St. Albans; Sgt. James and Pfc.

William, both of Fort Bragg, N. C.;

and Cpl. Jack who is serving with the Army in France; and one grandchild, Betty, Judy, Thomas, Ralph, and Jackie Hol-esapple; Donald and Peggy Knapp, Joe Barrodale, and Jimmie Shaven, whom he raised, serving with the Merchant Marines in the Pacific. One brother, Nelson

Holesapple and one sister, N. A.

Taylor both of Caldwell.

Funeral services will be held at the home of the deceased, Mr.

Hinton, on Tuesday, October 17, at 2 o'clock p. m. for all the mercantile timber marked or designated for cutting on an area embracing about 127 acres of Electricians Needed

AT NORFOLK NAVY YARD
Recruiter at Court House on Saturdays.

Despite the swiftness of the Allied advances in Europe, a vast and grim struggle lies ahead in the Pacific, Charlie Gaskins, Civil service labor recruiter, asserted at the Court House here today as he sought to induce more civilian workers to accept employment at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

The Navy's greatest battles probably are still to be fought, the labor recruiter said, and to this end the civilian workers in U. S. Navy Yards must keep production at its peak.

Five types of workers are especially needed at the Norfolk
Navy Yard now, he indicated, listing: electricians, sheetmetal workers, pipefitters, laborers and welders as the most critically short job classifications.

Any person who is not now employed in essential work is eligible to apply for a job at Norfolk
Navy Yard, Mr. Gaskins said.

Additional job openings include those for machinists, boilermakers, shipfitters and other shipyard trades.

The work at Norfolk is under "Civil Service" and the pay is excellent. Free railroad transportation to Norfolk is supplied, free physical examinations are given, and every worker will be provided with suitable housing at reasonable cost.

"The great job of defeating the Japanese will face us even after the fall of Germany," Mr. Gaskins said, "and civilian workers of Marlinton can do much to help austen victory by taking a job at Norfolk Navy Yard."

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Claude Carpenter sends in this letter from her brother, Pvt. Ernest Baxter, who is in France. Somewhere in France. September 11, 1944

Dear Sister and Family:
I will write you a few lines to say hello again. I hope this finds you all in the best of health and it leaves me O. K. I suppose you have thought that I had died or something because I have not written sooner and I have not heard from you either.

I doubt if you can read this as I am writing by a flash light in a pop tent. We haven't any other lights where we are now. Tell the children hello for me and give them my best regards and I hope they are learning in school. I sure would love to see all of you but I hope it won't be as long as it has been any way.

I can't say much about the news but it sure is good anyway. I am going to Paris one of these days and I will try to get some souvenirs to send you. I have just come from a U.S.O. traveling show and it sure was good to see some real American girls again. They had supper with us and we had a real nice time.

Well, I guess I had better say goodnight and go to bed for it is 12:00 o'clock. I am hoping to hear from you when you have time to write.

Your brother, Harry.

Pvt. Ernest Baxter stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, writes as follows:

Fort Bliss, Texas.
Sept. 27, 1944.

Hello Cal:

How is everything going back there? Things are fine down here. I am over at Orizaba, New Mexico now. I guess I will go back to Ft. Bliss in the morning.

We are only about seven miles from El Paso, and it is about the same to Mexico. I haven't had the chance of seeing Mexico yet. You have to have a special pass to go over there, and they are hard to get.

This is an old outfit I am in; most of the men have been in the Army two years or longer. They were stationed at Long Beach, California before they came down here, and they were there for about a year and a half. I would have liked to have been with them out there; from what they say it was swell there. They have only been here about 3 months and I have been with them a little over a month.

When I came here, it took 28 hours to cross the state. It is a pretty big place.

Our camp is on the edge of a desert, and we spend most of our time out there. We go back to camp over the week ends.

El Paso is quite a place. They say about 80 per cent of the population are Mexicans. I don't know about the percentage, but I know there are a lot of them there. The young ones are not bad looking, but the old ones; boy, it is a crime to look like they do. They dress about like we do.

I am told it takes 8 to 15 acres of land to raise a cow on, and if you dig a well you have to go down from 1200 to 1500 ft.

We are sleeping in tents and have no light except a candle, which is rather dim, so I had better close

Tell everyone hello for me and keep the paper coming.

Good luck and don't do anything that I wouldn't do. That will give you plenty of room I know.

A West Va. boy.
"Lucky."

Frank Slavens, writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slavens, of Marlinton:

U. S. S. Nevada
September 19, 1944.

Dear Mother and Dad:

The NEVADA has added another campaign to her record. She participated in the invasion of Southern France. We covered troop landing during the initial phase of the invasion; knocking out German shore batteries that were assigned to us.

Our next mission after the initial landing was the French Naval Base at Toulon. Our job there was to take the former French Battleship STRASBOURG under fire. The STRASBOURG was scuttled by the French when the Germans took Toulon, but has since been raised by the Germans. It was our job to find out if her guns were active and what the other shore batteries around Toulon had to offer. We obtained one hit, five straddles and four near misses on her. She never fired back at us, although some of her shore batteries did. The German accuracy was not very good, as their shots fell some distance from us. We fired on shore batteries in Toulon for three days and we did some very good shooting.

After we finished at Toulon we moved on to Marseilles taking the shore batteries there under fire. We fired until we were low on ammunition, then we were ordered to retire from the Assault area.

Of all our missions in France I am sure the one that will be the most talked about by the men of the NEVADA will be Cherbourg. It was there that we were continuously shelled by the Germans for three hours. It was a miracle that we weren't hit as we were straddled by salvo after salvo.

What our next job will be is not known, but I am sure the NEVADA will be heard from again before the Navy can relax.

I hope to be with you for a few days in the near future. I have been thinking how good a squirrel dinner would be, so I'll up the old shot gun and get out the frying pan.

I have received several copies of The Times since you subscribed to it for me, and I find the letters from the fellows in the service very interesting. I have been looking for one of Mr. Price's Panther stories; since none have appeared, I have been wondering if the varmints have left that part of the country.

I am looking forward to seeing you and mother soon. We can then talk over the war and I will do justice to one of those good dinners mother makes. Take care of yourselves.

Your son, Frank.

Cliff C. Sharp, of Huntersville sends the following letter from his son, Earl M. Sharp, of Camp Claiborne, Louisiana.

September 30, 1944.

Dear Dad:

Will write you a few lines, and hope it finds you well, and getting along all right. I haven't heard from you for several days, but get a letter from Lucille and the kiddies every day.

I have been and am still busy for that is the way the army keeps going. I think it will let up in a few days and I can get a breathing spell for we are just about through here.

Well it is the first of October and still the war against Germany goes on, and will for some time, for it will run into 1945, six months or more, and maybe longer, who knows.

The war against Germany is at a stage where it is a dangerous war, a war where anything can happen.

Sure Germany can't win; but they will never give up. As I have written before, that Germany was holding back the regular army, the one that was born and raised there and trained there. I said we would strike a snag, but there weren't many who thought so, but we have.

The Germans will give ground slowly and fight until the last, but the whole of Germany will never surrender unconditionally, and we will have to take it foot by foot, and then it will take years to clean out the pockets of organized resistance, that will spring up here and there. Germany still has a lot of power, both in material and men, and anyone can tell they are going to make it as costly as possible for us, for they are the most stubborn people in the world, and hate the Americans from the top of their hats to the soles of their shoes. It is foolish to think that the war with Germany will be War has proved the value of considerate driving. And now this fine national habit keeps spreading.

There's been a fellow-feeling about cars. When it comes to even a dented fender it's no longer a question of who's to blame, but of sparing one another from costly slow repairs—and footwork. Some such spirit has been making live-and-let-live driving so general. It's only logical to be fully as thoughtful of your engine. You'll exercise wise foresight by having it OIL-PLATED.

You can defy internal acid corrosion... engine suicide!... by means of OIL-PLATING. You can do it by changing to popular-priced patented Conoco Nth motor oil—energized to surface your engine's interior with an acid-resistant shield of OIL-PLATING. This is the result of the special Conoco Nth ingredient developed by costly pioneer research. And while fluid oil alone goes draining down to the crankcase, OIL-PLATING remains as closely attached as if it were chromium plating—keeps on serving its special purpose of hampering contact between corrosive acids and metals!

These unavoidable acids of combustion—always bad—reach their worst in cold weather, when there is rarely heat enough to get rid of acids. Hence they linger inside—aplenty. But every OIL-PLATED surface is armed against the spread of acid corrosion. That's why you want Conoco Nth oil now... from Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company.

"How's your invasion going?"

HIS seems to be doing all right.

On June 6th, this young fellow tackled the biggest, toughest, most audacious military venture of all time—and he's pulling it off.

But how's our invasion going?

We've got one on our hands—just as much as any soldier. Don't think for a minute that every one of us here hasn't a personal share in the job of breaking into Hitler's Europe and battering down the Wehrmacht.

There's not much glory goes with our part of the job. Not much pain or danger, either. Our part is to pay—to pay with cash instead of blood.

Our part is to buy War Bonds.

But if you have the idea that our part isn't important—that the little bit that you personally can do—that the Bonds you buy don't really matter very much—get it out of your head.

The supreme military effort of the war must be matched by a supreme financial effort here. That means every man and woman in this country has got to put more money into Bonds—oftener—than ever before in this whole conflict!

Make no mistake—we've got to get that money up, now!

If you want to know how the invasion's going —don't expect to get the whole story from your paper. Look at your own Bond buying—for a big part of the answer!

And here are 5 more reasons for buying Extra War Bonds!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world.
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

The following letter which expresses regret, was received by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hefner, of Marlinton, Elk Rt., from James M. Gavin, Brigadier General, U. S. Army Commanding: Headquarters 830 Airborne Division, Office of Division Commander.

Dear Mr. Hefner:

It is with deep regret, that I write of the death of your son, Pvt. First Class, Andy E. Hefner 15076415, a member of my Command, who was killed in action, June 9, 1944 during the Invasion of France.

Your son was a member of the 401st Glider Infantry, 82nd "All American" Airborne Division.

PFC. Hefner was a member of a heavy machine gun squad. He was a loyal and fearless soldier, whose fine knowledge of his machine gun, leadership, and outstanding courage in combat were admired by all who knew him.

Putting aside family ties, the admiration, respect and affection of comrades are a soldier's most priceless possessions, because collectively these comrades are unfailing judges. These possessions I believe your son earned in full measure. Death of such a man leaves with each member of the Division a lasting sense of loss, from which there comes to you a deep sense of personal sympathy.

Sincerely,

James M. Gavin.

Bill Bob Meadows and Andrew McLaughlin attended the foot ball game and visited friends at Charleston over the weekend.

JEANINGS RANDOLPH

(Editorial by Gov. John S. Cornwell in the Hampshire Review.)

The voters of this Congressional district have an opportunity to reward faithful service by re-electing Jeanings Randolph to Congress. Aside from the question of reward, however, they will be serving their own interests. Randolph has been faithful and diligent in looking after the interests of the people of this district.

It is true he incurred the hostility of certain groups, or more particularly, of the leaders of these groups, by favoring legislation that would have outlawed strikes in war plants, but this opposition should strengthen rather than weaken his character of resolution. This is a case where the Congressman should be supported because of the enemies he has made. His judgment is sound and his patriotism proved.

The political campaign is dragging its weary way along; making progress about like the proverbial wounded snake. However, I guess there will be a good big average turnout of voters on election day. Both presidential nominees and all candidates generally are urging every citizen to vote, one way or another. Being as all the dopest are figuring out that a small vote will favor the republicans, my hundred and prejudiced eye sees the brothers and sisters of the up position calling for a big vote with crossed fingers. I am bolstered in this outlook, among other things, by the persistent efforts on the part of the republicans and their allies in this Senate to make the soldiers ballot law as effective as possible and still pass it.

To bolster the guess for a good turnout, I take as an indicating straw the trouble voters took this year to get themselves registered in West Virginia. Under our permanent system of registration, the new voters in a county appear before the County Clerk in stand of all voters being looked up every two years by registrars. Our County Clerk, Moody Kincaid checked in a lot of new ones. As near as I could make out, the democratic majority of our Pocahontas County remains a little better than 1100. Going through Charleston one morning last week a black long line of people were strung out, heading into a door marked registrars' office. This was the morning of the day before the last date for a citizen to get his name on the list of voters.

Speaking about getting the voters out, they do say the most effective work along this line over in American politics are the efforts of the National Citizens Political Action Committee. This is no fly-by-night, bed room office paper organization. It is a political demonstration in force, under the able guidance of labor leader Sidney Hillman. With what it takes in the way of sinews of war while the rest of us stand on the sidelines and voice pious platitudes on the patriotic duty of every citizen to cast a ballot, the Political Action Committee goes in and fetch them out to the polls.

While we, of the independent democratic press are content to boost our champion of human rights and liberties and urge his reelection as president while the haters of president Roosevelt hysterically shriek to high heaven their denunciation, the political action committee do not stand idly by. I have before me copy number 8, of their weekly report, which they call "Wide Today". This number 8 deals blood raw with vice presidential nominee Bricker. A sample of the thing it says about this candidate is reference to his one-time insistence on the fulfillment of the letter of the Ohio law that ballots must be marked with black pencil to be valid, "even though a G. I. at the front might end one in marked with the business end of a bullet."

There is always pretense a plenty wherever there is politics. However I do not know of more blatant exhibition of such pretense than hands held to high heaven in holy horror over out in the open contributions of money and means by the political action committee, when everyone has been so complacent about under cover contributions from concentrations of great wealth. Again it was all to the good when the political action committee contributed to the campaign fund of a candidate for governor; it was all wrong when the political action committee contributed to the campaign fund of another nominee for the presidency. Candidates for office should try to be consistent like the old honest prospector who would make a contribution speech because he said "I wish of other always did bring the prospectors more money to my mine!"

Candidate Dewey, the present underdog on the head of the tin, is still going up and down 10-15-20.

the republican for president. It appears to me that he is running true to form as a presidential attorney. He appears to be in a position that in our election both nominee for the white office of president, representing the two major parties, are each on trial before the bar of public opinion. It always seemed to me that the American people do not take any too kindly to one nominee assuming the position of public prosecutor or even prosecuting witness. Of course there are still a plenty of old sour guard who want to vote against something or some body, but actually most of us greatly prefer the idea of voting for something and somebody. Anyway, that is how it proved out in three national elections and a running.

For a generation in which newspapers in centers of population have become business enterprises, it is expected that too often the quelling room exercises control over the political expression of kept writers. Anyway, the vast majority of such enterprises are anything but liberal in their political opinions. Every how and then so called national magazines go rabidly partisan in their excessive conservatism, greatly to the hurt and hindrance of a supposedly free and independent press. The Saturday Post mixed in West Virginia republican politics and helped in getting its candidate beaten for the governor nomination. It is now bitterly anti-Roosevelt, but admits our great war president did not actually bomb Pearl Harbor. All this is leading up to say that I have recently received the meanest kind of a political snarl from one of these supposedly political independent magazines. I am generously giving permission to reprint a piece about a certain political gangster, who served a prison term. The mean part is the insinuation that this man was made an example of, in part at least, for the sins of a statesman who has done outstanding work in the Senate, and is destined to go much higher in public service. I feel in the papers this magazine has been taken over by a man who is accused of spending ten million dollars to defeat a democratic candidate in this and past elections.

As in every other campaign, these have been casualties. The Roosevelt haters, poor devils, seem to have subsided in the hysterical fits they have been throwing the last ten years. The thing which laid them appears to be the endorsement by the opposition candidate of many of the outstanding accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration. Why the claim is even made that the insurance of bank deposits was a republican measure!

The casualty I was going to mention is poor Mr. Dulles, of New York. He was supposed to be the choice of the opposition candidate for Secretary of State in case of election. A part of the build up was a two weeks' piece in the Saturday Evening Post, and a trip of investigation into the State Department down at Washington. Then things began to happen to the poor old gentleman. Venturing out on the trip to Washington he stumbled his toe and hurt his foot; a process server got a summons on him to appear as a witness in some sort of a law suit; gray out in California. Captain Hall of the State Department, having nothing to cover up, received the old gentleman graciously and showed him about the plant. Then an upregulate, hard-boiled perveyor of what in my early printing days was known as a Washington news letter began to muck back in the record. Just a few short years back he found where poor Mr. Dulles had voiced the opinion in effect that the virile people of Germany, Italy and Japan were justified in busting the crusts which cramped their style. The old boy seems to have sunk without a ripple.

The space is gone, but I will take room to point the moral that the only big mistake a body can make in politics is to guess wrong. My guess at this form taking stage of the present campaign is that the line is becoming definitely marked between radical conservatism and liberal liberalism; that the liberals of each party will see clearly to unite for the reelection of President Roosevelt.

Food Packaging
Foods packed in either nitrogen or carbon dioxide have a higher flavor rating than those packed in air or in paper cartons, tests indicate. But when foods are sealed in air or packed in the cartons, the oxygen present causes an off flavor in powdered cranberries, apple nuggets, and carrots. Moisture absorption, particularly at 85 degrees Fahrenheit and 90 per cent relative humidity also is evident when apple nuggets, carrots, tomato flakes, cabbage, tomato juice cocktail, beans and onions are packed in paper cartons. Onions exposed to moisture quickly deteriorate and darken, and carrot packed apple nuggets color.

STOP MISTREATING YOUR SERVANTS

Your electric servants, we mean. Of course you may be able to get some new ones six or twelve months after the war is over. But—doggone it—if you could only hear the women, who come into our store, begging for just any kind of appliance, you'd surely keep yours in tip-top condition.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mack Brooks, of Marlinton, received the following letter from his cousin, Oran McLaughlin:
Paris, France,
Sept. 26, 1944.

Dear Mack:

Well it has been quite a while since I have written you, I believe I owe you two letters. I don't guess I have much excuse, more than I have been moving around quite a lot in the past.

I have a new A.P.O. Number now—887 and I am stationed in Paris, France. Boy, that is tops too, one can't talk this stuff over here, but I sure can make motion don't think I would ever learn to speak French. I can't remember it. And talk about pretty women, they are here. They all use a lot of make up, and all have those red room eyes, ha, ha.

Paris is really a beautiful city, nice wide streets and everything, nice buildings too. I don't care much for their beer, but they serve it cold; in England all the beer was served warm, although I learned to like it pretty well.

I have seen the Eiffel tower, it is beautiful, but boy, these good looking women take my eye!

When you read about this Fortress. Bombing being 50 per cent effective, you can add 50 per cent more to it. I have seen where they have done some bombing. I saw a railroad yard which had been bombed, and big railroad engines were stacked two and three high, where they had been blown up. Those bombardiers sure hit their targets too. I also saw where the fighters had caught some convoy of truck on the road, you could see where there had been a bomb crater in the road, and looking around, you could see scraps that was left of the truck.

I have seen quite a lot of German equipment, also knocked out German tanks. I don't think this war over here can last much longer. I sure want to come home and get into some civilian clothes again, and see how I feel. Don't know if I will ever be worth a d— to work again or not; don't think I will strike a lick at a snake for awhile.

How is uncle Brooks getting along now? Sure hope he is better by now. Tell him not to work any and I will look with him when I get back, and we will sponge on our friends as long as they last. I guess Sue is in high school by now, and Bonnie teaching again this year.

I suppose politics is pretty hot there now. You had better tell those d— fool politicians and strikers to get to work or we will be back some day and straighten them out. I imagine if the white bread was taken away from them and let them eat "C" rations for awhile, they would come to their right mind and settle down to business again.

How are they all at home now? I had a letter from Marie about a week ago, and they were alright then. I am afraid mother will work too hard. Has uncle Lee ever heard anything more from Earl? I guess it won't be long before the Yanks find out who is over there.

Mack, when I was in England, I was only about 60 miles from London, and most of the time I could go there in a 24 hour run. Well, I guess I had better close, maybe I have written too much now. Tell all my friends hello, and tell mother not to worry about me, that I will be alright if these Paris bombardiers don't get me. So good luck and take care of everything. Tell Jane McElvan and Moody Kincaid I am still a Democrat.

Love to all,
Your cousin, Oran.

Mrs. Ward Barlow of Marlinton, received the following letter from her brother, Leonard Foster, who is somewhere in Burma, under date of August 7, 1944.

Dear Lou and Ward:

I have finally gotten time to write you a letter. I received the letter you wrote July 4th, a few days ago, but have been so busy that I haven't had time to answer. How are you folks doing? I am still okay, but about to burn up. It must be 140 in the shade, but we haven't any shade here. I'm sunburned black; we have a good bit of rain too.

We have had plenty of action and excitement here. I had a funny experience the other night. The Japs were shelling us, so another fellow and I climbed into a foxhole together. The shells began to hit close, so we decided we had better find a deeper one. We crawled out and into another one, but went into water about knee deep. We were satisfied in it though, because you can't tell where a shell is going to land, another time we had our heads knocked in on us. I'm ready to come home anytime they want to send me. My two years will be up next July, so maybe I can get home then.

Yesterday was my birthday, but I didn't have much time to think about it. I got the card you sent. Thanks!

I'm sorry about Ritchie's finger but it's probably okay now. Those pulleys are dangerous. How is the haymaking?

I haven't received the paper yet but Sarah sent me this Navy paper. I'll get what you sent last I guess. Did I send you enough Jap money for the boys? I'm sending some with this letter. I have a Jap bayonet to put with my other things too. You should see some of the prisoners we have captured; they are a sorry lot, but can be plenty tough too. I have some Jap pictures I'll show you when I get back.

I took a ride to this place in a plane like Harry Lynn Sheets pilots, there is no other way to get in here. I hear from Sarah every time I get mail, but we don't get it very often. I've got the prettiest wife in the world.

I'm going to have to close, so write often and take care of your self. Tell all hello for me.

With love, Leonard.

LOCAL SOLDIERS FIGHT IN ITALY

With The Fifth Army, Italy—Corporal Troy L. Helmick of Durbin, rifleman; Sgt. Herman A. Brown of Marlinton, Squad Leader, and Private Fred R. Jeffries of Marlinton, Ammunition Carrier, have been fighting with the 168th Infantry Regiment, veterans of more than 300 days of combat, in its attempt to breach the Gothic Line in Italy.

Part of the 168th Infantry Regiment, the 168th Infantry Division, was sent to the Italian front in January and April of 1944. In its time and a half years overseas it has fought 85 days of combat—in the Tunisian campaign and has been on the line in Italy almost constantly since landing at Pantano September 21, 1943, 12 days after Continental Europe was invaded for the first time.

Known as the "Rainbow" Regiment, the 168th, was part of the 42nd "Rainbow" Division in World War I.

Colonel Henry C. Hine, Jr. of Livingston, New Jersey, is commander of the 168th Regiment.

A count taken in early September 1944, showed men of the 168th had received 8 Distinguished Service Crosses, 147 Silver Stars, 109 Bronze Stars and 4 Soldiers' Medals and had, in the Italian campaign alone, received 2024 Purple Hearts and Clusters.

The 168th landed at Algiers, on African D Day. Its 2nd Battalion led the attack up the slopes of Hill 609 and is officially credited with its capture. The regiment also fought for Sened, Fondouk, Mateur, Ediekhlia and Bizerte.

Its first great battle in this campaign began October 13, 1943, when its men crossed the Volturno and took Caiazza and two other towns. Ironically, the 168th suffered exactly 168 casualties in the second crossing of the Volturno.

Often meeting foes of the past, including the Herman Goering Division and SS troops, the 168th fought through the mountains, gaining ground north of San Angelo and San Vittore. They lost 400 men and inflicted 1900 enemy casualties in wresting Mount Pantano, before Cassino, from the enemy in a seven-day battle. It was the first regiment to hold a bridgehead on the north bank of the Rapido River, Captured Mount Trocchio and Cervano in a surprise maneuver and, taking Hills 56 and 213, became one of the first Fifth Army units to penetrate the Gustav Line.

The regiment debarked on the beachhead around Anzio March 19, and its commander, Colonel Hine, won the Silver Star for gallantry in action for having personally led the bitter hand-to-hand fight in which the 168th took Lanuvio to remove one of the last major obstacles before Rome.

Colonel Hine, in a jeep, was the first American in Civitavecchia, where his regiment captured two big "Anzio Express" rail cars and guns that had so often made their stay on the Anzio beachhead an unpleasant one.

When relieved July 28th for a brief rest, a few days after reaching the Arno River, the 168th had been in Combat 291 days.

Mrs. A. H. Wade, of Minnehaha Springs received this letter from her son, Elton, who is somewhere in Belgium.

Sept. 21, 1944.

Dear Mom:

I will write you a few lines today, as I am always thinking of you all. I received your letter and was glad to hear you were all well and getting along good. This leaves me well and still able to go, is about all I can say. I haven't been writing you as many letters as I did, but hope you get them okay. I do the best I can and write as often as I have the chance. I got the pictures of the kids you sent and they are sure good. Guess you went to the reunion and had a fine time. I'll bet you got a lot of good eats.

I am in Belgium now—another new country to me. It is a very nice country. Tell Dad they have some fine horses.

Did you attend the Fair this year? Well I guess you all are about through with the fall work by now. Hope you get a good price for the lambs.

How is Charley getting along with the bees? Hope they have gotten the wood in by now.

Mom, I know you worry so much, but try not to, for I still trust in God that He will spare me and I will get back some day to take care of you. Tell all hello for me. Since there isn't much to write will close. May God bless us all. Lots of love,
Your son, Elton.

Miss Bettie Underwood of Huntersville, received this letter from her brother Conda.

Dear Sis:

Will answer your letter which I received yesterday and was glad to hear from you and know you were well. This leaves me well and getting along okay. Yes, I wish I were home to squirrel hunt this year.

So Henry finally got married! Who did he marry? I haven't heard from Wade for months.

Well Bettie I am sending the family a case of oranges for Xmas and hope they get home in good shape.

Well the fall of the year is here again, the leaves are turning yellow. If nothing happens I should be home by next year. Boy, I hope how soon I can step off the bus in Marlinton; that will be the happiest days of my life.

Lots of love, Conda.

RENTAL NOTICE

20-19-21 Dr. C. S. Kramer.

Ah... a neat knack had Ivan, that hushed back-seat drivin'.

Driving that's easy on passengers and cars is one far-reaching good outcome of War!

Handling the wheel and pedals like a professional became a wartime necessity. It favored the car—and quit scaring the rear-seat riders. Now it's a great point of pride. Yet an even more envied proof of fine car sense is to own an engine that isn't showing its age. That demands sparing your engine from acids; from fiercely corrosive acids inside. You can do it by having your engine OIL-PLATED. All you need is a change to Conoco Nth motor oil...oil that OIL-PLATES.

In the extra-limited seasonal driving that's now the rule, your engine "boards" a surplus of acids. Every explosion adds to these acids. You don't drive enough for engine heat to eject them safely. But they won't go biting right through OIL-PLATING! This highly corrosion-resistant surface is attached all over your engine's fine inner finish as if by imagination—an effect you must credit to costly pioneer research, responsible for the special ingredient in popular-priced Conoco Nth oil, patented.

You can't apply keener intelligence to the car that must last you, than to equip it with an OIL-PLATED engine—simply by changing to Conoco Nth oil for Winter. Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station knows your correct grade. Go now. Continental Oil Company.

Have a "Coke" = Here's your reward

...or being a good neighbor in Nassau

Underwater exploring in a homemade diving helmet is a novel sport in the West Indies. But the refreshment that's always welcome afterwards is the same as here in the States—ice-cold Coca-Cola. In Nassau as in New York, the pause that refreshes makes a refreshing interlude after strenuous work or play. In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola has become a high sign of friendliness, just as it is in your own home.

THE TRAIL

The independent spirit of the New York Times has been the mainstay of the nation's democracy for years. It was this spirit that made it possible for the nation to elect a president who was not a member of the ruling class, and it was this spirit that made it possible for the nation to elect a president who was not a member of the ruling class.

Judge Clarence Meadows has proven out to be the candidate for governor who would beat the incumbent, Governor Kump. He is a man of the people, and he is a man who is not afraid to stand up for the people.

Judge Meadows as a member of the legislature rendered valiant service to Governor Kump when his administration was engaged in cleaning up and putting things to rights the mess left by the Conley administration. He was Attorney General during the Holt administration and for two years he was Attorney General in the Neely administration. He is known and respected by all.

With the single exception of the Attorney General, all the nominees for other offices on the State ticket are up for reelection. They performed well their parts in putting the affairs of West Virginia on a business basis, and keeping them so. Let me call the roll: Wm. O'Brien, Secretary of State; W. W. Trent, Superintendent of Schools; Edgar B. Sims, Auditor; Richard B. Talbot, Treasurer; J. B. McLaughlin, Agricultural Commissioner; Judge J. N. Kenna, Supreme Court.

For Congress, we have nominated Jennings Randolph to succeed himself. I put him down as the most useful member of our national Congress. While he has a good record in the matter of the proper kind of so-called labor laws, John L. Lewis and his gang of radicals would encompass his defeat because of his support of a law to do away with strikes in industries engaged on war contracts during war times. It is a good idea to keep such an able and independent man in Congress.

Judge Mark L. Jarret will be reelected our Circuit Judge without opposition, and properly so.

It is no small honor to have one of the State Senators of our district from our County. For a generation we all fused to no avail to have a senator elected from our County. Just forty years elapsed before we did get one in the person of Senator Fred Allen.

He made good in every respect, even presiding the high position of being named chairman of the Committee on Finance, and was considered for president of the Senate until his positive refusal to allow his name to go before the party caucus.

Our County ticket is good and a guarantee our affairs will be properly taken care of. First is V. O. Ruckman, of the Levisa, for Sheriff. He is a farmer, who has been successful in raising silver foxes for their fur. During the first world war he served in the Navy. His deputy is the Greenbank District in W. W. Lowe; in the Huntersville District, Ralph Moore, now in the Army somewhere in France; Jailer, O. B. Curry; Officer, the ever efficient Elba Collins.

For Prosecuting Attorney, the party has properly put up for reelection Richard Carrance. He has made good, as a safe, efficient public servant. His case is literally in the hands of his fellow citizens, for reelection or defeat, as he is now serving in the Navy, somewhere in the South Pacific.

Zed S. Smith, Jr. is up for reelection to the important office of Commissioner of the County Court. No County ever had a more efficient, painstaking, agreeable court than ours is now; made up of Mr. Smith as president and commissioners Brown Beard and Fred Kneamen. These able men work so well together, I would hate to see the team broken up.

Moody Kincaid would like to continue to serve as our accommodating County Court Clerk, and I too would like for his fellow citizens to keep him there. He keeps up the record set by his predecessor, Squire Brown, as the most accommodating County Clerk in the State.

Grady Moore is out for reelection for Clerk of the Circuit Court. He made good in every respect, and he is a man who is not afraid to stand up for the people.

In the important matter of whom we shall send to Charleston to represent us in the House of Delegates, I have ever held and so printed that this is one public office, where experience really counts. The member serving his first term is merely serving apprenticeship. The new beginner may think before he gets there he is going to make himself heard for his much speaking and so shape the ends of destiny. If such a one does get there he soon finds out that the work of the legislature is done by committees, and that the ones who do most to shape the ends of legislation are the experienced members, who head the committee. The smart thing to do is to elect a good man to the legislature and then keep him there. That is what the people of Pocahontas County have been doing with June McElwee, and this certainly is no year to change. If any one can keep the black bear in his place and otherwise look after our local interests in Charleston, he can do it. His committee assignments are the very best; though not a lawyer, for his good common sense he was named on the judicial committee.

Down at the end of the County ticket comes Dewey Burr for Assessor. He comes from the Huntersville District. Born and raised on a farm, he still lives in the country. By profession he is a teacher. He knows values, and he will treat everyone fairly, playing no favorites. His field deputy in the Greenbank district is Fred Mooms; in the Levisa, Joel Beard; in the office, Miss Anna Lee Ervine.

There, my fellow citizens, is the ticket our Democratic Party has put up for your consideration and support. It is strong from top to bottom. It is a guarantee of good government. Come out on election day and vote.

Big Speaking

In spite of the big down pour of rain, there was a fair sized gathering of the faithful at the Court House last Friday night to hear our Congressman, Jennings Randolph and State Representative, Dr. W. W. Trent. Mr. Randolph made a ringing address giving account of his stewardship; the accomplishments of the national administration; the importance of retaining in national public service people of experience in this particular time when peace appears to be in sight and the big task of rebuilding the world begins. He will speak again in Pocahontas county next Tuesday night at the big rally to be held at Greenbank.

Dr. Trent spoke upon the advances made along educational lines in West Virginia the past twelve years—more progress than in all the thirty years preceding. In round numbers the cost of government in our State provided by legislative enactment is forty-one millions of dollars. Of this the cost of schools is twenty millions, not including university, colleges; cost of roads is five millions; the cost of old age and other relief is another five millions. The promise is made by the opposition party candidate for governor that state expenses will be cut ten million dollars. Naturally, if this is done the big cut will come off of schools, roads and relief. With teachers' salaries already too low, with buildings and repairs needed, Dr. Trent is opposed to any such drastic cut in school support and so on.

Pocahontas County Farm Women's Clubs will hold their Ninth Annual Achievement Day on Saturday, October 28th at 10:30 am. Marlinton high school auditorium. Luncheon served at 1:30 pm. at Methodist church, with a program based on the theme, "Steppingstones to Peace."

Mr. James E. Beard and Mrs. Grady Moore spent the weekend with Mrs. Paul Duncan, at Charleston.

Glen Duncan, who is employed at Charleston, spent the weekend here with his family.

Richwood Road Opened

The Nicholas Trail (Route 59) was formally pronounced open by Road Commissioner Ernest Bailey at proper ceremony held in Richwood high school last Friday, October 20. Arrangements were for a big day to be held at the nice public picnic grounds at North Bend, on the new road seven miles from Richwood, but the downpour of rain from daylight to dark made a shelter necessary. People filled the big high school auditorium, and it was surprising how many of the number were from Pocahontas county.

Senator Fred Allen, chairman of the program committee, called the meeting to order; and introduced Road Commissioner Bailey as the master of ceremonies. Our Commissioner began this road, and he had the satisfaction of completing it. He used State Aid, Federal Aid, National Forest Aid, WPA, PWA, state prison labor, Federal prison labor, but he got it done and all to the good. Some of these weeks I am writing a chapter on this wonderful road, through a wonder land.

Dr. W. W. Trent was called to respond for his native county of Nicholas, and Hon. George W. Sharp, late Secretary of State, and Calvin W. Price responded for Pocahontas county. The speech of the day was made by Hon. Jennings Randolph, for 12 years a member of the Congressional Committee on public roads. All in all it was a good meeting and a big meeting, but if the fine fall weather had held for another day there would have been a meeting North Bend.

P. T. A.

Marlington P. T. A. will have their first meeting this year, Thursday night, October 26, 1944 at 8 o'clock, in the lunch room at the Graded School. We are planning a good program. Please try to be present.

Glen Duncan, who is employed at Charleston, spent the weekend here with his family.

FRIDAY 13th

The proverbial Friday the 13th (of October) was a lucky day for two of Marlinton's boys, in the Pacific. Emery (Dupey) Anderson called on Arden (Pooley) Curry. They had been in High School, played foot ball, basket ball and worked at Curry and Callison's Store together. They were at battle on Guam at the same time and then separated. Many were the tales they told and now they are so closely located they planned Liberty together for Tuesday.

Basil C. Sharp, of the Infantry, United States Army, writes under date of October 9, that he had just landed somewhere in Southern France.

This office is in receipt of an official United States Marine Corps Photo, showing Private First Class James K. Triplett, of Mill Point, down on his knees, adding a little draft to a sickly fire. The place is a jungle in Guam, South Pacific. The caption of the picture is "We wood always smile trouble for the bulldog."

Harrison McKim Gardner, 19, Clover Lick, West Virginia, is receiving his initial Naval indoctrination at the United States Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. His recruit training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill, and general Naval procedure. During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruit to determine whether he will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate duty at sea. When his recruit training is completed, the seaman will receive a period of leave.

Earl S. Moore, 3rd Class Petty Officer, of the Navy, is spending a 30 day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Moore, after sixteen months overseas service. His brother, Granville D. Moore, 8 3-c, stationed at Washington, D. C., was also home on leave over the weekend.

Chief Fire Control Man, Frank Slavin, of the Navy, Battleship Nevada, with seventeen years of service, spent last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Slavin.

Page W. Johnson, M. M. 2-c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva A. Johnson, has arrived in California. He called his parents on Sunday, October 23, from Los Angeles, to say he was well and safe. His ship the U. S. S. Perry (D M 8-17) was sunk about the middle of September in the invasion of the Palau Islands. He has served with the United States Navy in the South Pacific for nearly a year.

One Walker, of the 1st Air Corps Service, stationed down in Texas, was home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker.

Harry D. Cochran is attending a Post War Planning meeting of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company at Fairmont this week.

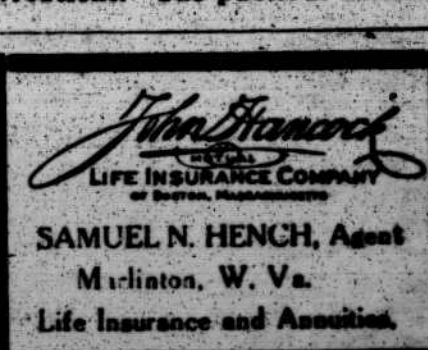

Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. McComb of New Castle, Pennsylvania, were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Cochran.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore and Barbara, were visitors in Richwood, Sunday.

Rev. James C. Wool is holding a series of special meetings in Frankford Presbyterian Church this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Beverage of Layland, are spending the week with relatives and friends here.

A Harvest Day Service will be observed in the Oak Grove Church of Hillsboro on Saturday, October 28th. Dr. Lloyd Courtney, of Lewisburg will make the address at 11:30 A. M. Dinner at the Church at 12:30 o'clock. After dinner, collection will be made of the "Lord's Acre" contributions. The public is invited.

There's No Politics In-a Bass Stream

When a black bass takes the bait and runs with it, the fellow at the other end of the line doesn't ask his politics. And the deer seen through the sights of a 30-30 isn't asked whether he votes Democrat or Republican.

By the same token, there is no reason for asking the politics of a man who knows conservation—the kind of conservation that benefits the follower of field and stream. If he knows his stuff, that's enough!

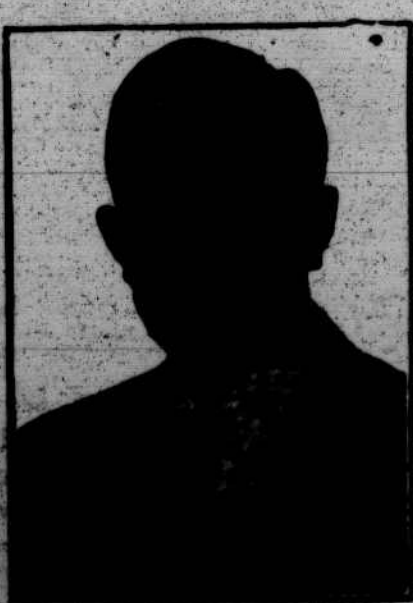

That's why he proposes a State Conservation Commission entirely free from politics.

That's why he proposes a Merit System to assure qualified personnel in the Conservation Department and to protect that personnel from any attempt at interference of a political nature.

Clarence Meadows knows the sportsman of the state supply a large part of the funds to support this department, because he is one of those who regularly buys the licenses that provide this money. He is a sportsman himself.

So it is only natural for him to want a sound, scientifically planned conservation program, carried out by trained personnel, with no fear of political interference. Job security, through a merit system, is one way to attract such personnel and to build such a program.

Bring it about by electing.

CLARENCE W. MEADOWS

BECKLEY, W. VA.

DEMOCRAT for GOVERNOR

The following appeared in the "This Afternoon" column of the Mineral Daily News-Tribune, October 11, 1944, written by W. H. Barger, Editor:

"While this column is not used for political chatter, we now and then feel like handing a deserved, well-earned bouquet to an especially warm friend. Remembering Jennings Randolph since he was a lad, having been in close enough touch with him through the years to know of his good work, his faithful watch over the people of the Second Congressional District. He has done more for all the people—Republicans and Democrats alike—than any man who has ever represented the old Second in the halls of Congress.

"We have heard people of both political parties say, Mr. Randolph answered my letter promptly, he expressed interest in my request, and so on. His office always replies frankly and quickly to all request. Congressman Randolph has so represented his district that, when he is faced with this campaign, it is amazing what a response comes from voters from both political parties. Prominent citizens from every part of the Second District are giving us the same news, that their section wants Jennings Randolph returned to Congress.

"His remarkable record is speaking for him from the eastern corner of Morgan through to the far side of Pocahontas county. His candidacy has been greeted with favor everywhere. While the cry of 'wolf, wolf' is heard here and there the faithful Congressman is quietly working in Congress for the betterment of his fellow back home, watching every move that will lead to a better condition for our men when they return from the battle front. While a few are crying out to win the war quickly, they are also bewailing the fact of 'waste.' A great war cannot be fought without great expenditures of money. Congressman Randolph is wise to this fact and can be trusted as our leader, having the interests of all people of the Second District at heart."

H. G. Rhawn, publisher of the Clarksburg News, writing in his personal column in the issue of October 5, 1944, has this to say:

"Jennings Randolph is the sort of man this country needs in its Congress. No complaint is his district about a dearth of war industry or social improvements. His work to aid the blind has just won nation-wide acclaim. We've known Jennings for better than a score of years, worked with him on Clarksburg newspapers years ago, and as we have watched his career we've always found him a zealous worker, intelligent, understanding and considerate. We hope the folks over in the neighboring congressional district will send him back to Congress again and again."

Dear Editor:

I was very much impressed in the letter in your paper last week criticizing our editor for printing the personal letters from our boys in service.

I think the mothers or are the ones that send them to be printed are capable of knowing whether they should be put before the public or not.

This writer must not have any boys in this horrible war, or he isn't interested in the whereabouts of his neighbors boys for this is the only way we have of knowing where they are stationed. I'm sure the boys over sea, find out where a lot of their pals are through reading these letters in the Times. If he will stop griping and read these letters he will see that often they mention reading where they are stationed in the Pocahontas Times. I remember reading letters from soldiers in first World war. And after it closed our editor went back to prewar news and our paper was much the better by him being patriotic enough to bear with these personal letters through that war; and I think it will be very much better after this one.

As to writing the history of great men in our county such as G. D. McNeill and our Editor's life we think they are both great men but they both have written their own history in the minds of men by the many good things they have done in the country where they have lived.

I think most of your subscribers would rather read a letter that some poor lonesome soldier had written to his loved ones back home than to read some weird story of a panther or bear which can wait till peace comes when all can enjoy them.

I say, Mr. Editor, give us all the news from our boys you can crowd in and we will wait patiently for said notes and history of peace men till this awful conflict is ended. Sincerely, Maryland.

North Salem, Vermont
September 21, 1944.

My Dear Cal:

After all these years, its me again! But after reading your editorial in the Times, especially that second paragraph where you refer to certain rather fine gentlemen as second, third and fourth raters, I was so overcome by reactionism that I felt a bit of rooting for the poor benighted republicans might not be out of place in your interesting little paper.

You forgot to mention that rightward Coolidge who saved up the nation's money. He was a republican too. I might also refer to the fact that those other gentlemen made some pretty outstanding records in their own states prior to their being trimmed by the mass hysteria and political hamstringing that put the present incumbent in office.

I am not saying that the great "I am" hasn't made himself a good record along some lines, but but there are others the administration would like to forget and can't afford to any more than the rest of us where he has been some thing of a failure.

The man who succeeds him is going to find himself standing on a quaking quagmire of internal unrest, teeming with rats. I feel constrained to remark that Governor Dewey has built up something of a reputation for being rough on rats as well as knowing the real value of a dollar; something that is going to come pretty close to American hearts in the near future.

I got a faint hint of a moral issue somewhere in your editorial too. I am not so sure we can afford to overlook that either in selecting our national leader.

Your last paragraph has its points. What all of us need most to remember is that our politicians of either party are not necessarily either God or devil and conduct ourselves accordingly.

It seems to me highly possible that the minority against our present leadership has been the salvation of our nation, keeping his weaknesses in check to such point as to keep him from running completely away with the national appeal, with the net result of most runaways, and thus giving his talents a chance of employment to whatever gain history alone can tell us.

I shall go to the polls this fall still believing that it would be a good idea for our twelve year old kids to realize that this is a democracy, or at least we fondly hope it still is, and that no man is so good but another is capable of filling his shoes.

Respectfully yours,
Hazel E. McCarty.

...or adding life and sparkle to Halloween

What's a young folks' party without refreshment? "Coke" is naturally a member in excellent standing with any group of youngsters. And there's no better place to enjoy Coca-Cola than at home, served ice-cold right from the family refrigerator. Have a "Coke" is the invitation that starts a party off right and keeps it going. Coca-Cola adds its own life and sparkle to the natural gaiety of youth. When young people get together, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —symbolizes the sunny side of life.

Patron Sergeant Garland Moore, U. S. Marine Corps, was killed in the south Pacific, according to a note received by his wife, the former Miss Helen Hardwick, 140 Magnolia street, this city.

Sgt. Moore was born on July 4, 1911, and was reared by his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sutton, Cam. W. Va. He enlisted in the marine corps in 1932 and served in China from 1932 to 1934. Upon return to the States he was stationed in South Charleston at the naval ordnance plant, and was later transferred to recruiting duty, stationed in Bluefield seven months and in Welch one month. He returned to active duty overseas on Feb. 17, 1943. He was married on Jan. 4, 1943.

He is survived by his wife and foster mother, Mrs. J. B. Sutton. —Bluefield Daily Telegraph.

Fort Benning, Georgia, Oct. 14, 1944.

Pvt. James Phillips, of Marlinton, has won the right to wear Wings and Boots of the United States Army Paratroops. He has completed four weeks of jump training during which time he made five jumps, the last a tactical jump at night involving a combat problem on landing.

Jumping at The Parachute School has been steadily developed to a recognized war science.

American Paratroopers have been recognized throughout the world for their meritorious actions against the enemy.

In addition to producing jumpers, Parachute Specialist Training is given to qualified men in Communications, Demolition, Rigging and Parachute Maintenance, vital skills for Airborne troops.

Flight Officer JOHN E. BEALE COMMEMORATED
First Allied Airborne Army, U. S. Troop Carrier Force.

A U. S. Troop Carrier Base, European Theatre of Operations: Flight Officer John E. Beale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beale of Slaty Fork, W. Va., has just returned to his base in the European Theatre of Operations, after successfully participating in the Airborne invasion of Holland. For F. O. Beale, this was the second glider trip to the front yard of Hitler's Vanishing domain. He also piloted a glider on the historical June 6th invasion of the Cherbourg peninsula.

"We had a breeze from take off till we got to within a few miles of our drop zone, then things began to hum, mainly bullets, and some flak. Fortunately the Huntin was down then their chance of winning the war and we got through with nothing more than a few holes in the tail section. Thanks to the fine work done by the paratroopers who had preceded us, things were well in hand on the ground, so we had no further trouble."

This intrepid pilot reported that the civilian population of Holland and Belgium were overjoyed to see the Americans, and couldn't do enough for the men who had come to liberate their land from the German conquerors.

F. O. Beale is in a Troop Carrier group commanded by Colonel William B. Whiteside, of Western Springs, Ill. This unit is part of the newly organized First Allied Airborne Army, under the command of Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton.

Sgt. Cecil T. Sheets Receives Presidential Citation in Italy.

15th AAF in Italy.—Sgt. Cecil T. Sheets, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sheets, R. D. No. 1, Guy Mills, Pa., is an Engineering Crew Chief with a B-24 Liberator Heavy Bombardment Group which has flown over 340 Combat Missions.

The Group has bombed many of the High Priority Targets in Nazi held Europe and the Balkans Strategic Axis Installations in Regensburg, Munich, Klagenfurt, Steyr, Wiener Neustadt, Budapest and Vienna have been repeatedly attacked with Excellent results.

It has been cited twice by the President of the United States, once for the Low-Low attack on the Ploesti Oil Fields, August 1943, which severely crippled German refineries; and again for its outstanding performance in the strategic support of the Allied Forces in the middle east. The Group is the oldest Unit serving in the European-African-Middle Eastern Theatre of Operations.

Sgt. Sheets before entering the Army, May 6, 1942, was employed as a truck driver by transfer agents, Meadville, Pa. He attended Public schools in his home town.

Sgt. Sheets has been awarded the European-African-Middle Eastern Theatre Ribbon, Good Conduct Medal, and is authorized to wear the Distinguished Unit Badge with one Cluster.

Mrs. Sheets resides at Meadville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harper of Boyer, received the following letter from their son, Forrest, who is "Some where in France," under date of Oct. 2, 1944:

Dear Mom and Dad—Well, once again I shall try to write you the latest from the Group.

To begin with, I'm somewhere in France; can't tell you where, and you couldn't come visit me anyway. Don't hardly know myself, where nor why, and am oft-made to wonder, if anyone else does.

We landed on one of the points of the river. Along this beach have been some pretty good "dug outs". For instance, a German communication center, perhaps 6 x 8 ft. with a complete reinforcement of concrete. There were many switches in it, although none of us touched any of them. Booby traps you know. And there were plenty in the area, some were made safe, others being found each day. I found a couple with my buddies, but not having any love for them, passed on by. Another dugout, similar in size was reinforced with timbers—perhaps cross ties, and had approximately six feet of dirt over it, plus a Nazi officer's uniform. Perhaps he was bothered with the G. I's and had to drop it.

From there we started inland, first by truck, had an overnight bivouac near a train station. A little scouting here revealed a hurriedly buried German soldier with his skull on top of the earth and feet sticking out, marked by a cross of two limbs and his cap. His boots were at his feet. This crude, but somewhat comfortable resting place, was in the edge of a garden.

The fellows feet looked cold, so someone threw some dirt on them to make them cozy like, but left the skull still on top, so he could see the sun shining in the distance and dream of new conquests in the next world. Being then satished he'd stay there awhile, some of us got a couple of onions from the garden and came back to enjoy a good meal of hash and chips in a basket peddling up the street of crackers.

Next, we had the pleasure of a long ride in box cars. These cars were all of (maybe) twenty feet long and only 48 or 50 had to ride in them day and night, with the equipment you had nearly enough room to turn around in day time and got a good night's sleep if you were lucky enough to get on top the gang, hal—I never had so much fun in my life.

We came through St. Lo, Paris Orleans, and some small towns. They were battered pretty badly; some flattened like pancakes. Train cars and engines were masses of twisted steel and burned timbers sometimes thrown fifty to a hundred yards off the track. Saw some Nazi tanks knocked out along the way and crashed planes.

Now, we are back to Normal again, with always ten guys trying for the same spot at the same time. It's a battle to get in thechow line and not get killed. hal! It seems our unit is the only one that can go out without a riot, and we get the same as anyone else. We should get bash marks soon eating so much of it.

I just filled up a straw tick so should sleep more comfortable tonight. A pal and I are going to make a bed after while.

The package you sent has never come, so now I doubt if it ever does.

Soon as I am sure of my address getting mail, I'd like you to send some air mail stamps. I think this is right. Anyway, as yet, there's no mail from the old address. I'll say Bye for now. Write soon and I may get it in 1944.

A U. S. Troop Carrier Base, European Theatre of Operations: John E. Beale, of Slaty Fork, West Virginia, has been commissioned a second Lieutenant from his former rank of Flight Officer, it has been announced by the headquarters of his Troop Carrier Base in the European Theatre of Operation. Lt. Beale, a veteran of two missions to German occupied territory, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Beale of Slaty Fork. He formerly attended Marlinton High school, graduating in 1939, and later was a student at West Virginia Wesleyan and West Virginia University before he entered the service in 1942. Lt. Beale is a glider pilot in a Troop Carrier group commanded by Colonel William B. Whiteside, of Western Springs, Ill. This unit is a part of the newly organized First Airborne Army, under the command of Lt. General Lewis H. Brereton.

This letter was received by Mrs. Dan Beverage from her son, PFC. Winfred G. Beverage who is somewhere in England: Dearest Mom:

Just a few lines to let you know I am still here and am okay. So don't worry about me, I am in a good town and staying in a hotel. I went swimming today and enjoyed it very much. I have seen some beautiful country, and will have to say it is kept the cleanest I ever saw country kept, and I like it fine. The majority of the fences are built of rock. The means of traveling is by bicycle.

It is not unusual to see an old man 50 or 60 years old riding a bike, or a woman with her baby in a basket peddling up the street of crackers.

You should see the cars, what they have. The driver sits on the right side of the vehicle and drives on the left side of the road. There sure are a lot of girls here and they aren't bashful either. Of course their language is different from pure. A beer joint is called a Pub, and if you are lucky enough to get a beer, you must furnish your own glass.

The people over here sure know what rationing is. We received our pay a day or so ago, and in English money, and you should be here to help me count mine. It is in pounds, shillings, crowns and pence. If you can make heads or tails of it, it is more than I can do, or could do at first. I am getting on to it now.

Mom, I would like some cigarettes if you can get them. And you may add a few packs of gum for I can't get chewing gum here and it sure goes good at times.

I hope you are all getting along fine and enjoying the good old U.S.A. for this country isn't as good by a long ways.

Mom, I don't know anything more I can write, so I will close and write soon again.

Your loving son, Wint.

DEATHS

Mrs. B. F. WHITE

Mrs. Mary Jane White, daughter of Josiah and Susan Crummett born in Highland County, Virginia, May 26, 1873, died Oct. 11 1944, at the age of 71 yrs. 4 mo. and 15 days.

She was united in marriage on April 8, 1896, with Benjamin White. To this union eight children were born, three sons and five daughters, all of whom survive: Ernest and Arlie White of Minnehaha Springs; Clarence of the U. S. Army, somewhere in France; Mrs. Hanson Moore of Minnehaha; Ruth White, of Brecksville, O.; Gertrude White, of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Robert Hanlin of Hedgeville, and Mrs. Lloyd Pennybacker, of the home.

Her husband preceded her in death, on January 6, 1924. She is survived by one brother, Paul Crummett, of Valley Center, Va.; and one sister, Mrs. John Souder, of Bergton, Va. She is also survived by eight grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by two sisters, Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. S. H. Puffenberger, and three brothers, George, Will and Emery Crummett.

She was baptized in early infancy. When about eighteen years of age, she was confirmed in Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, of Minnehaha, she united with New Hope Lutheran Church, of which she remained a faithful member until death.

More! More! MORE MEN AND MATERIALS!

THE Fifth War Bond Drive is over—but the Invasion is not!
Actually, the war right now is at its most critical stage—which is just why our men need your support as never before, why they need you to help pay for the mass of materials of all kinds that will bring crushing defeat to our enemies that much sooner!

Of course, you have just done your part in the Fifth War Loan Drive—but they have done theirs in many a grim, bloody battle and they aren't resting on what they've done before! They are carrying the fight to the enemy wherever they can reach him, every day—and your dollars are needed every day, too!

Surely you won't stop buying—won't let up now—when the chips are down!

5 MORE REASONS for Keeping Up Your Bond Buying

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

DEATHS

CHARLES KELLEY

Charles Kelley, aged 77 years, died at his home in Hillsboro, on Friday, October 20, 1944. The funeral was conducted from the Hillsboro Methodist Church on Sunday morning, by Rev. R. D. Marshall; interment in Oak Grove cemetery. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rena Kellison Kelley.

Mrs. Serene Bruffey Grimes

Mrs. Serene Bruffey Grimes, aged 77 years; widow of the late Rev. J. B. Grimes, died at her home near Lobelia, on Wednesday, October 18, 1944, after a short illness. On Friday afternoon her body was buried in the Emanuel church cemetery, the funeral being conducted from the Church by Rev. R. D. Marshall and Rev. Fred Oxendale.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Bradford B. and Mary Jane Watts Bruffey. Of her father's family there remain three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Whiting, Mrs. Mary Watts Shisler, and Mrs. Ida Hill Sarver.

On December 21, 1887, she was united in marriage to the late Rev. John Barnett Grimes. He preceded her to the grave nine years ago. To this union were born six children: Dennie, who died in infancy; Ulric Wilson, of Rainelle, Frank Dice, of Marlinton; Clyde Virgil, of Elkton, Va.; Mary Bradford Swann, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Essie Ervine, of Hillsboro. She is also survived by five grand-children and a great-grand child.

MOTHER OF OURS

Dear Mother of ours, with greying hair,
Who has spent a life of toil and care,
Rearing up children in ways so good,
Watching over us from babyhood

Kissing away every bruise so small,
Picking us up when we chanced to fall,
Guiding each tiny footstep that goes

On the road of life that no one knows;
Teaching us at night our prayers to say,
Thanking our Saviour for life today

Asking Him to forgive our mistakes,
And never do deeds when Mother's heart breaks,
But travel our way and not do wrong,

Then some day we will be big and strong;
And able to help our Mother, dear,
Whose hair is greying each passing year.

Now we are grown and away from you,
Sweet memories linger that are so true,
Of times around your fireside we played,

When not one of us from you had strayed,
One song you sang we remember well,
The memories of it are good to tell.

For the wondrous name so sweet and true,
Is "Take the Name of Jesus With You."

Dear Mother, when we have crossed the Bar,
May the gates of Heaven stand ajar

To receive us, without loss of one,
Where, then, our lives will have just begun.

There we will praise our Saviour, Dear,
Who guided our way each fleeting year

To bring us to that heavenly home
Where Mother's good children will never roam.

But spend eternity as God's heirs
Away from all of our earthly cares.

If you go before, just wait for us—
In Jesus we have all placed our trust.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother Mrs. Mary L. Levier, who left us one year ago October 21.

One year has passed dear mother,
Since you were laid to rest,
The ones who think of you today
Are the ones who loved you best.

It's hard to part with one we love
Its hard to part 'tis true,
We never knew how hard it was,
'Til we had to part with you.

You are gone but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where you are laid.

A hope that is ever before us,
A voice we cannot forget,
A smile that will linger forever
In our memory we see it yet.

Your willing hands no more will toil,
May your rest be in sweet peace,
Your labor of love for us is over
But our grief for you will never cease.

How to keep a house from catching cold!

ONE WAY to keep a house from getting cold is by weatherstripping all doors and windows. Closing up the cracks that let cold in—and heat out.

There is going to be some shortage of coal delivered to homes this winter. Not because less coal is being mined. It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of bituminous coal will be mined this year than last—with fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate rail facilities for hauling the coal to your city. But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And your coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

Little, common-sense precautions can make your coal pile last 10% longer—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Such things as weatherstripping, cleaning the heating system, closing off unused rooms, firing carefully, and drawing your shades at night can help to keep your family snug and warm.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

Our Army and Navy Boys A. H. CLARENCE STONE HONORED

Presidential Unit Citation given to Station Man by Captain Kindell.

Aviation Metamith First Class Clarence Dale Stone, USN, received a Presidential Unit Citation during presentation ceremonies which were presided over by Capt. Nolan M. Kindell, USN, Commanding Officer of NAS Knapoche.

The citation reference specified that Stone had been a member of the First Marine Division, Reinforced, during August 1943, which demonstrated outstanding gallantry and determination in successfully executing forced landing assaults against a number of strongly defended Japanese positions on Tulagi, Gavutu, Tanambogo, Florida and Guadalcanal in the Battle of the Solomon Islands.

Stone joined the Navy in August 1941, at Baltimore and received his indoctrinational training as an apprentice seaman at USNIS, Norfolk. He attended Metamith School at USNIS, Great Lakes, and was graduated with high marks among the members of his class.

Stone is a native of Bartow, W. Va., where his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Stone, presently reside. The award winner is 23 years old, and he reported for duty at this Station last June.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sheets, formerly of Charleston, and now of Wyandotte, Michigan, send this letter from their son, B. W. Sheets, S. F. 10.

Dear Mother and All: How are you feeling by now? Hope and pray you are feeling lots better and the rest are all well. I forget just when I received your last letter, but it seems quite a while. Tell Geneva I said for her to write when you are not feeling well.

Have you heard from Neil lately? I haven't heard for quite a while, and have been wondering if he was shipped out or on leave. Do hope he hasn't been shipped out yet and hope he gets a short leave, so he could go to see "Ar-hold".

Well things look a lot better. It may not be much longer until I get back to the States. Of course I am not building up my hopes too much, but I don't believe it will be much longer unless something happens.

I'll bet Dad is watching the "Tigers" close now, that they have a chance to win the pennant. Tell him if they do win and I get back in time for the series he had better have me a ticket. I get to see a game once in a while. I must stop for now, will write again soon. With lots of love. Berthol.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Hever of Tell City, Indiana, sends the following letter from their son, Raymond, who is somewhere in New Guinea. They were former Pocahontas county residents; they have three sons and a daughter in the Army.

Sept. 27, 1944.

Dear Dad and Mom:

Hope you are both well. This is a hot, sultry morning here. It is so close one can hardly breathe. It won't be long before it will be pouring down rain.

I had a big letter from Olive. I guess the kids are getting along alright. That will just suit ol' Junior; not to have anything to do. Also heard from Bernell, she likes it better she said. I hear pretty regular from my little Olive, in Gary, so you see have been pretty lucky on mail. They all say something about our pictures in the paper. I hope you will send me a copy. If you haven't already sent my watch just keep it, until I send for it. Once it takes so long for a package to get here and it may get lost. I haven't received the last box of candy you sent. Olive also sent me a box she said, and I haven't received it as yet.

Bernell said that Ernest Gladden had to go to the Army. I know Nora was sorry for him to have to go.

Well Dad it is almost election time. I got my ballot from Perry County. Who are you going to vote for? Roosevelt I hope. I am sending you a couple of clips. I cut out of a little newspaper, we got over here. You know we hear the Japs' broadcast every day, and those lame brain Republicans make such speeches as this: and the Japs are tickled to death to hear such speeches and make a great story out of it. If old Bricker could hear what the Japs had to say about the U. S. Government was not to be trusted I think he would be ashamed of himself. When our Government is fighting a war, for our form of government and a nit-wit goes so far as to make such statements he should be exiled. I am sure soldiers who intended voting for Dewey have changed their mind after hearing the Japs make such fun of our government, because of Bricker's statement. If they would keep their mouths shut they might stand a chance. Will write again soon. Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnot McNeill sends in the following letter from their son, Cpl. Gerald McNeill, who is somewhere in Holland.

Sept. 26, 1944.

Hi Mom:

Well it looks as if I have done it again, for here I am in Holland. Don't worry about me, for there isn't much doing around where I am located. I suppose you are wondering about Manuel? Well he is here, he came in to-day in a truck. I saw him but he didn't see me. He was lucky that he didn't have to come when I did.

There isn't much that I can tell you about the country. It has pine and beech trees and small hills like West Va. Also plenty of apples, pears etc.

The people here are so friendly that they get in your way. The first day they celebrated by singing in the streets and so on. They fed us and hot food was plenty good to get.

Well mom, you weren't wrong when you guessed that Manuel and I were here when you heard Gabriel Heater, for we were. However bet of us are doing fine or at least I am. I have seen him go by three times in a truck, but I have never had the chance to talk with him, as he came in a week later than I did.

It looks like rain to-day but I have a pretty dry "dug out" with about 1-2 foot of dirt over it and straw in the bottom, so it will have to rain pretty hard to get me wet. Well, time to sign off, tell everyone hello; tell Dad I didn't get his letter. Answer soon, with lots of love. Jerry.

P.S. I just saw J. B., and he is okay.

PRAYER AND BONDS

The following poem was written by Mrs. B. W. McComb: Oh! yes, I believe in buying the bonds. We all should back the attack But it will take more than money to win this war. It will take praying, t. bring them back.

I am speaking of bringing our loved ones back. The ones that are gone far away. So I believe if ever we see this war won We will all have to pray and pray. Prayer is the key to Heaven we know So let us all join the prayer band today. If you don't have a key just ask God for it, And I know he will show you the way.

So get down on your knees, not just for a while But pray until you get through Just ask God to bless our loved ones out there I believe that's the best we could do.

I'll pray for your boy, you pray for mine That God will undertake for them all Just ask Jesus to take them by the hand And say oh, Lord don't let them fall.

So get in the prayer band and do your part And we'll see this war will soon end I'll stay in the prayer as long as I live For Jesus is my best friend.

I'm so glad I have found such a wonderful friend, And reading the Bible we know He will lead us and guide us through to the end

If we live for Him down here below. There's a mansion up yonder made of pure gold, We know it's not built by hands, Up there we shall live and never grow old And I know we will all understand.

We will all understand why the sorrow and pain When it seemed we have gone the last mile Oh! help us to live so we'll all meet again Help us carry our cross with a smile.

The cross may be heavy to carry down here The road may be rough that we tread If we don't have a cross, we will not have a crown And we won't have a home with God.

So throw out a life line to those going down And pray before it's too late That they will anchor their soul in the heaven of rest And we will meet at that beautiful gate.

IN MEMORIAM

Of Keith Simmons, who gave his life for his country, on July 11, 1944.

"Greater Love hath no man than to lay down his life for his friends."

God looked down one day On a battle field far away, And took our darling nephew, To heaven with Him to stay.

How we miss him only God knows But we hope to meet him again, Where all the brave soldiers go; All we can do or say, can never repay.

The debt of love he gave for us, On the battle field that day.

He hated to leave his home and loved ones, But he heard his country's call; He was a gallant soldier, And gave his life for all.

I can not express in words what I really want to say But I hope and pray we will meet some day.

Somewhere in France A white cross marks the place Where our loved one is sleeping Among loved ones of others, Who are winning this war.

God bless the boys, who are fighting across the sea. If it is Thy will they don't come back.

May they rest in peace with Tim. Written by his aunt, Mrs. Orlis Lambert of Bartow.

NEWSPAPER ABERATION

WILLIUM'S LETTERS

In Clarkburg Exponent

Mr. E. H. Pritchard, Editor, Etc.,

Weston, W. Va.

Dear Bob:

It's high time you or somebody else with sufficient animosity took adequate steps to reform at least part of the weekly press in West Virginia for it's getting me jittery. I heard Ed Blake has left the paper down at Ronceverte flat on its back and gone to Charles Town to join the stable of that bird, R. J. Funkhouser, to help get out that rag called The Jefferson Republican.

I'll admit "R. J." needs a lot of help if he's ever going to publish a paper fit for polite society and I'm assuming here that all the issues are like a couple I've seen for there certainly was room for improvement which was about the only direction in which it was possible to make a change.

And also, Bob, to show you the depths to which some weekly have descended, Dr. Calvin Price printed a letter to the editor in which a subscriber bawled him out for filling up The Pocahontas Times with soldier's letters and not printing news and editorials for which he has gained a certain kind of fame. The subscriber didn't object to printing information but he thought all the intimate family affairs should be eliminated. Of course, to understand what this subscriber had in mind, a guy has to read one of Cal's issues.

Answering "Subscriber" Cal said he never knew what was best to print and what to leave out and likely never would and that he didn't have time to set the and write editorials too.

What worries Cal, though, is that the less he writes the faster his circulation grows which is enough to stagger any editor who has a good opinion of himself.

Now, do you see what I mean, Bob, and why I'm solicitous about this weekly press?

WILLIUM.

Hon. Ernest L. Bailey, State Road Commissioner, Charleston, W. Va.

Dear Ernest:

You are a heck of a guy to get publicity for the achievements of the road commission and if I didn't read the county weeklies I'd never know two road dedications of great importance were taking place this week end. Down at Hastings they're going to have the formal dedication of Route 27.

next Saturday afternoon while Friday afternoon at North Bend, near Richwood. They're going to open that "Missing Link" between Marlinton and Richwood. In ordinary times I'd try very hard to take in both although I doubt if I could make it. Among the attractions over at North Bend I see is to be music by the Summersville, Richwood and Marlinton High school bands and free coffee, but you have to bring your own dinner. That'll make it tough on Dr. Calvin Price who is a notorious free feeder and who undoubtedly will be one of the attractions for the story I read said the program would run from 10 to 8 and you'd never keep Cal quiet all that time—however the attractions for the other celebration are just as potent.

WILLIUM.

Special Notice to Farmers

I will be in the office at Marlinton on the 1st and 3rd Friday of each month from 10:00 A. M. to 4:00 Noon, to represent the Farmers Production Credit Association and The Pocahontas County National Farm Loan Association.

Pyton Mountains

Forecasting season opened up here and got off to a good start with most of the hunters getting their limit each day of squirrels. From all reports there is quite a bit more than last season. Plenty of acorns as food for them and they are fat and fine for eating but rather hard to see among the leaves that are still hanging. No turkeys reported killed in this section the first day. There are a few scattered over this section but not as many as last season according to reports. There are fewer grouse than at any time in the 22 years I have lived here. Foxes are getting in their dirty work on them and the turkeys too. From reports I get what few turkeys there is in this section are in the Park and safe. Wild cats are helping the foxes clean out the turkeys too. One killed a big gobbler in the Park last winter at a feeding station. A trap was set for it with the usual results, of course. So with out a doubt this cat worked on the grouse all that winter in the Park and must have wiped out a good portion of them. There is plenty of other game up here such as deer and coon. A few rabbits but one can't expect them to increase to any great extent with foxes, minks, weasels and other predatory stuff working on them continuously.

Never heard a single report all last winter of the big coon and mink that used to make Chickenhouse Run their home. The mink was an over size one and as black as night, according to those who saw it. One fellow told me the coon had a track so big that its foot must have been as big as his. The record will say he wore a number 9 shoe. He may have leaped from the truth just a little, but it must have been plenty big. My young and very good friend, Winters Dean, bought a coon dog last season and I am expecting him to see something of this monster coon if it is still on the run.

I see the panther tales have started the rounds again. Also read in another paper late last spring that there was another wolf back on Elk Mt.; had killed sheep and had been seen at a distance. Have watched for reports of it since then but saw none. I saw a picture of a big panther in one of my hound journals that was treed by just two red tick hounds. Why don't some men get out with their hounds and get this panther and wolf. I know we have men that can do it, so what is holding them back, I would like to know.

The political pot has about come to the boiling point. All one can hear on the radio, and talked about here, is who to vote for, which is the man, etc. Well, as the late Will Rogers to start his widely read column off with "All I know is what I read in the papers," about it, but I do know that if the tale was started on Franklin D. Roosevelt to hurt his chances for reelection, of him turning back a battleship to get his little dog Fella, forgotten and left behind, that it won't do it. As a matter of fact, I think it will help his chances. It is what the would expect of a man with the great humanitarian heart he has shown he has since serving in office. Don't know if this yarn is so or not, but anyway I am stringing along with him for it until the opposition brings out a full fledged fox hunter against him. His Scottie dog is a long ways from a fox hound, but who knows if that time won't convert Mr. Roosevelt into a hound owner one of these days? Don't forget that George Washington was one of our first leading fox hunters and hound breeders as well as the Father of our Country, and is so honored by most of the big fox hunters associations over the country. There is one man in our own state that is getting my vote if I am lucky enough to get to the polls to cast it. Don't even know his name or what ticket he is on nor what he is running for. But I do know he sent out post cards with his message to voters on them, that he had a big pack of hounds on them, which is enough for yours truly.

John F. Scott.

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the Fiduciary Accounts of J. A. Bydentricker, Executor under the last will and testament of J. W. Hill, deceased, are before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts for Pocahontas County, West Virginia, for final settlement.

This 20th day of October 1944.

T. S. McNeel, Commissioner.

I am appealing to County pride and for county good in asking our county people, regardless of party affiliation to cast their votes for their neighbor and fellow county man; Senator Fred C. Allen for reelection to the State Senate from the Twelfth District composed of the Counties of Pocahontas, Pendleton, Randolph, Braxton, Nicholas and Webster. For more than thirty years we were unable to convince the other Counties of the district of our claim for a division of representation in the upper house of the legislature.

Finally it was Senator Allen who broke this line of strong resistance. Then his record of efficient leadership in the Senate insured his return. He is the proper man to keep the tears in place and take care of other local and general legislation affecting the interest of our county and our people. An experienced home man is always better for us than a new beginner from elsewhere. So, do not put mere party regularity above county good.

Erratic driving proves so inefficient in Wartime that it's no longer favored any of the time.

Defiance is the style in motoring. Tactics like swooping in and out of line seem wasted, when the little coupe—from miles behind—presently shows up anyway in the "thrill-driver's" mirror.

That's skill—making a steady good average; not leaping and bounding to make it up. You'll show still greater regard for dutiful mechanism by having your engine OIL-PLATED—internally surfaced to resist corrosion by the unavoidable acids of combustion.

Changing to Conoco N4 motor oil will automatically give you an OIL-PLATED engine. Conoco pioneer research created the special Conoco N4 ingredients that give this popular-priced oil its magnet-like action. And that's what joins OIL-PLATING to lower engine carbon, as if to stay.

Acids stay too, these days—inflicting every cylinder in uncountable quantities. Former classes of cutting corrosive acids are decreased these days by low engine temperature—no longer stockpiles of standing acid—miles of millions of tiny black spots you can keep your engine's fine inner finish under cover of protective oil—plating—cutting corrosion! Just change to Conoco N4 motor oil! Your mileage matters. Conoco N4.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Nellie M. Hill, of Littleton, Pa., sends the following letter to her son-in-law, Cpl. Tom Kenneth C. Brown, who is serving with the U. S. Army in France. Cpl. Brown has been overseas two and one half years with the First Army, and has seen action in North Africa, and Sicily. His Company was one of the first to land on French soil.

Oct 5, 1944.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know that I am still alive and still kicking around, although I have a slight cold. The weather around here has been cold and damp. We got our heavy winter underwear and overcoats the other day.

I hope this letter finds you all in the best of health. I suppose that you are having some fall weather around these days. I started to write you a letter yesterday, but made so many mistakes that I became disgusted and tore it up and decided to try it all over today. I suppose I had better stick to using pencils for I make mistakes all the time. I suppose it is due to lack of practice or nervousness.

I received your letter today and was very glad to hear from you, and glad you received the picture. Fredda says that I have gotten a lot huskier since being in the Service.

Well as for being home for Christmas I would not ask for anything more than to spend the Christmas holidays at home, but suppose that is asking a little too much. Even if the war does end shortly, it takes time to get men ready to be shipped from one country to another, unless it is to the front lines or a new battle-front and they aren't very slow about getting that done. But that is how the Army operates, and who am I to be complaining. Although I do think that we will be among the first to be sent back when this war is started up, since we have in most fighting times than any other outfit overseas.

I suppose you wonder where I got the typewriter? Well, it is one that I picked up in an old abandoned German office. I have myself a small office set up in an air raid shelter. I have a desk, chair and plenty of paper, and even to the extent of a waste paper basket. I also have a box of German cigars on the desk, and they are very good cigars. In fact, I like them better than the cheaper American brands.

Well, I just took a break and went out to the OP to see what the Jerries are doing, but could not see much. The only thing I could see was our own artillery falling on their positions, but could see no enemy, but we know they are there as we saw some on a few hours ago. The place where I am located, I have a ring side seat where I can view everything that goes on, and I don't miss very much. Yesterday I watched our dive bombers bomb them for about three to five hours. It is just like the bombing in the movies only not nearly as safe as watching from a seat in a theatre.

Fredda said she had sent me one of my Christmas packages the other day, she said she was sending several small ones, instead of one large package like she usually does. Speaking of packages, I suppose "Butch" has received the package which I sent him by this time. I sure hope that he gets it, for I had some nice souvenirs in it. I knew he will like the things I sent him.

Well mother it is about time to eat supper and after that it will be time to get some sleep. So I guess I will sign off for the time being. Give "Butch" and Dad my love and best wishes.

Your loving son,
Ken.

15th AAF IN ITALY.—S. Sgt.

Frank B. Crigger, 35, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Crigger of Hontela, Va., is a member of the engineering section of a B-24 Heavy Bomber group which has been awarded the Distinguished Unit Award, the highest unit award, 15th AAF announced.

He is now entitled to wear the Distinguished Unit Ribbon. The award was given for the precision bombing of the Bad Veau, ME 109 fighter plane factory. This new factory, the pride of Herman Goering, had just swung into production when it was attacked by the 15 AAF. Despite intense flak and numerous enemy fighters, this particular group led its entire wing directly over the target, and literally wiped the factory off the face of the earth. Not one building was left untouched. Called by the press "the finest example of precision bombing by Liberators," the destruction was so complete the Nazis never made an attempt to rebuild the plant, or even remove the debris. The group was commanded at the time of the attack by Col. Marden M. Munn of Albany, Calif., who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his leadership and flying skill.

Now commanded by Col. Henry K. McNeely of 4630 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans, La., this group has flown well over 100 missions to bomb strategic enemy military installations from the southern coast of France to the Black Sea, as well as giving air support to Allied forces in France and Italy, and to Soviet and Partisan troops in the Balkans.

Before entering the service on Feb. 2, 1942, Sgt. Crigger was employed by the National Forest Service.

Mrs. George Wanless of Cass, sends this letter from Delbert Casel:

U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA.
September 14, 1944.

To Friends & Neighbors of my Little Community:

While sailing far from all of you I take the greatest pleasure in thanking each of you for placing our names on the flag which will hang in the Little White Wanless Church. The names of those who appear on the flag will never forget each of you there in our happy community. We all left many treasures there that we may never return to but they will live with us always and they are the faces of all of you here today.

Until all of us come home again I ask that each of you remember us in a prayer as the days go by. Now as I bring these few lines to a close and with God's protection over all of us we will meet at the Little White Church.

From one of the gang.
Love to all,
Delbert Casel.

Cpl. James Cashwell writes from Washington, D. C. to his friends while on furlough:

Washington, 20, D. C.
Oct. 1, 1944.

"Hello Folks Back Home!" This is the only chance that I have to say hello to you all, due to the fact that my furlough has been rather short, and if I did have the time to travel elsewhere I don't believe my fatigued body would allow me to do so.

Gee, but it is great to be home again, after so many months in the dense jungles. To come back and find my family and all my friends well and happy.

Most of all that I am really proud of, and I know my buddies will be glad to hear this, when I return and tell them, that the folks back home are really backing us. And what I mean by that statement, simply this: "I've seen the road ahead. I've hugged my belly to the ground, while regiments of big grunts stood up-hub to hub and split the night with flame. I've felt the earth quake under a tidal wave of tanks that rolled out of our lines and engulfed the enemy and smothered him and beat him down into the ground. I've seen the sky blackened out by a thousand bombers wings, and heard it cracked wide open by the thunder of their bombs. And yet, after being back home through the ruins of War, I've seen the road ahead.

Out here, I've seen the power of America at war, the might of free-born men and women who work and fight to keep their freedom. And I believe this power to destroy, can be the power to create, and looking down the victory road I see a new America. I see new cities rising up, new farms, new roads, new homes, new schools and factories, that will plan and build for peace the way they planned and built for war.

Yes folks, I have seen all of this. And I want to say Thanks a lot to my many friends who have been writing me all the news, and to those who haven't written me a line, thanks just the same.

Everyone has treated me swell while on my furlough. In a few days I will be leaving you all again, but I want you all to continue writing me and pray for me and my comrades, and we will do likewise.

Until you hear from me again, I will say so long, until the battle is over and Victory is high.

Cpl. James Cashwell.

His mother is Mrs. Julia Evans of Marlinton, W. Va. He was born December 21, 1924. He attended Douglas High School, Huntington, W. Va. He entered the Army March 15th at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Seaman First Class Calvin E. Sheets, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sheets of Durbin, has returned to his base at San Francisco, Calif. after spending a short leave with his parents. He has spent eight months at sea as a member of the Navy gun crew aboard a merchant ship. He entered service October 4, 1943, and took his boot training at Great Lakes, Illinois. Duties abroad have taken him to ports in Australia and Islands of the Pacific. His sister, Rowena Sheets, who has been employed in Little, Pennsylvania, for more than a year, spent a few days at home with him.

The Dance Of The Purple Death

By Capt. Jack Preble

Italy, October 11, 1944.

Dear Cal: Possibly half the mouths in the mountains are drooling at the thought of all the wine we have at our disposal over here. Tell them for me to stick to their good old mountain water. I had mountain water in mind when I wrote this article that may amuse my friends back in God's Country.

Many American soldiers have witnessed the famous Corn Dance as performed by the Navajo Indians and the Rattlesnake Dance by the Hopis. Other have enjoyed the rural barn dances of the Alleghenies and the Ozarks. None of these entertaining and colorful spectacles, however, can compare to the slightest degree with the ludicrous dance of the "Purple Death" as performed by the Italian peasantry of Southern Italy.

Purple Death is, for the benefit of the uninitiated, the fermented juice of the common, or garden variety grape. Not only does it pack the wallop of the Missouri mule but two, or three quarts, if slowly sipped, have been known to make the most modest of G.I. tear off his clothing and head for the nearest slit trench. Unconsciousness comes easily and naturally.

Many months of back breaking toil goes into the preparation of the dance. First the vineyards have to be painstakingly pruned and cultivated. The young and growing vines have to be continually sprayed against destructive insects and blights. Last, but not least, the purple and golden harvest of sun ripened grapes has to be accomplished. The fruit of the vine is collected by tattered peasants quaintly garbed in their colorful peasant costumes of discarded gunny sacks.

The grapes are hand picked and loaded into large barrels resting on a high, two wheeled cart and hauled to the nearest winery. Here they are ceremoniously dumped into large wooden vats. The nondescript, looking bystanders immediately take a new interest in life and make their lavish preparations for the dance. In a twinkling of an eye their broken shoes and tattered socks are discarded, pantaloons are rolled to the knee and with an unbridled and childish shout of pure animal joy they make one leap for the inside of the vat and go into their macabre dance upon the unresisting bodies of the soft grapes. Occasionally one of the dance ers will find it necessary to leave the comfortable confines of the vat and head for some fixed point across the barnyard. Red juice streaming down bare legs make it appear as if a trail of blood were left behind him. Shortly after he reappears with various odds and ends of refuse clinging to his bare feet. Again his whole body cries for the exhilaration of the dance. With a whoop of glee mingled with a sigh of relief, he makes one mighty spring and lands smack in the center of the nearest vat of grapes and settles down to his rhythmic rigadoon of "omp, squash and ionic."

This dance is not solely restricted to the male sex. Frequently the female, and most lusty of the species, find complete and soothing relaxation in its purple depths. They too must abide by the unwritten rules that no one must enter the vat with soiled shoes. All foot covering must be removed lest the wine be spoiled.

The purpose of the dance is not quite clear. It is believed by some that this dance has been deliberately staged in many places to induce the innocent G.I. to embrace prohibition. If this be the purpose of "The Dance of the Purple Death" it has succeeded far beyond its sponsor's wildest expectation. Ninety-one per cent of the men of the 515th Squadron, 276th Bomb Group have already signed the pledge never to drink another drop of Purple Death. The other eight per cent are teetotalers and don't count. Statistics show that in "Feetly Joe's Blue Grotto," the most notorious hot spot between Shanghai and Steubenville (Advt) the consumption of Purple Death is indulged in by only one per cent of the squadron. This "one per center" evidently cares nothing for dance drama or death.

Rural Life Conference

The Annual Rural Life Conference was held at Brownsburg on Saturday and Sunday October 21 and 22. The conference began by the arrangement of the exhibit on Saturday at the school house, after which it was judged. The exhibit in spite of the drought, was of excellent quality and although not so large as in former years, showed evidence of progress. On Saturday night at 7:30, a meeting was held at which the progress report was read and an open forum was conducted on plans for the next year. In this meeting special emphasis was placed on the Negro's obligation in the post war period.

The progress reports showed the crops in the neighborhood had been estimated at a value of $1250.00. It is estimated that there will be butchered from 2400 to 3000 pounds of pork in the neighborhood. It also showed that thirteen boys from the neighborhood are in the Armed Forces. The people are members of the Red Cross and at the present time they are in the midst of a campaign for the United Service Organizations. The neighborhood council, having set a definite quota to be raised and at the present time there is every reason to believe that it will be far exceeded. It was further reported that plans are underway for re-roofing the church and a number of new books have been added to the school library and the neighborhood has an active and progressive Parent-Teacher Association.

On Sunday afternoon the annual general meeting was held at which time County Superintendent Clutter gave an interesting and instructive talk on education. Dr. Calvin Price, editor of the Pocahontas Times, also gave a very interesting and instructive talk on conservation. Dr. C. F. Hopson, Director of Negro Welfare and Statistics, gave a very fine talk on health, placing special emphasis on the treatment of social diseases. A talk was also made by Miss Faye Dunlap, the teacher in the public school, who gave a very timely talk on tolerance and cooperation. Very time-remarks were made by Mr. Johnson of the M. E. Church.

The Extension Agents take this opportunity to thank the local neighborhood leaders for the very fine year's work that has been done and it could only have been accomplished through their enthusiastic and untiring efforts. The success of this neighborhood has been due to the West Virginia Neighborhood Leader system of which these leaders are a part.

DAWSON...

Long on PROMISES Short on ACTION

It is only fair to the people of West Virginia—and also to the interest of Good Government—to point out some of the overstatements being made in campaign promises and to look at the RECORD of the man who is making them.

D. Boone Dawson, the Republican candidate for Governor, has said he will, if elected, cut the state budget $10,000,000 a year and cut taxes accordingly.

First of all, competent and non-partisan authorities agree that this would be IMPOSSIBLE without seriously injuring essential state services.

LET'S LOOK AT DAWSON'S RECORD

But, more important, what is Mr. Dawson's record as a budget-cutter and a tax-cutter?

Mr. Dawson has been mayor of Charleston since 1935. Audits of the city of Charleston's finances, on file in the City Clerk's office show that Mayor Dawson took office with a balance of some $35,000 on hand.

In the first year of his administration, Mayor Dawson estimated he would need more than $700,000—despite the fact that actual expenditures in the preceding year amounted to only $591,915.61.

Mayor Dawson actually spent $732,263.62 in his first year.

He increased expenditures more than $140,000 in his first year in office.

He WIPED OUT a $35,000 balance and created in its place a $25,000 DEFICIT IN JUST ONE YEAR!

After five years in office, Mayor Dawson increased this DEFICIT to $383,314.41!

So much for his budget-cutting abilities.

Dawson DOUBLES Charleston's Tax Bill!

Now, what is Mayor Dawson's record as a tax-cutter?

The bill which Charleston's taxpayers must foot has INCREASED from $591,915.61 at the start of Mayor Dawson's regime to $1,000,000 in 1944!

This tax bill has more than DOUBLED. It represents a cost of $19.00 to every man, woman and child in the City of Charleston!

Besides the ordinary taxes of a municipality, the City of Charleston under Mayor Dawson has a gross sales tax, garbage collection tax, amusement tax, automobile parking tax, and even the children are taxed, for there is a tax on bicycles!

So much for Mayor Dawson's tax-cutting abilities!

DAWSON THE ROAD BUILDER?

Another promise made by Mayor Dawson in his campaign to take over the State Government is that he will "pay secondary roads THROUGHOUT the state."

First of all, this is a PROMISE IMPOSSIBLE to carry out in any four years. There are 28,257 miles of secondary roads in West Virginia. Since 1933, hard surfacing of these roads amounted to over 5,000 more miles than were paved in all the years prior to that time. But there are still 18,000 miles unpaved and, competent engineers estimate, to hard surface them all would cost $450,000,000!

So much for Mayor Dawson's PROMISE. Now, what about his RECORD as a road builder?

In the seven years from 1935, Mayor Dawson's administration spent $776,530 maintaining 137 miles of city streets while the City of Huntington spent only $403,013 maintaining 325 miles of city streets one-third wider!

And the Republican newspaper in Mayor Dawson's home city, The Charleston Daily Mail, declared editorially as recent as October 18:

"Streets in several parts of Charleston have become too rough and broken to stand up much longer under the heavy traffic load."

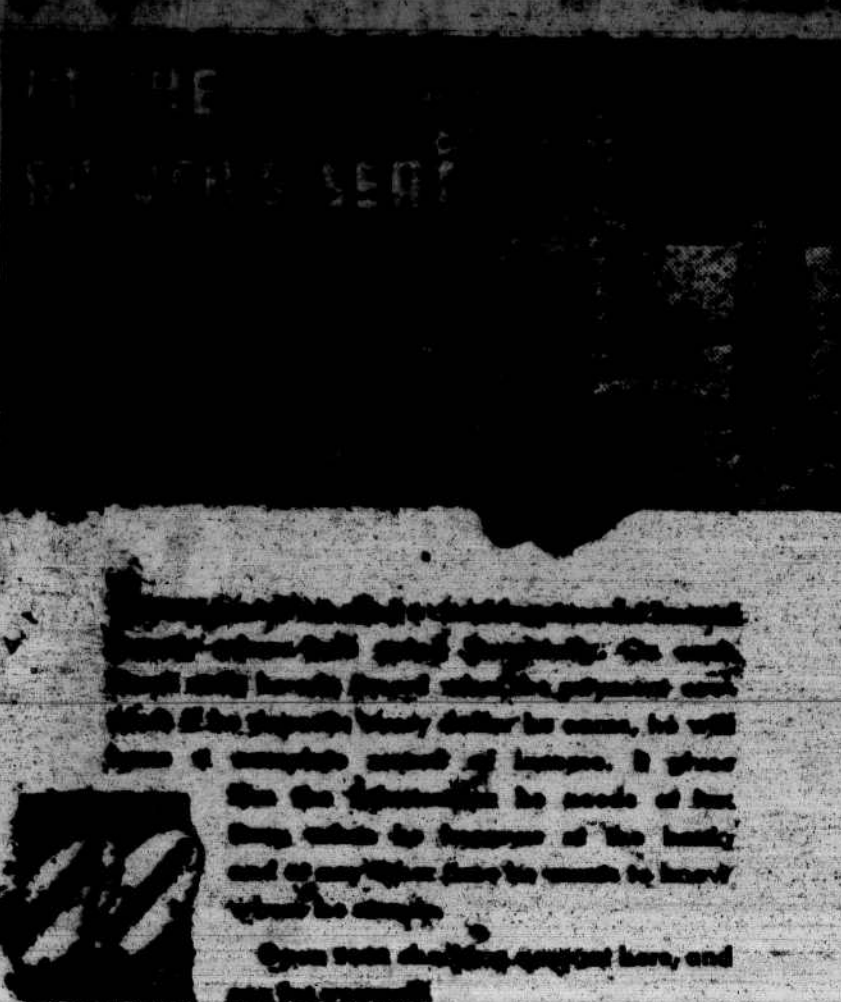

Dawson's High Administrative Costs

Furthermore, this candidate who PROMISES to cut administrative costs, spent $406,961.95 in seven years on administrative salaries alone, compared to only $194,897.33 in the City of Huntington—a larger city—and Mayor Dawson imposes a Class 4 property tax of 75 cents compared to only 50 cents in Huntington!

Is this the man to be entrusted with the State's surplus of more than $24,000,000?

The facts herein presented should provide the answer.

WHY Pocahontas Co. Needs MUNTZING

In the U. S. Congress

Because Pocahontas is an agricultural county, and Pocahontas farmers see in Melvin C. Muntzing, who is himself a Grant County farmer and stockman, a friend who faces similar problems and seeks same solutions.

Because Pocahontas is also a county of small businessmen, small industries and one-man enterprises. That small industry has been stifled, is acknowledged. Muntzing seeks to bring them justice and a fair shake.

Because He is not a politician and is not opposed to the Democratic party, realizing that it has given its full share to the development of America. He is a mortal foe of the New Deal and all it stands for.

Because The continuance of the American form of self-government demands the election of men to represent the voters individually, and not as a mass of regimented, centrally-directed, Federally-controlled units.

Vote for Yourself "for a Change"

Yes, Muntzing needs Pocahontas county's vote in the election November 7th, and Pocahontas needs Muntzing's vote in Congress. Democratic party leaders themselves admit that a change is imperative if the peace is to be won and the future made secure for the people, the returning veterans and the nation. A vote for Muntzing is a vote for your own good. Vote for yourself "for a change."

MARLINTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, November 2, 1944

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Public Relations Office, 14th U. S. Air Force—James R. (Bob) Sharp has recently been promoted from Sergeant to Staff Sergeant in the famous "Flying Horse" Fighter Group, a unit of Major General C. L. Chennault's Fourteenth Air Force.

Staff Sergeant Sharp is a clerk in the Operations section in Headquarters of the "Flying Horse" Group.

The Group to which Sharp is assigned has been overseas for 33 months and has seen a great deal of action. It left the States just after Pearl Harbor heading for Java to defend that island against Japanese attack, the island fell before the Group could reach it and the Group was hurried to India, where it did outstanding work in helping to stem the Japanese drive through Burma toward India. After a year and a half in India it crossed the "hump" to China where Sharp joined it. In China the Group has been active in harassing the Japs on all fronts. For his work with the Group in the China campaign Sharp has been awarded a bronze star on his Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon.

In addition to the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon, bronze star for the China campaign, Sharp is authorized to wear the Good Conduct Medal, Marksmanship Medal for rifle, and Sharpshooters Medal for the Carbine.

Before joining the "Flying Horse" Fighter Group, Sharp was a clerk stationed at the Miami Beach Training Center. Sharp attended the Greenbrier Military School in Lewisburg, West Virginia, before entering the service.

Staff Sergeant Sharp is the 26 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sharp, of Second Avenue.

Marlinton, West Virginia. His wife, the former Jean Post, resides at 233 Vermont Avenue, Clarksburg, West Virginia.

See Bob James E. Beard writes from the Pacific Area to Harper M. Smith, County Chairman of the USO War Fund:

Dear Mr. Smith:

Greetings from the Solomon Islands.

You have called on me to give you my opinion of the USO. I will do my best to give you my viewpoint although it will be limited due to the fact that I spent only a few months in the States since my enlistment in the armed forces.

I have been in at least one USO in every city that I have been stationed near. This includes Providence, R. I., Boston, Mass., San Francisco and Los Angeles. The smaller towns are too numerous to mention, but you are given every consideration wherever it may be.

In my estimation the USO is doing one of the greatest jobs of entertaining and helping the men of the armed forces that is being done. They help a service man get acquainted with the city he spends his leave in, and that means quite a lot to a man when he's away from home. They give you the best of entertainment and show you every consideration. Since a man in the service doesn't have too much money to spend on luxuries and entertainment, we are always glad to have a place to go to find these things.

Most of the USO's have a place where a service man can press his uniform and keep himself looking his best while on liberty. Things like this mean a lot more to us than most people realize. They will always do their utmost to help you find a room for a week end leave and that saves us quite a bit of time.

Most of the cities are so crowded now that it takes at least one third of your time to find a place to eat and sleep.

When I was in San Francisco there were several points of interest I wanted to see, but I actually did not know where to start. Since my time was limited I knew I couldn't spend too much time in one place. I stopped in at a USO and asked them for a map of the city and told them my plans. They not only gave me the map but outlined a tour of the city which could be completed in two hours. They offer these "special" tours to all service men and women. The USO can furnish anything a serviceman wants. It would take too long to mention all the conveniences they give us, but take it from me, it is a swell organization.

Since I have been on "Island X" the USO has given two stage shows which were excellent. I have never seen better shows when I paid admission. It certainly takes our mind off the war when we get entertainment like that. I hope this letter will give you some idea of the good the USO is doing. I have given you all the facts as far as I'm concerned; but as I have told you before, they are probably doing many things that I don't know about. Everything they have done for me and my friends was greatly appreciated.

As ever,

James E. Beard, M M 1-c

Lt. J. W. Shinaberry writes from France under date of October 2, 1944.

Dear Mr. Price:

I will now do something that I have intended doing for some time but neglected doing so. I want to let you know that my address has been changed, and I would like for you to correct it on The Pocahontas Times for me. I am still getting the paper but it is over a month old.

I am now in France and have been for some time. I have seen my share of France, having visited several of the largest cities, and find them very nice. The people are real friendly, even though I can't speak their language. Most of the people have plenty to eat and are willing to trade fresh tomatoes, cabbage, eggs, and fruits for our canned goods or rations and cigarettes. I have met a few people who can talk English broken.

You will find my present address below.

Sincerely yours,

J. W. Shinaberry.

Mrs. Glenn Waugh of Millpoint, received the following letter from her son, Dwight, who is serving in Hawaii.

Oahu, Hawaii.

September 28, 1944.

Dearest Mother:

Well, I have landed in Hawaii again, and will write you a letter to tell you I am okay, and feeling fine. I like this place where I am now alright; at least it is better than the Marshalls in the Eniwetok Atoll.

We have real good food here, we seem to have plenty of fresh fruits, which we did not have in the Marshalls.

I didn't mind the ship ride any time, although it was plenty crowded, I wasn't sea sick any.

We received a lot of mail yesterday, I had nine letters from you, and several from others, it had been held up quite a while, I suppose. I was real glad to get all of them.

I haven't received any of the Charleston Gazette yet, but hope to get them soon. I have been

Why is Ed Lane up in the air?

BECAUSE he's down to earth about conserving coal. That's why he's putting up storm windows. He knows there will be some shortage of coal going to householders.

No less coal is being produced. More is being mined than ever before—with fewer men. Mine owners and miners alike are doing a splendid job. And there are ample rail facilities for transporting coal to your city.

But certain grades of coal are going to be greatly in demand for war production. And, to make things worse, your local coal dealer faces a shortage in manpower, trucks and tires.

So if you want to keep warm this winter, do everything possible to conserve the coal you can get. The little, common-sense things you can do will make your coal pile go 10% further—and save that much on your fuel bill.

Install weatherstripping. Clean your furnace. Fire carefully, and avoid over-heating. Shut off unused rooms. Pull your shades low at night. For other suggestions, see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

Harry L. Beverage writes from somewhere in the Pacific, under date of Oct 6th.

Dear Mr. Price:

I want to thank you for sending me The Pocahontas Times each week. It is like a nice letter from the home folks. In it I read about my many friends who attended Marlinton High School with me during 1933, 34 and 35.

I have been overseas for 26 months and have seen about all of the Southwest Pacific area. It has been a rough road for several months and will probably continue to be the same until the Japs are beat down in the dust to rise no more.

In closing, I will say the folks are doing a big job too and by everyone working together toward one end, "Final Victory", our stay from home and our loved ones should be drawing to a close before too many more months.

Thanking you, I am,
Very truly yours,
Harry L. Beverage.

Mrs. Loran S. Jordan, of Greenbank, sends the following interesting story taken from a recent letter, which she received from her husband, who is serving with the 12th Bomb group somewhere in the China-India and Burma Theatre.

"I have heard stories all my life about witch Doctors and I saw two perform their duties today. One of the Indian civilians while working was bitten by a poisonous snake, and was brought to the Dispensary for treatment. After having rendered the proper and scientific treatment, they weren't satisfied, and brought two of their witch Doctors who performed their treatment, which was rendered in the following manner: After having rubbed his entire body, they then tied a string to his big toe and one of the Doctors held him while the other pulled with all his might, for about thirty minutes. Then four men held him while they took thorns from an old bush and pierced holes in the ends of all his toes until they bled terribly. They made a cup from a palm leaf and drained blood from each toe in the cup. They then ganged around him and had their Pow-wow. It certainly was a sight to behold!"

State Road Commissioner Ernest L. Bailey announced recently that owners of trucks or tractors carrying Class B House tags and engaged in the hauling of perishable goods from farms to markets will be permitted the use of West Virginia highways without obtaining Class K registrations. The order followed earlier approval of the Public Service Commission.

Shortages of manpower and for hire vehicles combined with the short harvest season, prompted the action, Commissioner Bailey said. The West Virginia motor vehicle code requires Class K registration for all vehicles operated for the transportation of property for compensation other than over a regular route or between fixed termini by common carrier.

Bailey explained that "unobstructed and speedy transportation from farms, dairies and orchards to markets, processing plants, storage, packing and distributing centers is necessary and desirable to the prosecution of the war effort."

Frank Johnson is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia. Forrest Malcomb is out after an attack of pleurisy.

Cecil, Mabel and Wilson Beverage were home from Baltimore this week.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, NOV. 9, 1944

My Dear Editor:

I note your statement that the opening exercises of the Pocahontas-Highwood road took place in doors at Richwood, the 30th.

I was very sorry, that I could not attend. It simply rained "pitchforks" down here all day long; and we could not venture the trip.

But since this road is now open to the public, I sincerely trust the business men of that section will see to it that our State Road Commission gives this road its share of advertisement in their next State Road map. Let their artists come up and take several views for publication. They should take one looking from the high tower on Droop Mountain toward the basin of the Little Level; and that of Stamping Creek; where this road leaves the main highway at Mill point. Another view should be taken of this basin from the top of Blue Knob across the plateau and into the State Park on the opposite side of the Greenbrier.

Several views should be taken of the basin enclosing the Cranberry glades; at least one for each Glade. No more beautiful and mysterious spot exists anywhere on the face of the earth. A view of Fern Glade on Cherry River near its junction with Bear Creek, a spot as wild as the jungles of New Guinea.

Then a view of the Gorge of Hills Creek at the three great falls; there is nothing like it anywhere in the state.

I want to see this road properly advertised, and it will help put West Virginia on the Map.

Sincerely yours,

E. C. Eagle,

Hinton, W. Va.

W. J. Phillips, of Stony Bottom, brought in a cabbage stalk with more than a dozen perfectly formed heads. These heads were good and firm and larger than a softball base ball. This was a freak; not a plant which has lost its first head, and then sprang out in a lot of loose heads, like we all have seen.

Just too busy all fall long to note down the unusual beauty of the foliage this year. I am convinced I never saw leaves so deeply colored. Maybe the fact that I was tied down indoors by business and so could not get out in woods helped to make the leaves appear more beautiful than usual. You all know how attractive forbidden fruit is to people. However, the sap of the sugar maple was pronounced unusually sweet last spring. Then the scientific sharpshooters assure us that the red in leaves is caused by the sugar content. So, maybe, after all may be the leaf colors were brighter this fall.

Talking about sweets in nature, this appears to have been the best honey year in twelve. There were flowers and the weather was dry. Some like bees must have dry weather in which to work; and it could easily be that rain water dilutes the nectar too. At the farm of Dallas McKeever on Swingo, he started in with sixteen colonies of bees last spring. Now the stands have increased to two dozen, and he took surplus stores of honey amounting to 150 pounds. He finds a ready sale for honey at thirty cents.

Have a "Coke" = Ahoy, mates

...or keeping up the good work

Beer and stout the ships go down the ways in the wartime shipbuilding program. From every California to the coast of Maine, workers have learned that the power that refreshes helps everybody do more work and better work. Here a "Coke" says a hard-working shipbuilder to his mate. It's a little extra long enough for a big cut. Whether in a shipyard or in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the power that refreshes—has become a symbol of friendly solidarity.

 I have been very busy today and it is now 12:30 and I am pretty sleepy so I guess this letter will be kinda short. I have received only two letters from you since I have been back. I am looking for a letter tomorrow and I really hope to because I love to hear from home. Mother, if you have time write me every other day and tell me everything that is going on. Did Slim go hunting the first day of the season? Gee! I would have liked to have been home and gone hunting, but I guess this job here has got to be finished, and I will have plenty of time to hunt when it is all over. I wish you would cheer up and not worry because I will take care of myself wherever I go.

I go to town every other night and see a movie and run around and then come back to the ship. This town is really a dump, and I don't like it. The only reason I go to town is to get away from the noise.

I saw Mitchell and his wife at the show the other night, and talked with them for about 15 minutes. She said I had a swell mother. I told her I knew I had the sweetest mother in the world. Mother I am going to enjoy myself while we are here and I hope you don't blame me. I am going to Mexico Saturday night and see what it looks like down there. Well I hope you can read this because I am so sleepy I can hardly write. So bye and write soon. With love, June.

Dear Mrs. Mayhew:

Received your letter a few days ago and was real glad to hear from you. This leaves me just time and hope all of you are the same.

Yes, I guess things have changed a lot since I was there, but I still wish I was back there. This sure is a dull place in the winter time, and awfully hot in the summer.

How is Mr. Mayhew? Guess he still works as hard as ever. I get pretty lonesome sometimes, you don't know how much a letter helps. I went on a fishing trip last Sunday, had a real nice time; we left early on Sunday morning and stayed all day.

How is George, Dessie and the children getting along? I'd love to see them. It seems like I have been gone for ages. I have traveled around lots and have seen many sights and strange things, but there is no place like the good old U. S. A. Does Hilda think her husband will have to go to the Army? Where is Shelton? When you see Gib and Cleo, tell them I will write. Hope you are all well.

Your friend,
Thomas.

With the Third Division of the Seventh Army in France. For those who aren't yet satisfied that the soldiers of the Reich aren't the supermen they're cracked up to be, First Sgt. Harlen L. Buzzard of Marlinton, an artilleryman in an armored battalion attached to the Third "Marne" Division, has this one to tell:

"When we stripped a German who had surrendered to us of the equipment we knew he wasn't allowed to keep, he sat down and actually had a fit. First, he began tearing out his hair, and then he sat there with his hands to his face, just moaning to himself."

"He certainly presented himself to us as a fine example of the soldier who ravaged Europe. Only I guess, it was a little different when he had the gun," observed Buzzard pointedly.

Camp Atterbury, Ind.—Pvt. Lacy H. Bryant, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy M. Bryant of Rt. 219 Marlinton, W. Va., has been transferred to Inf. Rtc. Camp Blanding, Fla. for basic training.

A U. S. Army Station Hospital, England:—Doing her part to speed the recovery of the casualties who enter this U. S. Army station hospital in England from the fighting fronts of Europe is Second Lieutenant Lucille Gay Meeks, of Box 13, Stony Bottom, West Virginia, who is in charge of a large orthopedic ward filled with patients evacuated from the Continent. Now in her second year of service overseas, Lieut. Meeks enjoyed a brief reunion with her cousin, Larry Meeks, now in the Navy, in a town near this hospital. Other members of her family include her two brothers, Sergeant Eugene B. Meeks, with the Army in Burma, and Private First Class Jesse Howard Meeks, Jr., with the Marines at Guam. Before entering the Army, Lieut. Meeks received training at McWilliam Hospital, Charleston, and remained there until going into service in March, 1943. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Meeks, and four younger brothers now live at the Stony Bottom address.

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England. The promotion of Thomas E. Pritchard, 19, from the grade of corporal to Sergeant has been announced by Lieutenant Colonel George V. Jumper, Natoma, California, Commander of the 355th bombardment group stationed in England. Sgt. Pritchard is a waist gunner on an eighth air force B-17 flying Fortress. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pritchard, Dunmore, West Virginia. Prior to entering the army air force in September, 1943, he was a farmer. He received his wings at the Las Vegas Field, Nevada, aerial gunnery school in May, 1944.

Cpl. David W. Kershner has returned to Camp Chaffee, Ark., after spending his furlough with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Kershner of Droop, and his wife and his brother Dempsey Kershner, at Camden, N. J.

Sunday, October 15
 Somewhere in England
 Dear Mom, Mom, Dickie and Quain:

I just brushed off Sherron a few lines, so now you all are going to get it again today. Sunday is a day of letter writing and sleeping.

After dinner (I don't want to miss the chicken) I'm going over town, one near here, and go to a pub, try some of their beer, and take in a movie, see what these English movies are like. All I saw in America I never cared go much for. But they have our old U. S. A. Does Hilda think her husband will have to go to the Army? Where is Shelton? When you see Gib and Cleo, tell them I will write. Hope you are all well.

Your friend,
Thomas.

Did you find room to store all my and Bro's clothes? I guess I had more junk than he did. I didn't realize I had so many clothes until I started packing them to send them home.

Well mother I guess this will wind me up, or I should my run me down for this time. I'll write more later. Give the kids and Ronnie my love. I'll see you again tonight now, and a world of love, a most precious darling mother.

Your loving son,
Thomas.

Less Vitamins
Potatoes left over from one meal and reheated the next day lose the vitamin C. When they were held in the refrigerator for 24 hours, only one-half of the ascorbic acid was retained. After storage for 70 hours 4% of the original amount was lost. These losses of ascorbic acid due to holding are greater in potatoes than in some other vegetables.

CALIFORNIA

Oh, come to the land at the western sun. Where every business is over done. Where stores charge freight on goods made here. Ask them why and they think you're queer.

They serve you climate with all your meals. The sun takes down till your back just peels.

The "Annapolis" Club includes the State. From San Diego to the Golden Gate.

The movie stars marry twice a year. Would marry again if the coast was clear.

The grape fruit here is something fine. A mixture of pumpkin and lemon—find.

The cows eat barley instead of hay. And the cream gets mixed with the milky way.

They sell you lots that are made by hand. And make that it is really land.

The view of the ocean is very nice. That is included in the price. As you gaze on the ocean you are filled with emotion.

You will dream that all suckers are not in the ocean. They weigh the sack and then the fruit.

Then weigh again and their fingers to boot. They claim it is wet if it rains once a year.

You get so dry you can't shed a tear. The chickens have mites and the dogs have fleas.

The desert wind blows and makes you sneeze. We shovel sand while you shovel snow.

Just a stand off as far as I know. So tune up your flivver and head for the west.

Where jobs are scarce and the pay is less. To the land of oranges, missions and friars.

Bring all your cash and pretty clothes. When you'll get any more—the Lord only knows.

I'm telling this story, I know it's true. As seen by me with my eyes of blue.

If the Boosters Club ever get this back. They will change my eyes from blue to black.

They ask me to write the truth to a friend. I have done my duty, so this is the end.

Basil O. Sharp is now in the Seventh Army, in France, under General Patch.

Norval Huff is home from Ft. Benning, Georgia, on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Rattie Huff. He is in the infantry.

C. C. Sharp of Frost, has been notified that his son, Berle K. Sharp, who was seriously wounded September 19, in Italy, is better.

FIELD NOTES

So far as I know the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was the first recognized biologist to make record of the fact when the white-tailed Virginia deer disappeared from a given area in America, the panther disappears too; that when the deer are back to a given area in numbers it is not long before the panther puts in his appearance too, though a couple of generations may have passed since they left out. The State of Ohio is bringing back its deer herds in the Portsmouth area, and last year the first hunt in fifty years set its good bucks. Now the panthers are back as shown by the following press release by Hon. James Stuber, of the Division of Conservation:

Reports of "painters" or catamounts in the Theodore Roosevelt Shawnee-Flagg Forest near Portsmouth, Ohio, where Ohio's second deer hunt in 50 years will be held December 4th to 9th still persist. Native guides at a recent meeting at the game preserve stated that sign had been seen and the scream of a "painter" or panther heard in the forest several times, lately. Game protectors stated that something had been tearing up deer in the Flagg hunting area near the game preserve. The guides insist that the animal is not a bobcat but an old time "painter."

At the same time reports are coming from Vanceburg, Lewis county, Kentucky across the Ohio River, of a large wild, catlike animal, brown in color, about six feet in length with a long tail, that has frightened the hill people.

Conservation Officer, Creed Johnson, of Kentucky, over the river from the Ohio deer country has been asked by school authorities to organize a posse to hunt down the varmint. It has been seen near Spy Run School house. Roy Skidmore, a Kentuckian on a Garrison, fired on the animal with a shotgun but never phased it. "It just stuck up its tail and ran," he said. Ohio game protectors say "painters" or catamounts could easily cross the Ohio river from Kentucky and they would be good hunting in the deer country of Ohio.

"Painters" are known as panthers, cougars, pumas, mountain lions or catamounts. They were plentiful in the Scioto valley in pioneer days. The bobcat, a small animal with a stub tail is known to exist in the Ohio deer country. Both painters and bobcats will prey upon deer.

John T. Bear reports an albino deer at the Cranberry glades. It was a small deer, about a yearling and perfectly white.

Report comes of a panther on the Elk Mountain and head of Clover Creek. It has been heard a number of nights above the Mann and Vaughn places. The first snow, the neighbors are fixing to track the varmint up. Deer have been gone from this mountain for many years. They are now back in considerable numbers, and so the panther is back again too.

Water Rates

Water costs in cities of 200,000 or more population average about 92 cents per month for 5,000 gallons, or 67 cents for 3,000 gallons. New York City charges 20.1 cents per 1,000 gallons. Jersey City 12, and Chicago 6.8 cents on quantity bases. Chicago and many other cities have a flat rate or minimum for domestic users. Cleveland charges near-by towns 34 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for water, and Detroit does the same for 21.6 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

N. Y. Subway Started in 1904. The New York City subway system, now the largest in the world, was not inaugurated until 1904.

Ladies' Night

On Thursday night, November 23, the Pocahontas County Board of Trade will hold Ladies' Night at the Methodist church. A big turkey supper about 6:30 o'clock. Aside from light entertainment, there will be a discussion of post war developments by an electrical expert.

Get your reservations in early. Mrs. William McNeill, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Henry, of Bridgeport, W. Va., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McNeill.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beard, of Lewisburg, have received word that their son, Private First Class, Sherman, has completed his training as a bombardier and is sailing as the USS. They have received word from him during the past two weeks.

DEATHS

Mr. George W. Camper

Hattie Elizabeth Shoemaker, daughter of William and Mary Allen Shoemaker, was born October 23, 1878, at Buckhannon, Court House, Virginia, and departed this life on Friday, November 10, 1944.

On July 7, 1897 she was married to George W. Camper. This union were born nine children, four of whom survive: Mabel Hoggatt and Charles Camper, of Marlinton; Norman, of Warm Springs, Virginia; and Mrs. Pauline Hanft of Buckhannon, one step-daughter, Mrs. Walter Elmore of South Charleston; and nine grandchildren. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. S. P. Camper of Buckhannon, Virginia; three brothers, David, Shoemaker, of Richmond, Va.; Walter, of Harveys, and John, of Gate City, Virginia. She also survived by her step-mother, Mrs. Dora Shoemaker, of Richmond, Virginia; four half-sisters, Mrs. Irene Rigby and Mrs. Grace Stevens, of Richmond; Mrs. Betty Rivers, of Norfolk, and Mrs. Stella Tucker, of Crewe, Virginia.

Funeral services were conducted on Sunday afternoon from the Presbyterian Church by the Rev. J. C. Wool, assisted by the Rev. Fred Oxendole, of the Marlinton Methodist Church. Interment in the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery.

Pall bearers were: S. N. Henkel, Walter Mason, O. E. Welder, Dever, Beecher Meadows and V. M. Fortune. Flower bearers were members of the Anna Price Bible Class, of which she was a member. Members of the Woman's Christian Union and the Royal Neighbors attended in body.

Mrs. Camper was a consistent and tireless worker in her church until the intervention of her affliction and her deeds of kindness and charity will long remain as a cherished memory. She was a life long and charter member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and a loyal supporter of her fraternal lodge, The Royal Neighbors of America.

She lived for forty years and through long association of her noble character we have come to love her dearly. She was a faithful wife, a loving mother and a kind friend; truly she was a good woman and will be greatly missed.

Luther Ames Dilley

Luther Ames Dilley, aged 33 years died November 8, 1944, from injuries received in a coal mine accident at Roanoke, W. Va. His body was buried in the Roanoke cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Sloan, of near Charleston.

The deceased was a son of Mrs. Amanda Dilley, of Clawson, and the late Joseph Dilley. His brothers are Gilbert, Glenn, and a half brother, Rennie Moore.

Mr. Dilley married Miss Ruby Mitchell, of Roanoke. She and their two sons, Norman Lee and Darrel Joe, survive.

At an early age he made a profession of religion and joined the Methodist church. He has ever been an enthusiastic church worker.

The following poem was written by Verna Beck in memory of her brother, Clyde McLaughlin, who died from wounds received on Oct. 14, 1918, in World War One.

FOR US THEY DIE

With waving flags we march today. With muffled drums and slow. To decorate the grassy mounds. Where heroes sleep below.

For us they gave their lives their all. For us these heroes died. And shall we not their memory keep. These heroes who are dead.

So drapes upon the silent grave. The roses red and white. The laurel too of Victory. The poppy gleaming bright.

Can we forget their sacrifice. Can time our feeling blot? And can we pass without a sigh. The sacred, hallowed spot?

The last salute; the solemn taps. Wake echoes far and wide. In gratitude we bow our heads. For us, for us, they died.

The ladies of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church report great success in collecting fruit for the orphanage of the Davis Stuart School and clothing for the destitute of England and other war stricken countries. The collection will go on until next Tuesday. Call Mrs. J. T. Bear or Mrs. W. L. Davis if you have things for the destitute.

ELECTION

County Court was in session on Monday canvassing the Election returns. The totals published for the county ticket were right. There were about three mistakes in the table. At Durbin, Z. S. Smith got 238 votes instead of 233; in the Sheriff returns at Durbin the Democratic vote of Barlow got substituted for the Republican vote and vice versa.

The justices elected were C. W. Aldridge in Levels; C. F. Hull and James Kirkpatrick in Greenbank; John Perry and Hevener Dilley in Hatterville; Elmer Sharp and Neff Morrison in Edray.

Armistice Day

Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11, was observed by Pocahontas Post American Legion with a big supper meeting on Friday night at the Marlinton Presbyterian church, and by Alleghany Post American Legion, by a big supper meeting at the Durbin Methodist church.

Among those from a distance here to attend the funeral of Mrs. G. W. Camper Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elmore, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fisher, Mrs. W. O. Price, of South Charleston; Mrs. Irene Rigby, of Richmond; Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Camper, Misses Katherine and Frances Camper, William Camper, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Camper and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Camper, of Buena Vista, Virginia; Mrs. Theodore Camper and Miss Mildred Whitesell, of Lexington, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Thurmond Shoemaker and children, of Baltimore; Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Shoemaker, of Richmond; Miss Mary Shoemaker, of Elkins; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Shoemaker, of Fenwick, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Cackley, of Roanover; and Mrs. Robert M. Muesel, of Warm Springs, and Corporal Lawrence Burks, of Fort Story, Virginia.

The Milnebank Farm Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. E. L. Jackson on Wednesday Nov. 9.

There were thirteen members present, with Mrs. LaRosa, Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Mary Mann, Asst. agent and four visitors. Mrs. Anna White had charge of devotional. Theme: "Thinking Ahead."

The following new officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. E. W. Ruckman, President; Mrs. Arndt White, Vice-pres.; Bly Dever, Secretary; Mrs. Howard Barlow, Treasurer.

Premium money won at the Fair was presented to the Club by Mrs. Elmer Moore. A letter of congratulations from J. B. McLaughlin was read to the Club for their outstanding work in the past year.

The lesson, "Farm and Home Safety" was presented in a very interesting manner.

The hostess exhibited a very beautiful scarf and rug from Persia that she had received from her son in service, also a Purple Heart awarded to her son.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mary, after which the meeting adjourned.

Baltimore:—While the approaching collapse of Germany brings a natural happiness to all Americans, to Lorena Hannah of 7 Judge Street, Marlinton, it does not mean the war will be over. "I have a husband in the service" she said here today as she worked at her job building bombers in the Glenn L. Martin Company's plant. He has been discharged for physical reasons, and I'm going to keep doing my bit on the home front. I've been working in the Martin plant for many months, and I believe that in war time, if you can't fight—work. It seemed to me, from reading the newspapers and seeing the newswreels, that building bombers is one of the most important jobs to be done, so I came here to do my bit."

She plans to keep on with her present type of work after the war, too, a job which she learned at the Martin Training School, which has turned out thousands of aircrews to take the places of men called into service and to meet expanding production. "It looks like a bright future to me," she said. "If the Air Age is coming, as many believe, I want to be in on it and help shape the future of the world's commercial air routes."

Red Lights

Red lights are far more difficult for enemy planes to see than blue lights, according to the war department.

War Fund Campaign

We seem to be progressing very well. However, our goal is still short of the $3,500.00 asked for. Let's not stop until it is reached. If the collector in your community has not seen you, don't wait for them. See that your contribution goes to them or mail it to one of the county committee. Every person is busy now and gasoline and tires are at a premium.

Anyone having funds in their possession please send them in, so we can see just where we stand in our quota.

Yours for the success of our Campaign. Pocahontas County War Fund Committee.

Big Meeting

On last Friday night a well attended meeting was held in the High School auditorium under the leadership of the public improvement committee of the Woman's Club. The matter presented for much needed bleachers on the high school athletic field. Under the leadership of the club, all public minded persons will be given opportunity to contribute to the building of these greatly needed bleachers for the encouragement of high school athletics and convenience of the public.

Nutrient Tests. Mold is being used for quick plant nutrient tests, to determine whether certain rare elements are necessary to plant growth.

From Our Congressman

Elkins—Representative Jennings Randolph expressed his appreciation to the people of Pocahontas county and Second District for his reelection to Congress. He issued the following statement as he left Elkins for Morgantown and Washington. He spoke in Morgantown at the inauguration of lighting facilities at the Morgantown airport and will go from there to Washington to be present when Congress reconvenes next week following election recess.

"I am genuinely grateful for the expression of continued confidence which the citizens of Pocahontas county and the Second District have given, regardless of party, to my candidacy for reelection. This support carries with it a responsibility on my part to discharge the duties of office with courtesy and loyalty. The weeks and months ahead will be crucial for our country and the world. It shall be my purpose to assist, by every proper means, the legislation and program needed for a speedy end of the war and a foundation for permanent peace."

Adding the cold ashes of the late unpleasantness most every body finds his own idea of what caused the reelection of President Roosevelt and what brought about the defeat of Governor Dewey. Here let's give you two extreme opinions:

I have a lady friend who is pursuing at this time as reading and study courses the historical books of the Old Testament. Particular and timely stress is laid down on the particular phases of Jehovah's dealing with His Chosen People in raising up particular men and women as leaders—in statements in His Hands—to save the people and get things back on a going peace time basis. She put in the quiet remark in this conversation among close acquaintances the outcome of last week's election impressed her; with the fact that our God Almighty still reigns and still concerns Himself with the affairs of His people.

I have a friend who has great material blessings—inherited and acquired. He is a good man according to his light, and his light are not feeble flickering flames either. In fact he is a leader in spiritual Israel. For the past eight years he has been against the government, and blatant about it too. Seems like he had been loaning money to distressed people with property at a fancy rate of interest. About the time certain fat geese were about due for a picking, the national administration stepped in to interfere with free enterprise. For the first time in the history of depression, the credit of the nation was made available to the little fellow at about half the legal rate of interest, to save his home and business. While he feels he has been deprived of his tobacco, and while he protests blatantly, my wealthy friend is trying to beat up with real christian fortitude, for he is strong in the belief that a continuance of the present administration is direct punishment sent upon for the sins of the people.

Talking about being against the government, the past twelve years have seen radicalism change over from the rank of the hungry to the rank of the well fed; from those pinched for the necessities of life to those who feel their luxuries have been pinched. To the those radical howls of an over stuffed fat cat are as funny as the protests of a hungry man striving against powers that be for better conditions for his underprivileged children are touching.

Like the old colored man, who always maintained that he once saw the moon change—flip over like a buckwheat cake—I think I have seen the political moon flip over in this matter of radicalism. For instance there is a live stock producer who prospered and was satisfied with a market much lower than the fixed ceiling price. Though proverbially a democrat, he equals against the government like one of his fat pigs stuck under a gate because ceiling prices have prevented an inflationary runaway market; a laboring man, previously a republican, was keeping a satisfied mouth shut but voting a powerful silent ballot in support of the administration which took a beating for maintaining a ceiling price on necessities.

All this might carry the moral that while the rich are ornaments to any political party and count for much, the laboring people multiply more rapidly.

This election appears to prove out the old saying that if a candidate for office receives the full strength of his party, he is elected. If he is strong enough to get all his party support, he is strong enough to attract votes from the opposite party and a majority of independent votes.

There is another old election saying which may have proven out again: When you are losing out in politics there is nothing you can do to help; when you are winning there is no can do that will hurt.

THINK OF YOUR BLESSINGS

Don't blot, blast or beef because you can't get all the meat, sugar, fruit, butter, or fresh vegetables you want. Moreover don't speak of it as a sacrifice. That word "sacrifice" has taken on a new meaning. It is used correctly now in speaking of the boys on the front lines, but erroneously when applied to the little inconveniences we meet in daily life at home.

You walk to business ten blocks over smooth pavements because of gasoline rationing. You should be reminded that your legs were given to you so that you wouldn't have to go on all four. Every time you take a step think of the boy in service walking thirty miles a day through jungles or over rough paths.

Be grateful about having to carry some ten pounds of groceries to make a good dinner. The boy at the fire at carries sixty-five pounds of equipment and heavy rifle, "kate a hand-out at which you'd turn up your nose or turn your back."

You go to bed between clean sheets with plenty of covering in keeping with the season while the men fighting for your liberties drop to the ground and burrow into a fox hole like an animal.

You have clean underwear and socks anytime you want a change. He wears his ten, twenty, thirty days or longer.

You get up in the morning and step into a modern bath room to bathe and shave. He gets up to wash his face if there is any water close by, or goes without if the order is to march.

You walk about in safety providing you use reasonable care. He walks in the face of death at every step, knowing that any step may bring him into an unseen, unknown ambush.

You may, if you don't like your boss, quit and tell him to go to. He may not like his superior officer, but he can't quit and tell the officer what he thinks of him, unless he wants punishment or insubordination—or possibly face a firing squad composed of his own buddies should his officer justify such radical punishment.

His not to reason why.

Shut your trap on the "sacrifice" talk, even on the thought of it. None of us at home have been called upon to make any justifying squawk. Most of our sacrifices are imaginary.—Muel or Record.

Tenant Purchase Program

"The tenant purchase program of the Farm Security Administration is serving to prevent wildcat inflation of farm land prices," says R. G. Ellyson, State Director of the FSA in West Virginia. Ellyson declares that in sections where wartime land booms have threatened to develop, the FSA has set an example for sound farm purchases by buying farms only at prices in line with the long-time earning capacity of the farm.

The FSA has developed a method of appraising the earning capacity of farms, based upon the productivity of the land, and normal crop and livestock prices in each county. A Committee of three local farmers uses this appraisal report and their own knowledge of local farming conditions in determining the amount of loan to be recommended on each farm. Through the use of this Committee and its appraisal system, Ellyson says, the FSA has been able to keep its loans sound and protect the future welfare of its borrowers.

"Farmers who buy land on the basis of today's crop and livestock prices," Ellyson points out, "may find themselves unable to make their mortgage payments when crop and livestock prices return to a normal level. In its administration of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, the FSA has consistently refused to finance anybody in the purchase of farms at speculative prices. Unless a farm has a dollar of earning capacity for every dollar of investment, we won't make a loan. Neither will we contribute to inflation by bidding up farm values."

The State FSA Director reports that in West Virginia, the farms purchased with FSA loans during the past fiscal year were bought at an average of $38. per acre compared with $34 in 1940-41 and 1941 and 42, and $39 in 1937-38. He quotes figures showing the average price per acre of farm land for the United States as a whole was 27 percent higher by November, 1943, than in the 1935-39 period. The farms last year had approximately the same earning capacity as those purchased in former years.

"The FSA does not want to disappoint families who desire to become farm owners," says Ellyson, "but if the price of a farm is above the level of the farm's earning capacity, we simply will not make the loan. We are not going to intentionally put a farm family 'in the hole' with a farm that will not pay for itself over a period of years." He points out that during the past fiscal year, the FSA had turned back to the Federal Treasury about one-third of the funds that had been allocated to West Virginia for financing farm purchases for tenant farmers who are unable to finance a farm purchase in any other way.

Ellyson declares that there were about twenty applicants for every one of the loans that were made last year, and that some of the applicants who had been approved for a farm purchase loan could not become farm owners because they were unable to find farms at prices in line with earning capacity of the land. "A total of 44 farm purchase loans were made last year in the state," he reports, "compared to 34 in 1940-41; 115 in 1941-42; and 70 in 1942-43." He reports that farm purchase loans will continue to be made to eligible tenant farmers who can locate farms that are sound investment according to FSA's standards and agree to the belief that the FSA will be able to help at least as many tenant farmers to farm ownership this year as last. This is a good time for tenants to buy farms if the price is based on long-range earning power," he says, "and I have instructed our County Commissioners to be on the alert for farms available on these terms."

Pocahontas county has three Tenant-Purchase farms now in operation and another farm in the process of purchase. The new owner will take possession this month, says Orin J. Beard, FSA Supervisor for Pocahontas Co.

HOW MANY ANSWERS TO THIS AD?

Obviously, the only servant who will do so much for so little these days is electricity.

We're glad that electricity is able to work around the clock in war plants and still stay on the job in your home. We're proud that you pay low pre-war wages for its services!

That's news in wartime. It's possible only because of sound business management—and because your friends and neighbors in this company know their business.

Army Show Coming to County! Friday, December 1st, at the Court House

An Army Unit Coming for its Part in Promoting Investments in the Sixth War Loan

The County War Loan Committee
Invites All to See this Army
Unit Demonstrate

Pocahontas County is one of 24 West Virginia counties which will be visited during the sale of the Sixth War Loan, now on by a United States Army Show. The date is Friday, December 1st, and the place is the County Seat, Marlinton, at the Court House.

The unit will consist of a commanding officer, a cook, five army drivers, and two convalescent soldiers, fresh from the invasion of France and the all out offensive which is now at the borders of Germany and beyond. These "Combat Joe's"—heroes to us—will put punch in the program.

This unit will carry a field kitchen, with Army Cook, Army "C" rations and Army mess kits. C ration meals will be served in Army combat style at a cost of 25 cents each.

The equipment carried by this unit will be one 37 mm anti-tank gun, with gun crew and blank ammunition; one amphibian "Duck", one jeep, one artillery repair truck, one mobile field kitchen unit, one personnel carrier half truck.

The 37 mm anti-tank gun salutes are limited, but any one buying a really big bond will be entitled to a salute; $500 or a $1000 E-bond, say.

This Army show will spend the night of November 29 at Lewisburg, so it will be "safe to announce that it will be set up and ready to receive company by early afternoon. Then they will give another show at night.

The County War Sales Committee, headed by Senator Fred Allen, urges every one to stop long enough to visit this Army show in order to get some first hand idea of the way the hundreds and hundreds of our County boys are under going and what they are working with and how; to hear report of convalescent soldiers back from the offensive from which we are all in hopes will win the war. See what and how our boys are doing, and then supply them with what they must have by liberally investing in War Bonds.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Cordial Paul Joe Callahan, stationed at Camp Ellis, Indiana, attached to the Medical Corps, was home recently on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Edith Callahan, of near Board.

Lieutenant Emory H. Adkison, Jr., of the Army Air Corps, stationed at Macon, Georgia, has been promoted to Captain. He has been in the service over five years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Adkison, of Marlinton, and graduated from Marlinton High School in 1937. His brother, Preston, is serving with the Navy, in the Pacific, and a brother-in-law, Ted Martin, recently left the States for overseas service.

Corporal Frank Doyle Kincaid, of the Army Air Corps, stationed at Deming, New Mexico, returned to camp on Tuesday after two weeks furlough with his mother, Mrs. J. H. Doyle, at Huntersville.

Mrs. Vernon Ware of Cloverlick, has received word that her brother, Private First Class George W. Ray has been missing in action since October 18th.

Mrs. Estie Brown has received word that her husband, Private Grady W. Brown has landed somewhere in England. Mr. Brown has been in the service seven months. He is in the Infantry.

Corporal and Mrs. Norman Dilley, have returned to Lincoln, Nebraska, after spending a week visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gilmore.

Mrs. Ruth Gilmore Elliott has received a letter from her husband, Private Ralph W. Elliott, saying he had landed safely in France.

Walter Rhodes, of the Navy, was home over the weekend with his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rhodes.

Ensign Melbourne Shinaberry of the United States Navy, is home this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shinaberry, of Cass. He entered the service July 15, and he has just completed training at New London, Connecticut. He will report to Norfolk, Virginia, on November 29. Ensign Shinaberry is an experienced steam ship man having sailed the Great Lakes for four seasons.

Sixth War Loan

The Sixth War Loan opened on Monday November 20. The asking from Pocahontas is $143,000. This investment is divided, with $100,000 from individuals and $43,000 from corporations. Then the investment by individuals is divided between $74,000 in "E" bonds, and $26,000 in "F" and "G" bonds. The E bond is for the people of moderate means, ranging from a face value of $25. up, with a limit of $5,000 in any one year to any one person. The purchase price of E Bonds is three fourths of the face value; $18.75 for $25; $37.50 for $50 and $75 for $100. These are payable at full face value in ten years. If case of necessity, these bonds can be cashed in at banks at any time.

With patriotism running at high pitch, with every family represented in the armed forces, with the war finally going our way, with money never so plentiful, with such a large percentage of our people, it would seem natural that this Sixth War Loan would be the easiest of all to place with investors.

However, it is expected that the sixth war loan is going to be the hardest one of all to place for the simple reason that the average American feels that the end of the war is in sight, and he is just naturally going to ease off a bit; to get ready to blow himself for many things peace will flood the market which war deprived him of.

This is truly simple. While the boys are still in the army, there can be no slackening off in supplying them with the thousands and one things they must have to fight with and exist on.

Our County Committee is headed by Senator Fred Allen, and every effort is being made to bring home to our people the importance of backing our army with the investment of every dollar asked for.

Headquarters 325th Glider Infantry, A.P.O. 460, care of Postmaster, New York City, N. Y. Mr. George H. Hefner, Route 1, Marlinton, W. Va. Dear Mr. Hefner:

Please accept the heartfelt condolences of the regiment for the loss of your son, Private First Class Andy C. Hefner, 15076415. He gave his life for his loved ones and his country. No greater sacrifice can a man give for a more noble cause.

His regiment is proud to have had him as one of its members. His name will be carried through history as a true and loyal soldier of outstanding example; as a real and true citizen of our great United States.

While it is well known you keenly feel his loss you may rest assured his regiment and country will see that he did not uselessly sacrifice his life.

With the warmest personal regards of the entire regiment, I beg to remain,
Very sincerely yours,
Colonel Harry L. Lewis,
325th Glider Infantry,
Commanding.

Odie Clarkson, of the Sea Bee, is back at Pearl Harbor from the South Pacific.

Ensign Thomas King, after 3 months on a submarine in the Pacific, he was now safe in port.

Bue Smith, of the Navy, is now on Leyte, in the Philippines.

Private George B. Cook, of the Army, stationed in Florida, his wife and two children; and Charles H. Cook, of the Navy, with two years service in the South Pacific, and their sister, Mrs. John McGuffin, of Covington, Virginia, were the dinner guests Friday at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Allen near Hillsboro.

The War Department announced a few days ago that Private First Class James H. Weber, son of Mr. Harry H. Weber, of Hillsboro, had been killed in the European theater.

An Eighth Air Force member Station, England, Sergeant James O. Crowley, of Green Bank, West Virginia, was awarded a D-17 Flying Cross for his outstanding achievement while participating in Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on vital German industrial targets and the Nazi air fields, supply dumps, and gun emplacements in support of advances by Allied ground forces on the Continent. The decoration was made by Colonel Karl Truesdell, Jr., of Washington, D. C., a group commander.

Sergeant Crowley is a member of the Fortran group, which was the first American bombing attack on targets in Germany, and which was cited by the War Department for its outstanding achievement in the air. He was shot down on October 19, 1943. As a member of the distinguished 8th Bombardment Division, the group also shared in a Presidential citation given the entire division for its historic England-Africa shuttle bombing of an important Messerschmitt fighter plant at Regensburg, Germany, in August of 1943.

The sergeant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell O. Crowley, of Green Bank, West Virginia.

With the Fifth Army, Major General Jack H. Ray, serving Machine operator, of Mill Point, West Virginia, is a member of the 999th Quartermaster Service Company, one of the companies which in 11 months have reclaimed and repaired 15,375 worth of equipment to be put back in use by Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army in Italy.

The dollars and cents do not weigh the value of a soldier's space and time saved in a war year immediately to the front instead of sending him to the States for it. Of an urgent need for specific things that otherwise would be a waste for many weeks, if not months of hours by a soldier.

The 39th was activated at Vancouver Barracks, Washington, in January, 1943, landed in North Africa in September, and began serving in Italy in November. 300 coats are returned to service each day, 40 to 50 fire units and 60 cooking ranges. In a month 500 type writers and other business machines are repaired. There are traveling shoe repair units and a roving sterilization and bath unit. The latter organization meets combat troops close to the front and provides bathing facilities and complete change of clothing, including shoes.

Corporal Ray's grandmother, Mrs. Rosie Ray, lives at Mill Point, West Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Rader, of Arbovale, have received word that their son, Ralph Rader, F1-C (MOMM) has landed safely in North Africa. Ralph reports meeting his good friend, Jamie Sheets, also from Arbovale, there.

An Air Service Command Depot in England—Private Jacob W. Fertig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fertig, of Cloverlick, West Virginia, has won high commendation for helping to shatter world's records repairing aircraft at this Air Service Command depot.

He and his fellow mechanics sent back into action the highest number of battle damaged craft since Air Service Command began operations in England. "A knockout blow against Germany," was the way his Commanding General, Brigadier General Isaac W. Ott, described the contribution of Private Fertig, whose extra effort makes it possible to maintain a constant air cover over allied armies on the Continent.

Before entering the Air Forces in 1943 he was employed as a truck driver by the Keplers Lumber Company, at Daily, West Virginia. Private Fertig attended Amarilla Tech School in Amarilla, Texas.

Mrs. Sadie Townsend, of Hillsboro, sends in the following letter from her son, William:

France, October 22, 1944. Hi Mom! Well, just look where I am now. I do not think I am going to like it any too well over here, but I don't know yet.

Well, Mom, I had a pretty nice trip over. Got pretty sick a couple of times as we had some pretty rough weather. Another one was that our battalion was the one to pull all the K.F. out of error. I was lucky enough to get a good job any way. I had to work at night but I ate all the time and I gained five pounds at least.

Hi Mom! How is everyone at home by now? Fine I hope. I am O. K. myself. I have not written for the last couple of days so thought maybe I had better scribble a few lines now.

Well, Mom, I am still wondering how long I will be here. I have not heard any news for a few days so I don't know how it is going.

Sag, Mom, can you have the Times sent to me directly from town. I sure would like to get it. I also need a pair of good driving gloves if you can find a pair of them; wool lined if possible. Well answer real soon.

Lots of love, Bill.

J. F. Kirkpatrick, R. M. 3C, writes from New Guinea under date of November 8, '44.

Dear Friend Cal: I pulled back into New Guinea a short time ago and found that I had five copies of The Times in the mail. They were all dated before August 19, but I was really glad to receive them.

I understand my "kid" brother is now working in The Times Office. Some "rot" that guy. Let's just hope the ambition lasts.

I read a letter in The Times from my brother-in-law, Earl M. Sharp. Seems to me he is trying to make an impression now so he can run for game commissioner, or something in that category later. Maybe if I make him sore he will write me too.

I sure would love to get a look at some of that game there myself; that is with one eye closed. We do quite a bit of hunting here though. The results are not estimable, however.

The letters from different fellows, and poems that I knew really stirred home. Too bad we can't have something where we can get some of that stuff.

Life around here has been rather unsettled lately, for a few of us at least. I have yet to operate on the same ship twice.

I weathered my first typhoon the last part of the second week of October. I only knew what I had read about them, and I had the conception that they lasted only two or three hours. This one lasted three days and nights. At the time I was aboard a "tin can" and I often wondered if I was taking submarine or flight training. We all did ok though. I was with a very "salty" crew and did not see any one seasick. However, the best are not immune to sea sickness.

I would never be able to give you the proper understanding of New Guinea. I saw here the first time I saw the place and as far as I can tell, it is rather corrupt. I never go ashore for amusement. The general "scuttle but" (gossip) among the guys here, is that the place is going to be entirely evacuated after the war, and the few Japs that weather the storm are to be isolated here for punishment. That is just to give you an idea of how well some guys like it.

I would love to write more but who am I to give news to a newspaper man?

A Pal,
Jas. F. Kirkpatrick.

Sergeant Robert A. Bratton writes to his mother, Mrs. W. A. Bratton, that he is now in France and he adds the personal note that his outfit went forward so fast the field kitchens were left behind, and he experienced hunger for a while.

Technical Sergeant Joe W. Riley, of the United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Riley, of Arbovale, who has been serving in the Pacific area for over two years, and is spending a 30 day furlough at home, visited Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rider, of Huntersville this weekend.

Corporal Clyde Poore is home on a 30 day furlough from the Army. He served in the Aleutians twenty-seven months.

Corporal Roscoe H. Dilley, of the Engineers, recently wrote his father, Harper Dilley that he was now in France; that he had received a late copy of the Times; that it was in his pocket as he crossed over into Germany.

FIELD NOTES

The higher grounds, above 3500 feet elevation—have been covered with snow since last Tuesday. On Sunday additional snow fell. This melted on low ground, but added several inches to that lying on the mountains. Tuesday saw a continuance of rough, snowy weather in these parts.

A hunter got himself one big wildcat, over on Cranberry last Monday. He was sitting on a cliff watching out for wild turkeys. He heard a stick break and soon a big bay lynx came along; probably looking for wild turkeys too. A well placed shot put the game eater out of business.

Looking up wild cats in the wild animal reference book, I came upon the statement that some people think that both Canada lynx—catamount—and the bay lynx—wild cat—make good eating meat.

This reminded me of a big friend, who kept books near the last year ago for the trip home he was delayed in getting back to camp, and he stopped for the night at the cabin of a settler down about the Three Forks of the Williams. The horse was well taken care of, and for supper the man enjoyed about the best tasted wild meat he had ever eaten. Next morning there was plenty of the same, and it was just as good or better than it was for supper. With proper consideration for the feelings of his host, he begged leave to ask what might be the kind of meat he had enjoyed so much. The reply came disconcertingly direct: "Wildcat, Mister, Wildcat!"

Henry M. Warren of Buckeye, inspects track of the Marlinton section of the Greenbrier Division of the C. & O. The other day he noticed quite a good deal of fresh mud in the slough in the Buckley lower bottom fields. He figured that muskrat rats must be plentiful to stir up mud like that, and he determined to look a bit closer the first day he had a little extra time. The far season is here and the price of fur is good. The other day he got around to checking up on the slough. To his surprise he found that a colony of beaver had moved in; had built a lodge, and cut a lot of wood for winter food.

John T. Bear saw a young albino deer on Cranberry near the Glades one day last week. In the old days, a white deer would be reported in these woods about once in a long life time. I remember hearing of one down in the Hills Creek country more than fifty years ago. The day before the big snow back in December 1891, the late W. B. Hill tracked this white deer into the fallen timber of the Cherry River country. Since the restocking of deer from Michigan, there is report of a white deer almost every year and every now and then one is killed.

CORNERSTONE OF AMERICAN INITIATIVE

Those pilgrims brought with them a love of freedom and a spirit of initiative that have been passed down to our own generation; and for almost two-and-a-quarter centuries, free enterprise, backed by this force, has proved its worth. Free enterprise and free chartered banking have long gone forward together. They will go even further. Business and banks are now joining hands that will result in new, new and improved products and a new standard of American living.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, NOV. 23, 1944

Mr. Cal Price, Editor,

Dear Sir: I believe the mystery of Mr. Jim Workman's "panther" has been solved. On Saturday night my husband caught in a steel trap a 29 pound female wildcat which had killed a large buck fawn, at the Cook place on the J. H. Perry Ranch.

about a mile from the old Coulter place where Mr. Workman found the deer the "panther" had killed.

The cat had evidently killed its prey by clawing the animal out, as there were no marks on throat or neck.

The fawn was found by Mr. Taylor, game protector, who, with his wife, camp from time to time at the Cook place.

Mr. Taylor had heard a scream one night this fall, which she firmly believed to be a panther and she was afraid for her husband to go to the woods alone.

Mr. Osborne, of Huntington, while a guest of the Taylors, said what he thought was a panther, followed him almost back to camp one day when he was out hunting fish bait.

My husband and small daughter also heard a scream while at the Webb place sheep hunting this fall. However, my husband has claimed all the time that there are no panthers in these woods, and that a wild cat can kill a fairly good size deer. I think we have the proof now that the alleged panther is none other than the wild cat, and there are more in this wooded territory, which is the natural habitat of pheasant, rabbit, wild turkey and deer.

What do you think Mr. Price? Very truly yours,

Wm. E. Perry,
Alvora, W. Va.

While the books say the wild cat—bay lynx—does kill fawns and small deer, doubt is expressed that it is able to kill a big deer. However the book says "it is very clever in unearthing deer, sheep and pigs which the cougar (panther) has hidden away for future consumption." Having once been in on the kill of a bay lynx which weighed forty-five pounds, I have always believed the reports about wild cats stalking deer in the snow; jumping on the back of a big deer and riding him to his death; clawing out his vitals. I have heard of wild cats being raked off on such a buck busting ride under low hanging limbs. I have heard of a big wild cat being killed by such a low hanging limb. In such cases signs in the snow showed it to be wild cats attacking the deer.

However, I think it can be put down that it is the unusual when wild cats gets anything larger than a very small deer. Otherwise, with wild cats literally by the hundreds in our woods, the deer herds would be going back instead of rapidly increasing in number.

As for the wild cats bunting scream, while wild apianity, it has not the fierce shivery volume of the scream of the panther. It has been described as a low sort of growling, followed by sudden quick repeated caterwaul.

Many years ago, the late William Kelly came upon the carcass of a deer on Browns Mountain, killed by a panther. Wild cats had uncovered it, and were feeding upon it. He stalked down what was left under a log and set traps. Before the winter was over, he caught no less than half dozen wild cats from this one bait.

Jim Workman is too good a woodsman to be wrong in his thinking of the deer; the deer he found were too many and too big for the wild cat to have killed. The panthers had been cornered by the traps, and, yes, they did make a noise. Then, too, panthers have been actually seen by good men and true in these parts of late years. In one instance by a party of five or six men.

My reference book on animals is about twenty years old. In speaking about the place panthers may be found, this authority says: "Hardy and tenacious, capable of adapting themselves to all conditions of climate, good foragers and clever thieves, they have not entirely given way in the West Virginia and Kentucky Mountains and in the woods of Maine."

Brown Miller reports finding a fine big buck deer in the woods down and out from five wounds from a 22 rifle. He mercifully put the poor deer out of its misery; took the fine antlers and reported to the game protector.

They had me all stirred up the other late afternoon over a big wild goose squating on a rock in Greenbrier River a few hundred feet below the Marlinton bridge. It was good gray dusk before I could conveniently get over to see about the visitor. It was one big old gray goose all right, but even in the falling light it looked totally domesticated to me. I called "chickie," and the goose talked back, waved its wings, but did not budge from the rock it had picked for its night's resting place.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Mabel Thomas of Baltimore, formerly of Cass, sends this letter from her son Ray, who is serving in the U. S. Army in New Guinea.

New Guinea, October 28, 1944.

Dear Mom:

I got five letters from you today and two from Allen. I have written very often to you to keep in touch with me. I am getting along as well as could be expected and am still working down at the docks, but looking for something else better than that and not the weather, although it is pretty hot here. I hope you don't stay up at Baltimore, I want you to stay at home so you can get my letters. Mom here is a word from your son I found in a book so I will write it to you:

A Prayer For Mother

Lord Jesus, Thou hast known a mother's love and tender care, and thou wilt hear while for my own mother dear I make this Sabbath prayer. Protect her life; I pray, who gave the gift of life to me; and may she know from day to day, the deepening glow of joy that comes from Thee. I cannot pay my debt for all that she has given; but Thee, O Lord, will not forget her due reward. Bless her in earth and in heaven. Amen.

Here is another one I found coming over on the boat. Cling to your dreams, For tides are ever turning There will be fairer, sweeter days than this, Keep in your eyes a light that goes on burning, Keep in your heart the promise of a kiss, Of in the East the sun breaks through the gray; He will come home to share that brighter day. Your loving son, Ray.

Mrs. W. A. Sage of Slaty Fork sends the following letter from her son, somewhere in Italy.

Dearest Mom:

I will try and answer your letter I received today. I got three letters from you. I was glad to hear from you. It was about a month since I heard from you. I guess it was a long time hearing from me.

Now, Mom I just got back from being on Liberty. I do not know whether you can read this or not, for I had a few doubts. I guess everyone is coming in from work about now.

I got a letter from Eugene Ducky today, saying that he was in. I hope he has a good time for he deserves a leave. Mom, I am glad everyone is OK. Tell Dad not to work too hard, and tell Ray and Russell hello for me. I guess everyone had a good time while Keith was in. Boys, I am sure getting tired of this place. This makes two times I have been here and it gets pretty old after awhile.

Well, Mom, I guess this is about all for this time. I sure was glad to hear from you and some. Write often and tell everyone hello for me. I guess I will go to bed now and answer the rest of my letters tomorrow. Don't worry. Love,

Cecil

With the American (spelling correct) Division somewhere in the South Pacific. For his performance of duty in action against the enemy in Bougainville, Pfc. Henry M. Vaughan, Books, Maryland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vaughan, Hillsboro, West Virginia, has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge.

Vaughan, a rifleman, is with a veteran infantry regiment of the American (spelling correct) Division. As the first army unit to engage the Japanese offensively, the division fought on Guadalcanal until the island was secured in February, 1943.

On Bougainville, Vaughan's regiment distinguished itself in the bloody battle of Hill 960 where 541 Japs were killed in a fanatical attack on the American perimeter.

Commanded by Major General Robert B. McClure, of Palo Alto, California, the "America" is the only combat division in the United States Army having a name instead of a number. Overseas seven months, Vaughan also holds the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with one battle star.

Clyde D. Griffin, petty officer, First Class Gunner's Mate, on the United States Destroyer, Hillery, sends his mother, Mrs. Anna M. Griffin, of Dunmore, the following news dispatches:

Rome—The U. S. Destroyer Hillery P. Jones wiped out a fleet of small vessels which been carrying German supplies along the Italian Riviera Coast. In an attack upon fortified Porto Maurizio eight small craft were sunk or damaged, an ammunition dump was hit and exploded, an oil storage tank was set afire, and an enemy battery silenced.

Cpl. Emerson Paul Harris, of South Pacific area, sends this poem:

TO MY PALS WHO STAYED AT HOME

I'm pulling all my punches, I've swung my week away, I think it's been two months at least,

Since last I drew my pay, I'm tired of being a dog face, So help me God, I am; Of eating moulded biscuits, with Margarine or Spam.

Or fighting dirty, stinking Japs In the bushes on my own, When I think of dear old America And my PALS who stayed at home.

I can see them walking down the Streets, (their chest puffed out with Pride.) And hear them talking to the Gals, as they save their precious hides.

While I am here in — not safe to show my head, For fear some lurking Jap might fill it full of lead. But when I told the Folks back home,

That I'd volunteer to fight, They said, "God bless you Son, and return you home alright." They called me a Chocolate soldier And a twenty one dollar tourist too.

They said you will have a picnic, across the Ocean's foam. But they made damn sure they didn't go.

They preferred to stay at home. You know those Guys were not bad shots. When they trailed a rabbit track But, hell, there ain't no danger, see!

For rabbits don't shoot back. They shine among the "Stay at Home" And brag of our United States. But dance halls, bars and pool rooms

Is where they meet their fate. A one stick is their rifle, and their beer is rich with foam, But they have no bullets there to dodge.

MY PALS WHO STAYED AT HOME

So I'll mount my Post with my Rifle, and buckle my belt about,

I'll only a common "dog-face" But I'll see this damn thing out. If a bullet's got my number, I'll just die without a moan. But I want to dedicate this

TO MY PALS WHO STAYED AT HOME

Charles Trainer, son of Mr. & Mrs. A. C. Trainer, of Anthony's Creek, sends the following poem. He is serving in New Guinea, S. P.

A SINGING TALK WITH JESUS

When you're tired and weary And the way looks sorta dim, Jesus can brighten up the way. By a little talk with him. So don't give up my brother, or sweetheart dear

For Jesus stands to comfort And strengthen all the way. So when your heart seems sorta heavy

And the load seems hard to bear, Just fall upon your knees For He is always there;

Then He'll send you an rejoicing Filled with His own goodness Love.

Telling the grand "Old Story" Till He calls you home above.

Up there with him forever In a land so free from care With the Saints gone on before you.

Waiting, watching over them With Him to dwell forever In a land so pure and bright No need for electric or candle For Jesus is the Light.

CONOCO

MOTOR OIL

But now 'days it gets air

War forced closest attention to every motoring detail. And this fine habit of thoughtfulness has grown on car owners.

You'd only be testing human kindness by changing to a half-flat spare and setting out for the next air boss. Where a forgetful man actually tries it, a good Samaritan generally drives up alongside, pointing a helpful warning. America has become as thoughtful as all that toward her indispensable cars. And of all the examples of car-care the greatest single one you can follow is to have your engine OIL-PLATED. In that way—by changing to Conoco N⁶ motor oil for Winter—by changing to this patented oil that OIL-PLATES—you'll give your engine's insides the 5th degree of protection from acid corrosion.

All engine combustion creates corrosive acids. They're bad enough even when "exhaled" fairly well, but from now on they won't be! Winter's extra-low mileage and cool operation mean acids at their worst. Patented Conoco N⁶ oil, however... thanks to costly pioneer research... brings the special ingredient whose magnet-like action OIL-PLATES the fine inner engine finish, to cope with corrosion. Attached as closely as protective chrome plating could be, the internal OIL-PLATING keeps up its steadiest possible hindrance to direct contact between acids and engine parts... Then down go the chances of corrosion, just as soon as you change to popular-priced N⁶ oil for Winter, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Private First Class and Mrs. Shan Ross left Monday for Florence Army Air Base, Florence, South Carolina, after spending 15 days with his mother, Mrs. R. L. Ross, and home folks. Robert M. Ross, Fort Belvoir, Virginia, also visited his folks at that time. It was the first time the brothers had met in three and a half years.

Mrs. Edj Simmons, of Durbin, sends in the following letter from her brother, Private Paul Jackson, of the Army Air Corps, also a newspaper clipping concerning him:

Kansas City, Kansas

November 22, 1944.

Dear Martha:
I will answer your letter received a few days ago and sure was glad to hear from you. It is pretty cold here; it snowed a little here yesterday.

I have passed my physical examination to fly. I will get more money for flying. Tomorrow I am going on a flight to Omaha, Nebraska, and St. Paul, Minnesota, and back. I have been issued some flying suits.

How is Ed by now? I have not heard from Dennis for a long time. When have you been over home or to Marlinton?

Mother sent me $35.00 last Saturday and Sunday I lost my pocketbook and all the money and my drivers license.

I was so sorry to hear of Mrs. Campbell's death as I always thought she was a wonderful woman. Well, Martha, I will close, so answer soon and a long letter.

Paul.

Dear Oak:
Well, not often do you hear of a county paper all over the world. By now I guess the bears are helping you battle the Conservation Commission, and I would almost be tempted to help you from some where in Belgium. If I would have had lamp stew for supper I probably would be helping to conserve them. But the tables were BEAR. I can see you do not quite get the object of the five day season. You had never thought of the additional bear it is going to take after we all get back home for target practice. These Infantry boys would not think of shooting at one less

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Dunbrack have received word from the War Department that their son, Cred Theodore Dunbrack, Seaman Second Class, had been wounded on October 24, while serving somewhere in the South Pacific.

Tech. Sergeant Edward Keith Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hudson, of Greenville, has arrived safely in France.

Artie Bay Gabbert, S. I. C., who was at his home at Durbin on leave for Thanksgiving after a trip to France, arrived safely in New York Saturday for reassignment to duty.

Charles C. Carr, S. I. C., of the United States Navy, is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carr. Charles has been in service for sixteen months with thirteen months of that time in foreign service.

A telegram has been received from Graham Tallman, of the Sea Bees, that he had arrived in California, on his way to his home at Cass after serving twenty seven months in the South Pacific.

Army Camping

On Friday, December 1, a unit of the United States Army will visit Marlinton for a demonstration of army life and procedure in the interest of Sixth War Loan Bonds.

The unit consist of a command officer, cook, five drivers and two convalescent soldiers, fresh from the invasion of France.

The equipment carried will be a 37-mm anti-tank gun, with crew and blank ammunition; "Duck", jeep, repair truck, field kitchen, etc.

The unit will spend Thursday night in Lewisburg, arriving in Marlinton in time to set for business at the Court House at noon. Shows afternoon and night at 8 o'clock.

Everyone is urged to stop long enough to visit this army show either afternoon or night.

War Fund

If you have not been approached for your contribution to the War Fund for the support of the United Service Organizations, at work with and for the Armed Services; why just mail your gift to H. M. Smith, president, or June McElwee treasurer. For some weeks the names of contributors have been crowded out of the county papers but they will be published in time.

Board Of Trade

At the big meeting of the Pocahontas County Board of Trade last week, Harry Cochran was re-elected president and Vergil Beckett, vice president. Frank Johnson proved himself a rare entertainer with his Swedish impersonations. The speaker of the evening was B. E. Smith, Manager of the industrial development division of the West Penn. The good common sense advice of the speaker was for each community to take stock of its resources, and put down on paper what service it was best suited to render the world at large—whether through public works or agriculture.

Some weeks ago Major John McNeil, of the Fifth Army in Italy, was in the City of Florence. Taking his evening parts in the play were Guthrie McClintic and his wife Katherine Cornell. It will be remembered that Mr. McClintic is a son of the late Edward H. McClintic of the McClintic Farms on Swago. After the show Major McNeil went back stage and made himself known to a Pocahontas county man. He invited the McClintics to his Eighth Evacuation Hospital for a West Virginia reunion. The next day they turned up with their whole company, and in addition they brought along General Mark Clark, the commanding general of the Italian area.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl VanKeenan had as dinner guests Saturday, Cpl. and Mrs. Esco G. Johnson, stationed at Camp Le Jeune, North Carolina, and Mrs. Jacob Johnson and daughter Jewell. Cpl. Johnson returned to his base Sunday.

Luther G. Hudson, of the Merchant Marines, is now stationed at Long Beach, California, for service in the Pacific.

Boyd W. Dumire, of the U. S. Navy, Seaman First Class was home last week on a seven day leave with his family. He is stationed in California, with six months service in the South Pacific.

Clarence Davis is home from the Navy on short leave with his mother, Mrs. C. R. Davis. He has been service in the Pacific.

Dear season comes in Friday, December 1. The supply of deer is as usual and more so. The prospect for hunters is even better than usual.

Shuman, Gentleman
An American Shuman once told a famous ethnologist, Hale, "White fellows work, not black fellows; black fellows, gentlemen."

Dear Mother & Dad:

Well I just spent a swell day with my brother! I was certainly surprised to see him. I was trying to find out where he was when he just walked in. He had found me without any trouble. We just sat around and talked. And I do mean we had a talk. It was just like old times; he sure looks well, and hasn't changed a bit, only I believe he weighs a little more. I am going over to see him Tuesday for a couple days. I believe we will see each other about once a week while I am here. Did you know that his group was awarded a Presidential citation. He didn't tell me about it until I noticed the ribbon he was wearing.

Mother would you like to send me some Air mail stamps—six cent ones. Air mail is faster than V. mail, but it is hard to get stamps. Also, if you would like to send me a little box you can send me some of my underwear, about two shirts and two shorts, and a couple of my handkerchiefs. You can throw in a couple packages of cigarettes if you want. I hate to ask you, but I sure could use some more underwear. You just can't buy a thing over here. I have received both of your letters and was so glad to get them. Dad, you haven't written for a long time, but I know you have been busy. The next time you go hunting, try to get a couple for me, bear! Mother, I'm glad you had such a nice trip and hope you won't work too hard this winter. Take it easy for awhile and do take of yourself.

There isn't much more news. I had a very nice letter from Harry yesterday. I'll close for this time. Write when you get time and take care of yourself. Love always, Jimmy.

MY TRIP TO W. VA.

The train left St. Louis shortly after four, I was going to West Virginia. A place I had never been before. I had heard of its beautiful scenery, its mountains and valleys of old, and the sunsets in that beautiful state.

Was a thing of beauty, I was told. In a short while my journey was over, and there mid scenes of gold, I saw that beautiful sunset, and these mountains majestic and old.

And as I gazed at those great mountains That seemed to reach the sky, I knew that this was paradise, For a soldier such as I. For you see, there was some one with me; To me more precious than gold, And the love that I have for that someone, Can never in this life be told.

And when this war is over And I settle down for life, I'll come back to West Virginia Just me and that someone—my wife.

Now I will end this poem And help this war to win, So the "Sons of West Virginia" Can come back home again.

And I know that they will be happy To make West Virginia their home, To settle down in contentment, And never again have to roam.

Back The Attack

Some progress in the Sale of Sixth War Loan Bonds to Pocahontas County investors and patriots can be reported. However, the sales are not as fast and furious as the armies are fighting in the German invasion. While we here in Pocahontas have invariably gone over the top in the sales of War Bonds in five previous issues, and invested hundreds of thousands of dollars, the bank deposits and spending money in the pockets of our people have steadily increased all the while. Investing in War Bonds will add its weight in shortening the War; in keeping living expenses in line after the war.

4-A Classification

Way back at the beginning of the war, all men of 45 years and over were put in IV (4) A classification. This has been changed by reducing the age limit so that all men who have reached the age of thirty-eight years are now classified as IV (4) A's. Recently our Pocahontas County Local Board has classified 60 men between the ages of 38 and 45.

U. D. C. MEETS

Pocahontas Chapter U. D. C. met with Mrs. Mary Frances Moore, on Monday night, November 27th with six members and eight visitors present.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Bear. Topic: Tennessee, its Generals and Battles. Music was rendered by Sally, Jane and Sue Rexrode. Peggy Madison and Catherine Wool. These young ladies are music pupils of Mrs. Moore.

Visitors present were Mrs. J. C. Wool and Catherine; Mrs. Edward Rexrode and Sally, Jane and Sue, and Miss Edgar Thomas.

A delicious salad course was served by the hostesses, and the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. P. T. Ward in December in the form of a Christmas party.

Come one and all to singing at Indian Draft, on Sunday night December 3, beginning at 7:30. Special singers are expected from Dunmore.

Woman's Auxiliary of the Marlinton Presbyterian church meets at the church on Thursday night November 30, at 7:30 o'clock.

GALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, NOV. 30, 1944

I am not traveling around these days and nights as much as I used to. So, I had to forego the usual fall trip up Morgantown way to the annual newspaper conference. I had promised to go, but sunders and hindrances intervened at the last minute. One thing was a powerful sore finger. I can tell the world that a printing press can bite the hand which feeds it.

I wanted to be there to see my special friend, Editor W. H. Barger, of Keyser, carry on as our president. I have a weakness for this really good man. Then, too, I wanted to see Kyle McCormick, of Princeton, step up as our president for the coming year. I also wanted to be there to vote for Editor McKeown, of the Eastern Panhandle, for the office of vice-president; thus to put him in line for president. However this was accomplished without my help, and all to the good.

A couple of weeks ago I did take a pleasure trip over to the City of Keyser. The occasion was the big annual meeting of the Board of the Potomac State School, and I got an invite.

This school was established by an act of the legislature of 1901; the present is its forty-third term. It gives two years of college work. It has done and is doing invaluable service in the effort by our State at public education. I am for the legislature increasing its scope of usefulness by making it a full four year college.

I know the time dishonored reply to the suggestion that Potomac State be really set up in the school business: Duplication of effort, another divide in school funds so greatly needed by our State University.

No one in our State is a more enthusiastic booster for our University than I am as far as I go, but the answer to the one is that every State educational institution is in a large measure a local institution. This goes for the University as well as the rest. The point thus feebly and foggily brought out is that many a boy and girl have been and are being helped into the more abundant life by Potomac State who otherwise might never have darkened the door of an institution of higher learning.

As for the money required, a legislature with enough foresight to invest additional State funds in Potomac State would see that the University and the rest of the State schools were adequately provided for.

While there are material returns accompanying and flowing from money invested in schools, my ears are burning yet from parental lectures for presuming to put a monetary value on the culture imparted by schools and colleges. These parents of mine were the products of the highest stage of civilization ever reached by mankind in any stage of its history. I refer to the civilization of this eastern country from the Delaware on the north to the Swames, on the south, so abruptly wrecked from stem to stern by fratricidal war.

Also still ringing in my ears after a generation are the cold, calculating words of a practical New England school man to the effect that his notion of the country, without wealth or regards to national resources, would continue to live off the fat of the land, through buying tribute on the coast of the country, as long as the land was owned by the country people and as long as the country people could be kept in a state of ignorance and superstition.

Potomac State School is located at Marlinton, overlooking the city of Marlinton, the Potomac River, and the Greenbrier Valley. The school is a beautiful building, and the grounds are well kept.

teen acres was the site of the war time fort of New Creek. This land was given to the city by the late Colonel Thomas Davis, then transferred to the State for the use of the school. There are those of us who regret the wrecking of what remained of the old fort for the placing of a new building.

Early in the war the Federal commanders recognized the location of the village of New Creek as affording proper location of a fort to control the advances of Southern troops on Cumberland and points north. Here the New Creek Valley is blocked by a peculiar ridge a couple hundred feet high and perhaps five hundred yards long, which forms the southern boundary of the Potomac bottom lands. The ridge overlooks the city of Keyser on east, and commands the road down New Creek and controls the valley on the river. My recollection is the fort was called Fort Kelley. It was equipped with four twelve pounders, a six pounder and one rifled gun, as well as some field artillery. It was considered a regular Gibraltar, which could hold against any force that could find standing room to be brought against it. An attempt was made to reduce Fort Kelley by batteries placed on nearby mountains, but nothing came of that.

However, late in November, 1864, General Rosser did surprise the place, taking out the artillery, 700 prisoners, 1500 horses, 2000 cattle. The cannon in the fort were spiked and great warehouses burned.

The trip to Keyser was up the Greenbrier and then across Elk Mountain and down the North Fork of the South Branch to the town of Petersburg. This South Branch Valley of the Potomac is easily the choicest piece of flat land I know of anywhere. Away back it was evidently a series of fresh water lakes, connected by flowing streams. The largest of these was from the Fox and Ox Gap just below Petersburg to the bottom of this peculiar lake is the best of all this good valley. The bottom lands by the river are broad and rich, cut down from terraces which now show the effects of a couple of centuries of rather exhaustive farming.

The road we used was the trail early settlers took to come into the Greenbrier Valley; to Kentucky and points west. Our family names and traditions are to a large extent those of the South Branch.

A characteristic of the landscape in the South Branch Valley are the big red brick mansion houses. Somebody tried to tell me that for many of these houses the bricks were made in Old England. This is just a misplaced tradition from Tidewater Virginia. The reason so many old east Virginia mansion houses were made of old world brick was that ships from the mother country sailed west in ballast. Bricks for ballast could be sold for something; while sand and rock could only be discarded.

Passing one old mansion house, the tradition was recalled that a hundred years ago its owner had unobtainable ambition for distinction of owning one even hundred acres. He never could get closer to this goal than ninety-nine. If one was born, an old one would die; if he would buy a new one, another would run off to the north.

Then there was another large slave owner, who, when abolition sentiment began to be fanned, decided to get out of the business by selling his servants. He asked for cash in the form of gold coins—$50,000 in all. He hid the treasure away somewhere; the family always thought out in the Shenandoah Mountains. Before he got ready to tell the family the whereabouts of the treasure, he suffered a painful stroke.

Talking about mansion houses, there is Willow Hall, an estate of the late Mr. James Moore, north of Moorefield. There is a case where the paper on the walls is probably worth more than the rest of the house and part of the farm. It is hand painted rice paper, imported from Europe. Some say England, some say France.

More than two centuries ago, the early settlers found much of the land in this valley cleared. The old Indian fields about Moorefield gave the early name of Old Fields.

Speaking about Moorefield, here is where the South Fork of the South Branch joins the South Branch of the Potomac. Some years since, the National Geographic Society got the bright idea such a name was cumbersome. Official action was taken and the name changed to Moorefield River. The change did not take worth a cent. The local uproar reached to Washington with the result the new name of Moorefield River was dropped and the South Fork of the South Branch restored in all its cumbersome name.

Speaking about uppers, the present time the South Branch is in a state of insurrection and is possibly considering secession over the attempt of the State Conservation Commission to head off the local winter sport of catching the humble snook fish out from under the ice. They take this sport so seriously, a lot of good bass fishing went out of circulation to the general fishing public. Just as a gentle kick in slats in way of reminder that mountaineers feel ever free to play the game as they please and make the rules as they go along. Over on this side of the ridge, we do not take snook fishing seriously, but we do have augh against the Conservation Commission for trying to put the marauding black bear upon the song bird list.

PFACE IS NOT PARTISAN

(From The New York Times)

We can now begin to see that last Tuesday's election was important to ourselves and to the world in far more than the partisan sense. The re-election of President Roosevelt for the fourth term, was, of course, a victory for a man and a party. But the results of the voting spoke for much more than a single man and a single party. They marked, indeed, the taking of a step which the United States failed to take during the miserable struggle after the ending of the First World War. At that time we held aloof from full participation in the affairs of the world. We had been willing to work for liberty in Europe. We were not willing to work for it in the slow and tedious ways of peace. We had made great sacrifice to eliminate a peril to civilization. We had offered lives and treasures to that end. We were not then willing to offer anything what ever to prevent another war. By not being willing to risk our "sovereignty" in working for peace we helped cause the present war. Indeed, it can be said of this war that it was largely brought about by the fear of war.

Now we have made an about face. It is not only that the Democratic party, dedicated to Mr. Roosevelt's international policy, has been maintained in power. The Republican party and Governor Dewey, its candidate and still its leader, have come to acceptance of a broad degree of cooperation with other Powers for peace; to the principles of Dumbarton Oaks; even, in Governor Dewey's own speeches, to acceptance of the policy of giving an American representative on a world security council authority to use an American contingent to prevent or restrain aggression, with out first referring the question to Congress.

It is quite true that significant Republican minorities did not follow Mr. Dewey all the way. If we have a coherent and forthright group of isolationists, they are obviously in the Republican rather than the Democratic party. But the interventionist wing of the party has been strong enough to elect some Senators and some Representatives. There can be no doubt that a considerable portion of the late Wendell Willkie's following voted for President Roosevelt, but no doubt, either, that a considerable portion voted for Governor Dewey in the hope that internationalism could triumph through him as a candidate. The majority of the electorate thought not. But the division between isolationism and internationalism was certainly not a hair line between parties.

The President's international policy, therefore, has to a great extent been accepted by the people. It should follow a long and successful career. In this great adventure, following this great and solemn referendum that President Willkie asked for and failed to get, the nation is very largely united. Let us forget the rancors of the last few weeks, let us draw ranks and go forward with thankful hearts.

The Swage Farm Women's Club met with Mrs. J. L. Howard Friday night with 14 members, five visitors and Mrs. La Rose present. Miss Madeline McNeill presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. L. H. McNeill led the devotion and the lesson on Farm and Home Safety was read by Mrs. La Rose, as the lesson leader, was absent.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Mrs. W. H. Rogers; vice-president, Mrs. M. H. Kellison; secretary-reporter, Miss Madeline McNeill; treasurer, Mrs. Lewis Gay; devotional leader, Miss Glenna Barnes. Lessons and club projects for next year were chosen, also hostesses. The next meeting will be December 22 with Mrs. V. M. Loudmilk. Every member is urged to attend, as we will discuss our club sisters names and select new ones. Gifts will be exchanged. The Club paper was read by Mrs. McNeill. The hostess served a lovely salad for refreshments.

How to conserve eyesight and light!

Eyesight and light are both vital to the war effort. Use them wisely by following these suggestions.

1. Clean lamp bulbs and bowls regularly with a damp cloth. Dry thoroughly before using.
2. Use shades with white linings that reflect light, not absorb it.
3. Keep all lights properly shaded to avoid harmful glare.
4. Arrange furniture so one lamp serves two or more people if necessary.
5. Always turn off lights in unoccupied rooms.

Warm—but not fair!

You've got the house too hot by careless firing of the furnace, so he's trying to heat all outdoors by opening the windows. Through wasteful practices, he isn't being fair to his own family—or to other families using coal. He isn't helping America.

This winter it's vital to conserve coal as never before. This isn't because less coal is being produced. Actually, millions more tons are being mined this year than last—by fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate facilities for hauling coal to your city. But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of wagons, trucks and tires. So be patient with him. Order before you're down to your last shovelful.

And conserve the coal he is able to deliver to you through firing carefully, closing off unused rooms, pulling down shades at night and through other simple precautions. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C&O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

The Army and Navy Boys

Robert Brown of Arborea, received the following letter from James Wright of the Navy:

Nov. 3, 1944.

Dear Robert:

I have written you so often that I am about out of news. I am still okay.

"Well, Brown, I will tell you about my trip to the Philippines. The day we got there, there was plenty of action. We looked in the sky and saw a group of Jap planes and our fighters right on their tails. In a moment Jap planes burst in flames from our fighter planes. The Japs have fast planes, but our planes are better. The Jap planes fell all around us. Gosh, it is a thrill to see those Jap planes fall in flames. When they hit they explode like a bomb! As we were on the beach two Jap planes—Zeros, flew light over our bow. They! they are fast.

About mid-day we left the beach, and went into the bay and anchored. We, of course had all the guns manned. I was strapped in my gun itching to shoot down a Jap plane, when all of a sudden, "roar," went a plane overhead. No one on ship saw it. It dived out of the sun and stayed above the clouds, but he dropped his bomb, aiming it at our ship. I felt my spine crawl as the bomb came falling, but it missed us by one hundred feet. The explosion jarred the ship like heck. Three bombs were aimed at my ship but all missed. As you know the Japs aren't accurate at bombing, but they hit now and then.

The night we left the Philippines for New Guinea, a group of Jap planes came out to sink us. We shot them down like squirrels, but squirrel hunting was never like this. These planes burst in flames in mid air, leaving a trail of smoke and fire, and hit the water where they belong. I fired my old 20 MM several times but I couldn't say I hit one, because there were so many firing. It looked like a rain but anyway the Jap planes fell and that is all that matters.

Now, I am ready to come back to West Va. It's plenty hot here in the Pacific right now. I am in New Guinea, it is a place for rest.

Boy, I had fun at Pearl Harbor. I had a lot of Pictures made with Hula girls. You will laugh when you see them.

Well, you owe me about four letters, so get hot on that pen, and write me soon. Don't think the Japs are to be played with.

A Sailor Pal,

Jesse.

Mrs. W. N. Thomas of Minne-haha Springs, received the following letter from her son, French, who is in Belgium with the First Army. He has been in six foreign countries since Dec. 1942.

Belgium, Oct. 29, 1944.

Dear Mother and All:

Will answer your letter of Oct. 9th, received this afternoon. I was glad to hear from you, as I haven't been getting much mail lately. I am sorry you haven't been feeling so well, and hope you are better by now.

I am well and getting along fine considering the country and etc. You asked if I really was alright and whether I had been in a hospital. No I have never been in a hospital; have only had cold and sore throat two or three times and was in quarters. I suppose my health is very good. I hardly ever feel bad. I got a letter from each of the girls, also a letter from grand-mother and Mildred. They were all very well. They told me of sending Xmas packages to me. I don't suppose I will be able to send you anything except some money for Christmas. I will try and send it so you will get it in time.

I sent a Stars and Stripes paper and a Tank magazine to Dad, about two months ago. Did he ever get it. I hope you will get the package I sent soon.

Well, I am taking things easy now, not having much to do. I may get to go into town soon. I am near a good sized town; have been through several towns here in Belgium. Maybe I can tell you of some of them later. I haven't seen Gordon S. for quite some time. Yes, he is in the 1st Army too; same as I.

I was sorry to hear of the boys you named being wounded; but am glad they were lucky enough to escape with wounds. I sure have seen some horrible wounds and had some experiences since being overseas, but don't you worry about me, I never let anything bother me. The surgical team I am on just does major operations, consisting of abdomen and chest wounds mostly.

You should see me all scrubbed up, with white gown, cap, mask, and gloves on assisting with operations. It is very interesting and I like it very well. We have had our pictures taken by photographers while performing operations a few times. Maybe, I can have some pictures made of our team and send to you sometime.

We have really done some wonderful and life saving work. I have had my hands inside the abdomen and chest of many boys. Also, the chest and abdomen. With the latest blood plasma transfusion, we have been able to save many lives. The medicine and sulfa drugs have been a Godsend in the prevention of infection.

Well I will go on now; just took time out for you. I haven't had any good news lately. I wrote about, for sometime, I have had a few moments of free potatoes.

Well Mom, I have said about all I know for now, so will ring off. I am enclosing a small snapshot of myself. Take care of yourself and write as often as you can. Love to all.

French.

H. R. Elliott of Boyer, sends this letter from his son, S. Sgt. Rufus J. Elliott, who was at the time stationed in England.

Dearest Mother, Dad and All:

I will write you a few lines as it has been about 12 days since I last wrote you, but I just couldn't help that, as I was away for a while up in Scotland, doing a little work and I didn't have a chance to write. So, I hope this finds everyone well at home. I am just fine myself and I had a good time while I was away. I had several letters waiting for me when I returned, but only one from you. I did very well today received five letters. I don't suppose I ever, will get caught up with my writing.

I suppose all of you are very busy these days. Everything looks very good now.

I received four copies of The Times today, but haven't read them yet. Sure was glad to get them too; first ones for a long time. I think I'll close for tonight and will write soon again.

Love to all, June.

Order Of Publication

State of West Virginia
County of Pocahontas ss:
At Rules, held in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on the 8th day of October, 1944, the following order was entered:

A. E. Cooper, who sues for the benefit of himself and all Other Lien Creditors of Belva Mullenax, Olet Mullenax, Bessie Mullenax and Ward Hudson Sheriff, Committee for One J. Mullenax, Convict, Plaintiff vs. In Chancery Belva Mullenax and Others Defendants.

The object of the Cross-Bill filed on behalf of The Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, a Corporation in the above entitled suit, is to foreclose a mortgage given by Olet Mullenax and Belva Florence Mullenax, his wife, to The Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, to secure the payment of a debt in the sum of $1500.00, to have full of the mortgaged property, and to have the funds arising therefrom applied to the discharge of said mortgage debt.

And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the said defendants, Virgil H. Mullenax, Bessie Marie Mullenax, Jack Mullenax, Gladys Mullenax and Jamie Mullenax, are non-residents of this State, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof, and do what is necessary to protect their interests.

It is further ordered that this Order be published in The Pocahontas Times, a newspaper of general circulation of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, for three successive weeks.

J. E. HAMRICK,
Clerk.

Highest Suspension Bridge
The highest suspension bridge in the world spans the canyon of the Arkansas river in Colorado.

Someday, you'll be mighty glad you met one of these Americans!

Maybe it will be a man. Or it may be a woman. Anyway, sometime between Nov. 20th and Dec. 16th, someone is going to come to you and ask you to dig down deep into your pocketbook and come up with some extra cash.

Enough extra cash to buy at least one extra $100 War Bond in the 6th War Loan!

Welcome him—or her. These Victory Volunteers are patriotic Americans, working extra hours, working extra hard—doing a vitally necessary wartime job.

They're doing a job for Uncle Sam—for our fighting men—for you!

They're making it easy for you to do what every one of us at home must do—fight this war to a finish with our dollars.

And they're making it easy for you to do what every one of us wants to do—look after your family's future by laying aside money for that future. War Bonds are the safest, soundest investment in the world today. Every dollar you put into them will come back to you—and bring more dollars with it: Dollars that can help to guarantee a busy, prosperous future for this whole country and everybody in it.

So—when the Victory Volunteer comes, welcome him. Buy that extra $100 Bond. For the day is coming when, both for your country's sake and your own, you'll be mighty glad he came around to you!

And here are 6 more reasons for buying at least an extra $100 War Bond in the 6th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world.
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 at maturity.
3. War Bonds are as convenient as cash—and increase in value to boot!
4. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, a nest egg to fall back on, when you need it.
5. War Bonds help keep down the cost of living.
6. War Bonds will help win the peace by increasing producing power after the war.

Buy at least one extra $100 War Bond Today!

Gay Pyles was a recent visitor in Charleston.

Mrs. J. W. Jones, of Fayetteville, spent a few days recently visiting relatives in Seebert.

Miss Thelma Williams and Mrs. Franklin Hibbert, of Rainelle, were the weekend guests of Miss Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Williams.

R. J. Hutchison of Huntington is spending a couple of weeks at the home of W. E. Poage at Edray. He will go deer hunting.

Miss Marie Adkison, who attends a business school in Charleston, spent the Thanksgiving holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Adkison.

Mrs. Robert L. Fitzgerald and small son, Emmett Lee, are in Portsmouth, Virginia, to be with Mr. Fitzgerald, of the Navy, who is stationed at Little Creek. Bob was recently promoted to Seaman First Class.

Mrs. Billy Evans and son, Ronnie, will go the last of the week to spend some time with Private Evans, of the Marines, who is stationed at Cherry Point, North Carolina.

Announcements have been received of the birth of an eight pound son, David Timothy, to Captain and Mrs. Joe Donahue, of Great Falls, Montana. This is their second child. Mrs. Donahue is the former Miss Evelyn Lang, granddaughter of Mrs. Grace Lang, of this city.

Mrs. M. A. Pyles and daughter, Laura, of Seebert, were called to Charleston by the illness and death of Harold Eugene Nutter, grandson of Mrs. Pyles and infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nutter. Mrs. Nutter was the former Marie Pyles, of Seebert.

Dr. E. C. Bennett of Richwood is up at Greenbank to take care of the practice of his brother-in-law, Dr. McCutcheon, while he is laid aside from illness. Forty-nine years ago Dr. Bennett came home from college to go into active practice. He is still going strong and expects to kill a deer next week.

Miss Margaret Smith was home from the University for Thanksgiving. She was accompanied by her room mate, Miss Eloise Morgan, of Kingwood.

Melvin Woodell and Paul Dean are in the farming business in rather big way for these parts. They operate a tractor with plow, disc, binder and thrasher. Last spring they plowed 110 acres, harrowed 170 acres, and threshed 13,041 bushels of grain. In addition they put up 25 acres of hay, and raised 16 acres of corn, besides potatoes and truck patches.

War Bonds

In spite of the cold weather, the people of Marion County showed their interest in the war effort by purchasing war bonds. During the afternoon session of the county court, held at the courthouse, the following bonds were sold:

At the big meeting Friday night in the court house, there was standing room only. Lieut. Bert E. Newland, told of the army; how well the men in the armed services were doing their part; of the necessity of the home front to back them up, for the saving of lives and the early coming of peace through the defeat of Germany and Japan. He introduced the soldiers who were with him, making the trip through West Virginia to encourage the sale of Sixth War Loan Bonds. Two of the men, who had been wounded and invalided back to America, spoke. They gave graphic descriptions of front line action. One was Corporal Maurice E. McCann, of New Orleans. He was in the invasion of North Africa, fought in Tunisia, and was wounded at Cassino, Italy. The other was Private Harold E. Reukamp, of Chester, W. Va., who was wounded in the invasion of France. He did not tell it, but his record shows that he was shot down by a machine bullet; he began to crawl back, when a shell hit close by and blew him up.

These men and millions of others willingly hazard their lives and all that America may continue to enjoy freedom. What about those of us on the safe home front, who hesitate to put their money in safe investment to buy the things necessary to supply the front line to bring about a quicker defeat of those whose aim it was to enslave us.

There was a liberal buying of bonds by those present Friday night. The anti-tank gun boom-out salute of 18 guns in honor of those who have given their lives in this war for freedom; to the fathers and mothers who have children in the service, and to the soldiers on request of those who have given their money in safe investment to buy the things necessary to supply the front line to bring about a quicker defeat of those whose aim it was to enslave us.

Our Pocahontas share in the buying of Sixth War Loan Bonds is $143,000. Of this amount, $63,000 has been officially checked in at the Richmond office. As for our State, over ninety per cent of the money asked for has been bought, with the E bonds lagging.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roberts, a daughter, November 10, 1944. Mrs. Roberts will be remembered as Miss Eleanor Her old, of Minneapolis Springs.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a special session of the Pocahontas County Court will be held at the Court House on Saturday, December 23, 1944, for the special purpose of qualifying those elected to public office in the November election, approve official bonds, and to transact any other business which may properly come before the Court.

By order of the Court,
Moody Kincaid, Clerk.

Marion County

Session of Marion County Court in session their goal of $1,000,000 for the purchase of war bonds. The court is now in session at the courthouse, and the following bonds were sold:

Our people have responded enthusiastically to the appeal for a practical demonstration of Christian love and mercy for the starving and destitute men, women and children of war-torn areas. Mr. Oxendale declared in announcing the campaign figure. "We found real eagerness among Christians to give their money to provide physical and spiritual food for the needy and distressed. Efforts will be continued by the Crusade Council of Marion County to 'go over the top' for the Crusade fund. The congregation will join with 41,000 others throughout the nation on March 1, in celebrating completion of this phase of the 'Crusade in a Day of Compassion' service. Payment of pledges continues until January 31, 1945.

In addition to providing for aid to stricken peoples in battle-scarred and occupied countries, the Crusade for Christ fund also will permit expansion of missionary work in other foreign countries, increased educational services in Methodist colleges of this country, a wide program of Christian teaching, greater spiritual ministry in many needy communities, and continued service to Methodist chaplains in the armed forces now and after the war.

Plans for the other phases of the Crusade for Christ in the Marion County are progressing under leadership of the local Crusade Council. Mr. Oxendale stated. Continuation of Methodist's Crusade for a New World Order calling for expressions of opinion in favor of "international collaboration" for all nations, special evangelistic efforts, education in Christian stewardship, and increasing Sunday School enrollment are included in the four-year Crusade for Christ program in which Methodists here will have a part.

LEVELTON CIRCUIT

The Churches of the Levelton Circuit—Hillsboro, are called to meet at the Hillsboro Methodist Church Thursday, December 7th, at 7:30 p. m. in a circuit meeting, by the pastor, Rev. R. D. Marshall. The Young People's Choir and the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Marion County Church, will present a special service honoring the youth in the armed forces from the circuit churches. Rev. Fred Oxendale will deliver a message on the Crusade for Christ.

Families with boys or girls in the armed forces will enjoy this service. It is a Service for service men's families—a remembrance service. Give this service a place on your calendar this week. Remember the date, place and time.

Mrs. John Guild, of Pittsburgh is with her parents, Judge and Mrs. S. H. Sharp.

Our Army and Navy Boys

New Orleans, Louisiana—Advancement in rating to gunner's mate third class for William H. Moore, USNR, of Huntersville, has been announced by the Armed Guard Center here.

Moore, who entered the Navy in June, 1942, has credit for 11 months of sea duty. He has been a member of the Navy gun crew protecting ships which carried vital war material to England, North Africa and Italy.

Before entering the Navy, Moore was engaged in farming near Huntersville.

With the 5th Armored Division in Belgium—Sergeant James H. McCloud, of Marion County, West Virginia, has been awarded the Silver Star for repeated acts of gallantry performed while leading a section of a 5th Armored Division mechanized reconnaissance troop unit during the fighting in France. Award of the decoration was made by the division commander, Major General Lansford Oliver.

When armored vehicles on a reconnaissance mission came under heavy anti-tank fire near Houdan, France, August 20, and drew from the direct fire, a half-track vehicle failed to start, and was ordered abandoned, but Sergeant McCloud climbed in it, succeeded in getting it in operation while shells burst around him and drove it to safety.

On August 17, near Germainville, France, the Sergeant's reconnaissance party was trapped by enemy machine guns firing at them from four sides. Leaving the protection of a ditch Sergeant McCloud stood up and with grenades silenced the nearby machine gun nests. It was not the first time the section leader had used his grenade with telling effect. While he was reconnoitering woods near Louvigne on August 3, a machine gun opened on him. He took cover until he had located the gun, then exposed himself to throw grenades which cut the gun off action.

"At all times Sergeant McCloud has shown complete disregard for his own life. His actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Army," the official citation read. The soldier's wife, Mrs. Agnes Lenore McCloud, lives in Marion County, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Dominick, resides at Clover Lick, West Virginia. A former coal miner, he was inducted on June 2, 1941, and has served with the 5th Armored Division since its activation on October 1, 1941.

Camp Atterbury, Indiana—Private Ernest A. Long, son of Clark Long, of Hillsboro, W. Va., has been transferred to Infantry 170, Camp Fanning, Texas.

Cadet, Midshipman Fred M. Cloonan has returned to the Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, Long Island, New York, after spending his leave at home.

November 9, 1944

Dear Cal:

Upon a good streak of luck a few days ago I had the pleasure and surprise of meeting a friend of mine, Neal Snyder, from Arboreale. After a few "mixing up" looks we finally recognized each other. We are usual had one of our friendly chats of things back home and of our adventures. Neal, at the time was preparing for a leave home.

Well, Cal I wish I could tell you where I am at the present, but you know the censorship, so I must be careful of things such as that. But at the present I am located on the "Battle Torn" Levi Woodbury.

Sincerely yours,
June H. Cassell,
U. S. Navy.

Sergeant Clyde W. Woodell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Woodell, of Green Bank, has been 22 months service in the South Pacific serving in the Air Transport Command. He has received other than the Air Medal the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, 1 Bronze Star, Tactical Badge (A. M.), Aviation Badge Air Force member (permanent) and Good Conduct Medal.

Sergeant Woodell has recently been promoted to Staff Sergeant and is now crew chief on a C-47 transport plane serving in Australia and New Guinea. Headquarters, Allied Air Force, Southwest Pacific Area.

Dear Mrs. Woodell: Recently your son, Sergeant Clyde W. Woodell, was decorated with the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal. It was an award made in recognition of his gallant service in combat operations, his devotion to his home and to you.

He was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Southwest Pacific area from March 31, 1943, to February 4, 1944.

Your son took part in sustained operational flights during which hostile territory was probable and expected. These flights included dropping supplies and transporting personnel to that territory that was continuously controlled by enemy fighter aircraft. Often landings were made in the fields which were only a few miles from Japanese bases. These operations aided considerably in the recent successes in this theater.

Almost every home of every day your son, and the sons of other American mothers, are doing just such things as that here in the Southwest Pacific.

There is a very real and very tangible contribution to victory and to peace. I would like to tell you how genuinely proud I am to have men such as your son in my command, and how grateful I am to know that young Americans with such courage and resourcefulness are fighting our country's battle against the aggressor nations.

You, Mrs. Woodell, have every reason to share their pride and gratification.

Very Sincerely,
George G. Kenney,
Lieutenant General,
Commanding.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Woodell, of Linwood, have learned that their son, G. D. Woodell, A. M. M. I. C. Mechanist, N. A. S., who has been stationed at Miami, Florida, has been transferred to some place in South America, and Keith E. Woodell, AOM 3-C N. A. S. Gun Inspector, is now serving in the South Pacific.

Grady Moore writes in that he had an accident while swimming in the ocean, but is all right now. He is stationed in Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Leo Davis has been notified that her husband was wounded in action. Under date of November 18, Leo wrote from Paris that he had received a piece of shrapnel in the shoulder, but was getting all right, being able to write.

On last Saturday J. G. Beard received the sad news that his son, Lieutenant J. G. Beard, Jr., of the Air Corps, had been killed in action.

Cliff C. Sharp, of Huntersville, tells me his son, Beryl C. Sharp, is still in an army hospital in Italy with a broken arm and a severe wound in the hip.

Page Johnson, of the Navy, has returned to the Pacific Coast, for new assignment after a thirty day leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Johnson. His ship the USS Perry was torpedoed in the invasion of the Palau Islands.

Fort Knox, Kentucky—Trained to be an armorer and gun mechanic for the lightning fast, accurate shooting armored divisions and tank battalions, Corporal Daniel F. Higgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Higgins, of Marion County, has been graduated from the gunnery department of the Armory School.

With the Fifth Army in Italy—P. F. C. Oliver E. McPeters, rifleman of Marion County, is fighting with the 6th Armored Infantry veteran combat unit, now pushing the Germans back in North Italy. Veteran of the campaigns in the Mediterranean theatre, this unit landed west of Oran, in North Africa, and took part in notable engagements which cleared the area of Germans. Then the unit came to Italy, and has fought steadily from Cassino to the Gothic Line.

Mrs. Mildred Kirkpatrick Sharp has received word from her husband, T-5 Earl Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Sharp, that he had landed safely overseas.

T-Corporal Earl M. Sharp, son of Cliff C. Sharp, of Huntersville, has landed safely overseas. He is with the Engineers.

Private and Mrs. Noble Glen Waugh arrived last week from Shepherd Field, Texas, where had been stationed, and a short forlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Waugh and other relatives. Private Waugh is enroute to Nebraska, where he is being transferred. Mrs. Waugh will remain here for the present.

Private James Norval Pifer, of the Medical Corps, stationed at Camp Bowie, Texas, arrived home last week to spend his furlough with his wife and small son and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pifer.

Born to Private First Class and Mrs. Howard Doss, of Greenbank on Thursday, November 23, 1944, a daughter, Pamela Rae. Mrs. Doss is the former Gayle Gelford, of the W. A. C. N., and P. F. C. Doss is serving in the Engineers Corps in the Southwest Pacific.

Matagorda Peninsula, Texas—First Lieutenant Harry K. Blackburn, aged 25 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Blackburn, of Cass, was one of another graduating class of Army Air Force pilots completing their "second helping" of training in the United States Army Air Corps school of the Texas Gulf Coast. This class included veterans from almost every theatre of operations.

Lieutenant Blackburn attended West Virginia Business College at Fairmont. He received his Wings and Commission at Luke Field, Arizona. His home station is Gila Bend, Arizona, Army Air Field.

Mr. and Mrs. Saul Starcher, of Seelert, received a letter this week from their son, Private Frank T. Starcher, who is a prisoner of war of the German government. He writes that he has plenty to eat, and is in good health.

Frank was a member of the 568th Paratroopers who were among the first to land in France on D-Day, and it was in this action that he was captured.

Corporal Gene Lorry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lorry, is home from the South Pacific fighting area with an honorable medical discharge, after four years of service. He is accompanied by Mrs. Lorry and their little daughter.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Clyde Pugh, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Pugh who live in Boyer, West Virginia, has been promoted to Sergeant. He is a communications chief with the 34th "Red Bull" Division of Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army in Italy.

Paul Eubank, of the Air Force, has landed safely in England. He has been in the Army eight years.

Pfc. Hudson Hull, of the Army stationed on Long Island, New York, is home on a short furlough with his father, Squire C. F. Hull, of Durbin.

Hospital Patients

Sports Afield and Astream

By Fred Luttenberger, in Zanesville, Ohio News.

Two Breath-taking Adventures were ours the past week in that vast world of autumnal beauty so found just now in mountainous

THE FIRST BIG HIKE

through the forested mountains came on the afternoon of the first hunting day. With Charley Richardson we drove to the ford near his mountain camp and waded the Greenbrier. Once on the other side Charley gave us the lay of the land. We were to go it alone and it was evident that Charley didn't want any mistakes
As far as the eye could see and for miles beyond there was nothing but forested mountain, all marvelously colored by that very busy gentleman, old Jack Frost.
Now to get the directions.

Immediately ahead rose the towering mountain. There was Charley pointed out, the hollow to the left and the hollow to the right and then far about, when the summit was reached that would lead to the hollow at the base of which the cabin stood.

It was up the left-hand hollow where Charley had come upon a flock of wild turkeys last year, that we were to go. Did we think we could make it? And if the going got too tough, we could come right back down the way we went up. Charley evidently was a little worried about turning a greenhorn loose on Greenbrier mountain.

Leaving Charley and feeling quite confident, we started up the rock strewn bed, of a sharply rising and, now dry mountain creek. Leaping from one stone to another, so as not to make so much racket, we advanced deeper and deeper into the forest. Up and up went the dry stream bed.

At its end we plunged right on up the thicket covered mountain slope itself. Slashing and pushing and pausing for breath and to listen for game, we climbed the incline.
Visibility was almost zero, so thick was the brush. Not one living thing was heard or seen.

Almost at the top we passed
From on up ahead came a distinct rustle. At first we thought it might be a squirrel, playing in the dry leaves on the ground.
But no, the sound was too heavy.
Could it be a flock of wild turkeys scratching for food? Still further came the sound. A pause and then it started again. Closer and closer, and certainly something pretty big. Could it be a deer, or perhaps a bear? Panthers of course were out, since it has been pretty well established that they prowl only at night. What would we do if it was a bear? The season was not in and even if it had been of what use would the horrowed little 20 gauge double bar-

Tenously we waited with gun lowered however, for the old rule never to raise until the game was sighted, still stuck. Suddenly the noise came to life. It was another hunter, a lead of perhaps 15.
He couldn't have shot had he wanted to. After shooting down a squirrel the empty shell had lodged in his gun. Wanting to help, we took the arm apart, poked out the empty with a stick and went on our way. On up over the top and back down a laurel covered path. For four hours we were in the woods and came out right at the cabin where Charley and hot coffee, sandwiches and baked beans were waiting. Charley had been a little worried for twice he had fired his gun into the air.

No deer had been sighted, although signs were plentiful. No bear were seen, no grouse flew from the thickets, not a squirrel or turkey was heard. The biggest thing seen was a tiny chipmunk that barked saucily in its squeaky voice as it bounced away. But it had been a glorious adventure.

Saves Lives
British officials declare that antipyridine has saved the lives of 10,000 spotted fever patients in the last two years, and another 7,000 from pneumonia cases.

How to Buy a New Car

100

Merry Christmas!

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come,
The bell of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men.

And in despite I bowed my head:
"There is no peace on earth," I said.
For hate is strong,
And mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!"

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth He sleep;
The wrong shall fall,
The right prevail,
With peace on earth, good-will to men!"

—Henry W. Longfellow.

Our Army and Navy Boys

This piece was brought in by Mrs. C. C. Allen, of Hillsboro, and was taken from the Parris Island Boot newspaper, a commendation of her cousin who has been in service 26 years. Sgt. O. V. Bennett was formerly of Marlinton.

By Paul Hoolihan

Master Gunnery Sergeant Oscar V. Bennett was already a World War I veteran when he enlisted in the Marine Corps 23 years ago and went through boot training on Parris Island.

Since then, he has been on duty at a majority of Leatherneck bases throughout the world.

For the last five and a half years "Gunny" Bennett has been assigned to Parris Island, the last four of which he has served as field sergeant major of the First Recruit Battalion.

It was at Ripley, W. Va., that the "Gunny" first saw the world that he was to patrol so long as a Marine. It has been so long since he claimed any place but a Marine barracks as his home that "Gunny" Bennett hesitates when you ask now where his home town might be. He finally chooses Marlinton, W. Va., since his folks made their home there.

The fifty-four year old Leatherneck, more than six feet tall and straight and sturdy as a pine, had served a three year hitch in the army, including 14 months in France, when the Kaiser, not Hitler, first threatened the world, before he enlisted in the Corps on Sept. 20, 1909.

Parris Island was about a half dozen years old, a marine base when he arrived for boot training. From here his subsequent marine career took him to San Domingo, San Diego and to Guam in 1924-25. He served in the Philippines, and had two tours of duty in China—once in 1927-28 and again in 1933-34.

Returning to the west coast M. G. Sgt. Bennett served at the Mare Island Navy Yard. The Nicaraguan campaign found him there; and he also served 28 months in the Fleet Marine Force and as a sea-going Marine aboard the U. S. S. California.

It was in May 1939, that the "Gunny" was assigned to Parris Island as a field sergeant major in the Recruit Depot. The following year when battalions were formed, he was transferred to his present post.

Now on his seventh cruise as a Marine, M. G. Sgt. Bennett wears six "badges" on his sleeve as well as that number of ribbons on his chest, including the Victory, Expeditionary, Yantze, Nicaraguan, Good Conduct and American.

From Cecil VanReenan to his mother, Mrs. Gilbert VanReenan: Hello Mother:

This letter is fine and some where in England. I can think of lots of places I would rather be. I have been in Scotland and saw lots of high hills there.

How is Dad, and is he working every day, or just part of the time? I bet there is lots of snow there now. I sure would like to be there to see it. I haven't seen any snow yet but it looks like I will get to see plenty before the winter is over.

How are the kids getting along in school. I know Donald hates to go, doesn't he? Tell him and Garth to write to me.

Well mother, I had better close now. Tell everyone Hello for me and answer soon.

Just Glen.

Dear Mr. Price:

Just a few lines to say hello, and tell you I haven't forgot good old Pocahontas county, the after a while in New Guinea you forget all you ever knew what real life is like.

I have read so many of your nature stories in the Times, but you haven't seen anything until you have been in the South Pacific. People may think it is a vacation down here in the islands but will change their minds. I get so homesick, thinking of the hills back there; and the hunting and fishing I have missed. I sure make up for it when I get back. Well, nothing much to write about so will say so long.

Sgt. Marion Stamper.

C. E. Starks sends in the following letter from his brother-in-law, Cpl. Hubert Rose, who is serving with the Infantry in Italy Nov. 16, 1944.

Hello Charles and all: How are you by this time, fine I hope. I am as well as usual; nothing to complain about. Today is Thanks giving time. I had a letter from you last week and was glad to hear from you. I am well and hope you are the same. I am only getting home from a tour of duty in the South Pacific. Marlinton Sergeant Awarded the Bronze Star in Italy

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Staff Sergeant Andrew M. Dilley, of Marlinton, West Virginia, recently was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service in combat in Italy. He served in the 123 Division, 34th "Red Bull" Division of Lieutenant General W. Clark's Fifth Army.

While his company was in a defensive position, Dilley on several occasions acted as a volunteer and in carrying supplies to the forward positions. Dilley is a member of the Marlinton High School and is a member of the American Legion.

December 18th, 1944. F. McLaughlin and his family were the guests of the family of their wedding. The ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, of Hillsboro.

On December 18, 1944, Edward J. McLaughlin and Miss Margaret Hill were married in the Marlinton Presbyterian Church in Marlinton. The minister was the Rev. J. Price. D. D. The bride was the groom's cousin.

Among those present were David L. Hill and his sister, Mrs. Edith Hill Peck. They rode home from their home near Edinburg, Virginia, and arrived in Marlinton on December 11, 1944. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin are now in Marlinton.

Instead of last week's Times that you will celebrate your Fifth Anniversary tomorrow, Tuesday, December 12, 1944. War is impossible! These fifty years have surely slipped rapidly. It seems as if it were yesterday that we were only kids, with nothing on our minds but our hats. Only yesterday we were working at the sugar mill; were working in the cane and hay fields; were playing over the hills of the garden spot of the world.

Only yesterday you and Page and I made it through 38 inches of snow to Pine Grove, to rescue little Jim Bussard and carry him over to my father's home. As I remember it, the deep snow fell December 14, 1900-34 years ago.

It was only yesterday that you learned that famous oration, beginning, "Mr. G. S. Weaver says contemptuously dropping words."

It was only yesterday that you, Will, Anderson, Ann and Pleas, were in the mock courts at the sugar mill, and making those who were found guilty sign "X's."

Ah, and the joyous days are gone, but we still have our memories of the past, and let fate do her worst, there are relics of joy.

Bright dreams of the past which she can never destroy. Which come in the night time of sorrow and care.

And bring back the memories that joy used to wear. Long! Long be my heart with such memories filled.

Like the vase in which the roses have been distilled; You may break, you may shatter, the vase if you will, But the scent of the roses will cling to it still.

May you and wife have many many more happy years together is the wish of your old friend.

D. L. Barlow.

And so say we all. Among those from a distance able to get to the golden wedding were Mrs. B. H. Moore, of Afton, Virginia; Mayor and Mrs. Claude E. McLaughlin, of Lewisburg; Mrs. Archie Gray McLaughlin and children of Farmington; Mrs. B. H. Kidd and Mrs. Harry Topham, of Cornington, Virginia.

man mortar, artillery and machine gun fire.

In the same and other areas, Dilley completed patrol missions, located Nazi guns and directed fire so effectively that they were knocked out.

"Dilley's excellent leadership and good judgment in the face of grave danger have been exemplary and an inspiration to his comrades," the citation read.

"Pooley" Curry, of the Marines; Odie Clarkson, of the Sea Bess; "Denny" Anderson and Earl Eades, of the Navy, are stationed so close together in Hawaii that they are able to see each other often.

Charles Carr, S. 1-c, of the United States Navy, who had been home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carr, returned to duty in Rhode Island on last Saturday.

Soldier John Armstrong was home from the Army on furlough last week.

Mrs. O. G. Day has received the word that her son, Dale, of the Marines, is now on duty in the South Pacific.

Word has been received that George S. Smith of the Air Corps has been promoted to Second Lieutenant.

ILL - NEWS

Herbert Granville Hill and Miss Mary Margaret Herold were married on Saturday, December 16, 1944, in the Marlinton Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Everett Gilmore Herold and the late Dr. Herold of Marlinton, and the groom a son of Mrs. John Abraham Hill and the late Mr. Hill of Hillsboro.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. James C. Wool. Organ music was played by Mrs. Z. S. Smith, Jr., and she accompanied Miss Edith May, soloist.

The bride was escorted by her brother, Everett G. Herold, Jr. The matron of honor was Miss Eleanor Wilson Smith; the flower girl Constance Ethel Herold, a niece of the bride.

Virgil M. Beckett, of Hillsboro was best man; the ushers were Julius Arbuckle, James Arbuckle, Thomas Alex Arbuckle, and Philip Arbuckle of Marlinton.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on the afternoon train for a wedding trip to New York and Washington. On their return they will make their home at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Hill attended school at Marlinton and Morgantown and the Smithfield Massy Business College in Richmond. She has been financial secretary in the office of County Superintendent of schools.

Mr. Hill is a prominent young citizen of the Lewis District and a prosperous farmer. He was the choice of his party for school board in the recent election.

It may be of interest to note that Mr. Hill's parents were married December 16, 1896, just 48 years to the day of their son's wedding.

FIELD NOTES

J. O. Kellison of Jacob, makes report of good beginning of the fox hunting season. Up to the big snow he had killed four reds and two grays.

Up in the Seneca State Forest, hunters jumped five head of deer right up on the rim rock not far from the old fire tower. The three does circled between the hunters and the rock and got away. The bucks took to the air, over the forty or fifty foot cliff. The smaller one, a spike buck, hit a tree, killing himself, dead. The big one hit a railing among rocks some forty or more feet down hill from the top of the cliff. He came nearly landing on a couple of other hunters, just lacking a couple of yards. Neither had a mind to shoot as the noble sky buck, with tail up, went on leaping down grade for a hundred yards in full sight. It is conservative to say this deer leaped a full eighty feet.

Forrest Workman, of Watoga reports killing a fine deer.

Schools Closed

At a meeting of the Board of Education last Friday night, the proper action was taken closing the schools for two weeks Christmas holiday. The schools will open Monday, January 1. This proper action was made necessary by snow blocked roads and consequent scarcity of gasoline.

GREETINGS

A Merry Christmas

MAY the Blessings of God be with you, our friends, and with all of us... in our souls and upon our hearts. We can offer no more gracious greeting this Yuletide.

"We Still Deliver."

Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

At this season we should all reflect ourselves to re-examination, to see if good fellowship and kindness still survive as a practical combination to bring happiness to the human heart. Each of us holds in his hands the key to this combination. Let us use it during this Christmas season of 1944, to help transform dreams into realities.

May we add our glad Christmas greetings to the many which are helping their way to you?

On the last day of the open season for wild turkey, November 24, Elmer Workman went hunting in the Black Forest near Cherry, Dogway, Hills Creek and Oakberry River head up. He left his car on the Nicholas highway at the foot of Blue Rock, and headed west into the big wilderness. In the woods the snow was fourteen inches deep. He found turkeys, shot a big one and breaking a wing. The turkey headed west, and Elmer determined to get that bird regardless. Along about dark he did get the turkey, away down on Dogway, fully five miles from where he got his first shot. Night is no time to travel in these woods with the snow knee deep, and a man tired out with a day's hunting, so Mr. Workman built himself a fire to tough the night through.

Along about ten o'clock in the night Mrs. Workman became uneasy and went down to the home of Mr. Workman's parents. Mr. and Mrs. James M. Workman, to talk things over. No better woodman ever set foot in the forest than Jim, and as no one has more respect for the big wilderness than he, for no one knows better what can happen to a lone man there. So he lost no time in starting his sons Ray and Dewey on the look for their brother. They took lanterns and flash lights, and when they came to Elmer's car on the road at the foot of Blue Rock they proceeded to track him up in the snow. Along about four o'clock next morning they came to Elmer by a fire on Dogway Creek. They all hung around the fire until light enough to travel. Making it in to the Forks of Cranberry, late Sunday afternoon they were met by a party in a car from the Prison Camp.

Having nothing at the Workman home, along about daylight Sunday morning, Mr. Workman started two more boys into the woods, and a little later in the day, Elmer's uncle Silas Workman got word of the trouble, and heard his son Troy decided to make up a third party, to track down the supposedly lost man. They followed the tracks around and made it in home by one o'clock Monday morning.

Silas lived for many years in the State of Washington and has hunted and killed a good many cougars or mountain lions—panthers in West Virginia. After he had come to the place where Elmer had crippled his turkey, he was a bit surprised to find the track of a large panther crossing and recrossing Elmer's track where the varmint had followed the man who had followed the turkey. In six the panther's track was about as big as that of a yearling bear.

And this thing, the bear sign was more plentiful than deer sign. In one place a gang of four bears had crossed the trail Silas was following. At other places, the bear in raking for meat had wiped out the tracks of the men.

Plenty of deer tracks were observed by Silas and Troy all along their long trip through the woods. However, it was the same old story we all have been hearing the past four or five years—all big deer and no small ones. Panthers are eating up the small deer and wild cats are eating the fawns.

Silas and Troy had a pleasure trip of some twenty miles through the mountainous country, in knee deep snow, and much of it through thick cover. They reported in home about one o'clock Monday morning.

Panthers in Wood County (Mrs. O. Kimball in Parkersburg Sentinel)

I read in the Sentinel that there was a strange animal in Jackson county and it might be of interest to know that has been one or more large cat-like animals in the vicinity of Beattie, Middle county, for several years. It hasn't been seen in daylight but has been seen by several at dark. It was heard just awhile back about the middle of the day by a man who said he was too lazy to go where he had heard the screams and try to see just what it was. Its screams are terrifying, make the hair stand on end and the dogs just back their tails and crawl under the house. It hasn't been known to attack anyone or harm any farm animals but it has been known to follow a lone person.

While hunting wild turkeys on Sunday, Feb. 2, some fifteen miles south of Elkins, James Jones found the remains of a United States Weather Bureau instrument hanging up in a tree. The instrument was a aneroid barometer and had been whittled down to a mere skeleton.

While gathered the remains of the instrument, James Jones found a small box containing a letter from the United States Weather Bureau at Elkins. He most considerately wrote illuminatingly of the instruments as follows:

"These instruments were, no doubt, sent up in Huntington, W. Va. We do not put any of this type up from here. The distance and the direction would indicate that they had their origin in Huntington.

"They are small radio instruments, and before they were released they were tuned to a receiving set on the ground. As they ascended they continuously sent back signals as to the temperature, barometric pressure and humidity. They continue to ascend, also to drift with the currents, until the balloon bursts, due to the rarified air at great elevations. When the balloon bursts there is a small parachute that comes into action and permits the instrument to descend slowly. The reclamation value of the instrument is all the value to it. The record was taken off as it ascended, and this was used in forecasting; also in a widespread research that is being made of the upper air. Also, the pilots are greatly interested in winds aloft.

"At this office we put up four pilot balloons each day. We follow these with a theodolite, and make record of the speed and direction of air currents as far as we can follow them; but when they go into the clouds or drift beyond our horizon we lose them. Not so, with the radiosonde. Regardless of the overcast the record still comes back. Some times they ascend to heights as great as 15 miles before they burst."

Under average conditions, a cow giving six quarts of milk a day just about pays for her feed. She pays nothing for stable rent or for the labor required in milking and caring for her. On the other hand, a cow giving 10 quarts of milk a day will generally yield a net profit but this will depend on local conditions, the price of milk, and the cost of feed. The more milk the cow produces, the greater is the profit.

Day by day, I have looked forward to receiving your paper, with all the news and happenings, making place in old Pocahontas. However, it has all been in vain for no luck as yet. So realizing that perhaps, you did not receive my new address, I will send it to you again. So please send the paper to the address you will find below.

Well, I've seen quite a lot of this old world during the past 12 months; some good, some bad and some not worth mentioning, but so far as I am concerned none compare to the West Virginia hills. The hand of an artist could not paint a landscape picture, more beautiful than this particular spot where I am located at present. Its massive houses of rock and masonry, stone fences, and well trimmed hedges, combined with a rolling countryside presents a picture beautiful to behold. It's so peaceful and quiet looking that it's hard to realize there is a war going on only a few miles away, and the outcome of which will depend the peace and security of the entire world.

Sometime ago, I was fortunate in getting a pass of long enough duration to visit London. I really had a swell time there visiting the many historical spots I've read about, although the scars of war are evident, the city is still there, rich in tradition and with a spirit unbreakable. To me, the most interesting of anything I saw was West Minister Abbey. No doubt you know the history of this Church better than I, but what a history it has. They started building it in Twelve hundred forty-six, (1446) but it was well in the 16th century before it was completed. Curiously enough it is of French design, as the King who started building it, was by birth a Frenchman. Nevertheless it is truly a great work of art and well worth seeing. The Yankees have held their Thanksgiving Services there for the past two years, and no doubt will again this year, providing they can find out the proper date. You see, we're lost over here without The Times.

No doubt you are well pleased over the Election. The only thing I know, is that Roosevelt was re-elected, but who the successful candidates were in the County and State, I don't know, but I'm hoping it won't be very much longer, before I get some news.

I'm enclosing a poem that an English lass handed one of our boys the other night. I think it's pretty good, for confidentially the darned thing contains a lot of truth.

With every good wish to you and all the Pocahontas Co. friends I am, Respectfully yours, Sgt. L. D. Nottingham.

The English Girl's Lament

Dear old England—not the same, We dreaded the invasion—we'll it came But no, its not the beastly Hun The G. I. you see Army's come.

You see them in the train and bus There isn't room for lots of us; We walk, to let them have our seats, Then get run over by their Jeeps.

They mean about our luke warm beer, Think beer's like water over here But after drinking two or more, You'll find them lying on the floor.

Then watch them try to dance a dance, Their partners almost in a trance, When you're half dead, they stop and smile, How about that honey child?

Then see them try to Jitter Bug, They twist and turn and pull and tug, It's enough to make an Indian jealous Yet yours are civilized, so they tell us.

With admiration we would stare, At all the medals that they wear, And think of deeds so bold and daring, That won the medals they are wearing.

Also, they have not fought the Hun, No glorious battles have they won That pretty ribbon just denotes, They've crossed the sea—brave men in boots.

They say that they can shoot and fight, It's true, they fight when they are tight And must admit their shooting's fine, They can shoot a darn good Yankee line.

We speak to them, they look hazy They think we're nuts, we think they're crazy, Yet they're our allies, we must be nice, They love us just like cats love mice.

They laugh at us for drinking tea, Yet a finer sight, you'd never

They mean about our luke warm beer, Think beer's like water over here But after drinking two or more, You'll find them lying on the floor.

Then watch them try to dance a dance, Their partners almost in a trance, When you're half dead, they stop and smile, How about that honey child?

Then see them try to Jitter Bug, They twist and turn and pull and tug, It's enough to make an Indian jealous Yet yours are civilized, so they tell us.

With admiration we would stare, At all the medals that they wear, And think of deeds so bold and daring, That won the medals they are wearing.

Also, they have not fought the Hun, No glorious battles have they won That pretty ribbon just denotes, They've crossed the sea—brave men in boots.

They say that they can shoot and fight, It's true, they fight when they are tight And must admit their shooting's fine, They can shoot a darn good Yankee line.

We speak to them, they look hazy They think we're nuts, we think they're crazy, Yet they're our allies, we must be nice, They love us just like cats love mice.

They laugh at us for drinking tea, Yet a finer sight, you'd never

CLYDE R. TOWNS

AS WE APPROACH the beloved anniversary of a great Event we are reminded again of the many Christmas seasons we have seen come and go. Time has changed everything except friendship.

We are proud of the fact that we number among our customers many of the town's "oldest inhabitants" friends who have become dearer to us with the passing years.

Once again we say Merry Christmas to all.

THE nearness of Yuletide is unmistakable. Whether snow festoons the fir trees or whether earth still awaits its mantle of white, woods and fields, city and town breathe Christmas and its spirit of kindness.

We sincerely hope that the Christmas season of 1944 will be richer for you, fuller, and more satisfying than for many a year, and thank you for twelve months of very pleasant relations.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Sue Morris sends in this letter from her son, John Finley Morris, S. C. of the Navy, stationed when this was written at Camp Robert Smith, Great Lakes, Illinois:

November 23, 1944

Dearest Mother: Today being Thanksgiving and I have finished my chores for while I thought the best way I could spend my little leisure time was to write you even though I did just write to you last night.

We are now enjoying our heaviest snow fall of the season up to this time and it seems to have brought with it a new spirit because everyone seems happier and more willing to work along with them as they work. We have tremendously palatable menu for dinner. I have counted about a hundred turkeys already roasted and there is no telling how many more are being prepared. Of course to add to the turkey we have all the trimmings you can imagine. All of the Selective Service schools selectees work in the chow hall awaiting the draft or their particular school. That is why I am so familiar with the foodstuffs because after we eat some of the other fellows and I serve the other service men. It's quite a lot of fun although sometimes when you are instructed to serve lightly the boys try to get tough. Of course we manage to handle them.

Although we are having an excellent dinner today if it were possible I would still prefer being home to enjoy your delicious dinner. I just know it is better than the one here. However, I do hope you a cheerful holiday. I know that when you receive this letter Thanksgiving will be over but I believe that by some means spiritually you will feel that I was thinking of you on that day.

Every year every one has more and more to be thankful for. I am thankful for you and your devotion to me. I do not think there is a better mother in the world than you are and I think it's alright that I should tell you. I am also thankful for Grandmother and Mr. Clark. They shall always occupy a large part of my heart because they have been so nice to me and I love and respect them for it.

I still like being in the United States Navy and I still think its tops. Since leaving home I have met many more friends in other companies. You see my company is all split up. Some boys are here that did not make school but you stay in a different barracks from them and are not permitted to visit them. That makes it sorta bad. The friends you have had all along you can hardly associate with. But that is the Navy way; you just have to make friends with fellows that are going to school like you are.

While again Christmas comes all the air this thought comes to mind. We would like to share with you our Yuletide happiness, and to feel that in this year of grace, 1944, Christmas will mean more to you than it has meant for many years past.

I am beginning to feel the reality of this powerful organization I am in. I see some fellows sent to Tennessee, some to New Jersey, some to California, some to Florida and etc. Some fellows that did not make school were made cooks and they have a chance to learn in that field. The most of them do not like it however, and of course there are some who do not know where they are going and are just writing. I suppose it is pretty bad to be like that and do not know when and where you will be sent but just have to stay ready to leave. It may not sound any too wise to you but I certainly would like to hurry and finish school and get sea duty. I am anxious just to find out what the results of this training and schooling bring. Of course I have a fairly good idea but experiencing it for yourself is much better.

When I go to school I am going to do my best to learn something and get a rating. I would like for you for you to be proud of my being a sailor and that is what I am striving to do.

Give my love to all my friends. Your son, J. F. Morris, S. C.

It's Christmas! So let's Celebrate!

Let's celebrate by recalling on every day what Christmas is and what it means. Let's celebrate by never doubting that eventually Good shall triumph. Let's celebrate by making children happy and by opening our hearts to those in need.

That's the way to have the Merry Christmas we wish for you.

MERRY CHRISTMAS 1944

What Christmas tree does the oak, and what Christmas friends does the oak? Each year at Christmas time we realize more how much we owe to the oak in this community. It is deeply rooted in the firm soil of friendship. We cannot tell you in so many words how much these friendly associations mean to us, and how we cherish them. But we know you will understand.

In the spirit of appreciation we send our warmest Christmas wishes to you and to all those dear to you.

Christmas Greetings

Christmas Eve, December 24, 1944, almost every day of the year, serving for another year's traditional homecoming of the man's childhood.

There have been other years when the snows in my childhood have been more completely covered by the others. First, the snow was unusually heavy and it was Sunday. Then came the wind of Tuesday, piling up the snow in drifts. The road people did their utmost to keep the high ways open, but the machinery available was just too light for the work. It was bulldozer work and bulldozers are few.

Schools were closed on Monday and will not open again until Monday, January 1st.

The first bus on the Clarksburg-Baltimore run made it into Marlinton on Monday December 18.

The first gasoline tank truck in a week also made it here on Monday. A week's supply of Charcoal Gasolines were delivered in the town in bundles to carrier trucks.

A young lady, who works in Baltimore, came to spend a surprise week-end with her widowed mother, who lives about ten miles west of Marlinton. She could neither go nor send word and had to return to the city without seeing or hearing from her mother.

On last Tuesday the log camp shut down in the Gauley woods of the Cherry River Company. Men from Laurel Creek, about a dozen miles from home, made a start to make it through four feet of snow on the level. Of course they turned back. Taking the log train out, they caught the B. & O. for Charleston, then the C. & O. to Marlinton. This was a distance of nearly four hundred miles, with a dozen miles for the Laurel Creek men still to plow through the deep snow.

Mrs. Augusta Wiley is spending a few weeks with her son, James, in Covington, Virginia.

Mr. F. L. Kim
Mrs. Ella Beard Mann, aged eighty-nine years, widow of the late B. F. Mann, of Fort Spring, died December 13, 1944, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Simms, in Charleston. The deceased was a native of Pocahontas county, born at Huntersville, a daughter of the late Wallace Beard. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Simms, and two sons, Thomas, of Norfolk, Virginia, and Samuel, of Asheville, North Carolina; also one sister, Mrs. J. B. Lench, of New Haven, Connecticut, and her brother, Mitchell Beard, of Silver Spring, Maryland. Her body was laid to rest in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Sinks Grove, Monroe County.

Charles O. Tracy
Charles O. Tracy, aged citizen friend and neighbor passed away December 6, 1944. He was born July 29, 1880; aged 64 years, 8 months and 4 days.

He was united in marriage to Emma Arbogast, in April 1899, who preceded him to the grave six years ago. To this union were born seven children, six of whom survive: Clyde, Claude, and Bramble of Arbovale; Billy, Frank, Clawson of Spencer, and Dewey of Norfolk, Va. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Charles Lantz, and twelve grand-children.

In 1911 he professed faith in Christ and united with the Church. His last testimony was that he was ready to answer the call. He was a devoted father and was loved by all his acquaintances. Funeral services were conducted from the Arbovale church by his pastor, Rev. M. N. DeHaven, assisted by Rev. J. W. Pugh, of Boyer. Interment in Arbovale cemetery.

Durbin—Mrs. C. Forrest Hull died at her home here on Monday night, December 18, 1944. The funeral service will be at Durbin on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock; interment at Arbovale.

Frank Johnson, of the Tannery was called to Ridgeway, Pennsylvania, on Tuesday by the death of his father.

Alderson—Mrs. Myrtle Fenton
Anderson, aged sixty-three years, widow of the late Lake Anderson, died at her home in Alderson, December 9, 1944. She is survived by her two sons, Lieut. Lake Anderson of the Navy, and S. W. Anderson, of Syracuse, New York.

"How all our neighbors' chimneys smoke,
And Christmas music on the breeze,
Their voices ring with love and cheer,
And all their lights are twinkling,

Schools were closed on Monday and will not open again until Monday, January 1st.

The first bus on the Clarksburg-Baltimore run made it into Marlinton on Monday December 18.

The first gasoline tank truck in a week also made it here on Monday. A week's supply of Charcoal Gasolines were delivered in the town in bundles to carrier trucks.

A young lady, who works in Baltimore, came to spend a surprise week-end with her widowed mother, who lives about ten miles west of Marlinton. She could neither go nor send word and had to return to the city without seeing or hearing from her mother.

On last Tuesday the log camp shut down in the Gauley woods of the Cherry River Company. Men from Laurel Creek, about a dozen miles from home, made a start to make it through four feet of snow on the level. Of course they turned back. Taking the log train out, they caught the B. & O. for Charleston, then the C. & O. to Marlinton. This was a distance of nearly four hundred miles, with a dozen miles for the Laurel Creek men still to plow through the deep snow.

Mrs. Augusta Wiley is spending a few weeks with her son, James, in Covington, Virginia.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John W. Deputy, who left us the year ago on December 6, 1943.

One year has passed dear daddy, since you were laid to rest, the ones who think of you today are the ones who loved you best. We think of you in silence. Few are the eyes that see us weep. But many a tear we shed, dear daddy.

When others are fast asleep, you are gone, but not forgotten. Never shall your memory fade, sweetest thoughts shall ever linger around the grave where you are laid.

It's hard to part with one we loved, it's hard to part 'tis true. We never knew how hard it was, 'til we had to part with you. Your willing hands no more will toil. A voice we cannot forget. A smile that will linger forever in our memory we see it yet.

By Lena Deputy and Children.
(Sent in by his daughter, Mrs. Helen LeVier.)

Happy New Year

As the clock strikes twelve let our hearts reciprocate the sentiment of Tennyson's New Year bells:

Ring out the old,
ring in the new,
Ring out the false,
ring in the true.

A Grand Man Passes

Widely known in the Greenbrier Valley and generally beloved, many will read with interest these words fitly spoken on the passing of John M. Young, the Duke Ridgely, in his "Diamond Dust" column, of the Huntington Advertiser:

FAREWELL to our old and good friend, John M. Young. He has "Gone out to Sea," sailing, I hope, into greener fields. The world will mourn the loss of an old-school gentleman, who was blessed with a brilliant mind and a gentle, kindly soul.

John Young was a square-shooter and a staunch friend—in fair weather or foul. He loved to live and laugh. Nothing bored him. He liked going new places and managed to find new friends. He knew men and women in every walk of life and in every part of the country. He was 78.

"Dad" Young—that's what I always called him—was laid to rest yesterday in Woodmen cemetery, with a saddened group to say farewell.

Here was a man—John M. Young—who had probably never knowingly committed an unkind act in his whole life, who was as sweet and good to his fellow man as it is possible for an ordinary mortal to be.

He was the salt of the earth. A grand fellow. We wish we had the power to tell you what a wonderful character he was—to make you understand what he meant to his family, to us, and to all his other friends.

He was physically a tremendously big man. Nature had to make provision for the housing of his great heart. He was known to tens of thousands of friends, because of his "all out" personality, as well as the popularity of his only son, Harry Killinger (Cy) Young, the greatest all-around athlete in Huntington's history and a 17-letter man at Washington & Lee.

"All his life," "Dad" Young was a man, and I mean a red-hot, gentleman. "He was out a mile," "Throw his straw hat away," said. And, like all died-in-the-wool fans you could tell him. But—you couldn't tell him much.

The apple of his eye, of course, was his son, "Cy." He followed Harry's career at Huntington High, Marshall College, and W. & L. religiously. He never missed a game of football, baseball, basketball or track, in which his boy played, if he was within 500 miles of the event.

The world of sports has never known a more devoted family than Mrs. and Mrs. John M. Young, Eutha and Harry. There was a beautiful companionship. They found joy in life together. They stood together as firmly as the rock of Gibraltar. Now only Cy and his beloved mother are left in this wacky world. The Young family was ideal.

Those who knew John Young loved him as a brother. His loss dealt the writer of this column the most cruel blow since the death of my "Dad" in 1937. I have never met a more kindly, unselfish man. They were warm personal friends.

It's over now. But the memories of "Dad" come thick and fast. The time he went duck hunting in the swamps of Arkansas, near Helena, with his son-in-law, Tom Faulkner. And it took two of them three hours to row a mile—because they forgot to pull up the anchor.

He never tired of talking about duck hunting in Arkansas. He said, "the ducks fly so thick down there that they actually blackened out the sun on the brightest days of the year," he related. "It is a duck-hunters paradise."

He once said to me in a booming voice: "I'm just a country boy and proud of it." He came up the hard way, but he was one of the happiest men in the USA.

He was a God-fearing, church-going man. Yet, there were times when he would curse like a trooper. He used to curse me with mirth as the phrases rolled off his tongue like Judge Landis and John McGraw. I happened to know that his bark was much louder than his bite.

It was only a few days ago that he called Harry to his bedside in the hospital and said grimly: "son, I don't believe I'm going to make the grade this time."

"Oh, yes you are," replied "Cy," trying to smile through his tears. "You just have to pull through." "Well," said his Dad, with firm jaw, "if I get well this time, I'll be the winner, won't I?"

OVER THE TOP

Up to this time, West Virginia is in second place in percentage sales of Sixth War Bonds. Now Hampshire leads. In the nation there is a big over-all. Fourteen billion asked for twenty-one billion bought.

In Pocahontas County our quota was $145,000; we invested in $191,000 worth. With a few days yet to go, we are over even in E bonds—the average person's security. Our quota was $74,000; sales $80,000.

Hillsboro, W. Va.—This Christmas day will long be remembered by Mrs. Margaret E. Fowler and family. Most of her children were home. The absent ones were Corporal G. W. Fowler, in Germany; Private Patrick D. Fowler, somewhere on the water; Mrs. S. M. Butts, of Roncovert. Those present were Cpl. Virgil H. Fowler, just returned from overseas; Mrs. Roy VanReenan and family, of Marlinton; Mr. and Mrs. James L. Jarvis and son, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fowler and family; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fowler, Mrs. G. W. Fowler, Mrs. Pat D. Fowler. Among the visitors were Cpl. Roy Hall, Neal Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Nile Holbrook, Mrs. Eva Gabbert.

Hillsboro.—Mrs. Winters, A. Miller announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Marilyn Richardson Miller to Chief Boatwain Mate Robert Gorham Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Smith of Washington. The marriage took place in Elizabeth City, N. C. on December 2, 1944. Miss Virginia Miller, of Akron, Ohio, was her sister's only attendant. William Rankin was best man.

Mrs. Smith attended school at Hillsboro and Brownsville, Pa. She has been employed in Chase Leaton. Mr. Smith is a former employee of the Visco Corporation in Nitro. They reside at 8-A Euclid Apartments, Elizabeth City.

Week before last the entire family of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Poage of Exray, were at home together for the first time in seven years. Lieut. Col. Orin Poage, Captain Warren E. Poage of the U. S. Army; Van Poage, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Gaiel Thomas, of Union; Faith Poage, student at Marshall College, Huntington; Mrs. Zell Lewis, Hillsboro; Mrs. Jewell Hamilton, of Marlinton; and Jack Poage at home.

E. C. Bell, of Bridgewater, Va., has been here a couple of weeks looking after his stock on Clover Creek. The big snow held him. He reports about nine inches of snow and sleet in the V. Va. of Virginia.

Dad Young and the "Spirit of the Contest," the old "Will-to-be a Winner," fought up to the very end. He was a battle till the cows come home. He was a competitor from the drop of the hat. The likes of John Young are rare and so the world is much the poorer for his passing. We can pay him no greater tribute than to say that he had more sincere friends than any man of our acquaintance—friends who are heart sick, because they realize that they never again will receive one of his cheery greetings.

As the Rev. A. R. Bird Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church expressed it: "A happy Voyager has gone out to Sea. His work is done." There is a genuine person in those words. And so he lived by the Golden Rule and left this world with a clear conscience. [He left a heritage of love and respect of which his widow, his son, his grand-children and his great-grand-children can be proud.]

We drop few tears over "Dad" Young's passing—he was not the tearful kind. However, we can say this, "So long Dad Young, be seeing you. You were a grand fellow."

Mrs. N. G. Scott, of Franklin, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Rupert Harper.

Our Army and Navy Boys

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Squadron, B-17 Flying Fortress, the "Maiden" has been awarded the "Distinguished Achievement" medal for participating in bombing attacks on military and industrial targets in Germany and enemy positions in the path of the advancing Allied armies in Western Europe.

Sgt. Britchard, 19, flew a waist gunner on an Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress with the 88th Bombardment Group, commanded by Lieut. Colonel George Y. Jumper, Natoma, Cal.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pritchard, Dunmore, West Virginia, the Sergeant, who is a graduate of Greenbrier High School, was a farmer before his entry into the AAF in September 1943. He received his wings in May, 1944, at Las Vegas Field, Nevada.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Alvin E. Dean of Marlinton, West Virginia, recently was awarded the Bronze Star for heroic achievement in action with Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army in Italy.

When enemy fire was concentrated particularly on communication lines, Dean volunteered, with full knowledge of the danger involved, to repair lines that were shot out. Despite casualties and shelling within a few yards of him he continued throughout the day to repair lines as they were repeatedly disrupted.

His courage and devotion to duty were in keeping with the best standards of soldierly conduct, stated the citation with the award. Dean is serving with II Corps Artillery on the Fifth Army front. His father, David Dean, lives in Marlinton.

Somewhere in the Pacific. December 11, 1944

Dear Mr. Price: Today I received the July to September edition of The Times and was more than glad to get it. I have been "down" for so long that they haven't had a chance to catch up with me until now. I would like to call your attention to my APO number which is changed. Please have it changed and keep up the good work. Yours sincerely, Craig Wooddell.

DEATHS

Mrs. George Harper

Funeral services for Mrs. George Harper were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. K. Fleming at the old Harper home near Hillsboro Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23, 1944; interment was in the family cemetery. The services consisted of the Twenty-third Psalm, a hymn, "Rock of Ages" and two poems: Riley's "Just Away" and Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." In spite of wintry weather a host of relatives and friends were in attendance. The abundance of floral designs was a beautiful testimony to the love and esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

Mrs. Georgia Ann Baxter Harper was born May 17, 1878, and died December 21, 1944. She was married to Ernest Fletcher Harper on June 3, 1909, who preceded her in death Oct. 1, 1937. To this union were born four daughters, all of whom survive: Mrs. James K. Rock, East Rainelle; Mrs. Clayborne Hawkins, San Leandro, Cal.; Miss Edna Harper Luray, Va.; and Mrs. Elmer W. Wimer at home.

She was the daughter of George P. and Sarah Ann Pease Baxter and is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Birdie Sear, of Lewisburg, Pa.; A. O. Baxter, Marlinton; Mrs. Myrtle Duncan, Case; Mrs. Mabel Smith, Naimi; Mrs. Beulah Pritchard, Dunmore; Frank Baxter, Marlinton; and Mrs. Edith Knox, of Oanetlon. She was preceded in death by one sister, Mrs. Allie Patterson, and three brothers: Ellis, Willis and Harry Baxter.

She was educated in the schools of Pocahontas County and for several years was a popular teacher in the schools of the county. Mrs. Harper was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church. Her membership being in Oak Grove Church in her elderly life.

Moffett Williams brought in a Christmas gift of a big basket of about as fine looking, fine eating and fine cooking apples as any man ever saw for the time of year. A casual glance and I said Limber Twig, listed in the book under the name of Rome Beauty. No said Moffett, a seedling. And a seedling it is too. It is an upstart for an apple that Moffett is grafting it into a number of trees. With Grimes Golden and Golden Delicious our West Virginia has already started two noted strains of apples. Looks to me like hope is another.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Sergeant Robert E. ... Washington, spent last week-end with his wife at Annapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Kellison, of Beard, have received word that their son, Corporal Harry G. Kellison has arrived safely somewhere in New Guinea.

Private First Class George H. Schofield spent Christmas with Combat Crew 10,293, Mountain House, Idaho, and may be there two or three months before assignment overseas.

A former Lieutenant in Foreign Air Service, Captain Harry J. Schofield, is now with the Proving Ground Command, at Aberdeen, Maryland.

Mrs. Grady W. Brown, of Marlinton, received the following telegram from the War Department on December 26, 1944:

"The Secretary of War desires to express his deep regret that your husband Private Grady W. Brown has been reported missing in action since December 8th in Germany. If further details or other information is received you will be promptly notified."

Secretary of War. Private Brown is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Brown, of Droop. His wife is the former Miss Estie Brown and they have four children.

Lieutenant Marjorie Alderman, of the Army Nurses Corps, stationed in Puerto Rico, was called home by the illness and death of her father, D. W. Alderman.

The American Red Cross sends in a picture of Sergeant Ashley Dilley, of Pocahontas County, taken with two companions at the Alabaster Mosque in Cairo, Egypt. These soldiers were on a tour conducted by the American Red Cross.

Elsewhere in this paper we publish a letter from Sergeant Dilley telling of his trip to the Holy Land. Each month 3000 service men visit historical sites in Egypt on Red Cross tours. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dilley, of Dunmore, and his wife and small daughter live in Wheeling.

Charleston, S. C. — Pvt. Willis Ruckman of the Infantry, has returned from the Italian theatre of operations, on a hospital ship. He is temporarily being treated at Stark General Hospital prior to being transferred to another Army Hospital for definite treatment. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ruckman, of Knapps Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kessler of Cloverlick, received a nice Christmas gift in the way of a letter from their son, Lt. Earl M. Kessler, of the Air Service. He was reported missing on July 2. Under date of August 23 he was allowed to write from a prison camp in Hungary. The letter arrived on December 23. He was well at the time of writing. The letter had come through the Red Cross.

Clifford Barkley, of the Navy, stationed in Philadelphia, home on short leave.

Corporal John G. Hackaby is home from the Marines with an honorable discharge.

Lieutenant William deKraft, of the Army Air Corps, stationed at Dairland, Alabama, is home on short furlough with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Richardson.

Sergeant Reed Davis, stationed at Camp Bowie, Texas, was home to spend Christmas with his wife and their new son, Samuel Richardson Davis, born on Wednesday, December 30, 1944.

T-5 Henry Lee VanZee, of the Army, stationed at Camp Gordon Johnston, Florida, was home on a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd VanZee. He started on his return trip on Tuesday.

Corporal Ray J. Bennett is at his home at Dunmore on a thirty day furlough. He is back from Europe, where he served nine months with the Eighth Air Force. Corporal Ralph Moore was in the same outfit and they came back on the same ship.

Warren G. Deyer, of the United States Army Air Corps, serving in the Philippines, has been promoted to Corporal. His mother is Mrs. Ethel Deyer, of Millport. Another son, Harper, is serving in the Navy.

Everette Nottingham, RDM 3-0 stationed at Oceana Field, Norfolk, Virginia, spent the Christmas holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nottingham.

With the Fifth Army in Italy—Sergeant Charles W. Gum, of Millpoint, and Private Ward E. Hill, of Lobelia, are members of the 350th Infantry Regiment, which took Mount Battaglia in northern Italy and held it for many days of almost continuous German counter attack and close quarter fighting. This regiment is a unit of the 88th Blue Devil Division of General Clark's Fifth Army. It was ordered to occupy a mountain ridge, got there only a short time before German infantrymen tried to act on similar orders. The commanding general of the Division described the stand of the 350th as magnificent and paid high tribute to the courage and aggressiveness displayed by every man in the regiment.

With the Fifth Army in Italy—Private Loman E. Pugh, son of Mrs. Elva Pugh, of Arboreale, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, is fighting in Italy, on the Gothic Line operation, with the 338th Infantry Regiment. Beside killing and wounding many hundreds of Germans, this regiment is credited with taking nearly 700 prisoners the past four weeks. These men are a part of the 85th Cavalier Division, and they are called "Oldtimers." They have won three Distinguished Service Crosses, 35 Silver Stars and more than 200 Bronze Stars. They have seen hard fighting all through Italy, and were among the first to enter Rome.

Mr. E. M. Shaver, of Annapolis, received a letter on December 14, from her son, Private First Class Walter R. Haptonstall, who is a prisoner of the German Government. This is the first time she has heard from him except through the War Department since he was captured on May 19, 1944.

September 29, 1944. Dearest Mother and Helen:

I am dropping you a few lines hoping to find you all well. This leaves me well and in the best of health. Tell Ocie hello and I am looking forward to seeing her soon. I guess everything is going along fine there and you are working hard as ever. I am working on a farm and long hours. I have been thinking of you lots lately and wish I could be there with you. Tell everybody hello for me and I hope to be home soon. There is not much I can say so I will close. Hoping I'll hear from you soon.

Love, Raymond.

Seaman First Class Donald Mason Haptonstall, of the Navy, also writes to his mother as follows:

October 3, 1944. Dear Mother and Helen:

Will answer your letter I received today. I am fine and hope you and Helen are the same. Although I am working harder than ever and guess you are also. I wrote to Raymond on July 29, and it was returned to me the other day with "missing" written on it. Have you heard from the War Department yet? If I get any Christmas cards to send this year it will be a miracle. I am sending you a money order and use it if you need it and if not put it with the rest of my money. You can never tell when I might need it. Muriel said everything was dead at Cass as usual. I had better cut this short as it is time forchow call and I would hate to miss out on two of these delicious meals in one day. I am sorry Ocie got so badly hurt in a car wreck. Is she still in New Jersey?

Do not worry and take care of yourself.

Love from your son, Donald.

The following letter is from Corporal George Raymond Shrader and was sent in by Mrs. Shrader:

I'm starting this Wednesday 13th, 1:00 P. M. We are on the train just northwest of Richmond, Indiana. There is about four inches of snow on the ground, and from the looks of things is very cold.

We left Farmington, La., at 12:30 P. M. yesterday. Pulled out of the station, New York City at 2:20 P. M. and passed through Philadelphia at 4:00, about one inch of snow on the ground, and it was snowing at Farmington when we left. We passed through Pittsburgh at 2:00 A. M., and Columbus, O. at 7:00 this A. M.

Friday morning, Camp Livingston, La. Arrived in camp at 8:30 A. M., and just had breakfast I'll let you know what's to happen to us soon as I find out myself.

Sunday 19th.

The AAA outfit is still together but by this time tomorrow we will be separated. We were in towed, and had a physical examination yesterday. We will have from 10 to 20 weeks basic training. We have seen a lot of men who were here at Camp Davis, and they are only this way because they are tough. We aren't in the infantry yet, just taking this break up course, as they call it here. We will be reassigned after we finish the course. This is a very large camp—the largest I have been in yet. We are only two miles from Alexandria, La. There are many men here, and they are all in the infantry.

Hylton McMillon, 8-2-0, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McMillon, of Beard, graduated from the Navy Radio School at Redford Springs, Pennsylvania, on December 18. This qualifies him as Petty Officer 3-c. He spent seven days at home before leaving for the Pacific.

Their other son, Harold McMillon, a. m. m. 3-2, is now taking special training at Los Angeles, California.

Corporal Willard Addelman was home from the Army on a short furlough with his father, W. W. Addelman last week. He is stationed in Alabama. He was accompanied by his wife.

Donald M. Bowers, 8-1-0, was home from England on a 90 day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Kate Bowers, at Williamsburg, Virginia. He has returned to his base.

Fire-Cured Tobacco Tobacco cured in an atmosphere of wood smoke similar to that used for smoking meats and fish is known as fire-cured tobacco. In this country tobacco is fire-cured in certain sections of Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. The product is utilized in the manufacture of the Italian type of cigar and for snuff. A similar product is prepared at Latakia in the Levant by curing the small leaves of Turkish types in smoke. The flavor of this product closely resembles that of the American fire-cured types.

Carry Seeds Seeds are transported by clothing to a far greater degree than may be generally imagined. For instance the trousers of a home gardener who had spent four days in such work at midseason, were found to carry the seeds of 33 kinds of plants. 11 species of grasses and many types of weeds. His coat contained 200 seeds of just one kind of weed—the Canada thistle.

Plastic Lenses The army, navy and marine corps are using plastic with great success to make lenses for their night vision devices. The lens acts as a light filter, excluding all light except that of the red end of the spectrum. The plastic is unbreakable, and only one color, and has a permanent surface finish.

Service Men Inducted

Reports received by the Local Board indicate men forwarded for induction December 31, 1944, were accepted and assigned for service as follows:

ARMY William Charles Buzzard, Richard Scott Skaggs, Theodore Guy Olsen, Randall Dice Fertig, Zed Elwood Weatherholt, Dewey Hunter Ervin, Lanty Dale Ryder, Neil Wealey Hill.

NAVY Oliver Isaac Pritt, Norman Lee Dickenson, Dice Earl Sharp, Cecil Edwin Boyce, Beecher Brown Willong, Conal Utah Blanchard, Thomas Alvin Cassell, Franklin Morrison.

Muriel Andrew Robinson, Robert Harrison McNeil, Bernard Porterfield Galford, Jans Charles Underwood.

Men listed on this call who had entered Army Service at time of Pre-Induction Examination were:

Herbert Dale Arbogast, Lawrence DeWilton Powers.

Names of other men applying on November Call who had been previously accepted at time of Pre-induction examination or upon transfer, were:

ARMY Hazel Preston Brock, Odell Powell Bowman, Lacy Robert Bryant, Jr., Warden Waugh, Jr.

NAVY Dempsey Thompson Sharp.

Lists of Service Men from records of the Local Board, including discharged and deceased veterans, up to December 31, 1944, total 1504.

Mr. McLaughlin

Lt. Frank Raymond Hill and Miss Dorthea Lucinda McLaughlin were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon, December 30, 1944. It was a beautiful church wedding in the Martinsburg Presbyterian Church.

The groomsmen were Richard McElwee, and the ushers were N. J. Moore, Lee Buckman, Hal Moore, and Francis McElwee.

The wedding march was played by Miss Dorothy Sue McNeel, who accompanied Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson, soloist.

The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens, relieved with white chrysanthemums and white gladioli.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hill went to Hot Springs, Va., to spend their honeymoon.

Mrs. Hill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price McLaughlin. She attended Richmond University and West Virginia University.

Lieutenant Hill is the son of the late Frank R. and Delia Edgar Hill. He attended Davis and Elkins College and the West Virginia University. Nearly four years ago he entered the Army, was attached to the Engineers, and saw long service in Alaska. He is now stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington.

This wedding unites two fine young people, worthy scions of old and leading families of the Greenbrier Valley.

Mr. Brown

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hill, of Lobelia, announce the marriage of their son, Private First Class Ward F. Hill to Miss Irene B. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lake Brown, of Renick, on Friday, December 22, 1944. They were united in marriage by the Rev. W. J. Hanna, in his home on Eastern Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland.

Private First Class Hill has been serving for three and a half years in the Army, and has had training in the States, two years in Panama and was wounded after five and a half months combat duty in Italy.

Mrs. Hill is employed at Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore, Maryland.

The Weather

For the sake of the record let it be put down that parts of Pocahontas county have now been covered with snow for better than six weeks.

That the ice in Greenbrier River broke up on Christmas Day.

That Greenbrier River had a 10 foot rise on Christmas Day and almost as much on New Year's Day.

That all of Pocahontas County was covered with slick ice from Wednesday to Saturday afternoon of last week.

That schools in Pocahontas County were closed for three weeks—December 11, to January 1st—by snow and ice blocked highways.

WALTER W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, JAN. 4, 1945

At the beginning of each year, the assessor starts around to see the taxpayers, to list their real estate and personal property, and to collect application and dog tax. Under our modern tax law, money is taxed at a very low rate, the levy not to exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars. When we all were voting on this amendment to our constitution, one of the arguments advanced in its favor was a low rate of taxation would have the tendency to bring out of hiding a big lot of money run to cover by high levy rates. In some of the poorer school districts this rate of levy was as high as three and even four percent. The amendment was voted in by our people, and the whole thing has worked out just as well. However, it cannot be said that it has been so wonderfully successful in bringing out of hiding for taxation all the money people have hoarded away.

There are both in the law, for the assessor for failure to list money for taxation is good and heavy. There is no escape, either for owner or later, the delinquent is to be sure and certain to come to light. If not before, it will come after the death. Then it is that innocent people are included in the payment of heavy taxes. I know of one man, the owner of a supposedly abandoned man, in which the assessor collected by the State in money with him, for taxation amounted to more than would have been required to pay the tax for fifty years.

Every once in a while a lawyer gives me a bunch that for the assessor good an editorial is in order urging people to get right with the law by making an honest listing of their money with the assessor. Usually this suggestion is made when the assessor of a big estate has uncovered property withheld from taxation and the big penalty collected in a matter of general conversation in the community. At such times such comment as this on the advantages of an honest listing of property with the assessor is a somewhat delicate subject.

Now, with the assessor and his deputies abroad in the land, seeking property to list for taxation, a word urging the honest listing of money with him is not amiss. Every now and then innocent people are mulched in real money penalties for the short coming of one whom they had every reason to believe would safeguard their interests, and so a mark is placed beside an otherwise good name.

Like all other short comings the flesh is heir to, about the most anything comment any editor can make on failure to make an honest accounting of money to the assessor for taxation is that it is not a smart thing to do. I had in mind to deal with this subject from the text, but sure your sin will find you out. However, I feel this way of attempting to short change the assessor is so down right simple minded and idiotic as to be hardly classed as defaul.

While I have under consideration the matter of telling other people about their business affairs, let me make a suggestion or two about the making of that will so many of you have been putting off from time to time. Always a timely suggestion is never to make a will when you are mad, but that the law made and provided that free course in the matter of settlement of an estate that the dead hand reach back to carry out will be overruled by the law. If you will, even a simple suggestion makes a will a must for the time being.

I had stopped for a smoke when I looked over to my right in a bunch of hard not more than ten feet from a cliff. I saw there had been some struggling at some kind. I went to the scene of destruction to investigate; there I found blood. It looked to me like two buck deer had been fighting, but after a better investigation I found a track something like a wild cat but much larger. I forgot about my fox. Then I looked over the cliff and there lay the biggest doe deer I ever saw.

I thought I would go down and cut me a slice of ham—no good to let good meat waste if I don't need any points to get it. I hadn't thought much about the deer's death at that time, so I bravely approached the "jude bama." I noticed the deer had been cut deep with some kind of knife or pair of sharp claws. I reached down to start carrying the fat ham. To my surprise the deer was still warm. I set my gun against a tree and started to work. I had one ham skinned out when "whack" something hit me in the back. I thought sure the game warden had me; but sure wasn't any sense in him tearing my clothes off me. We had rolled over, I got up, but no one there; but there he went down the mountain, the biggest cat I had ever seen.

My first thought was that the "Blue Devil" you used to write so much about had returned. I left my meat behind—he could of had it if he wanted it. The animal was going my way so I couldn't hardly keep from following him.

He seemed not to be in any hurry and I wasn't caring to catch up with him. Whatever it was when it came to the water it either went up or down the stream to keep me from tracking it. If it only knew it I didn't want to track him. I don't think I will ever go hunting again.

Then there was the other estate, consisting of a lot of land and a lot of ready money. He had no children, so he wished his real estate to go to certain members of his father's family. He wanted his ready money to go to a certain person who had cared for him and attended him during his illness. He wanted to take care of him handsomely, and he and the handy man of the community who wrote the will thought they had done so. The various trusts of land were disposed of by specific bequests, with the residue of the estate to go to the friend he wished to so richly reward. No thought was given to the fact that there is no residue of an estate until all administrative costs, including inheritance taxes, are paid. The outcome in this particular instance was the one who received the residue of the estate had to pay around fifteen thousand dollars—the entire administrative cost of settlement—before he could share as a beneficiary.

When the Apostle Paul wrote, "I have learned in whatsoever state I am therewith to be content," he did not mean that he was satisfied with things as they are and that he would therefore attempt to do nothing about them. His whole career is a refutation of any such idea. In his words there is another lesson for us altogether. We must learn not to be treacherous or rebellious, hindering our usefulness and weakening our powers by bitterness and resentment; but whatever our present situation, we must be doing all we can all the time for our own spiritual growth and the making of a better world. The great Phillips Brooks once wrote: "God will be the day for any man when he becomes satisfied with the life he is living, with the thoughts he is thinking, and the deeds he is doing; when there is not beating at the door of his soul a desire to do something greater which he knows he is meant to do because he is a child of God." To be truly Christian is to grow—to grow in the grace and knowledge of Christ—had to be not weary in well doing.

DEATHS

Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks Hall
Mrs. Elizabeth Brooks Hall, aged 85 years, wife of O. Forest Hall, of Durbin, died on Tuesday, December 19, 1944, at her home. Besides her husband, two daughters survive. They are Mrs. O. F. Tucker, of Lynchburg, Virginia, and Mrs. E. M. McLaughlin, of Covington, also two brothers, W. E. Brooks, of Huntington, and E. M. Brooks, of Marlinton, Ohio. Her funeral was held Thursday afternoon at the residence in Durbin, with Rev. O. W. Price officiating. Burial was made in the cemetery at Marlinton.

COLORED NEWS
Christmas Day dawned January 1st with very little peace on earth but Good Will Toward All men.
There is a Santa Claus after all. Mrs. Agnes Natis says so. Santa visited her early Christmas morning and left her a lovely wheel chair.
Those home during the holidays are: Mrs. Mattie Stewart Finney and Miss Jessie Ellen Lacey, of New York City; Misses Maude Hunter and Eleanor Stewart, and Houston Jefferson, Jr., of Charleston; Miss Mary Boggs, of Elkins; Mrs. Judy Winston, of Kimball, and Roy Gary, of Akron, Ohio.
Mrs. Jean Tibbs and daughter, Lucille, and Walter Lacey, of White Sulphur, and Ralph Lacey, of Romney, were the guests of their mother, Mrs. Emma Lacey, of Barbours, on Christmas Day. Another daughter Ruth, who has been having treatment at Denmar was also a guest.
Corporal Earle W. Evans has been dismissed from Ashford General Hospital, and is spending the remaining days of his furlough at his home here.
Mrs. Edna Knapper spent the Christmas holidays with her son, Emma, and other relatives in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

Charleston—Retiring after 30 years of service in the Forest Division of the Conservation Commission, O. O. Nutter, of Russellville, Greenbrier county, was honored last week by being presented with a Memorial Book and a $50 war bond from commission officials and his co-workers. The presentation was made by Executive Director Jack Shipman. The bond and letters from Shipman, Acting State Forester D. B. Bonebrake and more than forty other co-workers and friends were contained in a wooden binder made by the Meadow River Lumber Co. Into the binder went five different kinds of wood. Inside of the front cover was a burnt reproduction of the state seal and "1914-1944." Nutter entered the service in 1914 as a fire observer and retired this year as a district forester.

Coffee Aids Perfumes
Delicate perfumes, reminiscent of the best that Europe offered in previous days, are now coming from—of all places—the coffee tree. Synthetic perfumes lack the important natural esters which give natural perfumes their rich lingering potency. Concentrated natural perfumes, made out of the oil extracted from coffee beans, is improving many important formulas.

White Shelled Peanut
The U. S. department of agriculture is experimenting with a white-shelled variety of peanut called the "Pearl." Chemists say it has an advantage in supplying a light-colored protein after the nut has yielded its oil. The darker skins of most peanuts add color to the protein meal, and to avoid this, the nuts have to be removed by a lengthy operation to remove the skins. This process is known as "decortication." The white-shelled variety of the new variety are reported to compare favorably with the red-skinned variety in protein content and in other desirable qualities, including resistance to some pests and diseases.

The third anniversary of the "working" fightingest lunch of men in the nation's armed forces, the Navy Seabees, will be observed on December 26th, by 140,000 officers and men of the United States Naval Construction Battalions.

Less than three weeks after the Pearl Harbor disaster, with an authorized strength of 2000, the Seabees were their spurs at Guadalcanal and have been with the assault troops in every major American amphibious operation. They can now boast that they built the network of air and naval bases in the Pacific that pushed the Japs back 3000 miles; that they developed amphibious equipment and techniques that helped carry the day on the African, Sicilian, Italian, and Normandy beachheads.

Every commissioned Construction Battalion is either currently overseas or has completed a tour of duty; many battalions are on their second tours. Seventy six percent of the Seabees are now

Dear Dad:

I got your letter today and sure was glad to hear from you. It was too bad about the mind blowing the top of the barn; the entire barn and house could have been blown down. The storm must have been worse than the one of February two years ago.

I was glad to hear you were well and to hear that grand-mother was feeling better. I hope soon this blasted war is over, so George and I can get home to stay. The darn Germans have driven our boys back in France and Belgium. It may be a trap we are making for them though. Well I wish I could get home for Christmas, but I can't get there I guess. I may however, get another furlough in February.

George is well and getting a long good. I guess you are having a hard time taking care of the stock in this snow. This is a nice camp here, we are at Camp McCall, N. C. We are going back to Camp Jackson Saturday. We are building a combat range for paratroopers here. I met some of the boys I left at Camp Pickett. Some of them have made seven jumps.

Will write more next time.

Oliver.

Dear Dad:

The Red Cross sponsored the tour for us (also a guide) We spent about three days seeing the Holy Land and of course by having a guide we saw the most interesting and important places. We came into Jerusalem first and as we entered to the right, we saw the tower of David which is about 2000 years old. After going down David St. a short distance, we came to what is called the Wailing Wall, which is part of the Temple. The Temple was built 19 B. C., by Herod and was later destroyed, but the exact spot is still known. We then came to the Church of St. Ann and the pool of Bethesda, where Christ performed one of his miracles.

After seeing these interesting places, it was time for lunch. We went back to the American Y. M. C. A. for lunch. We then entered the Old City by way of Saint Stephen's Gate; passed Dolores, then entered the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which contains Calvary, where Christ was crucified and the Tomb of Christ. Although the outside of the church is aren't pretty, the beauty of the inside is beyond description.

The next day we visited the Garden of Gethsemane and the Church of all nations. I could also see the Dead Sea and the Jordan Valley. In the afternoon we visited Bethlehem, also the oldest Christian Church on earth, built to include the manger in which Christ was born.

The next day was spent in looking over the less important places of Jerusalem; also visited the city Received your letter today and was sure glad to hear from you again. It means that you are the daily friend I have back there as no one else has letters to write, or maybe they are just too busy to write, anyway, I never get lonely.

Yes, the Dutch are very nice people and so are the French, but some of them are over take the place of an American. This is a very good place and the chow is good. I also had a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner. I ate so much I almost made myself sick. I guess it is pretty darn cold back there now. I shiver every time I think of one of those December days back home.

No, I haven't had any pictures made over here; that is almost impossible. Well, I guess there isn't much more I can tell you at present. Best of Luck and a Merry Christmas.

Bye for now.

Arnold.

Mrs. J. W. Small of Beard, sends the following letter from her son, Pvt. Ronald L. Small, who is serving somewhere in England. Mrs. Small also has another son, T-4 Dennis K. Small, stationed in England.

November 5, 1944.

Dearest Mother:

I'm going to start this letter tonight while I have nothing else to do or think about. I will probably write more to it each night until things change. I hope that when this letter reaches you that you and Dad will be O. K. and not too worried about me. I just came back from seeing a moving picture show. The show was really good. We have been having good entertainment here; they have a good band, and they also have boxing matches every two days. All this helps keep our mind off of other things to come.

I have met and made a lot of new friends and have been doing a lot of reading, which is more or less to pass the time away. We have had a very enjoyable time and trip so far.

Monday Evening.

We have had a quiet day and everything is peaceful. I haven't done anything but sleep. I wonder how long this will last. I'll stop and eat supper now.

Tuesday—Nothing new today and nothing to write about except the same old stuff. I'll skip a few days and write more later.

Monday, Nov. 13th.

Somewhere in England.

Well Mother, I suppose you will be relieved to know that I am all okay and landed safely. The first thing I saw was the American Red Cross, and they were right on the job. They gave us coffee and doughnuts and boy they hit the spot. A bobby was helping give us the coffee. (A bobby is an English policeman and he sure was on the ball.)

ped over to our group and gave us coffee the second time and told us not to tell on him. The Red Cross women came over behind him and laughed.

Well Mother, I guess I'll sign off now and get this in the mail. Answer real soon. All my love.

Ronald.

Sgt. Lawrence M. Parsons, Jr., was a member of the 44th Bombardment Squadron, 319 Group, which is part of the 42nd Bombardment Wing (M), was on August 8, 1944, cited by General de Gaulle, president of the provisional French government of the French Republic, and Chief of the Armies, with the Croix de Guerre avec Palme, for its outstanding part in the preparation and support of the Allied offensive in Italy, which began on May 11, 1944, by attacking and destroying many most important objectives in support of the French Army, despite intense, heavy and accurate anti-aircraft fire. Post Office News, Pennington, Virginia.

Sgt. Parsons, formerly of West Virginia, is a nephew of Mrs. C. A. Sheets of Greenbank, and Mrs. Paul Morris of Marlinton.

With the Fifth Army in Italy—

Corporal Hubert M. Rose of Hillsboro, West Virginia, is returning home on furlough from General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army after 28 months overseas. Rose has been a member of the 150th "Battle Mountain" Regiment 88th "Blue Devil" Division since October, when he joined the unit in combat in Italy, as assistant rifle squad leader. He entered the army March 25, 1942, at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and trained in field artillery at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He also trained in landing barge work at Camp Edwards, Massachusetts, and shipped overseas August 5, 1943. First stationed in Liverpool, England, he took part in the invasion of Africa with an engineer regiment. His mother, Mrs. Nancy Rose, resides on Crockett Road, Hillsboro.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—

Private First Class Oliver R. McPeters, son of Mrs. Abbie N. McPeters of Marlinton, West Virginia, has been cited by the 6th Armored Infantry Division and awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for actual participation in combat against the enemy with Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army in Italy. Standards for the badge are high. The decoration is awarded to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat. The handsome badge consists of a silver rifle set against a background of infantry blue, enclosed in a silver wreath.

BERLIN IS ONLY A WHISTLE STOP

Yeah; that was Berlin we just passed.

Seemed like we'd never get there, didn't it? And now that we made it, anybody feel like a stopover? Little celebration or something like that?

Forget it, friend. This is a through train we're on. And before we get to where we're going, Berlin will seem like a whistle stop: A dot on the map, once removed.

Tokyo's our destination. Half a world and billions of bucks away, and one thing is sure! If you're going our way, you pay your own freight.

That means you keep on buying more and more bonds until you've bought every bond you can dig up the dough for. And then you buy another one!

Remember, you might be making this trip the hard way. From island to island. Through the jungle. In a B-29. In a submarine.

So don't feel too sorry for yourself. Get that first extra bond today . . . right now . . . this minute!

KEEP ON BUYING BONDS TILL IT'S OVER, OVER THERE!

You Whipped I Love You

While I loved you, life was gay
While we were together
I loved to hear you say,
I love you.

Sunshine on the grass
Sprinkled with heavenly dew!
Made everything wonderful,
For you have just whispered—
I love you.

Before you went away
You whispered to me,
I'll love you always,
Please wait for me.
And when you went away,
Far over the distant sea,
I didn't know it was
The last time you'd say—
"I love you," to me.

Now, that you are gone,
The sun's not so bright
Nor the sky so blue,
But I can still hear you whisper—
"I love you."

First Lieutenant L. E. ... of ... who was ... in his ... over Germany, and ... at the Don Co ... hospital at St. Petersburg, Florida, was home on a seven day leave from the hospital and visited his sister, Mrs. F. J. Widney, of Elkins.

A bombardier navigator, he was shot down twice and the second time was on his 50th and last mission. What happened to him between the time he was shot down the second time and the time when troops of his own country arrived in the country in which he had landed in a parachute cannot be told.

Lieutenant Kiser entered the service in March, 1942, receiving his training at Santa Ana, California, and Roswell Field, New Mexico. — Randolph Review.

With the 80th Infantry Division—Sergeant Phil J. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nelson, of Cass, West Virginia, has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge for superior performance of duty on the front lines of France and Germany. He has been in the service since July, 1942.

Mrs. Mable Burris, of Cass, sends in the following telegram received from the War Department:

"Regret to inform you your son, Private First Class Frank E. Burris, was slightly wounded in action December 19, in Belgium. You will be advised as reports of condition are received."

Mrs. Dulcie K. Reed, of Roanoke, Virginia, received the following telegram from the War Department:

"Regret to inform you that your husband, Private First Class Carl Reed, was seriously wounded in action in Germany, December 11th. You will be advised as reports of his condition are received."

Private First Class Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reed, of Huntersville. They have a son, Theodore, serving with Patton's Third Army.

Camp Atterbury, Indiana—Private Dice E. Sharp, son of Mrs. Gosh Sharp, of Marlinton, West Virginia, has been transferred to the Infantry, T. O. Camp Wolters, Texas, for basic training.

Camp Atterbury, Indiana—Private Beecher Wilfong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burley B. Wilfong, of Watoga, West Virginia, has been transferred to the Cavalry, R. T. C. Fort Riley Kansas, for basic training.

Glenn and Raymond Shrader were called home from the Army this week by the serious illness of their father, George H. Shrader.

Ralph R. Boggs, of the Marines, stationed in the South Pacific, has recently been promoted from Private First Class to Corporal. He is the son of Mrs. Leah Boggs, of Marlinton.

Mrs. H. M. Warren, received a letter from her son, Sergeant ... who was wounded. He says it was no more than a scratch, and that he had not lost a minutes duty. It happened after their objective had turned in he was hunting Jerry, and he and a Frenchman tangled with a bunch of them and he got hit, but kept right on and captured prisoners. Sergeant Warren has been recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross.

Mrs. Ruth Sparks Clark, has been notified that her husband, Technician 4 Ransom E. Clark, stationed in France has been awarded the Expert Infantryman's Badge for satisfactory performance of duty in action against the enemy.

Mrs. Letha Sparks has received the following letter from Major Daniel L. Dann:

Dear Mrs. Sparks: Your son David, was recently awarded the Drivers Badge. This award is given only to our best drivers with a good record and you may be sure it is well deserved.

Best wishes for the holidays. Sincerely yours, D. L. Dann.

David is a driver of jeep ambulances and is stationed in France.

Hubert Buzzard, mechanic in the Air Corps, with five years service behind him, is home on a 15 day furlough with his father, R. W. Buzzard and other relatives. He made the trip from Africa to New York by plane.

Sergeant George D. Thompson has returned to Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, after spending Christmas with his parents, at Millpoint.

Sergeant James Howard, of the Air Corps, stationed at Charleston, South Carolina, is home on furlough with his wife and little son, James Judson, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Howard, of Buckley.

15th AAF in Italy—Staff Sergeant Frank B. Crigger, 25, of Huntersville, West Virginia, has been authorized to wear a second battle star, 15th AAF Headquarters announced.

He is a member of the engineering section of a B-24 bombardment group in Italy, commanded by Colonel Henry K. Mooney, New Orleans, Louisiana, which has flown more than 160 combat missions against strategic enemy installations in central and southern Europe.

Previously awarded a battle star for his participation in the Rome-Arno campaign, Crigger received the second star for his part in the invasion of southern France. The battle stars are worn on the European-African-Middle Eastern Theatre Ribbon.

Before entering the service on February 2, 1942, Sergeant Crigger was employed by the National Forest Service.

"Go to hell! We would not surrender if our last round of ammunition was fired and our last bayonet broken off in a Jerry belly!"

Soldier Thomas Dearing is at home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dearing. He has been in the Army three years and ten months. He served a couple of years in Alaska. He comes home from Australia.

Dear Mr. Price: I am enclosing a copy of a telegram we received from the War Department on January 2, regarding our son, Cpl. Robert S. Williams, who has been a prisoner of the Japanese since the fall of Bataan. He had previously been in Camp 10-C, in the Philippines. This is the first word received regarding him in over a year. The letter he refers to was the first written to him—November, 1943.

Since receiving this telegram, several people in California, who had picked up the message on their short wave sets, have written us, sending similarly worded messages. Our other son John Hunter, is a Navy Pilot, flies a fighter plane, with address F P O San Francisco, California.

SOCCER BALL IN FRANCE With the 30th Infantry Division of the United States Army in France.

The first International Soccer game held recently in France was played by the Veterans Football Club Xertigay, champions of the Vosges Provinces and the defeated American Liberators from the 45th Division. But the score was close—2-1.

For four years the champions were forbidden by the Germans to participate in their favorite sport of football (known as soccer in the United States). So in honor of the liberation, the 45th Division men were challenged to a game.

The American lineup included Basil Sharp of Marlinton, who played inside left forward.

Prior to the kickoff the Mayor of Xertigay presented the American Liberators with a trophy which was accepted by the team captain. Three hundred and fifty soldiers and civilians cheered the teams as they took the field.

The Liberators seemed bewildered by the fine teamwork of the French team, but the brilliant playing of Lieut. Laverson, former Temple University star, and Private Sharp, limited the French scoring to only two goals.

It was not until the closing minutes of the final quarter that Private Miles scored the only goal on a free kick from Lieutenant Laverson.

"It was a fine game," Goalsie Cable declared.

"And don't forget the swell party they treated us to," Sgt. Sutton concluded.

Barlman - Alderman Miss Mabel Grace Alderman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Alderman of Alvon, W. Va., and Ralph Walter Hardiman S. F. 2-C, son of Mrs. Ada Hardiman, of Covington, Va., January 5, 1945 by Rev. Heimstoller.

The wedding was witnessed by the bride's sister, Mrs. Freda Wade, of White Sulphur Springs. PFC. Lonnie Boggs, who was chosen as best man was unable to attend due to his call back to camp, while on furlough to Alvon.

Mrs. Hardiman is a graduate of the White Sulphur High School and is now employed at the White Sulphur Industry.

Mr. Hardiman, who at present is stationed at Norfolk, Va., has seen action in the Mediterranean area for the past year.

Sixth Liberty Loan

The final figures in the Sixth War Loan, show an over sale of fifty percent in the nation, and a bigger percentage over sale in West Virginia to place second. A heavy over sale in all bonds in Pocahontas County, to place about seventh.

Senator Fred Allen, our County chairman, has report of a total sale of $233,000, on an asking for $143,000. The poor man's bond is E, and the sale of E's dragged as compared with the other issues. Our county people were asked to invest in $14,000 worth; they finally took $104,000 worth.

Our eighth district is composed of the counties of Greenbrier, Monroe, Pocahontas and Summers. Our district chairman is Col. H. B. Moore. He received the following from W. C. Hanlan, executive State Manager:

"Latest report shows every county in your region reaching its 'E' bond quota. Your region's performance was an important factor in putting over E quota. You and your chairmen are deserving every commendation."

Our Army and Navy Boys

Arthur Gum of the Navy writes as follows to his father, Harry Gum of Cass, from the South Pacific:

U. S. S. Fremont.
Guess you think that I have forgotten you; but I haven't, it's just that I have been kept busy the last few months. It's hard to tell when I'll get home; there's plenty of work to be done out there yet, and it's possible that I'll be in it.

The biggest invasion that I have been in, was the Philippine (Leyte) Campaign and Pelelior. Don't let anyone tell you they aren't afraid, or at least I am. With all those Jap planes around you, it's time to be afraid, I hope, and God will stay with you as before. Believe me Dad, our ships have really sent plenty of planes to the bottom. The Japs would rather die than live. People don't understand war until they get into it.

I made another rating the other day, which is equal to Sergeant in the army. I've saved quite a sum of money, since I've been over there. There isn't anything to spend money for.

Will close and get a little sleep. Write when you can, and take care of yourself.

Your son, Arthur.

Mr. A. H. Wade, of Minneha Springs, sends the following letter from her son, Cpl. Elton O. Wade, who is in Germany; he has been over seas 20 months.

Dec. 5, 1944.

I will now try and answer your nice letter I received a few days ago; was glad to hear from you, and thankful you were getting along alright.

Well, I got the Xmas packages in good shape, and the candy sure was good. I also got a package from Eula. Mom, I don't have anything to send but my love, so may God help us to be together by next Xmas.

Well guess the hunters have been there and are gone by now. I'm anxious to hear how many deer was killed. Hope Dad got out one this fall. I was glad to get The Times you sent; I seldom ever get one any more. I guess the weather is getting cold there now. Take best care of yourselves.

I went on a pass to Belgium; it is a nice country. The people were nice but I couldn't understand much of what was said. I have seen a lot of country since I have been here but it has been a tough way of seeing it. Hope all had a nice Christmas and a good dinner. I get plenty to eat and tobacco and cigarettes. I am well and making it alright.

Tell all hello, for me and to write often. I don't know any more to write, so may God bless and protect us until we meet again. With love to all.
Elton.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Underwood of Huntersville, sends this letter from their son, Holl.

Camp Bowie, Texas.

Dear Mother and Dad:

I received your letter today and certainly was glad to hear from you. This leaves me O. K. and feeling fine. We have been rather busy the last two weeks. We fired the carbine rifle on the range one day and I believe it was the most disagreeable day I have seen in a long time. It started off with a downpour of rain, which turned to sleet then to snow and back to rain. What made it so disagreeable was when we had to fire from the prone position, the water ran up our coat tails and really soaked us. After such a day one appreciates a warm fire and hot shower.

We worked on a 24 hour shift system for three days last

Dear Folks:
At last I can tell you what country I am in anyway, even if I can't tell the exact location. We are somewhere in North Africa. Never did I think I would be this far away from home, and see the things we have. The more places I go and the more people I see just makes me appreciate the fact that I am an American. When you see these people half fed and dirty as can be, you just wonder how they live.

Day before yesterday, we took a trip in a truck and got to see a little more of the life of the people here. Most of the population is Arab and they are a very dirty and ignorant people. Part of the people live in houses made of stone or mud but a lot of them just dig a hole in the side of a cliff and call it "home, sweet home." The goats and chickens live right along in the same house. Talk about stink you can smell those caves and houses for half a mile.

Most of the Arab women dress in white sheets. (that was the original color) with only one eye that can be seen. Part of these women are like the women in the states and don't give a darn and show their faces. All these women have some sort of religious tattoo on the forehead, each cheek and on back of the hands; it does not help their looks much.

The men wear anything they can get their hands on. A lot wear parts of uniforms that have been discarded by our boys. All the kids play in the streets and beg for money, gum or cigarettes. What fools me is that these little kids have a heck of a lot of money. If they can't beg they will buy anything they can and wear the shirt off your back. Prices are high due to the black market, which most of the kids sell to. They will sell 50 cents a pack for cigarettes and 35 cents for gum. For a bed sheet you can get as much as $35. to $40. The other day I was offered $30. for the pants I was wearing. I don't know how he expected me to get home. The Army is pretty rough on soldiers who sell to the black market.

Well I wish I could be home for Christmas but it will be impossible. We will have plenty of good things to eat, but it won't compare with the Christmas dinner at home.

We had a big parade today, and some received expert infantry badges.

This has been a beautiful day. The sun shined bright and the air has been warm, but the weather changes so sudden, it may be doing most anything tomorrow.

Well I must close for this time, as I haven't any news.

Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Your son,
Holl.

Liout Sherman Beard of the Air Corps, serving in North Africa, writes to his parents, Mr. & Mrs. Henry Beard, of Lewisburg, North Africa.

Dec. 17, 1944.

Dear Folks:

At last I can tell you what country I am in anyway, even if I can't tell the exact location. We are somewhere in North Africa. Never did I think I would be this far away from home, and see the things we have. The more places I go and the more people I see just makes me appreciate the fact that I am an American. Still we haven't received any mail and don't expect we will for some time. It is pretty hard to write letters when we can't get any. I know that you are writing and that one of these days I will get them. It would be nice if I could hear how things are at home. I did see in the paper yesterday where West Va. had 86 inches of snow on the ground. I bet you had a time digging out of that.

That is about all there is left to say. You know I would like to be home, but it isn't too bad over here. I will miss the Christmas dinner just as much as I missed Thanksgiving. It was funny about our Thanksgiving dinner, we were out to sea and it was rough. Half the fellows were sick yet they would take a big plate of food but couldn't eat.

Tell all the folks I think of them and hope they are well.

Love to all,
Sherman.

Harmon Dille received the following letter from Sgt. Marion Stamper, under date of Dec. 5th, New Guinea.

Hi Harmon:

Your letter just received and Xmas card of Oct. 19th. The Christmas greeting makes me feel lots more cheerful. You have no idea what letters and holiday greetings mean to a fellow down here. This place seems close-out of the world. I sometimes wonder if it's a dream, or ever having had a home or being in civilization.

If Everette Dille comes down here, I hope to see him. Bob Woodie is in New Guinea some where, but I can't find out just where. Yes, I've seen quite a few "Nips" since being here; I can tell more when I get home.

Hope, I long for the day when we get back and make up for lost time hunting.

I hope your leg is well; mom told me about you getting it broke.

News is scarce, so long and write soon.

CITATION FOR BRONZE STAR

Captain Thomas C. Edgar, 0101153, Infantry, United States Army, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy from August 6, to Sept. 16, 1944, in France. Capt. Edgar displayed superior leadership in the command of his company during the siege of St. Malo and the siege of Brest. His outstanding, untiring, and exemplary leadership and devotion to duty during these sieges gained his objective in the shortest possible time, with a minimum of casualties to his men and loss of equipment. Throughout these engagements, Captain Edgar's countless examples of great personal courage were a constant source of inspiration to all serving with him.

Captain Edgar entered military service from West Virginia. He is the son of George P. Edgar, of Hillsboro, and grandson of Captain Alfred M. Edgar, of the Confederate Army.

Staff Sergeant Dale E. Arbogast, of the 65th Army Airway Communication Group, has received commendation from his commanding officer, Colonel Kenneth W. Kline. Sergeant Arbogast is the son of Mrs. M. C. Arbogast, of Huntington.

1. This headquarters desires to commend you for the splendid contribution you have made to wards insuring successful accomplishment of the task involved in establishing Detachment H 133rd AAC Squadron, on continental Europe. Yours was one of the first two units to arrive upon the Continent.

2. Your unwavering devotion to duty, your disregard for personal comfort and conveniences working hours, your cheerfulness when faced with situations that could have well been unbearable, your ability to provide when-in-provision was required was an outstanding factor in contributing to the success of the mission assigned to your unit.

3. It is a source of personal pride to the undersigned, to have been associated with your unit in the capacity of Group Commander during this entire period and you may well be proud of the achievements of the unit in which you served during those first days of the invasion. Your unit is credited, by the medical personnel who were there with you, with having been of tremendous assistance in saving lives of wounded soldiers by your conscientious efforts to control movements of air evacuation aircraft as the exigencies of the moment required. Each member of your unit was a part of a team and each one of you played your part to perfection.

4. It is the spirit, co-operation and efficiency demonstrated so ably by each of you which will be the real "Secret Weapon" that will bring this war to a speedy close with victory triumphant for our armies.

What's the idea?
3 tickets!

Sizes hard on the man, yet there he is, with practically 3 cars in 1... First, that's his pre-war car... Second, it became his wartime car... And third—long may it live postwar! For not even record-smashing new car output in 1945 can keep millions from being forced to wait until 1946 or so—most likely including you.

Then go the limit shielding your priceless motor car by having its engine OIL-PLATED. That's your sure gain in switching to Conoco N^o motor oil. Made of finest paraffin-base stock, refined by latest processes, Conoco N^o oil actually tops all that by OIL-PLATING your engine's insides. This extra inner surfacing checks even cruel acid corrosion.

In fact, no straight liquid oil—always wanting to slide off—can ever fight wear like Conoco N^o oil's high-strength liquid film PLUS unprecedented OIL-PLATING. And the less wear, the less carbon and sludge... the more gasoline mileage and battery life, too. There's your whole fistful of reasons for getting patented N^o oil. It costs a mere trifle extra, but how it will help to conserve your car! Change to an OIL-PLATED engine today at Your Milage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

WHAT IS OIL-PLATING?

It's the lubricant that becomes a permanent film on the cylinder walls, piston rings, bearings and shafts. That's how Conoco N^o oil actually tops all that by OIL-PLATING your engine's insides. This extra inner surfacing checks even cruel acid corrosion.

And out goes the worst Winter starting wait... another boost for our N^o!

Army and Navy Boys

Their recruit training schools at Fort Benning, Ga., are now in session. During this period of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruits to determine whether they will be assigned to a Naval Service School, to a shore station or to immediate duty at sea.

When their recruit training is completed, these men will receive a period of leave. They are: Murray Andrew Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrew Robinson, Ninth St., Marlinton; James Charles Underwood, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison F. Underwood, Huntersville; Bernard Porterfield Galford, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Galford, Dunmore.

Clayton Wesley Coffman, Motor Mechanic Mate third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Coffman, of Millpoint, has been awarded the Purple Heart by the Commander of the Fifth Amphibious Force, United States Pacific Fleet, in the name of the President and by direction of the Secretary of the Navy.

He has also been commended as follows by Admiral R. A. Sprague:

CITATION

"For excellent service in line of his profession as a member of a landing boat crew during amphibious landing operations in the Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas. By his skill, able seamanship and unflinching devotion to duty in the face of frequent danger, he contributed materially to the successful missions of his ship. His conduct gives evidence of his great value to the naval service."

Private First Class Lyle Sharp, who is stationed at Stuttgart, Arkansas, is home on furlough with his wife and two children, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Sharp, of Frank. He is accompanied by his wife and little daughter.

Harper H. Smith has received word that his nephew, Dr. Sam Neel, a chaplain in the Army, is missing in action since December 16. He was in the European fighting area. Dr. Neel is the son of Rev. and Mrs. S. R. Neel, of Cumberland, Maryland. He lived here while his father was pastor of the Methodist church, and was a graduate of Marlinton High School.

Pfc. Frank Weatherholt is spending a thirty days furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Weatherholt. They have three other sons in the Army service.

Harper Waugh, S. I. C., is home from the Navy on short leave with his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Waugh. He has been in the Navy fourteen months. His service has been in the Atlantic up to this time.

Lieutenant Albert Covington and his one time neighbor, Private First Class Alfred Callahan, met up on a ship somewhere in the South Pacific.

Mrs. Marion Burr has received the word that her nephew, Harry Topham, of Covington, was reported missing in action in France on December 16.

Serving in Italy, as one of a specially trained WAC company, Miss Daisy C. Criser, of Marlinton has been promoted to the grade of Corporal. She is assigned as secretary with the Air Supply Division. She is a niece of Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin and a sister of Mrs. Marion Burr, of Marlinton.

Private First Class Clarence H. McCombs, of Marlinton, serving in the 80th Infantry Division, has been awarded the Combat Badge for exemplary conduct in action against the enemy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCombs.

George T. Gum, of the United States Navy, serving in the South Pacific, had the good luck one day recently, of meeting with an old friend, Leroy "Pete" Spitzer, a former resident of Marlinton. They had not seen each other for several years. Spitzer's wife and children live at Newport News, Virginia. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Spitzer, of Marlinton.

Mrs. Sandra C. Rose, Jr., has received word that her husband, Sandy C. Rose, Jr., S. I. C., United States Navy, is in a hospital at Flagstaff, Arizona, due to an attack of appendicitis while his company was enroute to Shoshone, California. He underwent an operation and is doing fine.

Hubert H. Buzzard, A. M. I. C. United States Navy, after serving a year in Africa, is spending a 30 day furlough with his wife and little son, Johnny Hubert, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sandra Rose, Sr., of Campbelltown.

Sergeant Lake VanReenan, of the Air Corps, stationed at Cheyenne, Wyoming, spent a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard VanReenan. He returned to his base Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason May have learned that their son, Sergeant Mason May, Jr., who is now stationed with the American Army Air Corps in Holland has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. He has been in the Service four years last September and has served overseas for sixteen months.

Mrs. Ratie L. Huff, of Marlinton, has learned that her son, Private Norval L. Huff, of the Infantry, has landed safely in Italy.

Mrs. Neal Beverage has received word that her nephew, Lieutenant Hanson Sharp, who was serving with the Medical Corps overseas, was killed in action on December 31.

PL. MR. C. SHIP

Hillboro community, and particularly Oak Grove Church, suffered a great loss when First Class Private Paul C. Sharp, recently lost his life in the battle-field of western Germany.

In addition to his good work as teacher and athletic coach for five years in the Hillboro High School, Mr. Sharp was an especially good influence in his religious activities. For several years he was Superintendent of the Chester Mountain Outpost Sunday School, and taught in the Bible Class. During the same period he taught the Young People's Sunday School Class in Oak Grove Church, and was Adult Adviser in the Young People's work. He also did good work as a member of the Oak Grove choir, and as a member of the Hillboro Men's Chorus. In many other ways he was a loyal supporter of the Church and its causes. To church and community-wide activities he was always ready and willing to go wherever he could be of service. This spirit has no doubt been characteristic of his whole military service.

The nation has lost a good soldier, and the whole community will miss a true friend and worker.

J. K. Fleming,
Pastor of Oak Grove Church.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private Charles D. Caswell, ammunition bearer, son of Mrs. Grace E. Caswell, of Cass, and Private First Class LeRoy Burner, rifleman, son of Mrs. Nannie Burner, of Durbin, are members of the 339th Polar Bear Regiment, which recently shattered the vital of the vaunted Gothic Line. This regiment is a part of the 88th "Custer Division." This regiment landed in Italy from North Africa on last March 15 and went into action the next day.

When the Fifth Army offensive opened last May 11, this regiment raced ahead, to shatter its objective the Gustav Line. On June 5 it passed through Rome and crossed the Tiber River, to take a brief rest.

The Polar Bears got their name in the first World War, when they fought in waist deep snow along the 400-mile front between Archangel and Leningrad in Russia.

Robert L. Fitzgerald, Seaman First Class, stationed at Little Creek, Virginia, spent the week and here with his wife and little son. Mrs. Fitzgerald met him at White Sulphur Springs Friday night.

Fred G. Wade was up from Seabert last Friday. He has three sons in the armed service of the United States. Fred Jr., is in France; Robert in the Philippines; and Leo, is stationed at Portsmouth, Virginia.

On January 6, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Moore received a letter from their son, Chesley, stating that he was somewhere in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Woodruff, of Greenbank, have received word that their son, T-Sergeant Clyde W. Woodruff, has been transferred from New Guinea to a base in the Philippines.

Harry Clayton Monte, son of Mrs. Susie Barb, of Cass, has enlisted in the United States Navy and is taking his training at Great Lakes Illinois. Mrs. Barb has another son in foreign service of the United States Navy.

Kisel Craddock, of the United States Navy, stationed in New York, is home on a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Craddock, of Dunmore. He has now served 18 months.

Private First Class Delbert Ogar is home from the Army with an honorable discharge. He is back from 18 months overseas duty with the Air Transportation Corps. In all, he was 97 months in the Army. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ogar, of Edray.

Lieutenant Harry Lynn Shady of the Air Corps, now stationed at Memphis, Tennessee, is home on a furlough with his father, Mayor Carl L. Shady.

Billy and Stanley Moore, of the Navy, are home on leave with their mother, Mrs. Frank Moore.

Ernest Haddock, son of Dr. H. H. Haddock, of the Army, is home on leave from the Army with an honorable discharge.

THE HILLS

The weather continues very cold, with some snow. Rains have cleared away most of the ice and snow drifts and all our roads are open for traffic. During the deep snow of the latter part of December our community was deprived of mail service for a period of ten days.

Miss Hallie Moore of Knapp Creek is spending a few days with her father, O. K. Moore, who has been in failing health for some time.

Forest Taylor and son Jimmy, Ernest Kelly and Audrey Mullins are doing Defense work in Bristol, Tennessee.

Archie G. McFarland, son of Walter Edwin, of Lewisburg, was called home by the death of their mother, Mrs. Jasper Loury, of Cass.

We are sorry to hear of the severe illness of one of our former neighbors, George H. Shrader, who is a patient in the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. His sons, Glen and Raymond, of the U. S. Army, and Sterling of Michigan, were called to his bedside.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sharp of Frost, in the loss of their son, Basil, who lost his life in the service of his country. He was one of our best promising young men.

Dale Grimes, who was a patient at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital for several days, has returned to his home. Dale had the misfortune to cut his foot severely with an axe. Several stitches were required and it will be quite some time before he will be able to walk again, as the legaments were completely severed.

Hevener Dilley has been at the C. & O. Hospital at Clifton Forge for an examination.

John E. Shrader, lost a very valuable horse last week.

Live stock seems to be wintering well despite the fact that our hay crop was very light due to the drought.

Mrs. Page Smith, of Rollingwood, Richmond, Va., spent several days with her mother, Mrs. John W. Grimes and her brother Dale Grimes.

Red River Settlement—Menitoba was known as the Red River settlement before it entered the Dominion of Canada in 1870.

Hultz, has returned to San Diego, California, for reassignment after spending 10 days at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hubert Lewis, of Hillboro. He is back from the South Pacific, having participated in the Marianas, Marshall, Saipan and Philippine Islands invasions.

Mrs. Wallace Dancy has returned to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, where she is employed, after a visit at Newport News, Virginia, with her husband, who was on a nine day leave from Great Lakes, Illinois. Mrs. Dancy will be remembered as Miss Mildred Puffenberger, of Hillboro.

Mrs. William Miller has returned from a two week's visit with her husband, who is in the U. S. Navy, stationed in Chicago.

FIELD NOTES

Olas Underwood, over on Beaver Creek, has made good time on the foxes. The last week or two he had out seven head of grey. He uses just an ordinary farm run of dog, which has developed a taste for chasing foxes. Last Friday Mr. Underwood was out on the flats and ridges at the foot of the big Beaver Lick, not far from the home of William Crigler. He found the track of a big wild cat. Soon he came to the still warm beds of a fawn, which the cat had killed and partly eaten. The dog gave the cat a chase for about fifteen minutes but lost it and came back.

Early in the winter my friend, J. W. Carpenter, of Spruce Flat, told me this would be a winter of deep snows and many of them. The exact number of snows for the winter in twenty-three years of record is twenty-three, the depth of each to vary with the season. Our record shows that November 1st, so there will be a snow for every day between that day and the 30th of the month—28 in all.

A big deer kind of disrupted proceedings for a time on Harry Cochran's log job up on Alleghany Mountain in the Lury Draft one day last week. Okey McClain was riding a horse and Harry was driving a team up a skidding road, when a big deer jumped out a nearby tree top and made off with a lot of speed and some noise through the woods. The horses broke too. Okey went over backwards into the deep snow; Harry's team hung up on a tree, with a horse on either side.

John Opie Bennett of Boyer, was down from Alleghany Mountain last Saturday. He reports the country over run with foxes, and no one with bounds to keep them down. Grouse are very scarce as a consequence.

Down on Stamping Creek one day last week a fox was killed. It had stuffed itself with a quail and a rabbit.

Dear Mother and Dad:
I will take the pleasure in dropping you a few lines to let you know I am all right and hope this finds you the same.
I have received the package you sent and certainly do thank you. I have missed the pen Mr. & Mrs. O'Connell sent, and I only wish I could send all of you something nice, but anything that is worth sending is three times its actual value. The only thing we are short of is cigarettes, but maybe there will be plenty later.
I receive mail every day from Eunice, which keeps me company by reading. Tell all the children I said hello and to be mean as snakes, which I figure they are. Tell Louise and Alex I received their nice letter and will answer when I have a chance.
Well I must get some sleep, so answer real soon. Keep your chin up.
As ever, your son,
Harry.

Mrs. Rebecca Walker, of Marlinton, sends in this letter from her son, P.F.C. John E. Walker.

Dear Mother:
I hope this will find you all well and happy. I am getting straight as I can write and let you know how much I enjoyed it. I can't explain how much I appreciate everything you sent. I hadn't smoked a Lucky for over two months, so you know I enjoyed them. We can't get any good cigarettes like we once could; Camels and Luckys are very scarce.
What made me so happy, were the pictures you sent. They gave me an idea of how everyone back home looks. You and Papa both got a kiss soon as I opened the box. I think you both look well. I can't help looking at Mary's picture, I don't think it looks like her. Tell Joe I think I will have lots of visitors when the War is over, for these boys had a fit over her picture; but I also have one of her and Oliver, so when I show them that one, and tell he is her husband, they back up a little.
Tell Norman I thank him a million for the bill fold, and ask him what he is waiting on. Tell him I don't think he will find a better or more beautiful girl on earth, than the one he sent the picture of.

Has Dolly been up home lately? I seldom ever hear from her. I had a letter from Virgil, but he didn't have much to say. I think he is getting ready to take a boat ride. I hope he will never have to come over here, for it is sure a hard thing to endure. Well I must close. Answer soon.

from Mrs. Keyser and a letter and pictures from Joan Pritchard.
I was on the working party that got the place ready for the Lusa at Anahola Valley. We worked up there for four days last week. We decorated it all up with leaves. The Lusa went over pretty good until they started fighting. Then I got in a truck and came back to the base.
The food they had was really tasty especially the meat. I will attempt to tell you how they fix it. They cut the meat into about one pound pieces and wrap each piece in banana leaves. They have a pit dug and place very hard wood in it and lay rocks on the wood, then light the wood. When it burns they only have red hot rocks. They cover the rocks with banana leaves, and place the meat on them, and cover it with a burlap sack to keep the heat in. It takes about 12 hours to prepare a year old calf or a 250 pound hog. It is really tender. They prepare fish the same way only it does not take long. Pot is their main dish and tastes something like hanoovers.
From the way you write, you all must really be having a snow storm. Well we have the same here just as bad. Do you remember a few years ago when it rained so hard and nearly washed the town away? That is how it is here. Maybe it will stop for 15 minutes to an hour and then start again.
I finally got off the latrine and got on the milling machine. It took me a good while but I finally made it. I like it much better than the latrine.
How are John and Graham getting along on their leave? Give power to them for they deserve it. It is time for lights out so I will close. Answer real soon.
Love, Leonard.

Mrs. Kyle C. Dilley received the following clipping from her husband, P.F.C. Kyle C. Dilley, who is with the Eighth Infantry Division. Mrs. Dilley received a letter from her husband written on Xmas Day in a hospital somewhere in France.

ALL HANDS FORM CARRYING PARTY.

With the 8th Infantry Division, Germany: For eight days, the officers and men of headquarters company carried in supplies on their backs under fire and carried out the wounded to keep the First Bn. of the 28th Inf. Reg. in the position they had been ordered to hold.

Although torn by constant counter-attacks, the companies clung to that key salient in the gloomy Hurtgen Forest. Supply and evacuation were the worst problems. The one approach lay across an open draw, which was blasted night and day by enemy fire. Only men on foot could bridge that draw.

Every possible man in the C. P. was organized into a carrying party. Rations and water, ammunition and equipment were transported on vehicles to the rear C. P. There the carrying party took over the supplies. The porters stumbled through the darkness to the edge of the draw. They slid down a long, almost vertical bank, crossed the shell-lit hill, and climbed up the other side. Coming back, they bore the litter of the wounded.

Everything the battalion received during those hectic days, was carried in by these parties, and every wounded man was evacuated.

Mrs. A. B. Brooks of Baltimore sends in a letter she received from Merle McLaughlin of the Navy:

Will try and answer your letter and Christmas card; was glad to hear from you and to know all of you are well.

Sorry I didn't get to see you more when I was home last spring. I hope Andy and Moody got home for the deer season.

It seems funny Lyndel going to school, but maybe I have been gone too long. It was 4 years December 11th, and I still have two more years on this enlistment. I made another rating but have to wait for it to go into effect. Then I will be first class machinist mate, by trade or a first class petty officer.

Tell everyone hello for me; will try and write you sooner from now on.

Your cousin, Merle

Mrs. Preston Galford, of Cam, sends in the following letter from her son, Leonard Galford, motor machinist mate 2-c, stationed in the Hawaii Islands:

Kauai, T. H., Christmas Day.

Dear Mother, Dad and Evelyn: I guess you are worried because I have not written but I have been so busy the past week that I have not had time to write. Today was the first mail call I have had since last Tuesday. I received two letters from you: one dated December 18th, the other the 20th, a Christmas card

He is now stationed at Jacksonville, Florida. He has had four years and six months service.

Litz, Pa.

Last spring my friend S. S. Davidson left his farm on Back Allegheny to go to work in the Shuckard Candy factory, Litz, Pennsylvania. Last week I got a box of mixed candy from him and a letter:

"I am sending you a box of mixed candy, made in the factory where I work. I am on the night shift and I work from 5 o'clock in the evening to six in the morning—thirteen hour day. During the summer, I planted an acre of ground by hand and worked it with a hoe. My other ground was all farmed by tractor. I had three acres of field corn. Fertilizer and seed cost $4.50; plowing and discing and cultivating cost $50. I husked the corn and cribbed it all myself. The yield was 340 bushels. I did all this in day time after thirteen hours factory work at night. In addition I feed hogs and care for 200 hens. While I am 69 years old, it seems like I am still foolish about work."

"You will find in your candy box an almond bar of one ounce. The machine which makes these came out $2,000 in an eight hour shift. Three men knock out the molds and set trays up. Each man handles one and a half tons of candy. You can figure out how many pieces."

"So far there has been very little snow here; maybe as much as three inches at one time. The coldest has been 4 to 6 above zero."

Mrs. Levi C. Galford, of Ocas, spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Kellison.

Miss Madge McPherson, of Ocas, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sterl McElwee.

Barbara B. Bredon

Barbara B. Bredon, of Marlinton, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon.

"This day that Barbara Bredon and Emma Strickland celebrated their wedding was a day of much joy to all who knew them. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon, of Marlinton. Emma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon, of Marlinton.

"Now? Today? Oh, Emma, suppose she doesn't like me!" "She'll like you, all right," he grinned. "You're a big girl. That's enough for me. She's a friend for family background. Then he added quickly, 'Not that I'd love you any less, no matter who you were.'"

Lorraine's tears that Mrs. Strickland would disapprove of her vanished five minutes after she had met the kindly old lady. "You're lovely, my dear," she told the girl frankly. "And I know you'll forgive me for being glad Emma is marrying someone with background. He's all I have, and I do so want him to be happy."

No more than I, Mrs. Strickland. I love him too and I'll do my best to make him a good wife. "I know you will. You come from a fine family. The Bredons date back as far as the Mayflowers."

Lorraine could hardly wait to get home to tell her own mother the wonderful news.

"Good heavens, child, what's happened?" Mrs. Bredon exclaimed when Lorraine came bursting through the door.

"Oh, mother, I'm so happy! Emma and I are going to be married!"

"Married?" Mrs. Bredon stared at her daughter in horror. "You marry a Strickland? Oh, my dear, that's ridiculous. The Stricklands are wealthy and have family background."

"So have we. Background, I mean. Oh, mother, money doesn't matter. Nothing matters when two people love each other as deeply as Emma and I."

Mrs. Bredon stared at her daughter a moment and there was despair in her eyes. "My child, I should have told you this before. Both your father, before he died, and I thought you would be happier not knowing. But how could we foretell that you would fall in love with a Strickland?"

The older lady dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief. "Lorraine, you—your mother and I had no children. You were adopted."

"Mother?" Lorraine stared at her mother in dumb horror. "Oh, mother, it isn't the truth! It can't be! Tell me it isn't, mother!"

"I'm sorry, child. It is the truth. Alice Bradley, Lorraine's closest friend and recently married, had been urging her to visit them in the small upstate town of Brainerd for months, and it was toward the end of the year that she decided."

Alice, surrounded by Lorraine's friends, was not only astonished, but delighted.

"I haven't been feeling too good," Lorraine admitted. "It's going to be a spending a few days with you, if you'll let me."

"Let you? Now that you're here and get away at least for a fortnight?" She searched the other girl's eyes. "Say, what's this I hear about you and the Strickland millions?"

"Whatever you've heard, darling, it's wrong," Lorraine smiled, blushing. "Anyway, let's skip it. Shall we?"

Two days of fresh air, glorious sunshine and excellent food did nothing toward erasing the pale and wan look on Lorraine's cheeks. Alice, watching her like a mother, became worried. Secretly she talked the matter over with Ted, her husband, and they decided that something should be done. But what, neither of them at the moment knew. However, Ted was driving into the city the next day, and he promised to call on Mrs. Bredon.

As it turned out, however, it wasn't necessary for Alice and Ted to put any possible plan into execution. A half hour before Ted was due to leave for the city on the following day, a smart looking limousine drove into the yard. Lorraine, watching from the porch, emitted a gasp when Mrs. Strickland alighted.

Escape was impossible. Neither Ted nor Alice was in sight. Mrs. Strickland came up onto the porch. "My dear, you shouldn't have run away. I've been so sure your mother."

"My mother? Oh, Mrs. Strickland, did she—did she—"

"Tell me that you were adopted? Yes. The older woman picked up Lorraine's hand. "Being a foundling is certainly nothing to be ashamed of, my child. There's all the more credit due you."

"But—but you wouldn't want Emma to marry anyone without family background?"

Mrs. Strickland smiled a wise little smile. "My dear, look at me. Haven't you guessed? Didn't it occur to you that the reason I was so eager to have Emma marry someone with background was because I myself was an adopted child?"

Lorraine's mouth fell open. She tried to speak and couldn't. And just then Ted came from the house, carrying a bag. Impulsively Lorraine turned and flew to him.

"Hurry!" she cried. "I'm going with you! Oh, for goodness' sake, Ted, move! Can't you see I—I'm in love all over again?"

"Married?" Mrs. Bredon stared at her daughter in horror. "You marry a Strickland? Oh, my dear, that's ridiculous. The Stricklands are wealthy and have family background."

"So have we. Background, I mean. Oh, mother, money doesn't matter. Nothing matters when two people love each other as deeply as Emma and I."

Mrs. Bredon stared at her daughter a moment and there was despair in her eyes. "My child, I should have told you this before. Both your father, before he died, and I thought you would be happier not knowing. But how could we foretell that you would fall in love with a Strickland?"

The older lady dabbed at her eyes with a handkerchief. "Lorraine, you—your mother and I had no children. You were adopted."

"Mother?" Lorraine stared at her mother in dumb horror. "Oh, mother, it isn't the truth! It can't be! Tell me it isn't, mother!"

"I'm sorry, child. It is the truth. Alice Bradley, Lorraine's closest friend and recently married, had been urging her to visit them in the small upstate town of Brainerd for months, and it was toward the end of the year that she decided."

Alice, surrounded by Lorraine's friends, was not only astonished, but delighted.

"I haven't been feeling too good," Lorraine admitted. "It's going to be a spending a few days with you, if you'll let me."

"Let you? Now that you're here and get away at least for a fortnight?" She searched the other girl's eyes. "Say, what's this I hear about you and the Strickland millions?"

"Whatever you've heard, darling, it's wrong," Lorraine smiled, blushing. "Anyway, let's skip it. Shall we?"

Two days of fresh air, glorious sunshine and excellent food did nothing toward erasing the pale and wan look on Lorraine's cheeks. Alice, watching her like a mother, became worried. Secretly she talked the matter over with Ted, her husband, and they decided that something should be done. But what, neither of them at the moment knew. However, Ted was driving into the city the next day, and he promised to call on Mrs. Bredon.

As it turned out, however, it wasn't necessary for Alice and Ted to put any possible plan into execution. A half hour before Ted was due to leave for the city on the following day, a smart looking limousine drove into the yard. Lorraine, watching from the porch, emitted a gasp when Mrs. Strickland alighted.

Escape was impossible. Neither Ted nor Alice was in sight. Mrs. Strickland came up onto the porch. "My dear, you shouldn't have run away. I've been so sure your mother."

"My mother? Oh, Mrs. Strickland, did she—did she—"

"Tell me that you were adopted? Yes. The older woman picked up Lorraine's hand. "Being a foundling is certainly nothing to be ashamed of, my child. There's all the more credit due you."

"But—but you wouldn't want Emma to marry anyone without family background?"

Mrs. Strickland smiled a wise little smile. "My dear, look at me. Haven't you guessed? Didn't it occur to you that the reason I was so eager to have Emma marry someone with background was because I myself was an adopted child?"

Lorraine's mouth fell open. She tried to speak and couldn't. And just then Ted came from the house, carrying a bag. Impulsively Lorraine turned and flew to him.

"Hurry!" she cried. "I'm going with you! Oh, for goodness' sake, Ted, move! Can't you see I—I'm in love all over again?"

Barbara B. Bredon

Barbara B. Bredon, of Marlinton, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon.

"This day that Barbara Bredon and Emma Strickland celebrated their wedding was a day of much joy to all who knew them. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon, of Marlinton. Emma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bredon, of Marlinton.

"Now? Today? Oh, Emma, suppose she doesn't like me!" "She'll like you, all right," he grinned. "You're a big girl. That's enough for me. She's a friend for family background. Then he added quickly, 'Not that I'd love you any less, no matter who you were.'"

Lorraine's tears that Mrs. Strickland would disapprove of her vanished five minutes after she had met the kindly old lady. "You're lovely, my dear," she told the girl frankly. "And I know you'll forgive me for being glad Emma is marrying someone with background. He's all I have, and I do so want him to be happy."

No more than I, Mrs. Strickland. I love him too and I'll do my best to make him a good wife. "I know you will. You come from a fine family. The Bredons date back as far as the Mayflowers."

Lorraine could hardly wait to get home to tell her own mother the wonderful news.

"Good heavens, child, what's happened?" Mrs. Bredon exclaimed when Lorraine came bursting through the door.

"Oh, mother, I'm so happy! Emma and I are going to be married!"

Mrs. Walter Graham has received word from the War Department that her son, Jay B. Graham, had been seriously wounded in action in Belgium. He is a paratrooper in the 82nd Air Borne Division.

Mrs. Lawrence McLaughlin, of Dunmore, has received word from the War Department that her son, Private Cliff A. McLaughlin, was slightly wounded in action on December 27 in Germany.

George F. Edgar, of Hillsboro, has been notified by the War Department that his son, Captain Thomas Edgar, had been seriously wounded in action on the western front in France. On Monday Mr. Edgar received a letter from Captain Edgar stating that he was not so seriously hurt. He wrote from a hospital in England. Captain Edgar is a member of a Tank Destroyer battalion.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnot McNeill, of Marlinton, R. F. D., have been notified by the War Department, that their son, Gerald, had been seriously wounded in action on the western front in Europe.

Lewis Dumire, son of Mrs. Frankie Dumire, of Elk, is home with an honorable discharge from the United States Army. He was badly wounded in action in Italy.

Mrs. John Wimer, of Hillsboro recently received a letter from her son, Staff Sergeant Arden Wimer, saying he had received a slight chest wound, in action in Germany on December 19th, and was now in a hospital in Paris.

Captain Richard H. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Brown, of Washington Avenue, Covington, Virginia, is reported missing in action over Belgium since January 1. He was in the Air Corps. Captain Brown is a nephew of Mrs. Gus Waugh, of Marlinton, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Grimes, of Dunmore.

Mrs. Kathryn (Rider) Sheets, of Huntersville, received a card from her husband, Corporal Hildie Hudson Sheets, who was reported missing in France September 19th, stating he is a prisoner of war in Germany. He said he was well and being treated as well as could be expected.

Corporal Sheets was with the 45th division in the 7th Army. He had also served with Clark's 5th Army in Italy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Sheets, of Wyandotte, Michigan.

Odie Clarkson, of the Sea Bees, has been promoted to Carpenter's Mate First Class, his wife, Mrs. Margaret Clarkson, has been advised. Odie has been in service for more than a year and is now serving in the South Pacific.

Lieutenant Leonard C. McCutcheon, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, was home last week on furlough with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon, at Greenbank.

THE MAN FROM MARS

William J. Williamson, of Ronks, has been notified that his son, Clyde J. Williamson, had been killed in action on Christmas Day in the European area. Clyde was born near Hillsboro on September 19, 1920. He enlisted in the Army on May 13, 1941, at Marlinton. He served two years in Alaska, returning in March, 1944. He was home on two short furloughs, in last March and then in September. He was sent overseas in early November. His last letter home was dated December 20th.

Lacy Kershner, Seaman First Class, was home on short leave from the Navy, after serving seven months in the South Pacific. His brother, Private First Class D. Woodrow Kershner, stationed at West Point, New York, was home at the same time. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Kershner, of Beard.

Private Russell W. Phillips recently spent a short furlough at his home at Millpoint, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Phillips and his brothers, James and Patrick.

Sergeant Carl Rosberg, of the 201st Infantry, now stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, is home on furlough with his mother, Mrs. John Johnson, of Boyer. Sergeant Rosberg has been in the service nearly four years. He spent two years in the Aleutian Islands. When in Marlinton last Thursday he met Tom Dearing, with whom he had served in the Aleutians. Tom is home now on furlough from Australia.

Soldier Ted Martin, of Marlinton, in the service eight months, now stationed in England, has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. He is in the Signal Corps. His wife the former, Miss Hallie Addison and their three children are residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Addison, on Second Avenue for the duration.

Corporal Charles McClung, stationed somewhere in the Dutch East Indies, writes home that he spent the day and night of January 6th, with a friend from back home, Loy S. . . of the Navy. He says the two of them had right much of a celebration. Corporal McClung is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony McClung, of Charleston, and the husband of Mrs. Bessie Rose Sharp, now of Huntington.

Mrs. Lawrence Alderman, of Van Etten, New York, writes that her son, Gray, has received a rating of Third Class Petty Officer. He is stationed somewhere in the Mariannas. Gray is 18 years old and has been in the service 18 months, all but six weeks training at Camp Perry, Virginia, has been spent outside the U. S.

Sergeant Houston E. Simmons, now stationed at Hampton Roads, Virginia, is home on a ten day furlough. He is accompanied by his wife and their little daughter, Agnes Hannah.

DEATHS

George H. Shrader, aged 64 years, died on Sunday, January 21, 1945. He had been in failing health for some time. On Wednesday afternoon the funeral will be held at the Marlinton Methodist Church, by his pastor, Rev. R. H. Skaggs, assisted by Rev. Fred Oxendale. Interment in the family plot in Mt. View Cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his wife and their son, Thomas, by his sons, Sterl, Raymond and Glenn; by his daughters, Mrs. Cameron Beverage, Mrs. Gordon Mosser and Mrs. Wm. Rosenkrantz. The deceased was a son of the late R. C. and Maria Lewis Shrader. His surviving brothers are J. B. and R. Luster Shrader.

Funeral

Mrs. Pauline Jordan Dilley, aged 26 years, wife of Floyd Dilley, of the United States Army, died on Sunday morning, January 21, 1945, after a lingering illness. On Wednesday afternoon her body was laid to rest by the grave of her little daughter, in the Sharp cemetery at Fairview. The funeral being conducted from Marlinton Presbyterian Church by her pastor, Rev. James C. Wool.

Mrs. Dilley was a daughter of Robert and Flora Moore Jordan. Her brother is Robert, of Baltimore; her sisters are Mrs. Ruth Messie, of Covington; Irene, and Mrs. Thomas Edgar, both of Washington.

Deaths

Thomas L. Beard, aged 67, died at his home in the Leveles on Saturday, January 20, 1945. Two days before his death he suffered a stroke of paralysis. On Tuesday afternoon the funeral was conducted from the home by his pastor, Rev. J. K. Fleming of the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church; interment in McNeel cemetery.

Mr. Beard is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Kincaid Beard, and their son, Carl, of the United States Navy, somewhere in the South Pacific. Also by his daughters, Mrs. Cecil Ferguson, Mrs. Albert Covington and Mrs. Lee Ruckman.

Mr. Beard was a son of the late Edgar and Lucy McNeel Beard. His brother is Carl G. Beard, of Hillsboro; and his sister, Mrs. Zed S. Smith, Jr., of Marlinton.

Thus is noted the passing of one of the leading citizens of Pocahontas County and an upright man.

The woods will die as the Christmas holidays go by, but this one will never pass from view.

Dear family, there have been many days passed since we spent the last Christmas together; in fact this Christmas will make two that has slipped by that we have not seen each others smiling faces. I have missed all of you those days that have gone by and will miss you just as much this year, but I have never been sorry because we are doing this so that great day can continue and will continue. I know there are many boys all over this world who will not hear those Christmas songs which will be ringing throughout the land tonight and loved ones and I am among them but I know that there will be many heads bowed tonight among the service men for one reason and that will be a little prayer no matter how humble it may be. Well as Old Santa will soon be on his way and I don't want him to catch me not asleep, I will say good night and a happy new year to all.

Amarillo Army Air Field, Amarillo, Texas.—Hugh Hefner, son of Mrs. S. M. Hefner, of Beard, W. Va., has completed his course of studies as an aviation mechanic in this Army Air Forces Technical Training School.

His graduation from this technical school now fits him for airplane maintenance. He will be sent to an air base where he will assist in keeping America's Heavy Bombers in the air for Allied victory.

In addition to completion of the schedule of academic and practical studies as an aviation mechanic, he has been thoroughly drilled in military tactics and defense and a course of physical training that has conditioned him to meet all requirements of an American soldier.

Alfred M. Gum, stationed at Liberal, Kansas, is home on a 19 day furlough. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gum of Mill point. He was accompanied by Mrs. Gum.

THE MAN FROM MARS

To Americans, Superman is just a character in a comic strip, but after meeting Benjamin John Warren, Buckeye, West Virginia, Co. D. 10th Infantry, the Jetties—23 of them—are not so sure.

Warren, a squad leader was leading his men through an attack on a Nazi held pill box which was well defended with machine guns, mortars and small arms fire. When the squad reached a point only about 75 yards from the pill box which lay at the top of a winding road, Warren deployed his men in ditches along the sides then enacting two gunned Jesse James, he walked out into the center of the road and blazed a way with two pistols. As fate would have it, the Sergeant had only one round of ammunition but the 23 amazed Krauts decided surrender instead of valor would be best.—Clipped from an English newspaper.

Sixth Army Group, France—Warehouses so badly gutted by the retreating Germans that they had been declared impossible to repair are now still in use in Italy a tribute to the skill and hard work of a company of Negro engineers now serving in France with the Continental Advance Section, supply organization of the Sixth Army Group and the Seventh Army.

When this group of engineers moved in to rehabilitate the warehouses, they applied "GI-neeruity" to their work. The warehouses were quickly repaired and made usable and many of the supplies that backed the invasion of Southern France were stored in them before shipment.

The organization has been overseas two years and its members have earned three battle stars for participation in as many campaigns. But it is proudest of its achievement in Naples, when, after a German air raid, the men of the company worked 48 hours to rescue two soldiers and a civilian trapped under 24 tons of debris.

Among the soldiers in this company are Private Manuel Harrison Evans, son of Harrison Evans, and Corporal Nathan A. Walker, son of Mrs. Susie L. Walker, of Marlinton, West Virginia.

Azel McLaughlin, of the Navy, is home on a 31 day leave with his father, Elmer McLaughlin, of Knappa Creek. He is just back from the South Pacific. He has been in the service three years and 5 months. He wears the pre Pearl Harbor Star and three stars for 3 major engagements. His ship, the Nashville, carried General MacArthur back to the Philippines.

15th AAF IN ITALY.—Corporal Clyde W. Carpenter, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter of Mill point, has been assigned to a veteran 15th AAF P-51 Mustang fighter group in Italy.

This group has participated in every major aerial operation of the Mediterranean Theatre since April 1943, and has the outstanding record of having destroyed 478 enemy planes in aerial combat on 350 missions. They have been awarded two Distinguished Unit Citations for outstanding achievements in aerial combat, and are credited with the greatest single fighter group aerial victory of the Italian campaign—the destruction of 37 enemy planes north of the Gulf of Venice on January 30, 1944. This group, commanded by Colonel Ernest H. Beverly, Laurinburg, N. C., was the first fighter group to fly the historic Italy-to-Russia shuttle mission.

Cpl. Carpenter has served in the Army Air Forces since February 1943, and has been on active overseas duty for 36 months. Prior to joining this organization he served as a radio operator in a Signal Aviation Battalion in North Africa and Italy. He is authorized to wear the African-European-Middle East campaign ribbon with two campaign stars, and the Good Conduct Medal.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Private First Class Loma B. Pugh, son of Mrs. Elva Pugh, of Arrows, West Virginia, has been cited by the 235th Infantry of the 89th "Central" Division and awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for actual participation in combat against the enemy with Lieutenant General Lucian K. Dornst, Jr.'s Fifth Army in Italy.

Standards for the badge are high. The decoration is awarded to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat.

We had a very beautiful Christmas tree this year, but I know you will be surprised to hear that it was made of plywood and was not one of those little pines that will be here for a few days and then gone forever. This little tree will be looked upon by many of the boys of my ship and it will always live with them because we made it ourselves. This tree may splinter and fall to pieces in time to come but it will not be like a tree that came from the woods, that can still always be beautiful and that tree from Mrs. C. W. Dilley of Dunmore, received the following letter from her son, Kyle who is in a hospital somewhere in France:

December 31, 1944.

Hello Mother:

Tonight, I will try and drop you a few lines, to let you know how I am. I am still in the hospital but I am getting along all right. I hope to get some mail soon and the box you sent me for Christmas. I received a box from Guy and one from Anna Lee and Doris.

Well this is the last day of the year. I hope 1945 has the good news for us, and we can get home next year. I am on my second year over seas now.

I mailed Doris a Purple Heart in Sept. Did she get it or not? Well Mom, don't worry, I will be well soon. I was in Germany when I got sick this time. I haven't any news to write, so I'll close for now.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Condee, of Charleston, announce the birth of a son, David Arthur, on January 6, 1945. Mrs. Condee is the former Miss Vada Pifer.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the church on Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. This is the time for the special offering for Foreign Missions.

F. R. Moss and little daughter, Judith Ann, of St. Albans, were called to Elk last week by the illness of Mr. Moss' father, Bruce Moss.

Eugene Pifer is home from Chicago, where he had taken a course with Coyne Electric Company.

Mrs. Paul Hanifin and small daughter, Mary Margaret, of Ron over were guests last Thursday of Mrs. J. L. Hogsett and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Camper.

Mrs. A. C. Pifer is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Condee in Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell McLaughlin, of Dunmore, were in town last Thursday to see Mrs. McLaughlin's sister, Miss Carrie Moore. Of a family of eight children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Moore all are alive.

Mrs. Etta Higgins is in Warm Springs at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Webb, who is ill at the Community Home at Hot Springs.

John McCutcheon, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon, of Greenbank, was on a big radio circuit one night last week, broadcast the latest ball game between the University and Long Island College in Madison Square Garden, New York. Of course John proved a good hand on the air.

Pomphrey Chapter U. D. G. held their Jackson-Lee meeting with Mrs. Mary F. Moore. The birthday of Lee and Jackson were observed at this also Mrs. Moore's birthday. A beautiful birthday cake centered the dining table while red candles, the photograph of Lee and Jackson, the Confederate and American flags decorated the mantle. Mr. Eric Clutter addressed the Chapter on facts about Lee and Jackson and compared their lives and ideals. Mrs. J. Z. Johnson gave a reading by Wadsworth "The Happy Warrior." Delicious refreshments were served to the six members and the following guests: Mrs. Phyllis Moore, Miss Edgar Thomas, Mrs. F. P. McLaughlin, Mrs. Roy Dyer, Mrs. J. Z. Johnson and Mr. Eric Clutter.

BERGOO MILL TO CLOSE

Webster Springs.—The Pardee & Curtin Lumber Company has announced the closing of their big band saw mill at Bergoo. The mill will be dismantled and sold through second hand dealers or as junk. The balance of the company's timber holdings, consisting largely of isolated tracts, will be manufactured on portable mills.

At one time this company employed as high as 350 men. Of late months mill and woods forces consisted of about 150 men.

The Pardee and Curtin Lumber Company is one of the oldest lumber firms in West Virginia. Seventy-five years ago they began operation in Taylor County. Later they operated in Braxton and Nicholas Counties. The operation at Bergoo began nearly twenty years ago, the mill being moved from Curtin, in Nicholas. In the thirty years operation at Sutton, about a billion feet of lumber was manufactured. Much of this timber was floated down Elk River during high water stages.

Mrs. Carl Weber is home from Rainsville. She has a position with Williams & Pifer Lumber Company.

Mrs. Del White of Cass, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Carl Woodell, of Linwood.

Mrs. Ira Barlow and son, Billy, are spending the winter at Buckroe Beach, Va. with her husband, who is stationed at Langley Field.

On last Saturday, January 20, Lon Green found a Weather Bureau instrument on Roger Mountain—two miles west of Buckeye. It had been sent up from Huntington on January 5. The package was sent back to Huntington promptly.

Oley Jackson and Charles Dille were in Charleston over the week end. On their return they were accompanied by Miss Rebecca Jackson, who will teach Pleasant Hill school.

Mrs. Ashley Dilley of Wheeling, was called here last week by the illness and death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Floyd Dilley.

Mrs. E. G. Herold has gone to St. Petersburg, Florida, for the winter.

Funeral News

Reverend and Mrs. Olof G. Olson of Marlinton, West Virginia, announce the marriage of their daughter Carolyn to Major Robert A. Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patton, of Ronover, West Virginia.

The marriage was solemnized Thursday evening, the eighteenth day of January, 1945, in the Chapel of Christ Episcopal Church, Nashville, Tennessee, by the rector, Reverend Pryor R. Williams in the presence of a few family friends.

The bride wore a frock of ice blue crepe and a small hat of pale blue feathers, a corsage of gardenias, and carried a white prayer book.

Mrs. Murray Brown was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Lieutenant William R. Hyland of the Army Air Corps served as best man. Also present were Dr. Murray Brown of Nashville, and Mrs. J. J. Coyner, of Clover Lick, West Va.

Mrs. Patton is a graduate of Marlinton schools and Davis and Elkins College. Before her marriage she was a member of the Library Department of the College of the City of New York.

Major Patton is on the Headquarters Staff of Smyrna Army Air Field, Smyrna, Tennessee.

The couple will make their home in Nashville.

Miss Louise Sharp was home from Greenbrier College, Lewisburg, over the week end.

Mrs. F. R. Hunter went to Tampa, Florida, last week to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. John Lawson.

Mrs. Norval Pifer is in Brownwood, Texas, visiting her husband PFC. James N. Pifer, stationed at Camp Bowie.

Sergeant R. H. Cogar, stationed at Orlando, Florida, sends in the following about the original guard of honor of the Unknown Soldier in the First World War. One of the original guards is Lt. Charles E. Moslander, also stationed at Orlando. Here is his story:

"I was in Coblenz, Germany as a S-Sgt. with the Army of Occupation in October, 1921, when I was ordered to proceed to Chalons-sur-Marne, France. When I arrived there I learned that I was one of a detail of 28 men selected from the entire Army of Occupation to act as an Honor Guard for the unknown Soldier, now buried in Arlington National Cemetery in Washington."

Lt. Moslander expressed surprise that only a handful of people were acquainted with the procedure that was followed for the selection of the Unknown Soldier.

"Four large cemeteries in France contained sections in which were buried men whose identity was never clearly established. One body was disinterred from each of these burial grounds and brought to Chalons-sur-Marne. Finally, one of the Honor Guards members was appointed to select one body and this became the representative of all those men lost in the war whose identity never became known."

"The Unknown Soldier was placed in a beautiful metal casket and laid in state in the Hotel De Ville (the city hall) until its transfer to Le Havre for shipment to the U. S. We, the Guard of Honor, stayed with the casket during its passage to Le Havre and until it was placed aboard the U. S. S. Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship during the Battle of Manila for passage to the states."

"I'll never forget something I noticed while marching with the casket through the streets of Le Havre. A little white-haired man was standing on the curb. As the casket approached he snapped to attention and saluted until we had gone by. I was so deeply moved that I later went back to find him and learned that he was a Civil War veteran who had gone to France to live on his pension."

Original story taken from the book, "The Unknown Soldier," by the author of "The Unknown Soldier," a book of 200 pages, published by the U. S. Government.

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, February 1, 1945

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McLaughlin, of Marlinton, West Virginia, have received word that their son, Corporal C. E. McLaughlin, Jr., has been safely returned to his home in England. Corporal McLaughlin has been in the service 23 months and for the past two months he has been in England.

Private First Class Howard Bowers arrived in Marlinton on 20 days furlough with relatives and friends. He had been overseas in the European theatre of war since September, 1943. He was inducted into the Army on March 1, 1943, and is in the Airborne Infantry.

Private Russell W. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips, of Millpoint, who recently spent a few days with home folks has returned to duty at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, from where he will be transferred to another camp, but where he can't disclose.

Harvey H. Warwick, PhM 3-C, has been transferred from Great Lakes, Illinois, to the United States Naval Air Station, Groesbeek, Michigan.

Technical Sergeant Edward E. East, of the Air Corps, stationed at Boca Raton, Florida, is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett East, at Durbin.

Emery E. Anderson, of the Navy, now serving in the Southwest Pacific, has recently received a rating from H. A. 1-C to PhM 3-C. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anderson, of Second Avenue.

Lieutenant Bessie Eleanor Chesnut, of the Army Nurse Corps, has completed her basic training at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, and is now stationed at McGuire General Hospital, Richmond, Virginia.

Bedford Taylor, of the Merchant Marines, and class petty officer of the Naval Reserve, has returned to duty after spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Taylor, of Green Bank. He has recently returned from a trip overseas.

Camp Wolters, Texas—Private Dice Earl Sharp, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Sharp, of Marlinton, West Virginia; Private Richard S. Skaggs, 28, husband of Mrs. Mary C. Skaggs, of Marlinton; Private Andrew Franklin Morrison, 18, son of W. D. Morrison, Lobelia; Private Lanty Dale, 19, son of L. H. Ryder, of Cass, and Private Theodore Guy Olson, 21, son of Rev. and Mrs. O. Olson, of Marlinton, have arrived at this Infantry Replacement Training Center, Camp Wolters, Texas, to begin their basic training as Infantrymen. They have been assigned to a battalion dressing rifle.

Sergeant Gail Dilley, now stationed at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, has returned to duty after spending a furlough here with his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dilley.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Sheets, of Greenbank, have received a letter from their son, Sergeant Jacob C. Sheets, saying he has landed in the Philippine Islands from New Guinea. He is a member of the 547th Night Fighter Squadron.

Pvt. Theodore G. Olsen is stationed at Camp Wolters, Texas. Lt. Gillis G. Olsen is with General Patton's Third Army in Europe.

Dempsey T. Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sharp, Rt. 1, Marlinton, was enrolled recently in an intensive course at the Radio Naval Training School located on the campus of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.

Selection to attend the specialty school was made on the basis of his recruit training aptitude tests. The course includes the operation, function and maintenance of radio transmitting and receiving equipment, and the sending and receiving of messages in international code.

Successful completion of the course will see the Bluejacket graduate as a qualified radio operator with the fleet.

Private Ernest L. Baxter, stationed at Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, is home on a 15 day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Lena Baxter, at Cloverlick. He is in the Field Artillery.

Staff Sergeant Audrey "Fuzzy" Dilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dilley, who was wounded while in action in Italy and is now in the hospital wishes to thank his friends in Marlinton and vicinity who remembered him with Christmas cards and letters. He is not able to answer them or write to his friends due to an arm injury but we are in hopes he will soon be good as new. Mr. and Mrs. Dilley now have four sons in the service: Sergeant "Fuzzy" recuperating in a hospital overseas; Sergeant Gail, of Oklahoma City; Corporal James L. "Fatty" of the Air Corps, now stationed at Chanute Field, Illinois, and Ralph, who was inducted last week.

On last Sunday, Mrs. John Clark received notice from the War Department that her son, Private First Class, Gilmer Quick had been slightly wounded in action at Luxembourg, France. Mr. Clark has another son, Gardner Quick, serving in the Navy.

Robert Reynolds is home from the Army with an honorable discharge.

Captain and Mrs. Harry Schofield returned to Aberdeen, Maryland last Friday, after a week's visit at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schofield.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Crowder, of Greenbank, have been notified by the War Department that their son, Clyde, of the Air Corps, is missing in action over Germany. Corporal Crowder has been in the service 23 months and for the past two months he has been in England.

Post Ranking, George—Private Hugh T. Jackson, son of Mrs. Lucy A. Jackson, of Marlinton, has won the right to wear the "Boots and Wings" of the United States Army Paratroops. He has completed four weeks of jump training during which time he made five jumps, the last a tactical jump at night involving a combat problem on landing.

Jumping at The Parachute School has been developed to a recognized war science. American paratroopers have been recognized throughout the world for their meritorious actions against the enemy.

In addition to producing jumpers, Parachute Specialist Training is given to qualified men in Communications, Demolition, Riggers and Parachute Maintenance, vital skills for Airborne Troops.

This paper is in receipt of a picture from the Army Signal Corps, of two signal men attached to an armored unit, testing communication wires in the town of (censored) Germany. One of the two soldiers in Private Herbert C. Fisher, of Huntersville.

Carlisle, Pennsylvania—It is now Second Lieutenant Aaron Swartz Hill, of Durbin, West Virginia. Completing four months of training, he graduated from the 16th Officer Candidate Class Medical Field Service School, Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania. He has been assigned to Woodrow Wilson General Hospital, Staunton, Virginia. Before entering the Army, Lieutenant Hill taught in the Greenbank High School.

Willis Ruckman is home from the Army with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ruckman, making recovery from the terrible wounds received in action in Italy. In wiping out a machine gun nest he got a number of bullets through the body and through a leg.

John Matheny, Jr., of the United States Navy, has been promoted from Seaman Third Class to Second Class Petty Officer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Matheny, of Greenbank, and has been in service 18 months.

Private First Class Albert P. Gay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gay, of Cloverlick, was awarded the Good Conduct Ribbon on Christmas eve. P.F.C. Gay has been overseas 14 months. He is serving in the "Medics" in France.

Private First Class Howard Bowers, of the 101st Airborne Division (Glider Outfit) is spending a 30 day furlough with his friend, Frank Deputy. He was among the first soldiers to land in Normandy on D-Day, as his company established the first beach head there. He was in two major battles and in one received a piece of shrapnel in the shoulder. Before returning to the States he spent 8 days in Paris. He was also in Holland and England.

On March 25th, he will have served 2 years in the Army. He reports to Camp Meade, Maryland, on February 7th for reassignment.

While home he had the good luck to kill two red foxes.

Edward Moore, home from the Army with an honorable discharge, has entered the West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery, to complete his college course.

ARMY AIR FORCES, Pacific Headquarters—Staff Sergeant Pershing A. Arbogast, of Dunmore, West Va., a radio operator and aerial gunner of a combat mopping squadron in the Central Pacific, has been awarded the Air Medal for meritorious achievement in flight, displaying high professional skill, courage and devotion to duty and reflecting great credit on himself and the Army Air Forces.

Sergeant Arbogast has the Asiatic-Pacific Theatre, American Theatre and American Defense ribbons, the Good Conduct Medal, and the Purple Heart. He was inducted in February, 1941, and has been overseas since March, 1944.

Sergeant Arbogast's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Arbogast, of Dunmore. He is a graduate of Greenbank High School. His wife, Ruby, and their son, James, reside at Dunmore, W. Va.

GROUP, France. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Board of Lewisburg, send the following letter from their son, Lieutenant Sherman Board, somewhere in Italy.

Italy, December 31, 1944. Dear Folks: I sure get around don't I! One day I am in Africa, the next in France and now I am in Southern Italy. It has taken us a long time to make it out but here we are. We have had a good time and got to see a lot of country. The play is over now and it looks like we would have to do a little work.

Our mail was here waiting on us and what a time we had. I got 35 letters and stayed up till 1:30 last night reading them. You will never know how much they meant to me. After two months mail sure did look good. The last letter from home was written Dec. 4th, so there should be a lot more on the road. The news sounded pretty good, only I was so sorry to hear about En Moore. He and I were good friends and it is hard to realize that he is gone. Tell Mrs. Moore I am sorry and that the fellows over here remember things like that. Too bad about cousin Georgia Beard.

The letters were just like a story. I arranged them by dates and started in. It would surprise you what a complete story they made and how close they were linked together. It was one story that I was really interested in. From what you said a lot of my mail hasn't got home yet. I guess my letters are pretty confusing for I can't tell you much, or enough to straighten you out. I can tell you a little more now. We left the States and after a few days had to go to Bermuda. We stayed there ten days and then left on the same ship. Everything went O. K. except one fellow got sick and died and was buried at sea. Another went crazy and had to be "locked up." We finally moved up in Oran and for the same reason that we stopped in Bermuda. The town was a hole and all were glad to pull out. From there we went to Marseilles, France. By that time we were the last combat crew. No one knew why we were in Marseilles or when we were to leave. We finally got a place to stay and then sent a man to Italy to find out about us. The other morning at 4:00 we got orders to move. No one knew where but some one said it was to Northern France and we were to go by train. That was wrong and we went to the airport and boarded C-47. We were all set or at least we thought we were. Our luck hadn't run out so we ran into bad weather and had to land at Rome. We flew over the Anzio beach where the boys had the big battle. You could tell that a war had been fought. The fields and roads were just honeycombed with shell holes and slit trenches.

We got into Rome late so did not get to see too much. I did see the Coliseum and the balcony where Mussolini made most of his speeches. Tony had an aunt there who he had never seen, so he and I started out to find her. After about an hour we found the house and his aunt and uncle. Talk about a happy reunion, that was it. They kissed each other so loud you could have heard it a block away. They couldn't speak any English and I only a word or two of Italian. Tony could speak Italian as good as they could so we got along. They were very nice people and like most Italians, had a big family. There were two girls, one a professor of mathematics in university, and the other was studying chemistry in college. It wasn't long till we made friends and started teaching each other Italian and English. They are pretty well to do people, but prices are so high and the Germans left so little that they are in a pretty bad way. To give you an idea of prices—sugar is $4 a pound. From Rome we came on down here. We are still staying in tents and eating out of mess kits. The tents we have here don't even have lights, so last night I read all those letters by candlelight. I am sure we are to be here for a long time. I would like for you to send me the addresses of fellows from home who are in Italy. There is a good chance I might get to see them. About those cookies—you bet I would like to have them. A little home cooking would taste good. My tail gunner got a surprise in the mail yesterday. He got married just before he left and gave one sent him and his wife a set of pillow cases. They were sent to him at Mitchell Field but he left before they got there so they followed him clear over here. I am glad to hear that Bob is not in the army. It would have been nice if he could have gotten into the air corps. They lead a lot better life than the most of the army. The Navy would be O. K., at least they always have a place to sleep. That is a lot more than the Infantry gets. Well, this is just about all of 1944. They must be figuring on a big party tonight. We had to collect all of the pillows and guns and lock them up. Marseilles we had to carry them all the time. They wouldn't let you off the post without it. In Rome you could not carry it, and in those dark streets a fellow felt almost like he was undressed. I didn't like to carry it but there are times when it feels plenty good. Well folks, the mail was swell. I hope it comes regular from now on. Happy New Year, Sherman.

William H. Hannah is home on furlough from Camp Lee Virginia, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George V. Hannah, of Arbovale.

Odie Clarkson, of the Sea Beach, sends this editor a greeting and the following inquiry from the southwest Pacific:

Look how clean I wash my laundry. Look how nice I scrub a tray—Dawn to dusk it's Swabbing—Swabbing. What are WAVES for ANY WAY!

Waste Paper Collected. Your waste paper is urgently needed in the War effort. In Marlinton, the Tour Truck will call at your home on Wednesday and Thursday, February 7th-8th for your paper. Please have it ready for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Camper and Ivan Withers visited Miss Ruth Withers, at Pinecrest Sanitarium, Beckley, Sunday.

Mrs. Winona Eades Thomas is home from Fort Benning, Georgia, to be with her brother, Earl, who is home on leave from the Navy, after service in the South west Pacific.

Legislature

In the important matter of and assistance to war veterans, a permanent committee has been set up in the Senate with Senator Fred C. Allen, of the Twelfth District, as chairman.

Next Monday, February 5, Governor Meadows will deliver his message to the Legislature. It is expected the Governor will confine himself to specific recommendations along general lines laid down in his inaugural address. He stated there is no call for additional taxation; that the surplus in the treasury should be saved for post-war emergency; that state school aid to counties should not be increased; that the sale of beer and liquor should have efficient and realistic controls; liberalization of laws dealing with unemployment, labor and workmen's compensation; the modification of the system extended to the workers of the Conservation department.

The Legislature is getting along all right. Even more so than last year. They have been looking things up, getting little done. I guess that's long toward the last week of the session, there will be the usual flurry of working-day and night to get needed matters, such as the appropriation bill out of committee for action before the prescribed hour of closing the session.

Up to this time it must be said this session of the legislature has been most profitable. So far the wind jammers have not broken out, to make spectacles of themselves in futile attempts to attract political lightning.

THURSDAY, FEB. 1, 1945

Trappers on the Seneca State Forest have been thinning out the wild cats, gray foxes and other varmints. The other day they found an immense golden eagle in one of the traps on Michael Mountain. The big bird had a wing spread of seven feet or more, was a yard long and weighed ten pounds. Here in America we have two eagles, the golden and the bald eagle. It is just a bit difficult at a glance to tell a bald eagle under three years old from a golden eagle. The tall white head, white back and white tail do not show up until the bird is four years old. The sure way to tell the difference is to check on the feet. If there are feathers below the second joint and feathers to the end of the toes, it is a golden eagle.

Under federal statute, the bald eagle is a protected bird. I recall I have printed this tale but it will bear repeating, maybe to keep some body out of conflict with the law. A few years ago, a sheep raiser killed a lamb catching bald eagle. A nature lover bought the bird for $5.00. The local job smith and wisecracker convinced the man he had spent good money for an Alabamian hammy—vultures, alligators, catfish, snakes, etc. These big birds would eat off any more arguments the handy man was told to dispose of the carcass in the furnace. The handy man knew another sucker, to whom he sold the bird for $1.00. Hearing about the federal statute protecting bald eagles on account of these heathen killers having been voted our national emblem some years back, over the protest of the late Benjamin Franklin, the last owner of the eagle sent it to the National Museum, down in Washington, with his compliments. In due time, thankful acknowledgements came back for so fine and so typical a specimen of the American bald eagle. However the menacing lines were added that a copy of the letter was being forwarded to the office of the District Attorney for the Southern District of West Virginia for investigation into the matter of whether the donor had a collector's license, as provided by law for biologists who would kill bald eagles for scientific study.

The bird book says the bald is much more plentiful in America than the golden eagle. However, this does not hold true in this the Greenbrier Valley. Each year we can expect the visitation of golden eagles along about this time of year and on to sheep lambing time. The guess is the cold drives them south from the Canada wilderness country. While I have never yet located a nest, I do know golden eagles do nest here. They like a high cliff of rocks.

A few years ago a pair nested over in Highland County near Mill Gap. Later a pair nested in the Alleghenies somewhere about Poston. The Galford boys caught the two old ones and three young ones. One day the ration of ground hog was a little late in coming, so the larger old one—presumably the female—killed the other old one and divided him up among the three children. Of late years a pair of big eagles have been seen to fly regularly toward the head of Ten Creek.

The references book recites the fact that the golden eagles eat fawns, lambs, pigs, ground hogs, turkeys and poultry generally. That in places it is beneficial in living on pests; that in other places it is a pest itself by reason of its raids on lambs, pigs and poultry; that in some regions it is a pest to protect golden eagles; in other regions it is proper to pay bounties to keep it in check.

I am fascinated in the line which said that these big eagles can often attack calves when driven by hunger. I used to hear that the old cowboys which were out on the trail with the herd. One day this eagle struck down on a yearling heifer and fastened its great talons in the poor beast's back. The yearling stamped with the eagle flopping to rise and fly away with prey fully fifty times its own weight. That cow beast was marked for life with long scars torn in her hide by the big claws of that eagle.

Only a few years back, a pair of hungry golden eagles were seen harrying a couple of young horses on pasture over on the head of the Big Spring Branch of Elk River. The big birds were nose diving around the heads of the horses and driving them crazy. Once I read a piece about eagles harrying antelopes out west. The writer thought the big birds were trying to drive the antelopes over a cliff so they could feed upon their dead bodies.

The bald eagle is an American institution, being found in the United States to Southern California and Northern Mexico. On the other hand the golden eagle is distributed through the northern hemisphere. In the old world south to north Africa and the Himalaya mountains. In America south from Alaska to Texas, and in the Alleghenies south to North Carolina.

One unusual thing about eagles is that they are larger when young. The first year the bald eagle may have a wing spread greater than its parents of a foot and more. Years ago there large immature birds were called "Birds of Washington" by the great naturalist Audubon. He thought they were a distinct species.

The book description of the young golden eagle is darker and larger than adults.

The Monongahela System is prepared to co-operate with the government in complying with provisions of the War Production Board order prohibiting certain types of electric lighting after February 1, it was announced in Fairmont by C. H. Leatham, vice president.

Mr. Leatham pointed out that two years ago when a coal shortage seemed imminent and there was a manpower scarcity his company co-operated with the Office of War Utilities in requesting customers to curtail the use of electricity for unessential uses. Now with the war situation more critical and anticipated demands for coal greater with fewer men to produce it, War Mobilization Director Byrnes deemed it advisable to make mandatory the curtailment of electricity for certain uses.

While power companies along with municipal authorities have a certain obligation in connection with enforcement of the new order, Mr. Leatham said he felt anything that would contribute to war effort should be complied with and he anticipates no difficulty in getting cooperation locally. He said the blacking out of signs and store windows and other uses contained in the order probably would mean an annual loss in revenue of $5,000 to the Monongahela System but declared this would be a small contribution to make if it would shorten the war even by part of a day. In the order issued there are penalties provided for those who do not comply, but Mr. Leatham pointed out his company would be glad to assist any customers who do not have a clear understanding of the new order. Under the terms of the order no electricity may be used after February 1 for the following purposes:

1. Outdoor advertising and outdoor promotional lighting.
2. Outdoor display lighting, except where necessary for the conduct of the business of outdoor establishments.
3. Outdoor decorative and outdoor ornamental lighting.
4. Show window lighting, except where necessary for interior illumination.
5. Marquee lighting in excess of 40 watts for each marquee.
6. White way street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority to be necessary for public safety.

2. Outdoor sign lighting, except for:

(a) Directional or identification signs required for fire and police protection, traffic control, transportation terminals or hospitals; or directional or identification signs for any similar essential public services the lighting of which is specifically certified to be necessary by local public authority. Certification shall be made in writing to the appropriate electric supplier and need not be in any particular form.

(b) Directional or identification signs using not more than 60 watts per establishment, for doctors and for hotels, and other public lodging establishments.

WPB also appealed for maximum conservation in all uses of electricity that are not prohibited by the order and said that "the electric industry of the nation, both public and private, has pledged its wholehearted cooperation in support of the fuel conservation program announced by Justice Byrne."

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The February meeting will be with Mrs Elmer Moore.

...or helping a soldier feel at home

When he's back on furlough, it's the little things a soldier left behind that he looks for. In three words, Have a Coke, much of his old life comes to mind. For Coca-Cola was part of his days after school or after work, with the gang and with his girl. A happy remembrance of carefree times. Ice-cold Coca-Cola holds a warm and friendly place in American life. And it should have a special place in your icebox at home. Wherever Americans go, Coca-Cola stands for the peace that refreshes,—has become a symbol of our friendly way of life.

Good night and lots of love.
Your son, Herbert.

The following poems were sent to Mrs. Gladys Boyce from her husband, Pvt. Sidney Boyce who is serving with the Seventh Army in France:

THE BIRDS AND BEES
I watch the little birds and bees—
As they go flying through the trees,
They know no care, they seem so free.
The birds sing, the bees hum,
Until the shade of night has come.
The bees fly home, the night to spend,
But the bird is content on some limb.
His feet are clasped around a twig
The little fellow doesn't look so big.
But safe from all the harmful things
High above the earth he swings.

A THOUGHT OF HOME
I watch the sun go sinking down

Behind the Western sky,
And shadows playing here and there,
Oh! how the daylight flies,
And then night falls, and I shall
The brightness of the sun.
I think of all the things I did
And the many things I left undone.
And so in life the sun goes down
With shadows here and there,
We watch their footsteps getting slow
And silver in their hair.
We see the wrinkles in their face,
Old age is creeping on.
Their eyes are getting very dim,
The day is almost gone.
The shade of night has settled low
Life's race is almost run,
We think of all the things we did
And many things we left undone.

Pvt. John Mace writes to his mother, Mrs. Beagle Mace, from New Orleans, La.

Dear Mom and All:
Received your letter yesterday and as always, was real glad to hear from you. I am well and hope you are the same. Hope Dad is well by now.

Is Paul Menefee Hunter's brother? I don't believe I know him. How does the kids like him for a teacher? How is Earl and Edith getting along? I haven't heard from L ther for quite a while; maybe he has moved again. -I'll

...Where I received some time ago. Sure was glad to hear from you. Well, I am just fine at present. Well, I am still here but may be gone tomorrow; can't never tell. Boy, I sure think of the good times, Arthur and I used to have. I sure would like to see him, maybe we will meet some time. I hope. I would have liked to have seen all of you, but just couldn't; well I'll see you all some time, just be good until I get back.

How is the weather back there; no snow here, but chilly.
Well I'll close, tell every body hello, and answer soon.
Virgil.

Mrs. Bessie Mace of Marlinton, Route 1, sends in the following letter from her son, who is some where in the Pacific area:

Dear Mom:
Just a few lines in answer to your letter I got today. I sure was glad to hear from you. I am well and getting along pretty good. I hope these few lines find you all well. What is every one doing back there? I have been real busy, I worked on a saw mill last week. Where are Annie and May and what is their address? I haven't heard from John for a long time. Was Goldie home for Christmas? Yes mom, I received the pictures you sent. The next time you go to town see if I can still send my paper. No more agents any boys here from around there. Jake Smith is on this island; he is real close here and a boy from Hillsboro, his name is McClure.

Well mom, there isn't any news so will close, answer soon.
Luther.

The following letter was sent in by Mrs. V. M. Clutter of Lohelia, from her cousin, PFC. Nelson Bruffey, of Burma, India:

Hello 'Ole' Cousin:
This is your one and only news reporter of the C. B. I. sending in his report this morning. Same time and same station. Tune in every morning for the latest news hot off the press. ha!

Everything in Burma is going the way we want it. (the Japs.) We have nothing to do much but lay around and wait for some to show his face. What a life jumping from one fox hole to the other, killing snakes and dodging bullets, shining our shoes in the mud, shaking hands with the drinking bomb-boo juice, going crazy, killing japs, dreaming of home and other things on and off all night, what time we sleep. Sure is a life worth living; never will forget it in time to come.

Well what kind of a Christmas and New Year did you have this year? A quiet one, I'll bet. I had a very nice Christmas myself. Went out Christmas evening got lost from my Company and spent the night and Christmas Day fighting for my life and country, mostly for my life. I spent New Year in a lonely little fox hole, cleaning my gun, and shining my shoes. I am taking a little rest now since we have got things pretty well under control around here now. But things will start falling some night when we are all sleeping though.

I have begun to like this life over here; the only thing that worries me is when you go out, you can't tell whether you will come back or not.

I was reading in a paper one of the boys got from home the other day, and found a long list of names of soldiers who had become heroes in this war, and I got to thinking how my name would look on there. So I started out one morning with plenty of nerve; left all my brains in camp. About six miles from camp I run into fourteen Chinese and one officer, thought they were Japs; killed all but the officer, took him back to camp. I could see them adding my name on that hero list. When we arrived at the camp the officer and my Company shook hands. The officer told them I only killed fourteen of his best men and kicked the dickens out of him. I only got a medal—the dumbest man in C. B. I. I tried anyway. Everybody can't be lucky you know.

Say I guess you knew one of my sisters has made the biggest mistake of her life a few weeks ago—went crazy and got married! What do you think of anyone doing a trick like that?

What has become of Claude and his wife? It looks like the onery cuss could write and tell me how it all happened. The next time you write him send my address or send me his address, so I can get in touch with him, got a lot of questions to ask him.

Well I guess it is about time I was going to work. I'll close for this time, let me hear from you soon.

Your 'ole' cousin,
"Nasty boy," Junior.

companies of Nazi paratroopers were thrown against Mount Grande in two strong bids to regain the position, the first attack lasting two hours, the second 45 minutes. An estimated 30 Germans were killed and many were wounded. One Nazi company commander was killed and a second captured, later died. It both instances the Jerries reached the Yank command post building and tossed hand grenades but they were driven back by rifle and carbine fire. The Germans used flame throwers in the second attack. On one trail the Nazis were thrown back by a machine gun, an automatic rifle and four rifles. Many of the attackers were killed but one carrying a flame thrower approached to within effective distance of the machine gun, and shot a solid sheet of flame toward the position. The fire passed over the dugout the two gunners leaped from the hole and escaped. A light machine gunner then took care of the flame throwing Nazi.

A Yank telephone operator, captured by one of the Nazis, was tied on his captor and threw him to the ground. When he let the Jerry up, the German ran, screaming as the bolt jammed on the doughboy's rifle.

FOR VICTORY—

WHY 85 MILLION AMERICANS HAVE BOUGHT WAR BONDS

They didn't do it to get $4 for $3, any more than our fighting men are risking their lives for service pay. They did it to save American lives, to save time—because they know that the quickest way to clean and final victory is to overwhelm the enemy with superior equipment—no matter what the cost. They did it for America—for Victory. And they'll keep on buying bonds until victory is won.

But that $4 you'll get back in 10 years for every $3 you put into War Bonds now is important, too—mighty important, both to you and to America. Because we must not only win the war but the peace. And to keep the wheels humming so that there will be jobs for all, we'll need money—all of us. Money for repairs, replacements, education, travel. Money we can draw on out of reserve—War Bond money. So for Victory today—and prosperity tomorrow—keep buying Bonds, and keep the Bonds you buy!

Funeral Home

Thomas Lee Beard was born at Millpoint, Pocahontas County on July 30, 1877 and died at his home January 30, 1945. Death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage. Except for the time spent away at school and ten years he lived at Culppepper, Va. He spent his entire life in this county among his own people.

He was the son of Lucy McNeil and Edgar Beard. He is survived by his brother, Carl G. Beard, of Hillsboro and his sister, Mrs. Zed Smith Jr., of Marlinton.

He was married in June 1905 to Miss Nettie Callison, also of Pocahontas County, who died in August 1915, leaving three children: Virginia, wife of L. A. Albert W. Covington, now serving in the Philippines, Lucy Edgar, Mrs. Cecil Ferguson of Huntington; and Maude, Mrs. Lee Ruckman.

In August 1923 he married Miss Mary Kincaid of Frankfort, Greenbrier County, who with one son, Carl, serving with the Navy, in the South Pacific also survive him. There are three grand-children, Jane Ruckman, Jimmie and Alfred Ferguson.

In early manhood he united with the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church and was a consistent member of the organization until his death.

His distinguishing characteristics his love of humanity, his sympathy for and understanding of people; his desire to help wherever help was needed, his great unselfishness endeared him to a large circle of friends in all walks of life.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. on Wednesday, February 1, 1945, at the home of Mrs. Zed Smith Jr., of Marlinton.

CHICKEN DINNER

Our Army and Navy Boys

Sergeant Ira Lee Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries, of Marlinton, was one of the 511 prisoners freed in the American and Philippine Commando raid on the Japanese prison camp at Cabanatuan, Luzon last Thursday. He had been reported missing since the fall of Bataan nearly three years ago. He was serving in the Army Tank Corps. His parents had received four prisoner cards from him. They were unaware of the location of the camp.

Private First Class Oliver Tacy has returned to Fort Jackson, South Carolina, where he is stationed after spending a ten day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Tacy, at Cass.

Arnold Elkins, son of Mrs. Elkins, of Cass, is home from the service with an honorable discharge.

Corporal Guy J. Gum, son of Harry Gum, is home on furlough. He is stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, with the Infantry.

Seaman First Class and Mrs. Paul Mullenax have returned to Portsmouth, Virginia, after spending a week with relatives at Boyer.

Preston Adkison, of the United States Navy, is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory H. Adkison. His ship is the U.S.S. Pennsylvania.

Kenneth W. Beale, of the Navy, was home last week on a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Beale, of 828 Garfield Street, Newton Falls, Ohio.

He has been in service eighteen months and this is his first time home for over a year. He has just received the rating of Ship's Cook, third class. He returned to his base on January 26. His address is: Kenneth W. Beale, S. C. 2, U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Twenty-nine Pines, California.

Y-SERIES MEN IN SERVICE

Max Deaton, of Cass, Ohio, has returned from the War Department where his husband, Technical Sergeant Deaton, was killed in action in France on January 16th. Bert had been in service about four years and had been overseas three months. He was a brave soldier and a loving husband. He will be missed by all who knew him. Mrs. Deaton, the former Miss Opal Shinnery, is the daughter of Harmon Shinnery, of Knappa Creek.

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England—Staff Sergeant Thomas E. Pritchard has recently been awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal for "courage, coolness and skill" while participating in bombing attacks against military and industrial targets in the Reich and enemy installations in the path of the Allied armies in Western Europe.

Sergeant Pritchard, 19, is the radio operator-gunner of an Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress in the 385th Bombardment Group commanded by Colonel Y. Jumper, of Natoma, California.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Pritchard, who lives at Dunmore, West Virginia, he graduated from Greenbank High School and worked on a farm before entering the Army Air Forces in September, 1943. He received his gunnery wings at Las Vegas, Nevada, in May, 1944.

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England—Staff Sergeant Jasper C. Crowley, 25, of Greenbank, West Virginia, gunner of a B-17 Flying Fortress of the 385th Bombardment Group, has been awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal for "Meritorious achievement" while participating in an Eighth Air Force bombing attack on vital German industrial targets, and on Nazi airfields, supply dumps and communication lines in support of advances by Allied ground forces on the continent. The presentation was made by Colonel Jack E. Shuck, of Casper, Wyoming, and Monroe, Connecticut, group commander.

Sergeant Crowley is a member of the Fortress group which led the first American bombing attack on targets in Berlin, and which was cited by the President for its outstanding bombing assault on railroad marshalling yards at Munster, Germany, in October, 1943. As a component of the distinguished Third Air Division, the group also shared in a Presidential citation given the entire division for its historic England-Africa shuttle bombing of an important Messerschmitt fighter plane plant at Regensburg, Germany, in August of 1943.

The AAF gunner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell O. Crowley, of Greenbank, West Virginia.

Private Buford Doyle is in a hospital in England for treatment of wounds received in action.

Seaman First Class Robert Lee Fitzgerald returned to duty at Little Creek, Virginia, today (Wednesday) after spending a week's leave here with his wife and little son, Emmett Lee.

Archie Sharp was home on short furlough last week with his wife and small daughter.

Earl Eades, C.P.N.M. of the Navy, is home on leave from the Southwest Pacific. Eades, who stepped over in Washington, D. C., and was accompanied home by Miss Frances Pippell, his fiancée. Earl has been in the Pacific for three years, serving two and a half years on the U.S.S. Enterprise.

Private Harold Snyder, now stationed at Camp Atterbury, Indiana is home on furlough with his mother, Mrs. Joe Hoover.

Robert Davis Schofield, of the Army, spent a few days last week with his father, H. H. Schofield. He has thirty months of foreign service to his credit, taking part in four invasions—Africa, Sicily, Italy and France. He is now stationed at Tacoma, Washington.

Belgium—Harry R. Cochran, of Marlinton, West Virginia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Cochran, is a member of the 800th Port Company of the United States Army Transportation Corps. These men have helped unload war supplies which decided the battle of Normandy. Now at a vital Belgian port these men supervise thousands of civilians in unloading war supplies in general to supply the armies now invading Germany.

Mrs. Jake Sharp has received word that her son, Corporal E. C. Johnson, of the Marines has landed safely at his station somewhere in the Pacific.

Private First Class John Randall Wilfong has been transferred to the Philippine Islands after spending ten months in New Guinea.

Private Charlie O. Beale has been sent back to duty after being five months in the hospital in England.

Private First Class Wesley Doyle is fighting with the 7th Army in France.

The following letters were received this week from our young friends, Corporal James V. Lightner and Private Coran Rhodes:

Philippines, January 18, 1945.

Dear Dad: Just a few lines from a West Virginia "hill-billy" who came back to the Philippines with General MacArthur. Have seen a lot of "good" Japs, the ones without any heads.

Rhodes, Alderman and I are still together. When we came in the Infantry was about 900 yards ahead of us. We received a commendation from General MacArthur on bringing those Japs down so I guess we did not do so bad. I am sending you a 5 cent Jap money. Cal, how is the weather at home? It sure is hot here.

I am receiving the Times pretty regularly so keep the good work up on the home front and we will continue to bring those Japs down.

Always a friend, Jimmy V. Lightner.

Philippines, January 19, 1945.

Dear Mr. Price:

Well, Jim and I are here in the Philippines and we sure would like to be back in Marlinton. I have been getting the paper from Jim and we sure do enjoy them.

We have not seen Alderman since we hit the beach but heard he was doing fine. Hope soon we all get started back towards the States. The hell with these Islands. Jim and I have seen lots of action but things have quieted down a little. We have heard planes go over now and then but they never get back to tell anything. Well, Mr. Price that will be all for now. Hoping to hear from you.

Always a friend, Coran Rhodes.

SIXTH ARMY GROUP, France.

The 75th Railway Operating Battalion, which covered itself with glory for jobs well done in the Tunisia, Sicily and Italian campaigns, is now doing an "encomore" in France, helping to rush supplies to the U. S. 7th and French 1st Armies.

Commanded by Lt. Col. Fred W. Ohio, of Cass, Ky., former division commander for the Southern Railway System, the 75th moved recently in a demonstration of the Military Railway Service in France. Jacob he served more than six months as an engine cadet and midshipman aboard a merchant ship carrying vital war supplies to the far-flung battle fronts. He reported to Kings Point for advanced courses nine months ago.

During his sea training, Cloonan's ship was subjected to enemy bombing and submarine attacks.

Corporal Elmer L. McClure has recently been transferred into the Infantry and is now stationed at Camp Livingston, Alexandria, Louisiana.

A Louisville, Kentucky, daily paper, prints the picture of Robert V. Loury, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Loury, of Minnehaha Springs, with the following comment:

IN THE PACIFIC AREA, Private First Class Robert V. Loury, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fain Loury, 635 Edwards St. SE, Louisville, Ky. Pfc. Loury is a graduate of Louisville High School, and was employed at the Hercules Motors Corporation before entering the service, March 31, 1944. He received training at San Diego and Camp Pendleton, Calif. Pfc. Loury, while stationed in San Diego, played in the Marine band, and was chosen to take part of first trombone in an orchestra which appeared in a recently made motion picture in Hollywood, starring Joan Leslie and Fred McMurray in "Where Do We Go From Here."

Mrs. Rosie Wilfong, of Cloverlick sends the following letter from her son, Hunter Wilfong, who is in Belgium:

Dear Mother: Today will write you a few lines as it has been some time now since I had a letter from you, and it has also been so long since I have written you, but I have been pretty well on the go, for the last couple weeks, but maybe I will get started again. I haven't yet received the package that Doris sent, but I hope it will arrive soon, and I suppose it will.

Well mother, I got the Purple Heart for getting wounded in action, but it was only a finger and it is well now, there isn't anything to worry about.

Well mother, I don't much care for me to be in the hospital, but I have been in it for a while, then I have something to go by.

Well here's wishing you all the luck in the world and I hope to see you soon.

Your son, Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Mullenax, of Arbovale, sends the following letter from their son, Sgt. Basil Mullenax, who has served in the Army nine years.

Dearest Mother and All:

Miami, Florida.

I suppose you think I have deserted or something; but really I have been very busy. Then Friday night, at 11 p. m. I got the surprise of my life. Who do you think called me by phone? None other than old brother, Stanley. I almost went through the floor. So Friday night I jumped in a Jeep, and went to town to see him, and came back next morning; then picked him up again Saturday afternoon. Him and his buddy stayed with me Saturday night, then I went aboard ship with them Sunday afternoon. One night we took in Havana and really had the time of our lives. I know they enjoyed themselves very much. He was to call me again Monday, but I haven't heard from him, so I suppose they left as suddenly as they came. He said he hoped to be home before long and said he would write while he was here, but the girls were too pretty for him to take time to write. He really liked this place; he is looking fine and mean as ever.

How is every one at home? Have you heard any more from the boys over there? Tell all hello and answer soon. Hope to see you before much longer.

Your son, Basil.

Kings Point, N. Y.—Cadet-Midshipman Fred Melvin Cloonan, 20, brother of Mrs. James D. White, Marlinton, W. Va., has just graduated from the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy here. He received a license as third assistant engineering officer in the Merchant Marine, the rank of ensign in the U. S. Marine Service and a commission as ensign (inactive) in the U. S. Naval Reserve. Cloonan is a graduate of Marlinton High School where he was active in basketball, football and 4-H club. He was captain of his football team. He received his appointment to the Merchant Marine cadet corps 10 1/2 months ago. After receiving basic training at the Merchant Marine school at Poochuck, Minn.

he served more than six months as an engine cadet and midshipman aboard a merchant ship carrying vital war supplies to the far-flung battle fronts. He reported to Kings Point for advanced courses nine months ago.

During his sea training, Cloonan's ship was subjected to enemy bombing and submarine attacks.

DEATHS

S. B. Wallace

S. B. Wallace, aged 65 years, died at his home in Marlinton on Tuesday morning, February 6, 1945, after a long illness. On Thursday afternoon, the funeral will be held from the residence by his pastor, Rev. J. C. Wool, interment in the family plot in Mt. View Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill Wallace, and a brother, Edward Wallace, of Akron, Ohio.

Mr. Wallace was a leading business man of Pocahontas County. Forty-two years ago, he came to Marlinton, to engage in the retail drug business. Soon he branched out in the wholesale drug business and established the firm of S. B. Wallace & Company. He was president and general manager of this company through all the years since its establishment. In addition he owned and operated a large farm until about a year ago. For more than twenty-five years he was president of the Pocahontas County Fair.

The deceased was a native of Rockbridge County, Virginia, a son of the late William Wallace, of Rockbridge County, and the late Mrs. Hattie Wallace. He was married to Mrs. Eleanor V. Bessie, of New Market, Va., who preceded him in death ten or twelve years since.

Blocking Garment

Sometimes a new hand-knit garment, or a laundered knit garment, needs blocking—light steam-pressing (without mashing)—to give a finished look. Block this easy way: Sprinkle two heavy bath towels slightly and spread the garment between them. Cover with a board or other firm, flat surface. Weight this down and leave until the garment is dry.

Minnehaha Hotel Burns

Early Sunday morning the big hotel building at Minnehaha Springs burned down with all its contents. The caretakers barely escaped. It is not known how the fire started. The loss of the big building with its nice furnishings and the equipment of a big summer camp for boys is very heavy; partially covered by insurance.

The property is owned by the Doctors Jarrett of Richwood and Charleston, and Edgell Dean of Richwood. They purchased it about a year ago, and last summer held their first summer camp for boys.

The hotel building was 124x23, two stories high with about 24 bedrooms. It was built more than thirty years ago as a summer resort hotel.

INSTALLATION SERVICES

Greenbrier Presbytery appointed the following committee to install Rev. B. B. Breitenbush as pastor of the Alexander Memorial, Cass, Baxter and Liberty Churches; Rev. E. J. Agsten of Roncoville, Chairman; Rev. J. E. Fleming, of Hillsboro; Rev. J. H. West, of Marlinton; Rev. E. H. Denson, of Cass; and Forrest Pritchard, of Dunmore.

The Commission will meet at Dunmore at ten o'clock Sunday morning, February 11th. The first service will be held there at that time. Rev. E. J. Agsten will preach.

The service will be held at Greenbank, at 11:30 a. m. at which time Rev. James C. Wool will preach.

At 3:00 p. m. the Commission will install Mr. Breitenbush in the Alexander Memorial Church at Stony Bottom. Mr. Wool will preach at that service. The final service will be held at the Cass Church at 7:30 P. M. Mr. E. Agsten will preach. Mr. Agsten will charge the congregation at each of these services.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, FEB. 8, 1945

Educated people are continually mystifying me in speaking of antibiotics. The book gives the meaning of the word, it comes from an association between two or more organisms which is detrimental to one of them. The newly developed wonder medicine, penicillin, is an antibiotic.

Now I read in the papers of a new antibiotic that may prove as great as penicillin. They call it streptomycin, and it is a product of the mold-like matter which gives newly plowed earth its distinctive smell. In test tubes this new drug has destroyed the germ of tuberculosis, leprosy and rabies fever, typhus. It is expected that within a year, there will be enough of this new drug for a thorough try out on people. It was an old saying in these mountain towns when I was a youngster, that the smell of newly plowed ground was known to have cured consumption. When I read about the new antibiotic, which comes from the mold-like substance which gives new turned earth its smell, I was reminded of the old saying. I had some sort of a hazy, faint recollection of having seen in print somewhere about smelling newly dug earth being recommended as a cure for tuberculosis of the lungs.

Taking a look in the old book, "Primitive Physics, or An Easy Natural Manner of Curing Most Diseases," by the late John Wesley, M. A., London, June 11, 1747, on page 56, I found: "Every morning eat up a little bit of fresh earth, and lying down, breathe into the hole for a quarter of an hour. I have known a deep consumption cured thus."

And now, two centuries later, science is finding out the antibiotic in new-turned earth, which good Doctor Wesley said cured a deep consumption.

The author of Primitive Physics is none other than the great religious leader, John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church. The copy of the book is the property of my older brother, Dr. James W. Price. It came to him through our uncle, the late James H. Price. He in turn had it from his father, Thomas Price, who is said to have had a working knowledge of medicine. He died in 1835, at the ripe age of 84 years. Half of his long life was that of a fighter in the Indian and Revolutionary wars.

There are nearly a thousand treatments recommended in the old book, covering about all the ills the flesh is heir to. For the bite of a rattlesnake, "apply the liver and guts of the serpent to the wound. Good in the bite of any serpent."

To prevent the bite of a viper, "Rub the hands with the juice of radishes."

For Warts, "rub them daily with a radish."

Doctor Wesley was strong for water cures. Cold bathing cures young children of convulsions, coughs, gravel, scabs, inflammation, rickets, want of sleep, etc. It prevents the growth of hereditary apoplexy, blindness, consumption, blindness, consumption, gout, deafness, kings evil, melancholy, palsies, deafness, rheumatism, stone, etc. It frequently cures every nervous and every paralytic disorder, including cancer, chin cough, consumptions, rheumatism, gout, dropsy, epilepsy, leprosy, St. Vitus dance, whites and dozens of others. However, when nerves are obstructed like in blindness, deafness, loss of smell, speech and taste, pain in stomach—"you should go to bed immediately after and sweat."

"Water drinking generally prevents apoplexy, asthma, gout, hysteria, fits, madnefs, palfies, ftons, trembling."

"To this children should be used from their cradles."

"The best water to drink, especially for those who are much troubled with the wind, is rain water. After it is settled, draw it off clean into another vessel and it will keep sweet for a long time."

Good Doctor Wesley is strong for "Electrifying," for in a proper manner this cures a long list of ills from St. Anthony's fire to wens, and "drawing sparks" removes those tumors on the eyelids called barley corns, by exciting focal inflammation, and promoting suppuration.

"Nor have I known one fingle instance wherein it has done harm: so that I cannot but doubt the veracity of those who have affirmed to the contrary. Dr. DeHaen positive affirms: it can do no hurt in any case: that is, unless the shock be immoderately strong."

On this matter of electrifying the only comment I know to make is that with electricity now running the world, more and more we hear less and less of electricity in medicine.

Dr. Wesley "advises in complicated cases where life is in immediate danger, let everyone apply without delay to a physician that fears God. From one who does not, be his fame ever so great, I should expect a curfe rather than a blessing."

For the sake of those who dethe blessing of God is upon them. Dr. Wesley added a few, plain, easy rules. Here are some of them:

The air we breathe is of great consequence to our health. Those who have been long abroad in country or desertly winds should drink some thin and warm liquor going to bed, or a draught of toast and water.

Water is the wholesomest of all drinks; quickens the appetite and strengthens the digestion most.

Strong and more especially spiritous liquors are a certain though slow poison.

Malt liquors, except clear, small beer, or small ale of a due age, are exceedingly hurtful to tender persons.

Coffee and tea are extremely hurtful to people who have weak nerves.

Tender persons should eat very light suppers and that two or three hours before going to bed. They ought constantly to go to bed about nine and rise at four or five.

Walking is the best exercise for those who are able to bear it riding for those who are not.

The studious ought to have stated times for exercise, at least two or three hours a day; the one half of this before dinner the other before going to bed. They should frequently shave and frequently wash their feet.

Those who read and write much should learn to do it standing otherwise it will impair their health.

Obstructed perspiration (vulgarly called catching cold) is one of the greatest sources of diseases. When ever there appears the least sign of this, let it be removed by gentle sweats.

The passions have greater influence on health than most people are aware of. All violent sudden passions dispose to, or actually throw people into acute diseases. The slow and lasting passions, such as grief and hopelessness, bring on chronic diseases.

The love of God, as it is the sovereign remedy of all miseries, so in particular it effectually prevents all the bodily disorders. The passions introduce by keeping the passions themselves within the due bounds. And by the un-speakable joy and perfect calm serenity and tranquility it give the mind, it becomes the most powerful of all the means of health and long life.

Under the Golden Rule, Dr. Wesley and because they were not safe but extremely dangerous. Dr. Wesley "omitted (along with antimony) the four Heraclean medicines, opium, the bark, the steel, and most of the preparations of quick silver. These physicians have justly termed 'edged tools'."

Instead, he recommends such remedies as air, water, milk, whey, honey, treacle, salt, vinegar and common herbs.

As for "the bark" and "steel," I had to consult authority for their meaning. The bark is now other than cinchona bark from which quinine is now made; steel is fracture of iron; quick silver is mercury; antimony is arsenic.

Charleston, W. Va.—Employment of a full time biochemist to study West Virginia's stream pollution problem with a view to recommending more strict antipollution laws among the objectives set forth in the five-year program approved by the Conservation Commission at its January meeting. The program, submitted by Executive Director Jack Shipman, listed among other aims better forest fire control, improvements in fish and game management program, more strict law enforcement, expansion of state park and forest facilities and winterizing of some of the parks to provide winter sports.

The major objective of the forestry division is to reduce forest land burned to one-tenth of one per cent of the total forest acreage by 1949. The game management division, among other things, proposes to recommend legislation for control of excess population of deer, beaver, etc. Establishment of wild turkey preserves in native range is also contemplated.

The fish management division proposes to eliminate five-day trout streams in order to simplify fishing regulations. Addition of ponds at fish hatcheries and new water supply sources for the latter also are aims.

Placing of state parks on a self-sustaining basis is to be sought by the parks division, which proposes also an acquisition and development of two strategically located areas as Negro parks, the field personnel for which would be made up principally, perhaps wholly, of Negro employees. Purchase of the Sinks of Gandy and 2,000 acres of land adjoining for development of a year round vacation and recreational area also is included in the division's program.

Continuance of a broad program of selling conservation to school children, "the future men and women of the State," is listed among the aims of the education division. Cooperation with sportsmen and other groups interested in conservation also

DEATHS

George Henry Shrader, of Edray, born March 9, 1880, at Huntersville, W. Va., died January 31, 1945, aged 64 years, 10 months and 18 days. He was a son of the late Robert C. and Maria Lewis Shrader. In 1901, he married Leanna McCarty, daughter of the late Peter McCarty. She preceded him in death 30 years ago. Their six children survive; they are Mrs. Catherine Beverage of Marlinton; Mrs. Gordon Mosser of Elkins; and Mrs. William Roush of Beverly, W. Va.; Dr. Steel Shrader of Midland, Michigan; FEO Glenn Shrader of the Army, stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas; and CPL. Raymond Shrader, stationed at Camp Livingston, La. Later he married Lulu Wimer of Hillsboro, and to this union was born two sons, one son died in infancy; his wife and one son, Thomas, survive.

During his early manhood, he united with the Methodist church and through out his life, he was a faithful husband and father.

On Wednesday afternoon his funeral was conducted at the Marlinton Methodist Church, by his pastor, Rev. R. H. Skaggs, assisted by Rev. Fred Oxendale of the Marlinton Methodist church. Interment in the family plot at Mt. View Cemetery.

Honorary pall bearers were: Elmer Pong, Fred Gwinn, J. P. Duncan, A. H. McFerrin, Chas. A. Sharp, and A. C. Barlow. Active pall bearers were J. Z. Johnson, Ward Barlow, Walter Shaf, Robert Gay, Melvin Woodell, Robert Gay, Allen Sharp and Lee Barlow.

Flower girls were Mrs. Ward Barlow, Mrs. Walter Shaffer, Mrs. E. B. McCormick, Mrs. Reim Moore, Mrs. Lee Barlow, Mrs. Robert Gay, Mrs. Allen Sharp and Betty Clay Sharp.

He is survived by two brothers, I. B. Shrader, of Hillsboro, and R. Luster Shrader of Huntersville. Also eleven grand-children and two great-grand children.

—Poem by Edie Brown.

Mansfield, Ohio.

We take this means of expressing our thanks and appreciation to the many friends who helped us in any way during the illness and at the death of our dear daughter and sister, Mrs. Pauline Jordan Dilley. Especially those who furnished food and care, and the nursing staff of the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. May God's richest blessing abide with each and every one of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Jordan and Family.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Dilley and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all who so kindly helped us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father, George H. Shrader. The Smith Funeral Home, Dr. Hamrick and nurses at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital. Also, to the ones who sent flowers and furnished care, and the splendid neighbors of Edray for the services they rendered.

THE FAMILY.

Canned Goods.

After the war cans for whipped cream, potato and fish salads, French fried onions, baked, and sliced apples are expected to be in the market.

Late Recognition.

Francis Scott Key was not identified as the author of the "Star Spangled Banner" until several months after it appeared.

Car Wheels.

Approximately 800,000,000 silver dollars are stacked up in the vaults of the United States. These "car wheels" are in common use only in the West.

Paul Dewey Sexton, who is with the Fleet somewhere in the Pacific, writes under date of January 22, 1946:

Dear Col:

I thought as I wasn't doing anything today I would drop you a few lines to say hello to all the people back home. I sure would like to be back in West Virginia. Those pretty hills and all the nice people. Say, I guess you are having a lot of snow back there now aren't you? Well, it would

...I saw a couple of boys that live not far from me. I saw Marvin Wimer and a Mowen boy from Edray. Well Col, I guess I had better close, so if you see mother tell her I said hello, you know Mrs. L. A. Clendenen. Well Col, tell everyone back there hello for me, and God be with them all.

Your friend,
Paul Dewey Sexton.

...The destroyer Wainwright, in an action off Algeria, forced an enemy submarine to the surface and attacked so vigorously the enemy crew scuttled and abandoned the raider.

The action was narrated in citations accompanying awards of the Legion of Merit to Lt. Commander David M. Kellow, skipper of the destroyer escort and Cmdr. Walter W. Strohbehn, the Wainwright's skipper.

In relating the Destroyer's feat the Navy said the U-boat was seriously damaged in an under water attack and forced to the surface.

The Wainwright detected her prize by a sound contact. Strohbehn ordered a strong depth charge attack, forcing it to the surface.

With the Fifth Army, Italy, Sergeant Herman A. Brown, son of Mrs. Ellen Brown, who lives in Marlinton, W. Va., has been promoted to staff sergeant. He is a squad leader with the 84th "Red Bull" Division of the Fifth Army in Italy.

...Dear Sir:

How are you doing? All day I hope I am O.K. myself. Had a nice big letter from you today; also one yesterday, only the one I received today had been written several days before the last one received. Hope that you are better. Yes, I had another letter from Walter Smith.

Well you said you saw a girl in town; how does she look by now? It has been two long years since I saw her. Well thanks for the paper clippings Sir. I enjoy reading them; I know most all the boys; pretty good poem from Paul Harris. Well I see Roncoe Dilley has a regular army serial number; but don't understand where he enlisted by his serial number. You ask me to send you a picture; well can tell you sir, that would be hard to do now, might send you a model now, man. I tried to have a picture made in Paris; and every time I looked for a studio I got lost.

You asked if I slept in a bed? What is that Sir? No, one here seems to understand, so I'll have to get a Dictionary and look the word up.

Well, I received the Purple Heart for slight wounds in the hand and arm in the latter part of November. Tell mother not to worry, I'm okay now.

I will close for this time. Remember me to all, and write when you can.

Glen.

The following poem was sent by Mrs. John Clark of Marlinton. She has two sons in the service, Gardner and Gilmer. The latter was wounded in action around Luxembourg, France:

If you are living for God day by day,
From his glory do not stray away.
When you offer to him your prayer,
Do not forget the boys over there.

Through God and His grace, our only way,
We never can make it, if we fail to pray.
He never fails us, He is true and square,
Do not forget the boys over there.

And is always so true, and so fair,
He ever is willing to answer our prayer;
Our only chance is by faith and by prayer,
Do not forget the boys over there.

We all have come short of His glory today,
No wonder the world is in such a bad way;
Our only hope is through faith and by prayer,
Do not forget the boys over there.

You have a son who is ready to go,
His letters say, "soon, but none of us know."

I'd run, I'd walk, I'd crawl to be square,
To pray for the boys, who are over there.

Unspoiled

By R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers—WNU Features

ETHAN CHAIN wrote a novel which had unusual success; and the publishers of said novel invited the author to visit them in New York and be feted and discussed the prospects of a new book in the very near future.

When Ethan arrived at the office of the Vaughn Publishing company, he was presented to Ben Veazy, who was a sort of front man assigned the task of entertaining all visiting celebrities. Ben had an ingratiating smile, a suave, flattering manner and a remarkable insight into human nature. He took one look at Ethan and decided that here was someone who needed special attention, lest some rival publishing house get their hooks on him before he had put his name to the bottom line of a contract.

Along Ben said: "Suppose before we go in to see Mr. Vaughn, get this business out of the way. Then we'll be free to enjoy ourselves."

"What business?" Ethan asked.

"This contract for your next book. If you'll just sign here."

"If you don't mind," said Ethan earnestly, "I'd rather wait awhile. You see, several other publishers wrote to me and—"

"Of course! Of course!" boomed Ben. "Naturally other publishers would. That's the way to meet Mr. Vaughn, name Mr. Vaughn, a significant wink, and left them. Back in his office he called Fred Deane on the phone.

"Get over here, honey, but quick! It's an emergency job." And when Fred, dark and brown-eyed and all together striking looking was seated ...In Jake's place Ethan announced he was going back to Vermont.

ed opposite him, he told her in detail all about Ethan. "He's a lot and naive as heck. So naive, in fact, that he feels it his bound duty to listen to the proposition of our brother competitors before he signs with us. Honey, in five minutes I'm going to introduce him to you. From that point forward, you take over; remembering that you're on our payroll."

Things worked out about as Ben had planned. He never doubted results when Freda was in the harness.

However, things were happening that Ben didn't know about, wouldn't, in fact, have dreamed about in his wildest state of mind. This fact was that Ethan and Freda were falling in love. Freda knew that Ben and all her friends would not believe her, so she didn't bother to tell them.

However, the first night he proposed, though she laughed merrily, she knew that the thing had happened, and to her.

"Why, Ethan, that's funny. Marry you? Leave this glorious New York and go up to the back woods of Vermont and bury myself for the rest of my days. Oh, Ethan!"

Ethan didn't propose again. That is, not until the night they sat in Jake's Place and he announced he was going back to his Vermont farm the next day.

"Tomorrow?" Freda cried aghast. He nodded. "I've got to get back there. Of course you wouldn't understand about such things, having lived here in New York all your life, but with me, well—"

"Darling, I do understand!" she cried wildly. "I will marry you. I will go up to Vermont to live. Ever if it kills me!"

Ethan stared at her for a moment, then he rose and led her outside and into a taxi. The next hour was all sort of vague to Freda; but at the end of it she knew she was married to Ethan. From somewhere he had procured a license and a minister and she was Mrs. Ethan Chain.

Then they were back in the same taxi and Ethan was giving an address in the upper eighties.

"But—but I thought we were going to Vermont!"

Ethan grinned at her broadly. "Why, shucks, honey. I don't live in Vermont. I've lived in New York all my life. I was up there last summer when I wrote to Vaughn and he just took it for granted it was my home because of the way I look, I guess." He laughed. "I let him and you think so because I fell in love with you and I figured if you knew I lived in New York you'd never marry me, and I figured if I threatened to go back to Vermont I could precipitate matters. By the way, I signed the contract and sent it in to Vaughn today, so you're in the clear."

I man in $745 has them... but today we all must have 3 cars!

You can see in an instant why your one and only car really needs to be "triplets." Let's just check...

✓ You started with a pre-war car.

✓ It became your wartime car.

✓ But now it's still got to be your postwar car—because even if 1945 sees unbelievable new car output, the chances of getting delivery before 1946 or '47 are way against you.

That's why today the cry is, "Conserve your car!" But you want real sure help... And here's what Conoco Nth motor oil will actually do for your car life by surfacing your engine's insides with OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING assures distinct extra defense—at trifling extra cost. Topping every advantage that an oil can get from Nature and latest refining, Conoco Nth oil also brings its unprecedented man-made ingredient. And this bonds protective OIL-PLATING to the fine inner finish that's really the life of your engine!

With durable OIL-PLATING, plus durable liquid oil film too, you have every defense against excess wear. And that's the basic defense against carbon, sludge, and battery drain. What's more, even corrosive engine acids—always present—can't freely bite into OIL-PLATED surfaces! So there you plainly get safety of every sort—simply by changing to Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Do it today. Continental Oil Company NOTE: Now our prices will be up. You'll want the best trade-in. Conoco Nth oil helps keep your car shipshape.

Pattern for Progress

Between 1879 and 1937, fifteen new industries alone created, directly and indirectly, an estimated 15,000,000 new jobs.

New scientific developments, in various lines of endeavor, hold out a promise of more new industries and more new jobs in the post-war future.

Business and banks, working together under our free enterprise system, help make these jobs a reality. Our bank is prepared to make loans to competent individuals, firms and corporations for constructive business purposes.

AS I SEE IT

Some very good sayings I've heard in my time, And some I believe to be true, The one I will mention concerning a dime.

Is one that is well known to you, When you see a child who is down in the world,

And assistance you can't give any, Remember that many can always help one.

Where one can not always help many.

Many children today deserve our support, Let us give to them who most need.

For those who have experienced poverty know.

'Tis a very hard battle indeed.

With a generous heart let us give what we can,

No knowing when the tide it may turn.

Give these children a chance to rise up in the world,

And our kindness will bring its return.

Yes let us give what we can to relieve their distress.

If it's only a dime or a penny, For many can help one I've heard people say.

Where one cannot always help many.

J. Luther Bird, Valley Center, Va.

One Foot, Hand and Eye

In the pagan era before Christianity came to ancient Ireland, when a corruighech or sorcerer practiced his spell he was "on one foot, one hand and one eye," which is interpreted to mean standing on one foot with arm outstretched and one eye shut. In this position the sorcerer uttered a sort of incantation or curse which was intended to cause injury to the unfortunate victim.

Cow's Body

Milk is 87 per cent water. Water constitutes from 70 to 80 per cent of the cow's body, carries digested food materials into the body, carries waste products away from the body, and helps to control the body temperature.

Salt Treatment

The possibility that special solutions of common table salt may be used as substitutes for blood plasma in treating the wounded and those suffering from burns was suggested by Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the Public Health service. The new process has the advantage that it can be administered through the mouth, as well as through the veins.

Emergency Crop Loans

Using the early payment of seed, fertilizer, and other supplies for 1945 crops, Field Supervisor R. E. Harbert of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Marlinton announced that he is now accepting applications for seed and feed loans from farmers in Pocahontas County.

"Due to transportation difficulties and limited supplies of seed off the farm, farmers are having to purchase their seed and fertilizer in bulk," he said. "The Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office is prepared to make loans up to $400. to farmers who are eligible in order that they may cash for their supplies. The interest rate is 4 percent per year and loans are completed within a week or ten days."

Plans for 1945 call for increased production of many food crops. The need for funds necessary for this production will be given special consideration with the view that credit will be extended, where needed, so that every farm family will have an opportunity to make its maximum contribution to the Food Production Program.

Emergency Crop and Feed Loans are available to farmers, either owners or tenants, who own or can make arrangements for land to farm, who own or have the use of necessary stock and equipment with which to farm, who can give as security a first lien on the crops to be financed. Loans are also available for the purchase or production of feed for livestock to be fed for the market, or for breeding animals with the increase to be marketed and as security a first lien is required on such livestock. These loans are available to farmers whose cash requirements are relatively small and who are unable to obtain loans in an amount sufficient to meet their need for other sources such as local banks and production credit associations. Field Supervisor R. E. Harbert emphasized that these loans are not restricted to selected applicants but are available to all farmers who can establish eligibility according to the terms of the loan regulations.

Farmers in this section wishing to apply may write Field Supervisor R. E. Harbert, Box 267, at Elkins, for further information, or they may meet him at the County Agent's Office, Wednesday, February 14th, between 10 and 12 o'clock noon.

OLD NOTE S

The first robin reported this year at Marlinton was on Jan. 21, 1945. February 2. No more robins as yet.

A learned Judge of one of our State Courts writes in that a good and tried way to keep pigeons and birds generally from eating up the pea vines and other garden stock is to dust the plants with lead. The birds outsmart themselves—they think it is poison.

A friend of mine tracked a gray fox into a ground hog hole. With a little pole he located the fox, but the ground was too hard from on to think about digging him out. The time honored way to get a rabbit out is to cut a forked stick and twist him out. This he tried on the fox. It worked even beyond expectations. When the twisted stick caught the fox in its jaws and held him tight, in his frenzy he bit into the rump of his neighbor, a big fat possum, and held on. The hunter pulled both struggling animals out. Their hides are on the way to the furrier.

During the few clear evenings since Christmas, I am sure you have paid some notice to the dazzling star in the Western sky. This star is the planet Venus, and it has been the evening star since late summer. By October it could be noticed the star was growing larger and setting a little later each evening. By the last of January it was not setting until after ten o'clock. The reference book says Venus will continue to grow brighter until March 10. After that it will grow dimmer, until the middle of April, when it will disappear from the evening sky. A little later it will appear as the morning star, rising a little before the sun. It will reach its greatest brilliancy about May 21, and continue to be the morning star until about the first of February, 1946. Like the earth, Venus travels round the sun, but she is a much faster stepper than our own staid good old earth.

WE ARE COMPLYING

WITH THE LETTER AND SPIRIT OF "UTILITY ORDER NO. 1" ISSUED BY THE WAR PRODUCTION BOARD FOR ELECTRIC CONSUMERS, EFFECTIVE FEB. 1, 1945

Purpose of the Order. War requirements and labor shortages have created a shortage in the supply of coal and other fuels. The purpose of this order is to save fuels used in the generation of electricity by prohibiting certain uses of electricity.

Prohibited Uses. No person shall use electricity for any of the following purposes:

1. Outdoor advertising and outdoor promotional lighting.
2. Outdoor display lighting except where necessary for the conduct of the business of outdoor establishments.
3. Outdoor decorative and outdoor ornamental lighting.
4. Show window lighting except where necessary for interior illumination.
5. Marquee lighting in excess of 60 watts for each marquee.
6. White way street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority to be necessary for public safety.
7. Outdoor sign lighting except for:
 - I. Directional or identification signs required for fire and police protection, traffic control, transportation terminals or hospitals; or directional or identification signs for any similar essential public services the lighting of which is specifically certified to be necessary by local public authority. Certification shall be made in writing to the appropriate electric supplier and need not be in any particular form.
 - II. Directional or identification signs using not more than 60 watts per establishment, for doctors and for hotels, and other public lodging establishments.

The foregoing is a partial summary. A complete copy may be had at any Monongahela System office.

It is our sincere desire that all users of electricity, who are affected by this order, comply with it wholeheartedly. Violations, however, carry penalties. The order provides that the WPB may direct the discontinuance of electric service to any consumer who willfully violates its provisions.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

T. B. Treatment
Sulfanamide has been used with encouraging results in the treatment of tuberculosis, reports Dr. Richard Gubner of the Long Island college of medicine. Part suits and part fatty acids, the drug penetrates the waxy outer coat of the tuberculosis germ. Prolonged treatment or large doses gave no harmful effects. In five cases of advanced pulmonary tuberculosis, daily doses were kept up for an average period of ten months. Tuberculosis germs disappeared from the sputum of all five, and x-ray pictures showed that the lungs had healed.

As Good As Gold
Food was held in high premium in Klondike days. Ham and eggs were $2.50 an order. Black coffee sold at 25 cents a cup; with cream, it was 50 cents. Soup cost "one buck a bowl." Champagne was $20 a pint. A "special" was $41 a plate. The rule at all the eating-houses was "No gold, no grub."

Saved Boats
A piece of asbestos paper tacked on the end of the iron board where the iron rests will save both the cover and the board. It also affords additional fire safety.

HARRINGTON POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, February 22, 1945

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

ANNUAL RED CROSS WAR FUND

Give a Boy's Wage for a Soldier.

On last Friday afternoon a well attended meeting of the executive committee of the Pocahontas County Chapter of the American Red Cross was held at the Court House.

While reports of various departments were made, the main business was to make preparations for participation in the nation wide drive in March to raise the annual Red Cross War Fund. Our County of Pocahontas has been apportioned the sum of $3,400. This is $500 more than the asking and receiving of last year. The amount is divided between the war expense of the American Red Cross and that of the Pocahontas Chapter. The national organization is asking us for $3500; the budget of the local chapter is $2900.

The County Chairman is Mack Brooks, the District Chairmen are—Greenbank, Mrs. H. M. Widney; Huntersville, Miss Helen Barlow, Edray, Miss Anna Lee Ervine, Little Levels, Miss Elizabeth Price McLaughlin; Junior Red Cross Chairman, Mrs. Beatrice Howard Gladwell.

As soon as made up by the district chairmen, the names of the community workers will be published.

The publicity committee is Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson and Calvin W. Price.

The county papers, as usual, will be asked to publish the honor roll. This roll will consist of givers, who contribute $1.00 and more.

The financial report showed the Chapter had been able to keep within last year's budget of a little less than $3,000. The big item was $1174.22 for home service to soldiers and their families. A surprising large part of this amount was for wire service.

The most recent item was $500.23 for material for production of such things as hospital bandages, kits, sweaters, and other garments, etc. Another large item was $319.50 loaned to soldiers. However this is a revolving fund, as much of it comes back to be loaned again to others. Medical service amounted to $175.00, and relief to disaster victims was only $35.00.

Mrs. Moody Kincaid made report that $200 separate pieces of garments of various kinds had been made and shipped during the past year. Also, hundreds of kit bags had been made up and were now ready for shipment to service men at ports of embarkation.

Mrs. Kenneth J. Hamrick reported the number of surgical dressings made in the year just closing was 34,000.

The County Chairman reported that Mrs. Lillian Overholt Shiffer was in Washington now, taking a course in Red Cross Home Service. He remembered that Mrs. Shiffer contributes much of her time spent in the office of the Pocahontas County Chapter.

Remember the Red Cross War Fund drive is on during the month of March; that the Red Cross gives a service at home, in camp, and abroad to the soldiers on other organization attempts. On February 28, on Wednesday night, there will be a nation wide radio hookup telling about the Red Cross War Fund.

The slogan adopted at the County meeting last Friday was: Give a day's work for a soldier.

Chaplin-Fried

The marriage of Miss Rachael Louise Friel, daughter of Mrs. Maggie Friel, of Falling Spring, Virginia, and Ralph Alexander Chaplin, Jr., SM 3-c, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Alexander Chaplin, Sr., of Clifton Forge, Virginia, was solemnized on Sunday afternoon, January 21, 1945, at 5 o'clock in the manse of the First Presbyterian Church of Clifton Forge, with the Rev. T. C. Bales officiating.

The bride was attired in a dress of light blue crepe with black accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Kathleen Chaplin, of Clifton Forge, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant.

John W. Eubank, of Clifton Forge, served as the best man.

Only members of the immediate families and a few close friends were present.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin left on a short wedding trip after which Mrs. Chaplin will return to Falling Spring to reside for the present and Mr. Chaplin will report to Norfolk, Virginia, for duty.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Jack have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Jack to Pvt. Wilbur C. Hammons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hammons, of Huntersville. The wedding took place on Wednesday, January 17, 1945 at Manchester, New Hampshire. Pvt. Hammons has returned to duty after spending a short furlough with his wife and parents. He is stationed at Presque, Maine.

On January 31 occurred the marriage of Miss Opal Marie Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Jackson to PFC Frank Harold Weatherholt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weatherholt. They were married by the Rev. I. O. Davis in Baltimore.

Wade-Curry

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry of Marlinton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Veda Eileen to Cpl. Elton Oliver Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wade of Minnehaha Springs. The marriage took place at 5:55 p.m. on February 13, 1945, at the Highland Methodist Church, Parsons in Baltimore Maryland. Rev. John E. Holt, officiating minister.

The bride is a graduate of the 1944 class of Marlinton High School. For last four months she has been employed by the Glenn L. Martin plant in Baltimore.

The groom has been in the army since December 1942, and is active duty on the Western Front since May 1943. Prior to entering the service he drove one of the Pocahontas County school buses. He is now home on a thirty day leave before returning to Ft. Meade Maryland.

Mrs. Louise Nutter and small daughter, of Salem, West Virginia, were the guests of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Zimmerman. Mrs. Nutter will be remembered as Miss Louise Zimmerman.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries on last Thursday received notice that their son Private First Class Fred R. Jeffries, fighting in Italy, had been slightly wounded on February 1. He was shot in the leg and in the arm. This is the second time he had been wounded; the first time last July.

On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries received another notice that their son, Sergeant William Marvin Jeffries had been seriously wounded in battle on Luzon, on January 19.

Then on Monday they received a letter from another son, Ira Lee Jeffries, recently rescued from a three year stretch in a Japanese military prison on Luzon, stating he hoped to be home soon.

Private Winfred W. Sheets has returned to his base after spending a 10 day furlough with his wife and children and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Sheets, at Greenbank.

Lieutenant Gillis G. Olsen if reported in a hospital in England. While in action on the front, on January 26, in Luxembourg, he was pinned down by enemy fire for 36 hours. As a result of this exposure he suffered frozen feet. He has been awarded the Purple Heart.

Recently after the Battle of Belgium he was awarded the Combat Infantryman's medal, the Battle Star and the European ribbon. He has had no mail for ten weeks.

Corporal Elton H. Wade with 22 months of overseas service, is home on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wade, of Minnehaha Springs.

Corporal Ernest O. Long is home on a 30 day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Long. Corporal Long was in the service four years last December and had been serving in the Pacific three years on the 28th day of September, 1944. This is his first home since his induction. He will return to Japan where he has been stationed for some months. His brother, Sergeant Ralph Long is serving in Italy.

Cpl. Eugene P. Dilley, Chattanooga Field Section "E" Georgia, spent fifteen days leave with his father, H. E. Dilley at Huntersville.

Pvt. Wm. F. Cackley of Camp Croft, S. C., has returned to duty after spending a furlough with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cackley.

Under date of December 21, 1944, Sergeant Earl Slaven writes from a prison camp in Germany to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Slaven, of Marlinton. "Barney" was captured last September. He was reported missing until a letter came from him last week.

Dec. 21, 1944

Dear Mother and Dad:

Just a few lines to night to let you know that I am getting along alright, so don't worry about me. I think we will have a fairly good Christmas. We will receive a lot of boxes which was sent over here just for Christmas; although it won't seem like Christmas. You don't know how much I miss you, and would love to be there with you. Sorry I can't send you anything but will make it up when I get home. This will be the third Christmas I have been overseas and I hope and pray that it will be the last one.

Give my love to all, and tell them that I wish them a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Good night and may God bless you both. With love and kisses. Earl.

SGT. BURLEY HENRY HIVELY

Staff Sergeant Burley Henry Hively, aged 29 years and 28 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hively, of Dunmore, West Virginia, died of wounds received in Belgium on January 26, 1945. Staff Sergeant Hively entered the service on May 23, 1942, and has served overseas since May 1944.

He is survived by his parents, five sisters and three brothers, Mrs. William Bryant, of Columbus, Ohio; Ann and Alice, of Washington, D. C.; Hunter, Sylvia, Paul, Trudie, and Don, all at home. A sister, Eula Mae, died in infancy.

Before entering the service, he was employed in Washington, D. C. Staff Sergeant Hively was a member of the Young People's Church of the Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches.

SEVERAL MEN AT WAITS

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Watts, of Durbin, West Virginia, received a telegram from the War Department, stating that their son, Staff Sergeant William L. Watts was killed in action in the Western front in Belgium on January 23, 1945.

Sergeant Watts was a graduate of Greenbank High School of the Class of '41. He attended West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon. He was in his second year of college work there when called to serve his country. He was a member of Alpha Alpha Theta, a social fraternity while at college.

Sergeant Watts was inducted into the Army on July 28, 1943. He took his infantry training at Camp Parris, Texas. He graduated from the Cadetman school there and was serving as a cadetman when called for overseas duty.

Sergeant Watts was put into active service almost immediately upon landing. He served with the 30th Division known as the "Old Hickory" Division from Tennessee in the North Army. He fought in the battle of Aachen, a German stronghold, which consisted of house to house and block to block fighting. The 30th Division assisted the famous 1st Division in this battle. After his battle he was promoted to Staff Sergeant. The 30th Division was then transferred to the First Army. They took a very active part in stopping Von Rundstedt's drive on the Belgian bulge. Life Magazine made mention that the 30th Division was called "Roosevelt's Shock Troops."

By the Germans, Sergeant Watts was still serving in this division in the 1st Army at the time of his death. Sergeant Watts was proud possessor of several medals: the expert Combat Rifleman's Medal, the Good Conduct Medal, the E. T. O. Medal with three stars and the Expert Combat Medal for serving on the front lines. From early childhood Sergeant Watts was a loyal and devoted member of the Dutch Methodist Church. He was active in church affairs serving as a deacon and member of the youth choir. He was a member of the Youth Choir, and attended the Youth Assembly, at Buckhannon for three summers.

Sergeant Watts had a deep religious background and did much to help his comrades and ease their minds while on the battle front. He always wrote most cheerful letters home. Bill was a very popular young man and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

SGT. CECIL GLEN VANREKEN

Sergeant Cecil Glen VanReken was born August 19, 1925 and was killed in action while serving with the First Army in Belgium on January 25, 1945, aged 19 years, 5 months and 5 days.

Glen was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert VanReken, of Edray, and was a cheerful, happy boy, whose friendly face will be sadly missed in home and neighborhood.

He was inducted into the Service on December 11, 1943 and received his basic training in the Infantry at Camp Wolters, Texas. He was sent across in October 1944.

He is survived by his parents, three brothers and one sister; Private First Class Guy, with the Coast Artillery in the Hawaiian Islands; Garth, Donald and Betty Jean at home.

He who dared bravely, bravely died, And asks no tears of you: For you were by his side. In that last tilt at death, He saw your smile. Ere the light fell dim, And all the breath Of your warm love Encompassed him. And so just one quick sob of grief As when you kissed the other day And said goodbye; Then smile And gird yourself to walk awhile A steep and lonely way. Your lost one lives and loves you still.

Onward and upward: He awaits you there Beyond the hill.

DEATHS

Samuel Mackford Wallace

The subject of this sketch, Black Wallace, as he was familiarly known by his friends and associates, was born on a farm in the Valley of Virginia, near the town of Fairfield, Rockbridge County, Virginia, September 29, 1879, and passed away at his home in Marlinton, February 5, 1945. He was the son of the late John William Wallace and Virginia Tysinger Wallace.

His funeral was conducted at his residence in Marlinton on the afternoon of February 8, 1945, by the Reverend J. C. Wool, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. His interment was in his family plot in the Mountain View Cemetery. He was a member of the Lutheran Church. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Eleanor Bennick of New Market, Virginia who died about ten years ago.

On November 27, 1943, he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Hill of Marlinton, who survives him. He is also survived by one brother, W. E. Wallace, of Akron, Ohio. Another brother, John L. Wallace, of Jacksonville, Florida, preceded him in death about fifteen years ago.

He was educated in the schools of his native county and grew to manhood on his father's farm. He always seemed interested in drugs and medicine, for at an early age his first venture in business for himself after leaving his ancestral home was a traveling salesman in West Virginia, representing the well known drug firm of Lowry Brothers of Baltimore, Maryland. He continued in this for about four years. In June 1903 he came to his adopted town of Marlinton and with Dr. C. C. Curry and S. L. Carter as his partners purchased the old and well established retail drug store of Harry R. Eholts. The business was conducted in the partnership name of the Marlinton Drug Store. The business was successful from the beginning and in the course of time he purchased the interest of his associates and conducted the store alone until 1930 when he sold the store and moved to the city of New York.

Mr. Wallace organized the wholesale business of selling drugs and accessories and incorporated it under the name of S. B. Wallace & Company. By his untiring energy, industry and with his other officers and working force, he has built up a wholesale business which would be a credit to a much more populous and important city.

From the time S. B. Wallace located in Marlinton, he adapted himself to the manners, customs and people of the County and was one of them. He endeavored to do everything to make his country a better and happier place to live. He was interested in the improvement of roads and transportation facilities and betterment of rural farm conditions. He was always interested in the young people of the town and county and soon after he established himself he organized a baseball team and through his example, training and clean living, developed a very successful team. Many of the young men who played on the teams have become leading citizens in their different fields of occupation.

He will probably be remembered best for connection with the Pocahontas County Fair which was organized in 1919, when he became the first and only President and general manager and for 25 years had been the life and inspirational force that kept it going. In the conception of Mr. Wallace and which he endeavored to impress on the directors that it should be a county fair for the county people. Different from typical county or State fairs, a exhibition of objects of art, products of the farm and garden, live stock and poultry, thus fostering a friendly competition among local people for the improvement of the livestock industry, agriculture and the arts.

He was enthusiastic, and could inspire confidence in others, in anything which he would undertake, and did with all his zeal and might, whatever his mind and hand found to do, until it was finally accomplished. He was a very lovable man and loved his home, his friends, his business and will be greatly missed by a large number of friends in this and adjoining counties.

Thus is noted the passing, in the prime of manhood one of the leading and prominent citizens of Pocahontas County.

Let it be put down in the official record that the groundhog did not appear above ground on February 2, 1945, which was Candlemas or Ground Hog Day. There were no tracks in the snow; not even the holes opened up. However, on Wednesday February 14, 1945, not only did ground hogs open up their holes and appear above ground, but they walked around, and went visiting around, as tracks in the snow plainly showed.

The last robin I heard singing last fall was on Saturday November 18. I happened to have marked the date on a calendar. I expected to make a note in the paper about what such late notes of the robin might mean in the way of a late fall and a short winter. It truly was a last song of summer, for before printing day came around there was snow on the ground, to remain until this writing.

The robins were back by February 2, ground hog day. They were singing good and sweet and strong by February 14, Valentine Day. I take it these are our own stock robins. I have no way of telling, other than I see individual birds perched and sing where robins perched and sang last year; also inspecting trees and other places where robins had their nests last year.

Anyway it would appear it was about eighty days we were without robins. The chances are the robins I saw and heard November 18, were birds from up north, stopping down to feed on their way south.

They now tell me that the great flights of robins which cover the ground picking up worms at the time of a "robin storm" are not necessarily our own stock robins; that the best guess is a great flight of robins in their spring migration to points farther north are overtaken by cloud and cold, ice and snow, forcing the birds to the ground, for food and protection.

By means of bird banding the area to which the robins from the Greenbrier Valley migrate each winter has been well established to be certain parts of Tennessee and North Carolina.

Late last fall on a little hunting hunt I pulled up a sassafras sprout and brought the root home for tea. The tea was good all right, but some how I could not consider it quite up to standard. I just allowed it must be the system was not craving sassafras like it does in the spring of the year.

Last Saturday the spring time urge for a bit of sassafras tea to thin the blood and take humor out of it, impelled me to look on a thin south hillside where I knew the winter trees had gone out of the ground, and where I could reasonably expect to find sassafras of the red variety. Before going I experienced another reasonable urge, that to open and "drain" one of the maple trees near the house. I got the "drain" expression from the children of the neighborhood.

This draining of the sugar maple tree for the sap is truly essential for best results when it comes to sassafras tea. The blend is really delectable. Some say the sugar water makes the tea a mite too sweet. It suits my taste just right, with no additional sweetening whatsoever. Next to maple sugar water, I recommend branch water for sassafras tea; then spring water and well water. Go shy on tap water, if you can possibly do any better, for the necessary chlorine of tap water has tendency to take the "bloom" off the tea.

Not only has sassafras great healing, and recuperative properties when used internally as tea, but the Indians applied externally the chewed up inner bark as a poultice for sore places, particularly for gun shot wounds.

Along in the 1760's in a raid on the white settlements in the valley of Virginia, an Indian brave got himself badly shot. He made it back across the Alleghenies, to hang up on Hospital Run near Arbovale. There he had to hang up, attended by another brave, while the remainder of the party went on to their home villages in the Ohio country, supposedly a hunt where the city of Columbus now is.

Anyway, the wounded Indian was so badly shot up that he died, in spite of the sassafras dressing. When the white people came next spring from across the Mountain, they found the camping place, with lots of patches of chewed up sassafras bark. Also a neatly made grave.

For nearly two centuries the little branch has gone by the name of Hospital Run. I do not know whether of the grave. I do happen to have the Indian's pipe, the one from the grave probably a century ago.

The leaf of the sassafras is goosy, and they say it is fine to boil in soup. Not alone does it impart delicious flavor, but the mucilage gives body to thin soup and adds food value. I allow to try me some sassafras soup when the leaves come out next summer.

When the eyes of Great Britain were turned to America three hundred years ago, with the idea of developing and creating a world demand for the products of the New World, such as tobacco, and Virginia spice wood. The latter is sassafras. The teaming millions of India, with potential trade possibilities ten thousand fold greater than the scattered tribes of North America attracted Britain at the same time. The result was the store tea of India and China was developed into a world necessity, along with American tobacco. I am here to contend that if sassafras of America had been given the chance instead of the store tea of Asia this world would have been happier because it would have been healthier and therefore saner.

I have before me a reference book published eighty years ago in England. It says this about sassafras: "The wood is brought to market in the form of chips, but the bark of the root is prepared for medicinal use is a beneficial stimulant, sudorific and diuretic, and is employed in cuts, rheumatic diseases, gout and rheumatism, generally in combination with other medicines. It contains a volatile oil, which is often used instead. An agreeable beverage is made in North America by infusion of the bark or wood. A similar beverage was once very commonly sold at day break in the streets of London under the name of sallow. A few sallow-venders are still to be seen plying their vocation."

In closing I expect it is well that I put in for the benefit of intelligent young readers that a diuretic acts on the kidneys and a sudorific is a sweat producer.

Federal Tax

F. Roy Yoke, Collector of Internal Revenue, explains that taxpayers whose 1944 income was less than $5,000 have a choice of three different ways of filing their 1944 income tax returns. Taxpayers whose income was $5,000 or more must all make "long form" returns on Form 1040.

The three methods open to persons whose income was under $5,000 are as follows:

1. Fill out the "Withholding Receipt, Form W-2 (Rev.)", received from their employers.
2. Make a Short-Form Return on Form 1040.
3. Make a Long-Form Return on Form 1040.

The easiest way to file is to fill in and mail a withholding receipt, but this method permitted only if the taxpayer's income is virtually all from wages from which tax was withheld. If, in addition to his wages subject to withholding, a taxpayer had more than $100 of dividends, interest and wages not subject to withholding, or he had income from any other source, he would have to use Form 1040. If the Withholding Receipt is used, the collector will figure the tax and give the taxpayer credit for the tax he has already paid, and send a bill or a refund for the difference. If Form 1040 is used, the taxpayer must figure his own tax and if he owes a balance, it must be paid at the time he files his return.

In choosing which form to use (for incomes under $5,000), Collector Yoke said taxpayers should ask themselves this question:

"Did my allowable deductions for charitable contributions, interest, taxes, casualty losses, medical and dental expenses, and other deductible items amount to more than 10 percent of my income last year?"

If the answer to this question is yes, the taxpayer should make a "long form return" on Form 1040, so that he can itemize and claim the actual amount of his deductions.

If the answer is no, the taxpayer should consider filing in his Withholding Receipt, or on a short Form 1040. Both these methods of filing give the taxpayer a standard allowance of about 10 percent of his income for the type of deductions mentioned in the question. The 10 percent allowance is made through a tax table. This tax table is arranged according to brackets of income: for instance, on-line in the table is for income from $2,800 to $2,899, another line is for incomes from $2,900 to $3,899 and so on. Collector Yoke explained that the ten percent allowance is figured at the middle of each bracket, and therefore the allowance is somewhat less than ten percent below the middle of the bracket.

In most cases, Collector Yoke commented, taxpayers spend far less than 10 percent of their income for deductible items, and therefore each taxpayer will benefit by filing either a Withholding Receipt or a short-form return on Form 1040.

Mr. Yoke added that persons who had more than one job during 1944 and wish to file on a Withholding Receipt need to fill out only the last receipt received; but should be sure to attach all their other Withholding Receipts (keeping, of course, the duplicate when the employer furnishes two copies.)

Also, the collector explained that if wage earners file Form 1040, they need not fill in their withholding receipts but must attach their receipts to their Form 1040 returns.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Mrs. James M. Cassell was born by surprise Sunday afternoon February 11, when a group of friends and neighbors met at their home near Greenbank from 2 o'clock until 5. The party was a real success. Refreshments were served by their daughters, Mrs. Lottie Ginn. Entertainment was furnished by these present.

The guests were honoring the joint birthdays of the elderly couple. Mr. Cassell will celebrate his 83rd birthday March 11th, and Mrs. Cassell was 75 years young the 11th of February. They have been married 63 years and four months.

Those celebrating the occasion were: Mrs. Lottie Ginn, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Warwick, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lowe, Marion Shaberry and son Elmer, Kent Galford, Mrs. Willie Lambert son Woodrow and daughter Eloise, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cassell and Susan Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cassell and daughter Mary Ellen, and five of the couple's small grandchildren: Nolin, Jean, Jeardine, Delanor and Juanita Cassell. Everyone enjoyed their selves to the utmost and hope they can be together for another celebration next year.

One question: Is there another couple in the county that is as old as this couple and has been married over sixty-three years?

Mrs. Flora Kellison of Marlinton, received the following letter from her son, T-5 Robert Kellison, who is serving in the Philippines. La. Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to let you know I'm OK. I don't know much time to write these. I have been busy here, have been pretty busy. I don't think it does much good to write yet anyway, since the mail isn't going out. Maybe you will get it sometime though. Do you hear from Carl? I haven't heard from him for a long time.

Well mom, it sure is nice to be in civilization again, after being in the jungles for so long. I had chicken to eat today and saw ripe tomatoes, and the Philippines bring us eggs. It's real nice here.

Well guess I'll say so long. Take care of yourself and answer real soon.

Bob.

Mrs. Flora Kellison received the following letter from her son, T-5 Carl Kellison who is serving in France:

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines in answer to your letter I received a few days ago. This leaves me getting a long line and hope it finds you the same.

How is the winter coming along over there? We seem to be having plenty of it over here. There is about 4 inches of snow and cold as can be. Got a letter from Mary. She said she had just come back from down South. She said it was real warm down there.

Has Pop killed many foxes this winter? I have seen several deer since I have been in France. Well Mom this is the third letter I have written tonight, the most I have written since I have been in France, so I will close for this time. Answer soon and take care of yourself.

Your son, Carl.

Mrs. Nancy Ann Hughart of Morgantown, sends an article about her son that was covered by the Associated Press and published in the Morgantown Post.

White Sulphur Springs, Feb. 2, 1945. (AP).

When PFC. Clarence Hughart of Morgantown parachuted to French soil at 2:38 a. m. D-Day last June, he found himself separated from his fellow soldiers of the 82nd Air-Borne.

Before he could find other Americans, day was breaking and he lodged into a hedgehog as a German patrol slipped past. Then some Germans spotted him. He knew it only when an enemy soldier sneaked close enough to shoot him with a machine-gun pistol.

Hugart, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hughart of 195 Parsons Street, Morgantown, and a former employee of Armour and Company, became a prisoner of war. Now he's a patient at Ashford General Hospital here.

"The men who captured me were mostly Russians, Czechs and Poles with enough Germans along to make them fight," he said. "I had been hit in the right leg. They took me to a hospital in Cherbourg, and kept me there until Cherbourg fell to our troops."

"The Germans put casts on broken arms and legs and bandaged the wounded. They were busy in those days and must have known the fall of Cherbourg was imminent. An American medical officer who had been captured, helped take care of the prisoners."

"The food was lousy. However, it was the same food the Germans had."

It was a happy day for the Morgantown man when the Americans entered the city and the hospital was surrendered as a unit. "I was evacuated the same day; and was taken to England two days later, and came back to America by plane August 15th," he added. "The Ashford General Hospital really looked good to me."

Pfc. Hughart has three brothers in service. Ivan is in the Navy; Paul is with the Paratroopers in the Southwest Pacific, and Chester is in the Merchant Marines. He graduated from the Morgantown High School in 1938.

P. F. C. Hugart is also the grandson of Mrs. J. W. Carpenter of Spruce Flats.

The War Department has notified Mrs. Vaughn Yates that her husband, Petty Officer, Vaughan (Buddy) Yates, of the U. S. Naval Construction Battalion, has been wounded in action.

Mrs. Yates is the former Miss Lenora Brown of Arborela and her husband is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clint Yates of Nashville, Tennessee. He is a graduate of Queen Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn., and is currently serving with the 3rd Construction Battalion.

Mrs. W. A. Galt has received word that her husband, Sergeant William A. Galt, of the Infantry, has landed safely somewhere in France.

Our Army and Navy Days

The following members of the Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association will be held in Washington, D. C., February 18, at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. respectively.

Executive Secretary of the West Virginia Farm Loan Association, will be present for both meetings.

W. H. Condit, Extension Garden Specialist, will discuss the high points of the vegetable garden program, as a part of the afternoon program.

A special dinner meeting will be held for Farm Bureau membership collectors at 7:30 p. m. at a place to be announced. All collectors should complete their membership canvases by this time and make their final report at the special meeting. It is hoped that the forty-one collectors can average ten members each, which would give us county membership of 410. This number is well under the total number of Pocahontas County farm folks who should be members of their farm organization.

Smallest Republic.

Smallest republic in South America, Uruguay has well-watered plains for grazing, excellent communications, and one of the most democratic-minded people on the continent.

Painless Childbirth.

A new method of providing painless childbirth by anesthetizing the nerves carrying pain fibers as they emerge from the spinal cord has been reported by scientists at the University of California. Successfully used in 100 cases it is said to be superior to caudal anesthesia. Complete safety for mother and baby is maintained at all times, the report states, and the patient is free to move about in bed.

Caulk All Cracks.

The conservation division of WPA in urging home owners to caulk heat-leaking cracks and other openings in their homes, in order to save fuel, comments that where wood or metal adjoin masonry, joints around outside package delivery boxes, built-in wall lexicons, coal chutes, and points where piping and wiring enter the house are often overlooked when the more obvious cracks around doors and windows are being caulked. The points mentioned, cumulatively, can cause considerable added heat loss if they are not sealed with caulking compound or weather stripping if they are too large for caulking.

GALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1945

Here is a letter from Sergeant Ira Lee Jeffries of the United States Army. He writes from the Philippines to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries, of Marlinton. He was taken prisoner at the Battle of Bataan three years ago. He is one of five hundred American prisoners liberated from a Jap military prison camp by General MacArthur's Army.

Dear Mother and all:

I hope these few lines find you well and as happy as I am. It was the happiest time of my life the night we were recaptured. We are now being taken good care of now. The Red Cross is treating us like kings. Everything seems too good to be true. These people seem like angels to me, after the ones I have been with so long. I will never be able to thank these people as much as I would like for their help. Well, I am hoping to see you soon. Will tell you the whole story when I get there.

With love always,
Your son, Ira.

The subject of the editorial column this week is the annual Red Cross War Fund. To prompt the urge to assist, I know of no words with greater appeal than those above from a rescued prisoner of war, Sergeant Ira Lee Jeffries.

This month of March is the time for the raising of the annual Red Cross War Fund. Our Pocahontas share is $6400. Of this amount $3500 goes to the American Red Cross headquarters for work in the Army, like Sergeant Jeffries is benefitting from. The balance, $2900, is required by the local Pocahontas Chapter to take care of soldiers and their affairs here at home. Our slogan this year is "give a day's wage for a soldier".

During peace times there was the annual roll call for Red Cross members at a dollar a throw. This was all right then, for it took good care of the general run of relief work and kept up the organization for use in times of disaster and calamity.

In war times the American Red Cross follows the fighting forces. This means greatly increased personnel and greatly increased expense for equipment, travel and whatnot. In addition, the work on the home front is greatly expanded and enlarged. For instance Pocahontas County Chapter is the go-between of the soldier and his family. In peace time telegraph tolls would not average over fifty cents a month the year through. In war times, telegraph tolls of as much as $80 have had to be insured in a single month. Of course telegraph tolls are among the minor items of expense. I recount it here merely as a straw to indicate the tremendous trend upward in Red Cross expense during times of war.

There is the matter of garments, soldier kits, hospital packages which the Red Cross has undertaken to supply and does supply through the labors of cheerful volunteer workers. The material and transportation cost run into a good sum, to be paid out of the budget of our local Pocahontas County Chapter.

Mention should also be made of the vastly increased office work brought about by war, with around 1600 men and women of our county away from home in the armed forces. This is taken care of to a large extent by work on a voluntary basis.

The point I am so feebly bringing out is that for ordinary times the Red Cross annual membership dues of a dollar takes care of things very well; during the extraordinary condition of world war this dollar is inadequate. So we have now the annual asking for a Red Cross War Fund. Instead of a dollar, Pocahontas County Chapter urges consideration of their slogan, "A day's wage for a soldier," and it is not too much, either.

NOTICE

To the creditors and beneficiaries of the estate of S. B. Wallace, deceased.

All persons having claims against the estate of the said S. B. Wallace, deceased, whether due or not, are notified to exhibit the same with the voucher thereon, legally verified to the undersigned, at his office in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 3rd day of September, 1945; otherwise they may by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate.

All beneficiaries of said estate are notified to be present on said day to protect their interests.

Given under my hand this 30th day of February, 1945.

Commissioner of Accounts,
County of Pocahontas, West Virginia.

Farm War Board

The Pocahontas County USDA War Board met on Wednesday, February 1, outlined plans for assisting Pocahontas County farmers in reaching 1945 production goals, as well as contributing to a sound agricultural program for future years. The main phases of food production that Pocahontas county is particularly suited to make definite contributions are: home gardens, potatoes, beef cattle and sheep in particular, with, although not as great a contribution still an important one, small grains, milk, hog production, poultry and poultry products including turkeys.

Ways that Pocahontas County can contribute to these various phases of food production will be discussed in future issues of the county papers, as well as through special campaigns or schools for certain of the more important commodities. For example: a series of garden schools are planned for the week of February 28 through March 2. Livestock, meadow and pasture meetings will be held during the latter part of March, and possibly other meetings that may seem desirable from time to time.

In addition to plans for 1945 food production, the War Board discussed in detail the important problem of assistance to returning war veterans interested in agriculture. Under the G. I. Bill of Rights, representatives of the various agencies and farm organizations have specific obligations to those veterans interested in agriculture. An advisory committee to assist with these problems was appointed by the War Board, the members of the committee with the business or organization they represent are as follows.

Farming, G. C. Beard, Hillsboro; Newspaper, C. W. Price; School System, Eric Clutter; Churches, J. C. Wool; Professions, S. H. Sharp; County Government, Z. S. Smith, Jr.; American Legion, Frank Johnson. Business, H. M. Widney; Banks, J. A. Sydenstricker.

Mr. Johnson was selected as temporary chairman, with the thought that the committee will select its own permanent chairman.

In addition to the above county advisory committee, district and sub-committees were selected as follows:

Levels District—F. W. Rockman, G. A. Hull, D. M. Callison.
Edray District—J. Z. Johnson, W. B. Waugh, Frank Hannah.
Huntersville District—E. Clyde Bussard, Hevener Dille, W. H. Barlow.
Greenbank District—Carl W. Feather, Willis Cassell, M. C. Friel.

Fishing Seasons

Charleston, W. Va.—Limiting the number of minnows a fisherman may have in his possession and eliminating five-day trout streams were the chief changes made by the Conservation Commission in fixing the 1945 fishing seasons and creel limits at its session here last week. One day was added to the trout season, which will open April 28, and close July 15. The bass season, beginning June 30 and ending Nov. 30, was shortened a week. Creel limits remained the same as last year. Pickerel, muskies and wall-eyed pike may be taken from June 30 to April 30, 1946. A seven-day frog season from June 30 to July 6, was established. Former five day trout streams will be made open water or closed, with local conditions being the guide.

The nine-inch minimum length for bass, six inches for brook trout and seven, for rainbows and browns were retained.

In placing restrictions on minnows for the first time, the commission declared it to be unlawful for anyone to have in his possession more than 25 minnows at any one time or more than 50 of any other aquatic bait. The restrictions do not apply to minnows obtained from commercial dealers who raise their bait.

The Commission concluded its two-day session with a discussion of pending legislation Chairman Raymond J. Lambert presided, the other Commissioners present being Percy H. Hornbrook, Vice-Chairman; John Addair, R. H. Miller, Jr., A. B. Knight, Paul C. Lehmann, James G. Wright. Executive Director Jack Shipman also attended the sessions.

Locust Creek Farm Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Dick Beard, February 1st, with good attendance.

After the business meeting Mrs. Esther LaRue gave a demonstration on the selection of dress patterns. On March 1, beginning at 10:30 a. m., there will be an all day meeting with Mrs. D. M. Callison. Subject for this meeting will be a Sewing Machine Clinic. Those that have machines that need cleaning, please bring them; and also bring a covered dish for luncheon.

Each member is requested to bring 50c for their dues.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Star! L. VanDevander, A. M. M. 1-c has returned to San Diego, California, after spending 31 days at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arlie VanDevander. He has been in the Hawaiian Islands for 31 months and received the American Theatre and Asiatic-Pacific Campaign ribbons and also the Navy Good Conduct ribbon. His brother, PFC. Ivan, a wife man and telephone operator somewhere in Germany.

Private Leonard F. Gumm, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gumm of Mountain Grove, Va., has recently been awarded the Bronze Star citation in the Burma Campaign, and was wounded while on combat duty in India. Private Gumm entered the army on February 13, 1943, and has seen nine months service overseas. He returned to the States and is now stationed at Fort Missoula, Montana.

Charles E. Paffenbarger, 29, husband of Onita M. Paffenbarger, Dunmore, W. Va., is receiving his indoctrination at Great Lakes Training Center. His recruit training is seamanship, military drill and general Navy procedure. A series of aptitude tests will be taken to determine whether he will be assigned to a Naval Service school, to a shore station or to immediate duty at sea. When his training is completed he will have a period of leave.

Mr. and Mrs. VanBuren Hevener, of Tell City, Indiana, have been notified by the war department that their youngest son, Ralph, is missing in action in Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Hevener were former residents of Pocahontas county, having resided for a number of years on Back Mt. Mrs. Hevener is the daughter of the late W. R. Sutton.

Harold Friel, writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Friel, of Marlinton, from somewhere in France:

Dear Mom:

How is everyone at home? I feel pretty good, but I just wish some of the people could see what I have. You will never hear me complain about anything when I get home. Has Sherman left yet? It's been a long time since I heard from anyone. I want you to send me a box of crackers or cookies, and meat or anything to eat; also a roll of Copenhagen. You may have to show this letter to the Postmaster before you can send it. I may request a box in every letter, so you can send me anything you want to.

How's Dad getting along? You should get some of my money this month. Don't worry about me. Oh, yes, a package of coffee would be nice. I'll close.

Your son, Harold.

This letter was written by Pvt. Harold H. Friel to his mother, Morris Friel of Marlinton, from France:

Dear Mom:

How is everyone back home? I'm fine, with the exception of a burned hand. I can't hardly write. I received a letter recently dated January 16th. I think the mud is knee deep and I have size 11 boots.

I hope Dad is okay and I'm glad Sherman is still home. I hope how soon I get home and I'll never say a word if I only have water to drink. I only wish some of the people could live like we do for one week. I had a picture made the other day, I'll send it to you; but it will be a horrible sight. Tell Naomi to write. Suppose she is tired writing without an answer. I have seen some things I would like to tell you about but cannot write.

Your son, Harold.

Air Service Command, France. Rushed across the channel by plane and convoy, Cpl. Richard C. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Moore of Marlinton, West Va., is now working at Headquarters of Air Service Command in France, helping to keep America's bombers and fighters flying.

Part of the vast organization which broke records before D-Day supplying the Eighth and Ninth Air Forces in their pre-invasion operations. Cpl. Moore is doing his share to prepare the Air Forces for the final blow against Germany.

Cpl. Moore has been in the European Theatre of Operations for 13 months.

Mrs. Sarah Workman who came to work here in the Yard the day her husband, Pvt. Robert M. Workman, U. S. A., was shipped overseas, recently received the Purple Heart which had been awarded to her husband in France.

Private Workman is now convalescing in an English hospital. Sarah has two children—a little girl, age three, and a baby son, age one year.

DEATHS

Mr. L. Townsend

Mrs. J. Wilcox Townsend, widow of the late James Townsend, died at the home of her son James Townsend, February 11, 1945, aged 79 years, ten months and 28 days. She was stricken with paralysis on Saturday morning and never regained consciousness. Everything was done for her that loving hearts and hands could do, but God said come and she answered the call. She told one of her neighbors the day before she was taken so ill that she had turned everything over to the Lord, that he could do more than earthly physicians could do for her.

She was the mother of eleven children, four daughters preceded her in death, Mrs. Frankie Brubaker, Mrs. Blanche Malcom, Mrs. Elsie Lantz and Mrs. Flossie Slaven. Two daughters, Mrs. Mamie Terry and Mrs. Sadie Friebe; five sons, Frank Arthur, Jesse, Lehard, and Warden, who is in the service somewhere in the Pacific, survive. Forty grand children and 27 great-grandchildren and many friends mourn her loss.

She was a friend to all and will be greatly missed, not only in the home of her son where she had lived for twelve years, but by her neighbors also.

She was laid to rest in the Bethel Church cemetery in sight of her home. Her pall bearers were six grandsons and flower girls were granddaughters.

Her funeral was preached by Rev. J. W. Pugh, assisted by Revs. Crummett and Dehaven.

The family wish to thank the many friends for their kindness and help during the time of illness, death, and afterwards.

May God's richest blessings rest on them all, is the wish of the family.

Southern States Starting and Growing Mash contains the highest quality ingredients—all the vitamins, essential proteins, carbohydrates, fats and minerals chicks need for a good start. You need only to match this one high quality mash with good chicks, good management, and clean scratch grains at the right age, to build your flock into a houseful of heavy layers. Chicks like this palatable feed; it promotes health and growth. Before your chicks arrive, put a bag of Starting and Growing Mash in the brooder house to warm to the temperature of the room.

First Lieutenant ROBERT K. MOORE, 10th Armored Division, Headquarters 10th Armored Division, December 11, 1944.

SECTION III - Award of Air Medal.

By direction of the President and under the provisions of Army Regulations 600-45, dated 29 of September 1943, as amended, and Circular Number 3, Third United States Army, dated 26 of April 1944, an Air Medal is awarded to:

First Lieutenant ROBERT K. MOORE, 10th Armored Division, Headquarters 10th Armored Division, United States Army. For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in France and Germany from 9 November 1944 to 23 December 1944. First Lieutenant MOORE, a liaison pilot flew more than thirty-five sorties, each of not less than one hour in duration. Each mission was for the purpose of adjusting artillery fire on enemy targets or obtaining information of the enemy by air observation. Lieutenant Moore flying in all types of weather, participated in operations against the enemy at Metz, Cattenom, Kerling and Landerbach, France, and at Scherbenberg, Thuringia, Germany. During which aerial flight he was exposed to enemy fire and vital information obtained. His efforts contributed immeasurably to the success of the operations against the enemy and reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States. He entered the military service from West Virginia.

By command of the Division Commander.

18th AAF in ITALY.—Captain Jack Preble of Steubenville, Ohio who is well known throughout the mountains of West Virginia for his sparkling yarns on hunting, fishing, mountain climbing and cave exploring, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in direct support of combat operations against the enemy in Egypt, Libya, Tunisia and Italy.

Captain Preble, a veteran of World War I, is also a veteran member of his B-24 Liberator group having been associated with them overseas for more than two years. His unit, the first heavy bombardment group to be based on European soil, has thrice been awarded the Distinguished Unit Citation for their outstanding achievements against the enemy.

Captain Preble will best be remembered among his followers as the originator of the idea to dedicate West Virginia's second highest mountain peak to the memory of Brig. General David Hunter Strother who, under the pen name of "Porta Crayon" wrote many books and magazine articles on the early exploration of the mountains as well as about hunting and lively stories on hunting, fishing and cave exploring throughout the Appalachians.

Sponsored by the Outdoor Writers' Association of America and The U. S. Forest Service, on July 5, 1940, Captain Preble and his associates formally dedicated the peak, which lies 20 miles due east of Elkins, to the memory of "Porta Crayon" one of West Virginia's most illustrious soldiers, writers and outdoorsmen.

Sgt. Wiley Golden (PRO) Cincinnati, Ohio.

SERVICE MEN NEEDED

Reports received by the Local Board indicate men forwarded for induction January 25, 1945, were accepted and assigned for service as follows:

ARMY

NAVY

John Ralph Dille, Walker Sharp, Guy Hunter Rexrode, Charles Edward Puffenberger, Forest Lee Tracy, Ernest Orville Dill, J., Charles Richard Scott.

Mrs. Fannie McLaughlin of Dunmore, sends this letter from her son, Don C., who is stationed somewhere in the Philippines, under date of Feb. 7th.

...and I know I received your letter of the 20th yesterday and also received Jan. 15, 1945. As you see my mail is coming up. I have received but one V mail letter so far and it was about 15 days late.

I received a letter from Lillie and Pat which was mailed January 10th; haven't received Ruth's letter yet.

Oh yes, I got to see my first Jap the other day; he didn't look so good to me. Tell Glenns I can send her a Philippine boy to help with the work. I really had some fun helping the Philippine girls pound rice and they can cook good. I have eaten three different kinds of rice food they prepared and it was swell. They seem like nice people. I have them do my laundry. It costs one dollar in their money and fifty cents in U. S.

I go swimming most every day in the beach. The water is grand. There are two or three guys in the Btry. from W. Va. none I know. We really tell a lot of tales when we get together.

How is Mr. Brooks; tell him hello and I will write him soon. Have they heard anything more from Cliff and was he seriously hurt? Lena, you guessed wrong about where I am, but keep on guessing, maybe you will guess right some time.

Hope this finds all of you well.

P. S. I haven't received the packages as yet; looking for them any day.

Mrs. Willis Cassell sent in the following letter from her son Jerry, dated Nov. 11, 1944. Dear Mom and Dad:

There isn't much to write about just now. Just thought I would let you know that I am all right. I hope every one is the same at home. Some of the boys who came down with me have gotten some mail, but I have not yet. I am hoping it won't be long before I do. Time seems to go fast around here; we have several different reports to occupy our time. Does Ellen write to you? I could write more often if there was anything to write about, but we only get four cards and letters a month, but for me, I can get as much mail is written to me. This is all for this time. Give everyone my best regards.

As ever your son, Jerry.

EXPERIENCED SEAMEN URGENTLY NEEDED!

If you have ever been a Mate, Engineer, Radio Officer or Able-Bodied Seaman, you're vitally needed on board ship—doing the job you and only you can do!

Today, the war roars to a climax. Soon it will reach, in the South Pacific, the same crucial stage it reached in Europe just a short while ago. The drain on supplies is staggering. • We've got the supplies. We've got the ships. But we need more men to man the ships. Men with guts. And experience. • We need 43,000 of 'em within the next twelve months—5,000 this month!

IT'S UP TO YOU

And that means you, if you've been to sea. Because there's just no substitute for experience at sea. One day's sailing time lost waiting for a crew can mean death to thousands of men on the other side of the world—can lengthen the war by weeks.

LAW GUARANTEES YOUR OLD JOB

But suppose you've now got a good job on land—then what? Okay. Let's look at that one for a minute. First of all, you know that the law guarantees your old job back, guarantees your seniority rights—if you leave now to give your country a lift.

In addition, there's this to consider: If you go to sea now, you may never want your old job back—not on a silver platter!

Because, brother, when this war ends—that's the day the Merchant Marine really gets going!

A LOOK AT THE FUTURE

This is the one war industry which will be able to go full steam ahead without having to stop to reconvert.

With devastated countries to be rebuilt, island outposts to be supplied and new prospects for international trade, the outlook for a prosperous Merchant Marine is brighter than ever before!

WHAT ABOUT THE PRESENT?

And when you come right down to it, it's no cinch to find a better berth than one in the Merchant Marine right now.

Up-grading is faster than ever before in the history of the service.

In six months' time, a man can make the progress it would have taken three years to make before Pearl Harbor.

Many men have actually progressed from able-bodied seamen to ship's masters in three years!

IMMEDIATE BENEFITS

As soon as you're qualified, you can receive stand-by pay until you're assigned to a ship.

You get $5,000 worth of war risk insurance right away—free—and more, if you want it, at very low cost.

And, as soon thereafter as possible, you'll be on your way over with the stuff they need to finish the fight...

Doing a vital job for your country. A job only you can do. A man's job.

"We can fight the enemy and push him back—but unless supplies are kept coming to us in a steady stream, we cannot hold what we win. Lack of experienced seamen can slow this stream to the danger point."

General Marshall

LET'S FINISH THE JOB!

Notice of Judicial Sale of Real Estate

Pursuant to the decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 18th day of June, 1944, in the Chancery Cause of the Bank of Marlinton, Assignee and Liquidating Agent of the Bank of Hillsboro vs. L. P. McLaughlin and others, we will on Friday, the 16th day of March, 1945, at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, at 1:00 p. m. of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder the following described real estate:

That certain tract or parcel of land situate within and adjoining the corporate limits of the town of Hillsboro in Little Level District of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, containing 26 acres, more or less; and being part of the same tract of land which was conveyed to L. P. McLaughlin by deed from Henry Robinson and wife, bearing date on September 26, 1919, and of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Deed Book 56, at page 394. Said tract of land will be sold by the boundary and not by the acre.

Terms of Sale: One-third of the purchase price cash on day of sale; one-third payable in six months from date of sale, and the balance in twelve months from date of sale; the purchaser to execute his negotiable promissory notes with approved security for the deferred payments and the title to said property to be retained as further security. The purchaser to assume the payment of the 1945 taxes.

This is a valuable tract of land with a desirable home site upon it located in a splendid community.

Jan. H. White,
A. E. Cooper,
J. E. Becker,
Special Commissioners.

I. J. E. Hamrick, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, hereby certify that bond with security approved by me as sufficient and in the penalty provided by said decree has been given by said Special Commissioners.

J. E. Hamrick, Clerk.

Red Men of Thunder Gap

Field Supervisor R. E. Harbert will be at the County Agricultural Office, at Marlinton, from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., on Friday March 9th, to accept applications for emergency crop and feed loans.

In view of the War Food Administration's request for farmers to buy their seed and fertilizer as early as possible for 1945 crops, it is expected that a large number of farmers will apply for loans earlier than usual this year," Mr. Harbert said.

Loans are available up to $400, depending upon the needs of the applicant and are secured by a crop lien on the crops to be grown in the case of a crop loan or a chattel mortgage on the livestock to be fed in case of a feed loan. The interest rate is 4 percent per year.

Farmers in this section, wishing to apply may meet Field Supervisor Harbert on the above date.

Charleston, W. Va.—B. D. Willis, Acting Fish Technician of the Conservation Commission, has announced that the stocking of legal size brook, brown and rainbow trout will begin during March. The number stocked this year, he said, will be as large as, if not larger than the 1944 total of 146,843. They will be distributed from the Marlinton, Petersburg and Ridge Fisheries.

Sergeant J. H. Thomas, of the Air Corps, stationed at Lawson Field, Fort Benning, Georgia, is home on furlough.

Warren Johnson, of the Navy, is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Odie Johnson. He has been in the South Pacific Area.

The word has come to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Crowley that their son Clyde, is a prisoner in Germany. The first report he was missing in action over Germany. He was a waist gunner in a fighter plane.

Everette Nottingham of the Navy, stationed at Norfolk, Va., is spending a 19 day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nottingham.

1ST. MARINE DIVISION

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries, of Marlinton, received a telegram on March 1, notifying them that their son, Technical Sergeant William Marvin Jeffries had died on January 30, 1945, on Iwo Jima, as a result of wounds received in action.

T-Sergeant Jeffries was inducted into the Army, at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, on May 27, 1941. He first was sent to Camp Wolters, Texas, from there he was sent to Fort Leonard, Missouri, and then was transferred to a Desert Training Center in California. From there he went to Camp San Luis, Obispo, California, where he remained till he left the States in September, 1943. Since that time he had served in the Hawaii Islands and in New Guinea. He had previously served one enlistment in the United States Army in the Hawaii Islands, entering the service on October 26, 1936.

T-Sergeant William Marvin Jeffries was born on December 29, 1917, at Lewisburg, West Virginia, being 27 years and 22 days old at the time of his death.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Jeffries, five brothers and three sisters: Clyde E. of Montgomery; Paul, of Marlinton; Robert, of Huntington; Ira L. and Fred, who are in the service; Mrs. H. R. Walker, of Charleston; Mrs. S. A. Weir, of Beaver; Mrs. Edna Armstrong, of Buckeye, nine nephews and six nieces and a host of other relatives and friends.

February 2, 1945

It is with great personal sorrow that I write to express our sympathy to the death of your son and our comrade, Staff Sergeant Barclay H. Hively, 33190544.

He was wounded in action the 26th of January, 1945, in Belgium, while we were engaged in a particularly hazardous undertaking. During the course of the engagement fierce enemy resistance was encountered and the lives of many of our soldiers were endangered. Staff Sergeant Hively contributed materially to the success of our mission by his heroic actions. He died later that day and was buried in Belgium with a Protestant service.

Those of us who knew your son respected and admired him for his courage and devotion to duty. We feel very much the loss of a good friend and an excellent soldier. We are proud to have served our Country with him.

Very sincerely yours,
Edward C. Vogelsang,
Captain, Infantry,
Commanding.

February 3, 1945.

Dear Mr. Price:
Am back again in old England. It's the hospital for me this time with a cluster to the Purple Heart.

If luck holds out I will be back in those old familiar places for the hunting season. I have read of what good times the hunters have, that is what few are left, and wished I could take part. The hunting here is different, one way, there is no limit.

So if you find time pick us out a big turkey gobbler and keep him spotted; also learn the best trout streams. How's Locust Creek now?

I'll ring off, wishing you and the people of West Virginia the best of health.

A friend, Bill Brenner.

T. Sgt. E. M. Schumaker, writes from Atlanta, Ga., under date of Feb. 25, '45:

Dear Mr. Price:
I have been getting your paper regular every week, and the news of the service boys from around Marlinton are right in the middle of all the fighting over there.

I received a letter from my brother, Billie, and he was helping drive the Germans back in Belgium. He was taken out of his own outfit and was driving a truck while the Germans tried to break through. He was hauling supplies for the First Army.

I got a letter from my brother Roy; he is waiting to be sent overseas. He was on a furlough to Rand, W. Va., to see his wife and children before he sailed. He has just finished his training at Camp Wolter, Texas.

I was sorry to hear of the death of one of my very dear friends, Sgt. Glen VanRosen. We went to school together, and he sure was a nice person and am sending regards to his people.

I was operated on again this month and am getting along fairly good at present. I have just received the Air Medal with two clusters.

I have the Soldier's medal, E. T. O. with four stars; Before Pearl Harbor, Good Conduct medal; have been recommended for the Bronze Star, Silver Star, D. F. C., but haven't received them yet. I was recently promoted Tec. Sgt. on the order from Washington, D. C., under date of November 23, 1944.

As ever,
T-Sgt. Schumaker.

Joan Friedel-received this letter from her uncle, Raymond C. Friel, S. L. who is somewhere in the South Pacific.

Just a few lines this morning as I am sitting here thinking of you. How are you and Mack getting along in school? This leaves me okay and in the best of health. Just finished writing to Nina; I try to write some of you every second day to let you know that I am okay.

Haven't received any letters from home or Nina either for a few days, am wondering what has happened to all of you. Wish you would write once in a while.

How is the weather at home. Cold as ever I guess. It really is hot down here. I have seen quite a bit of action since I came down here; I was in the invasion of the Philippines last month.

Well Joan as time is slipping by, guess I will have to ring off for this time, will try to write more next time, so here's hoping to get an answer real soon. Tell mother and all the rest I said hello.
Raymond.

Opl. Chesley Moore who is in France, writes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Moore, of Marlinton, under date of February 22, '45.

Dear Mother & Dad:

I received a letter and two packages from all of you today. Thanks a lot. I have received about six packages in all.

I just heard from Connell, he is in Southern France. How is every one back there? Fine, I hope. I received a letter from Cousin Cora Laugh, she gave me her son's address, but I couldn't see him. I haven't heard from Sarah for nearly two months. I don't know what has happened. Oh, well this is a funny world; about the funniest one I was ever in.

Say don't think I am in as nice a place as this picture. (Paris) I'll close for now.
Your son, Chesley.

With the 7th Army in France.
February 10, 1945.

Hello Mr. Price:
I guess this will be a big surprise to you, hearing from me, but after so long a time I guess I will get around to write to every one.

Well, how is everything with you by this time. All O. K. I hope. I have been getting along fine and in the very best of health. I never felt better in my life. Yesterday made me two years in the Army but it does not seem that long, but time sure flies.

I sure enjoy reading the Times so I can keep up with the boys in the service and I have been getting them all O. K.

I had a letter from Walter Dale a few days ago and he was getting things right. Well Mr. Price my time is running out so I will close.

Sincerely,
A. West Virginia boy,
Norman Irvine.

William, of the Division, writes from Atlanta, Ga., under date of Feb. 25, '45:

He dropped blood plasma, sulfa drugs, food and ammunition to the armored infantry men whose supply lines had been torn by German tanks and direct artillery fire for more than 36 hours. Only one package was lost.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Broyles have received word that their son Albert is a prisoner of the Germans. The first report he was missing in action.

Sergeant Robert A. Bratton is home on furlough. He has seen service in France.

Harper M. Smith has received word that his nephew, chaplain Sam Neel, is a prisoner in Germany. He had been reported among the missing since December 16.

RED CROSS WAR FUND

"Give a Day's Wage for a Soldier"

This is the slogan of the Pocahontas County Chapter American Red Cross in its endeavor to raise $6,400 by popular contribution. Of this amount, $3,500 goes into the Two Hundred Million Dollar Red Cross War Fund, to work directly for the men in service. $2,900 is for own Pocahontas County Red Cross work. Most of this will be spent for servicemen and their families. It will take more than one dollar a throw on the part of growers people to raise this amount. Give a day's wage during March for a soldier, a sailor, a flyer.

FIELD NOTES

On March 2nd, the sound of the frog was heard in the land. I have heard these frogs as early as the last week in January.

March 4, was the fairest day in a hundred, and this was the first day for me to hear a grub to drum.

On February 1, my friend, Henry Alderman, made the trip in the snow from the Three Forks of Williams to the mouth of Tea Creek. In this distance of thirteen miles Henry and his companion made note of no less than eleven bear trails crossing the road. There certainly was no less than six separate and distinct bears, clearly shown by the different size tracks. This was one winter in which bears wandered the whole winter through.

One day last week Dan Carpenter saw a panther-mountain lion-er on the head of Williams River. Dan and his dog were looking for bear. Dan saw a brindle animal in the cover, and he figured it was a neighbor's dog. Then he got a fair look and he saw it was a panther, but it was too late to shoot. His own dog caught the scent and began to bay but refused to run the track. This dog is a noted bear fighter.

A fine big sea gull was seen flying on the Greenbrier at Marlinton Tuesday morning.

TAKES

GOOD MANAGEMENT!

It's a neat feat to navigate a windy corner with a pile of packages and keep skirts down to a modest level.

We're facing a somewhat similar problem during these stormy war years—carrying bigger power loads, higher costs, heavier taxes—and still keeping prices at low pre-war levels.

We're rather proud that electricity hasn't been rationed and hasn't gone up, like so many household necessities. In fact, the average family actually gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago.

This takes good management, too.

WATERMAN - HANNAH

The marriage of Miss Mary Archer Hannah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hannah, of Greenbank, to Lt. Holland De Vern Waterman, took place Saturday afternoon, March 3, 1945, in old Liberty Presbyterian Church at Greenbank.

Preceding the 3 o'clock service, by Rev. B. B. Breitenbirt, nuptial music was played by Mrs. James J. Wallace, of Ekina. She also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of cream satin, long pointed sleeves, sweetheart neckline, tight-fitting bodice, full skirt, with a court train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a small cream satin hat, designed by the bride. She carried white flowers.

Mrs. George Robert Swiger, of Pittsburgh, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of cherry net, long sleeves, tight fitting bodice, full skirt, which was floor length.

The brides-maids were Mrs. James F. Tuley, of Westfield, New Jersey, Miss Frances Wagner and Miss Jeannette Hannah, both of Richmond, all former classmates of the bride. The brides-maids wore blue green net made on similar lines. The bride's attendants carried arm bouquets of cream roses, backed with cedar, and tied with contrasting ribbon.

Neil Hevener was best man, Ushers were Emory P. Shaffer, Dick Bell Jr., and James J. Wallace.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Hannah received the guests in a teal blue crepe frock, small orchid hat with matching accessories and Mrs. Neels was attired in chartreuse. Mrs. Hannah's corsage was of violets, while Mrs. Neels wore a corsage of yellow roses. The living room was decorated in greenery and colorful snapdragons. The dining room was attractively decorated with white candles and greenery. The bride's table was covered with a table cloth of Italian cut work, with a center piece of white snapdragons, white carnations and white sweet peas. The three tiered wedding cake was ornamented with a service man and his bride.

Aides were Mrs. George Hannah, Mrs. U. H. Hannah, and Mrs. Donald Wood.

Mrs. Waterman graduated from Greenbank High School, attended Mary Baldwin College and has recently been in New York where she has been a model, her picture appearing several times in magazines.

Lt. Waterman is in the Maritime Service and has seen much foreign service. He attended college in Michigan and before the war was a cruise director with Holland-American Lines. He is the son of Mrs. James F. Neels of Cincinnati.

After a short honeymoon they will reside in New York City.

JONES-STATION

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Betty Jane Station to Private First Class Guy Jones, Escort Military Police, son of Mrs. Maude Jones, of Millpoint, West Virginia. The marriage took place on January 23, 1945, at Blackwell, Oklahoma.

The bride, a daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Station, of Blackwell, Oklahoma, wore a gray print frock with black accessories, and a corsage of roses.

The couple are residing at 203 E. College, Blackwell, Oklahoma.

Brush Burning Permits

All Forest Protectors are requested to inform their neighbors and friends that now is the time to do their brush burning before March 30th, the beginning of the Spring Fire Season. After March 30, anyone wanting to burn brush, slash, or other debris will be required to have a permit. Persons authorized to issue permits are Forest Protectors.

The restrictions on issuing permits are as follows:

Fire Permits will be issued only when extraordinary circumstances justify burning debris under provisions of Sec. 4-4, Art. 4, Chapter 20, Code of W. Va. Permits issued under emergency conditions expire 48 hours after date of issue and are valid only between the hours of 5 p. m. and midnight. Written permission of landowners must accompany applications for permits. If wise, avoid burning brush during fire season, March 30 to May 30.

Miss Penny Smith, of the Red Cross, stationed at Camp Lea, Virginia, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zel S. Smith, Jr.

Mrs. Emmett Galford sends in the following letter from her son, Garland P. Galford, who is now in California:

Dear Mother and All:
 I have at last gotten settled for a few days, so I will scratch you a few lines, so you can write to me. I am well and getting along okay. I haven't done anything since I landed here. We will start our twelve week's training tomorrow. The weather is nice here and there are as many mountains here as in West Va. I am about sixty miles from Los Angeles, and 30 miles from San Diego. I could have gone on liberty this week end, but I have too many letters to write. We work

Dear Dad:
 I just came here from California where I had been going to a gunnery school, and all of your letters were waiting for me. I had a nice trip it was like spring out there, but we have plenty of snow here in Utah.

Well Sir, I don't know just when I will get my furlough, but I hope about the 1st of March.

I made it fine in school; I was classified as an expert; so maybe I will get a job soon. Tell mother I have really seen some country since I left home. I was in Idaho and Nevada a few days ago, and we had a very nice trip, but it really did snow, and was tough driving, but we made it okay. I met a man in Wells, Nevada, who is from West Va.; so we have a swell time. Tell mother not to worry and write when you can.

Your brother, Edward.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Underwood of Huntersville, sends this letter from their son, T-Sgt. Hoi P. Underwood, who is somewhere in France.

This leaves me well and hope it finds you the same. The sun is shining bright and the air is beginning to warm up. I hope the mud dries up by this afternoon.

We are still at the same old French house. This has been the home of a well-to-do Frenchman, but the Germans have carried off everything that was loose. We have a fireplace in the building which we use for warming up relations. (We need some cocoa and popcorn). We can't buy any kind of food over here. We are trying to make the place as comfortable

Dear Dad:
 I have been wanting to write you for a long time but I have just neglected it. I'm hoping all of you old timers around Pocahontas are well. I know all of you are working hard, because I've seen a miracle.

I got in early, I know about it. I remember when broom sticks were our rifles and we threw tin can grenades, and propped up stove pipes and painted signs that said, "this is a howitzer" and we threw tarps over trucks and made out they were tanks. And though we laughed about it and kidded about it we were ashamed. Then they hit us and America went to work and performed a miracle. I know because I was at Kasserine when tanks and guns, America made rolled them back and broke their backs in the passes and we and the British smashed their Mark IVs and 88's under the weight of our attack and drove them back and pinned them like rats between Cape Bon and the sea. I was in Sicily and at Anzio Italy when they tried to drive us back in the sea with their biggest ground cannon, and our big guns barked back and said no. We broke out of their iron ring and broke the spirit of their Elite Corps with more bombs and shells than they dreamed of before, and I was in the invasion of Southern France. It was a miracle, seeing the endless miles of tanks and guns, and flying fields carved out in grape vineyards and thousands of planes.

I know you folks are working hard; which makes our country great, and I see how this miracle, this mighty power, this energy now used for the war, can, after victory, create a new and finer life than we have ever known before. New cities, new farms, new homes and industries. New opportunities for me and every man to plan and work and grow to build a greater America—the way we want it to be; the way it got to be.

I'll say good-bye for this time Calvin and I'm hoping to hear from you soon.

Sgt. Roscoe Reynolds.

Marion M. Sharp of Marlinton, received the following letter from his son, S. Sgt. Dewey F. Sharp:

Dear Dad:
 How is everyone around there by now? I am feeling fine and still working, which I am proud to say. I hardly hear from anyone back there more often than once every three weeks. So you see I don't have many letters to write if I answer them when received, so I am sure I do better than that.

I am sending a clipping, or rather what should have been a clipping if I could have gotten hold of the paper soon enough, so I had to copy it. I was too slow that time.

Well, we had a nice spring day here. Sugar trees would have run good. Guess you are getting ready for planting before long.

You can give this copy to Cal. I don't mean this letter of course. I guess we are really on the fall. We'll try and stay that way, which we know will end this war sooner. How is mother getting along? I sure wish I could hear from you more often.

Love to all,
 Dewey.

An Eight Air Force Bomber Station, England.— Corporal Charles J. Gragg, 30, of Durbin, W. Va., is one of the man aircraft mechanics repairing and grooming B-17 Flying Fortress for Eighth Air Force bombing attacks on vital German industries and military installations.

He is a member of an engineering section of the 44th Bomb Group, a unit of the Third Air Division, the division that was cited by the president for the now historic England-Africa shuttle bombing attack on the Messerschmitt factories at Regensburg, Germany.

As an aircraft mechanic Cpl. Gragg is responsible for keeping the engines of his Fortresses in the best possible mechanical condition. Much of his time and effort is spent in the darkness of night and often under adverse weather conditions, readying the plane for an early morning takeoff on a high altitude bombing mission deep into Germany.

O. L. Gragg, before being assigned to the 44th Bomb Group, was employed by a local business in Durbin.

Richmond, Va., Feb.— Lt. Colonel J. H. McGuire, assigned to general headquarters at McGuire General Hospital, Richmond, Va., announced the assignment of Cpl. J. H. McGuire, hospital commissary officer.

Lt. McGuire received her training at the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Employees Association School of Training. In civilian life she had been nursing for some time in Clifton Forge, and also served as private duty at the C. & O. Hospital in Clifton Forge, Va. Prior to her present assignment the Lt. was stationed at Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland, for basic training. Her mother, Mrs. M. McGuire, lives at Middlebrook, Virginia.

McGuire General Hospital is the largest medical installation operated by the army in the Third Service Command, and has been designated to specialize in neurosurgery transferred from other general hospitals for definite treatment.

Allied Forces Headquarters, Italy.
 One Tank and Vehicle Park in the Peninsular Base Section has already supplied more than 200,000 vehicles for the Fifth Army and Air Forces since the start of the Mediterranean Theatre campaign. One of the main units of this unit is Private Albert W. Cussins, son of Sylvester W. Cussins of Slaty Fork, Pocahontas County.

Men of this unit, occupying 2,000 acres of farm land, have handled 35,000 vehicles in one month. The reserve for the Mediterranean Theatre of Operations, this outfit handles vehicles from bicycles to the largest tanks. The men have moved 1,000 army vehicles in four hours. Two infantry divisions were supplied with all their vehicles within 72 hours. The men also assemble vehicles arriving from the United States in crates. The crates, carefully built to hold parts from motors to bodies are salvaged. The outfit has received new vehicles in crates which they have salvaged and shipped back months before.

In passing out the above release, it passed through the hands of my particular young friend, Edward Swint, late of Sutton, where he was editor of the Braxton Central Star, he wrote to me, and I share his letter with you herewith:

Italy, 21 February 1945.

Dear Mr. Price, or must it be "Cal"? I have been a long time since I've seen a copy of the Pocahontas Times, smelted a ramp or "ett a painter." I noticed one of these releases going to Pocahontas, and may as well insert a few lines and a "howdy."

How are the trout, the deer and the tales coming along? We don't get so much of that sort of thing over here. Yet, I did run on to a news item that made me think of you.

Back in the days when I was still with a line outfit, with nothing to do but loaf around shooting squirrels, Germans and the Bull, it seems some of the boys developed an interest in wildcat hunting of nights. Luck was good for awhile and then suddenly went to pieces. The cats could still be spotted all right, but they just wouldn't fall—and some of these boys were pretty good shots. You could stand there with a spotlight shining up into their eyes and shoot all night.

Finally one night, some one decided to climb a tree and knock the cat out. What do you think he found? Two cats! They were sitting side by side on the same limb. One of them had one eye shut, and the other one had the other shut. The bullets were going through between the open eyes, and at the same time through between the cats.

Smart—these Italian wildcats. And there is another thing we have over here that Pocahontas used to have once upon a time, Chestnuts, and plenty of them. Of course, there are all kinds of other nuts too, but you know as much about them as I do.

Well, this is getting too long for a note. Take good care of yourself, and till we meet again, kindest regards.

Pvt. Edward Swint.

Spice Bags
 Spice bags give a flavor, yet emitting flavor to certain soups and stews. To make one, mix three sprigs of parsley, six whole cloves, one bay leaf and a little thyme. Tie them loosely in a small square of white cheesecloth. Drop bag into soup or stew.

Baked Butter
 Until nearly the end of the 19th century, the Scots and Irish baked their butter deep in the peat bogs for aging and flavoring. They left the butter in the bog for seven years.

THE OLD FATHER STORY
 Under heading of "Wotto Yank! Part Cherokee, part Irish, but All Fight." Ken Koyen writes in The Stars and Stripes of Sergeant Clyde Workman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Workman, of Hillsboro.

With The 4th Armored Division, January 19, 1945.—When 28 year old S. Sgt. Clyde Workman turned in his muddled, bullet-torn combat clothes for new ODs and started back to his 400 acre farm outside Lewisburg, W. Va., on a 30 day furlough, he was merely taking time out from Krut killing. For he'll be back to help the 10th Armored Infantry Battalion account for more Germans.

This lanky, soft-voiced infantry man has killed hundreds of Germans from his first night on July 17, up to the middle of November when he stopped counting.

Both his 38 year old, Chesapeake mother and Irish tenennarian father are still alive.

Workman has been wounded seven times, but has only one Purple Heart, the other six times he just went on fighting and let a company medic dress him when the battle died down. He's been recommended for both the Silver Star and Distinguished Service Cross.

His biggest day was Sept. 28, when he knocked off 135 Germans on Hill 285, near Reichcourt, France. Fragments nicked him three times in the left elbow and both legs, during a 150 yard dash from front foxhole to half-track. Once he got his big hands on the 80-caliber machine gun in the track Workman mowed 'em down.

He burned up a Nazi light tank by firing a burst of incendiary slugs at its rear end.

The enemy fought harder during the breakthrough in Belgium than ever before, Workman believes. He got 35 of them in Chaumont, alone when his division was pushing through to Bastogne.

"About the biggest mistake newcomers make," Workman says is to bunch up—usually only in the open when shells start whistling in. Get below ground level fast, if you want to live."

"Watch the flanks," he advised his advised. "Don't just concentrate on your front. I've seen too many guys picked off by sniper and machine-gun fire from the side, where they didn't even suspect any danger."

Miss Diana Jeffries, daughter of Mr. W. Tyler, passed away at her home in Centralia, Oklahoma, February 30, 1945, at the age of 75 years, 10 months and 11 days.

In 1884 she was united in marriage to Robert L. Doyle, who passed away 28 years ago. To this union eight children were born: Lucy Ford, Centralia, Oklahoma; Florence Edgar, Norborne, Mo.; Frances McCorkindale, Calhoun, Mo.; Remus Doyle Horton, Kansas; Annie Stalling, Pittsburg, Ind.; Thomas Doyle, Balto, Md.; W. L. Doyle, Calhoun, Mo., and Corrie Doyle deceased.

In 1926 she was united in marriage to George F. Jeffries, who passed away about three years ago.

She had been an invalid for over five years. At the age of 15 years she united with the Methodist church and was prepared to go.

George A. Wanless

George A. Wanless was born November 3, 1888, and died February 15, 1945 at the Veterans Hospital at Huntington. His death was a shock to the community although he had been in failing health for several years.

His funeral was conducted at the Wanless church, of which he was a member, on February 15, by Rev. H. Blackburn, assisted by Rev. M. N. DeHaven and Rev. Quade Arbogast. Interment was in the Wanless cemetery.

He is survived by his wife Minnie Keeler Wanless and two foster children Peggy and Tommy, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. John Stewart of Haywood; and Miss Angie Wanless of Cleveland, Ohio, and one brother, Harry Wanless of Cass.

George served his country for one year in World War One in Co. G 125 Infantry.

About sixteen years ago he was converted and joined the Methodist church to which he was faithful to the end. He taught a Sunday school class of boys and girls which he loved dearly and his greatest desire was to see before them the example of a real Christian.

I cannot say, and I will not say that he is dead, he is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand.

He has wandered into an unknown land. Think of him faring on, as dear In the love of there, as the love of here. Think of him still as the same I say He is not dead, he is just away.

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA, March 16, 1945

$1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Our Army and Navy Boys

Conrad, Ala. Promotion of Sgt. La. William de Kragt, a supply officer at Conard Army Air Field, to the rank of Capt. de Kragt has been announced by Col. Walter W. Gross, commanding officer.

Lieutenant de Kragt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. de Kragt of Amelia, Va. He is a graduate of the West Virginia Institute of Technology where he received his B. S. degree.

He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson of Marlinton.

The 1st General Hospital, England-Corps, Gerald E. McNeill, 20, has recovered at this United States Army hospital from wounds received North of St. Vith, on the 31st day of January, 1945. While at this hospital he received expert medical care, followed by a period of convalescence. He has now been released for a return to duty.

He is a member of an Infantry Unit. He entered the Army on the 23rd day of March, 1943. His parents Mr. and Mrs. Arnot McNeill reside at Marlinton, W. Va.

Tech. 5th Grade James E. Shires was awarded the Bronze Service Star for battle participation in the Normandy campaign, France. His uncle, Rev. Fletcher Shires, resides at RFD 2 Covington, Virginia.

Charles E. Roman, 1st Lt. E. A. is spending a 21 day furlough with his mother in Atlanta, Ga. Lt. Roman, attached to the 1st Infantry Division, went overseas in July 1943, holding the grade of S-Sgt. He was recommended for a commission for his achievement in reconnaissance in the invasion at Oran, Nov. 8-11, 1942 awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action, in evacuating wounded soldiers from the beach at El Guettar.

hospitally for wounds received during the last week of the African Campaign. After participating in the Sicilian Invasion he was returned to England, his outfit having been designated for the invasion of the mainland on D-Day; he landed on the Normandy Beach two hours after H-Hour with a party of shock troops; wounded again he received the Cluster for the Purple Heart, also the Bronze Star and Presidential Citation, and six Battle Participation Ribbons.

Charles returned to duty early in July and week later was given leave to attend the burial of his only brother, Donald C. Roman, 1st Lt. E. A. Liaison Pilot, killed in action at St. Lo, France, July 11, 1944. Late in September, Charles was relieved of his duties as survey officer at the German Border and returned to England suffering with malaria and an old spinal injury; in November he was ordered home, arriving at Battery General Hospital, Rome, Georgia, early in December.

At the expiration of his furlough he will report to the redistribution center at Miami, Florida, for a tour of limited duty. His wife, the former Frieda May Brown, of Weymouth, Dorset England, is enroute to join him in establishing a home wherever he may be stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Alderman are proud to announce the promotion of their son, Pvt. Warren G. Alderman to the grade of Corporal.

Cpl. Alderman received his promotion through the mail from his Company Commander while recently home on furlough.

Warren has been in service for almost two years with the Army Air Forces. He has graduated from three Tech. Schools, with high marks during this time. He is now stationed in Miss., and is expecting overseas duty shortly after his return to camp.

Cpl. Clyde E. Poole of the Air Force after spending a furlough of 15 days with his mother, Mrs. Bennie Poole and other relatives, returned to duty last Friday at Drew Field, Tampa, Fla., where he is stationed.

With the First Cavalry Division in Manila. One of the men in the famous First Cavalry Division's "Flying Squadron" that crashed through the Jap defenses around the capital city of the Philippines and captured Santo Tomas University thus liberating more than 3700 Allied civilian internees was Sgt. Woodrow W. McLaughlin, son of James E. McLaughlin, Durbin, W. Va.

This mechanized and motorized squadron commanded by Lieut. Colonel Haskett L. Conner, Jr., a West Pointer who lives in El Paso, Texas, raced some 100 miles in 48 hours to be the first unit to enter Manila. This is a military feat unequalled so far in the Pacific war.

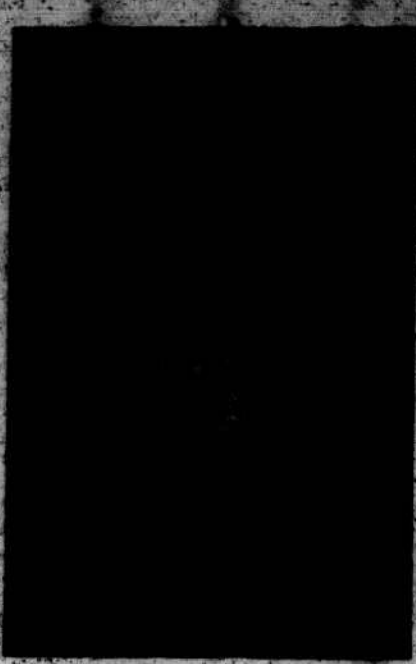

After the liberation of Santo Tomas the squadron moved on to help the remaining part of the First Cavalry Division, which is commanded by Major General Verne D. Mudge, of Tallahassee, Florida, clean up the Southern part of the island.

Mrs. Eva Shaver has received word that her son, James W. (Buck) Shaver has been transferred from the Army Air Corps to the Infantry and from Pampa, Texas, to Camp Livingston, Louisiana, where he is now stationed.

Sergeant Claude W. Bruffey and wife, of Cuthbert, Alabama, are at home on a nineteen day furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bruffey and his sister, Mrs. V. M. Clutter, of Lobelia. On their return they will spend a few days with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Shawver, at Bluefield. Sergeant Bruffey has been in the service three years.

Seaman Second Class Ivan Dale Williams has been at home on a 30 day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Williams and relatives, of Lobelia. Williams has been 11 months of active service. His ship, the U.S.S. David Star Jordan was the second ship in on D-day. He was among the lucky ones never to get a scratch.

Charles Humphreys, of the Navy, is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Humphreys.

CAPT. RICHARD BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown and Mrs. Richard Brown, have received a message that Captain Richard Brown was killed in action over Belgium on January 1. Previously they had received a message that he was missing in action.

Captain Brown had received his promotion and was awarded a silver oak leaf cluster to the air medal in a ceremony just a few months ago, with Brig. Gen. G. P. Weyland, commanding general of the Nineteenth Tactical Air Command presenting the award for meritorious achievement in combat flights.

At that time he had completed 70 sorties in his plane "Virginia" P-47. He was a flight leader in the famed "Pioneers" fighter-bomber group of the 9th Air Force.

Captain Brown who was 22 years of age last August, was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown, of Washington Avenue. He is also survived by his widow, who was before her marriage, Miss Mary Switzer, of Clifton Forge.

Prior to going into the service, he was employed by the J. A. Shumaker Company, Covington, Virginia.

Captain Brown is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Grimes, of Dunmore, and a nephew of Mrs. Glen Waugh, of Marlinton.

Our friend, George R. Siple writes as follows:

Sunday, March 4, 1945.

Dear Mr. Price: I am writing you to have you change the address on my paper. I was at Durbin in January but never got to Marlinton. Had only five days at home and my wife and son occupied about all that time.

My new address is Battery B, 569th F. A. Bn., Fort Sill, Oklahoma. I will have an A.P.O. in the very near future but can't say just when.

I was very sorry to hear of Basil's death and I know he gave a good account of himself before going. He was a great sportsman and loved competition, as most of the men from Pocahontas. Hope to get over there in time to get in a few rounds myself before its over. Hope all the people in Marlinton are not frozen from the hard winter you have had. I have only seen the ground white here, once this winter. A light snow makes for good gauging in artillery fire.

I'll close for now. Give my regards to all the people on the eve.

Very respectfully, Pvt. George R. Siple.

Mrs. John Clark was greatly surprised when she returned from church last Sunday to find her son, James G. Quick, of the Navy was there to spend a few days with her. It was his first time home since completing his boot training in February, 1943. He looks fine and says he likes the Navy likewise. He sailed from the States a year ago this month and just returned. He has been in the Atlantic, North and South Pacific, seeing a lot of the foreign lands. He expects to sail again soon.

His elder brother, Private First Class John G. Quick, of the 2nd Army, in France, was wounded the 14th of January in the right arm and right side of the chest. A card from a hospital abroad reached here Monday, March 12, saying he was recovering from a wound in the left side of the chest on February 23. It is believed this wound is his second one, just a little over a month apart.

Frank Peterson, of the Army, spent a short furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crest Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. writes as follows:

The Aleutians February 26, 1945.

Dear Mother: You are a welcome friend up here in the Aleutians. My old friend, Hoover, who is helping me, the Liberty Ship at Adak, has been sending me the Times ever since I have been in the Navy. That is the one way that I have been able to keep up with the life in Pocahontas county.

I wish to extend my deepest sympathy to you and the family in the loss of Basil. I can hardly believe that it is true.

Being a naturalist I believe the following information will be of interest to you. Nature hasn't forsaken me, I have discovered. The matting, carpet-like tundra on which we walk is a rolling sea of bright green grass. And as thick as flies in honey are scattered all sorts of wild flowers. The great red numbers are petaled white flowers, with yellow centers, smelling faintly like a dandelion. Of course there are no trees. I don't suppose they could grow in this ashy, rocky soil even if the 100-mile-an-hour winds would let them stand. But the whole panorama of blue water and rolling rising to ice cream peaks defy description. This is a treeless tundra but not bird forsaken. There are many different kinds of birds here. When snow is on the ground, you can see four kinds of birds may wing over you—a large black-raven, a snow bunting, bald eagle or a harrier—grouse-like bird, all of life except for a dark all. But with the disappearance of snow, other varieties make their presence known. Many a full morning is brightened by the melodious notes of the song sparrow, just outside the hut window. Small red-brown birds with long tails have been seen feeding on food scraps outside the hut walls. They are very tame.

though, is a drab, sparrow-like songster called the Tonsur. The male is handsome with a black throat and chestnut head; patch, its incessant tinkling whistle often uttered on the wing is cheerful and is heard everywhere over the slopes. For a nesting site the tonsur chooses a spongy mound concealed by flower clumps or patches of grass. We live in Quonset huts measuring 20x15 feet with a curved metal roof and wooden deck. It is all one room with doors and windows at front and rear only. An oil stove squinting squarely in the center, heats the entire room. There is no inside head or bath; you have to walk to a separate hut for that. There is a table and chairs in the center of the deck.

I will knock off now and retire to my sack for some deep meditations in the arms of Morpheus. I hope you are well, will be seeing you before long I hope. Yours sincerely, James M. Wimer.

PFC Howard R. Doss, writes from somewhere in the Philippines under date of Feb. 17, '45: Dear Calvin: Guess it will be no surprise to hear that I am at last in these islands again. Have been here quite a few weeks now and am getting along fine. The first few days and nights after we landed here, it was quite hot, and I wouldn't say it was the weather. Then we had to get out of our bunks a few nights for the "Tokyo express." He always came over, right above the tree tops about 2:30 in the morning; never did us any harm though. So guess he just came over for a look around.

At last I have met some one from the fair village of Greenbank—Hoyt Woodell. He came up here with me on the boat from New Guinea. The last time I saw him was the day we landed. Haven't had time as yet to look him up but hope to some day soon.

Have been hearing about you having so much snow and ice back there this winter, only wish I could see some of it. Over here it is just like it is at home in July. I really don't know what the boys from over here will do in the winter time when they return home. I know it will be hard on them. I think I could stand it somehow, if there was any way of getting home. I don't expect to get back before I put in about 30 months over here, so I have quite a while to go yet, before I will be able to see those wonderful hills once more. I heard the good news of Ivan Barlow returning to New York at ter six months over seas, I am really glad for him and his family that he did get back. I know how glad they were to see him once more.

I received my first Times yesterday. I have had in months. Its date was August 31st. I was sure glad to get it and to read the home news once more. It was the first news I had gotten about the Fair of last year.

Cal I have a few lines here I would like to send first to Mrs. Glen Galford and to all the mothers of the county.

Dear Mother: Yours is the hardest fight. For yours is the misery of sleepless nights.

The dragging days at home alone. Watching for mail and the silent phone.

And when at last peace reigns over the world, You will stand at the station with flag unfurled.

To receive the medal you have won. The loving smile of your homecoming son.

This also goes to another mother near Greenbank, who has two sons in France and hasn't heard from them for months.

Well Cal, I guess I had better ring off, I am pretty tired after working all day.

Pfc. Howard R. Doss.

Somewhere in C.B.I.

31 January, 1945.

Dear Mr. Price:

How is the world treating you these long days? I sure bet it would back home. The weather here is pretty good so far. Sure would to see some real snow for a change for when it gets down to forty-eight degrees over here it seems real cold.

I bet everyone is pleased with the war news now, all fronts seem to be gaining fast; sure sounds good to us over here, for it means getting home sooner to stay for good. We all get so homesick sometimes it is amazing to try to do the work we have to do from day to day. I have the nicest family in the world but I suppose there are thousands who think the same. My wife and three babies are at Greenbank, West Virginia, and when I get orders to report back to the States I will be the proudest person in the world. Tell them hello for me, and everything is swell over here. Even if we do not mean it every time we say it things are really swell.

Please send my times to the address enclosed in this letter. I have missed them since I have been here. Sure makes one feel good to read about the people back home, and the letters from the boys in the army helps keep your morale up a lot.

The natives here are plowing for their spring rice, and it sure is sight for sore eyes to see them in their fields plowing with their oxen teams and crude plows. They do their work about like we did back in Daniel Boone's times so you see it is much different than it is in the States at present. They seem to be happy, but that is all that matters in the world anyway. Nothing ever worries them at all and if we had to live like them we all would die in short order.

Well, I had better close and go to bed. The best of luck to every one of you back home, for you all are doing a swell job on the home front. I am, Lorin S. Jordan.

Sergeant Hubert McClung has written home that he has met his cousin again, Private Clyde Anderson, but in a different place, this time it was in India.

Paul Duncan, of the Navy, is spending a 15 day leave with his wife and home folks here. He has spent several months in active duty in the Pacific Theatre. He reports to Norfolk, Virginia, for further assignment.

On Monday Captain Thomas Edgar called his father, George P. Edgar, of Hillsboro, from New York. The Captain is back in America from the battlefields of Western Europe where he suffered the loss of both legs.

Captain and Mrs. Carl Ballentine returned to Hattiesburg, Miss. Monday after a visit here with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Val Fortune. They also visited the Captain's mother, at Pine Grove.

BENNETT - VAN REENAN
Mrs. and Mrs. Lonnie Van Reenan of Marlinton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Viola Lucille, to Robert J. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bennett, of the United States Army. The wedding took place at Marlinton, West Virginia, on January 15, 1945, at 8:30 p. m., in the Presbyterian Church with Rev. Overmeyer reading the single ring ceremony.

Mrs. Bennett attended White Sulphur and Marlinton High Schools. After completing a secretarial course in Greensboro, N. C., she has been employed as a secretary in the office of Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., for the past two years.

Mr. Bennett is the son of Mrs. W. R. Bennett of Lewisburg, and attended schools in Lewisburg and Oak Hill before entering the Service in May 1942. In January 1945, he returned from 25 months in the Southwest Pacific.

For the present Mrs. Bennett will remain in Washington, and her husband reports to San Diego California for further assignment in the Pacific March 12, 1945.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Hugh L. Tallman, of Elkins, announce the arrival of a son, Thursday, March 8th, 1945. Lieutenant Tallman, only son of Attorney and Mrs. F. E. Tallman, of Boundry Avenue, Elkins, is in the Army Air Corps, stationed at Greensboro, North Carolina. Lieutenant Tallman will be well remembered here as Commercial teacher in the local High School.

THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1944

A few weeks ago I printed the story from Webster County about the smart dog my friend Levi had tucked up in the Puzzle Hole neighborhood. His name was Fido. One Sunday afternoon Levi whittled out a fur skin stretching board while he talked to the minister, who had stopped in from church for dinner and to spend the afternoon between morning and night appointments. The plank was just natural for a number two possum skin.

Levi's new dog, Fido, was not doing particular attention as the board took shape. The next morning it was found he had brought in a number two possum and laid it at the back door beside the new board Levi had made the day before.

Thinking this might be just a happen so, Levi took time out on Monday to fashion a number one possum skin stretching board, when and where the new dog, Fido, could take note and pay attention. It was noted he did take a deep and intelligent interest in the matter. The next morning, sure enough, there was a fine number one possum laid beside the fur skin stretching board Levi had laid out on the back porch.

Monday is wash day at Levi's home, like in every other well appointed household. Tuesday is ironing day under the same general good rule.

Well, as Mrs. Levi got out her ironing board, she shaped along the general lines of a great fur skin stretching board, the new dog Fido, was noticed to take one long, dispirited look, and then slope off into the woods. That was the last ever seen of that dog in those parts.

The publishing of this story, brought to the light its usual goal from over at Shepherdstown, in the far eastern panhandle county of Jefferson. One morning not so long after the disappearance of the dog, Fido, from the Webster County home, a prominent family of Shepherdstown found they had been taken possession of by a likely and intelligent looking dog. They took the stranger in, and made much over him. It appeared to be just another case of love at first sight.

Then in about a week the dog came up missing. Then in a day or so, he came back to take up the thread of life as if there had been no interruption. Things went a long as usual until the same day the next week, and there was no dog.

This disappearing and returning act happened so regularly, that the new dog was given the name of Finnigan, after the wide known railroad of the short time report on the ever recurring accommodation train wreck—"Off again, on again, gone again, Finnigan."

It was noted that Finnigan pulled his disappearing act early Tuesday morning, the regular leading day in the household. They tried tying up the dog on Monday night. He would chew the rope, or shed the collar if chained. He would break out the stable, garage or dog house, and go through a window of the dwelling.

All this was strongly unaccountable behavior on the part of a faithful dog otherwise regular in his habits.

Then the place was printed a headline, the Webster County dog which went away into the woods on the fatal Tuesday to get a fur skin skin to stretch on the big ironing board. To save his skin he could not return without such a varmint and so become destined to be forever the wandering hound of these and less mountains.

Then it was known in far Jefferson County that Finnigan was none other than Fido. Then it was known the Tuesday urge of the poor faithful dog to take up the search for a varmint as big as a kangaroo for to stretch over the ironing board.

Last summer there was a mad dog case in Jefferson County, for a number of dogs developed rabies. People who set store by their dogs had them inoculated against rabies, and Fido also Finnigan was one so treated. However on one of his weekly rambling away fits, the dog caught and apprehended Fido after Finnigan had landed him in the dog pound at Charleston.

Then the master found Finnigan in a dervish and neglected condition. In spite of great care in way of a dog that he was thought to recover by means of treatment, it took a two dollar bill to get him for "feed and care." It was against the "year" law that had not had a chance of feed and no more at all.

Sound keeper. Finnigan was delighted to get back to the new home, but as soon as the day came around he went out and laid again on his perpetual hunt for far better to stretch on ironing board.

I am familiar with traits and characteristics of dogs in general, but I am at my wits end how to lay the spirit affecting poor faithful Finnigan which puts him to the woods for to catch a big varmint every time he sees the ironing board hauled out. It is all deeply touching.

Sugar water is good and sweet this year, but it has been a rather poor sugar season so far. The heavy frosts sweetened the water, but the rain and warm weather hindered the run.

I see in the papers about how scientists up in New England are setting out to improve the breed of sugar maples. Up there, like down here they calculate at two percent, the sugar content of the average run of maple sap. Some one picked out a couple of likely trees, ran a chemical test and found the sugar content to be a little rise of six percent. Then a college professor got to experimenting around and found a super maple on the college campus which actually showed up a sugar content of better than nine percent.

Hoping the tree would start a strain of super producers, the professor began to plant clippings. At first, he could only get about ten percent to grow. Now he is getting better than twenty-five percent to grow. He finds that early June is the proper time to put the slips into a well watered bed. He has not had time to prove whether it is soil conditions or the tree itself responsible for the sweetness of the water.

Down in these parts we know the sweetest trees have the darkest bark. I have proven to my own satisfaction the blackness of the bark is due to sap suckers pecking holes through the bark, and thus letting the sap to run and stain the bark. You can't fool a sap sucker; he knows his tree.

Last Tuesday a small flight of wild geese were seen at Marlinton flying down stream, feeding on the river. Some wild ducks seen on the river, most all winter since the ice went out on Christmas day. On last Thursday morning a big old eagle flew low over Seneca Trail, just above Jerico Ridge. Turkey buzzards have occasionally been seen for a couple of weeks.

Emmett Galford found the egg of a barred or Canada owl in a tree he cut on Williams River. A pair of crows have been feeding all winter along Greenbrier river. They are now having neighbor trouble with black birds, recently arrived from the south.

Breezes From Abick

A boy made a fallout for muskrat along a stream. He found the trap down, and a six inch horned head on the stone. He thinks a muskrat came along with the fish and hopped on the stone to dine, taking flight when his "table" crashed under him.

I saw a ground squirrel kill three baby rabbits within five seconds. The active rodent swarmed all over the little creatures, inflicting ugly wounds. I dug into the killer's burrow, and it made a meal for the family cat.

Blighted chestnut is not fit for fence posts. If decay has not started, it will make satisfactory rails if the fence is kept clear of the ground.

Saw a felled chestnut tree that contained three squirrels frozen stiff. Their homes had become their tomb.

A Georgia editor wants a perimmon tree planted in every back yard; his idea isn't so bad.

Rapid passing of the butterout is sad news to many an old timer who remembers them as pretty good goods.

An ideal winter day is one where the quiet is broken only by the sound of a barking dog and ring of an axe.

What is it that seems to enforce silence when you look at the flowing water of wide river?

Harrison county deer are underdone. Mother does are little larger than deer nine months old. Not enough vitamins.

Nearly all apple orchards are neglected. It looks like they will pass from the rural picture.

In Harrison county, a stray dog investigated a disturbance in a hen roost. He stopped the killing of hens by a vengeful killing the varmint. The next morning when the family arose, the dog was taking a nap beside his silent victim.

Health Service

Sanitation officials with the Farm Security Administration in West Virginia have recently obtained a charter for Farmers' Health Service, Inc., and the objective of their organization is to furnish hospitalization and surgical care for FSA families throughout the state. The door is now open for 5,000 low income families (approximately 25,000 people) to obtain protection at a cost within their ability to pay.

Before incorporating, the plan was discussed in detail with officials of the State Medical Association and approval obtained. Furthermore, many hospitals were contacted and requested to give suggestions.

For several years, there has been a burning desire for practical health services among West Virginia FSA families and many county plans have been operating. But certain difficulties have loomed up in numerous instances that baffled small associations. Naturally after Farm Security families in North Carolina and Virginia organized State wide plans, many eager mountaineers peeped over the mountains to watch for the porportion of "hits to strikes." Fortunately the former has been in an overwhelming category in each state, and now hospitals, surgeons and members of the plan are all set for still greater things.

With a trail well blazed, many of the FSA farmers in West Virginia then began "chasing at their bits." They too were determined to get going, and in January of this year, obtained a charter under the laws of the State of West Virginia. A Board of Directors was chosen from their own ranks. Paul Ingram of Sistersville and Mrs. Sam Williams of Ravenswood were chosen President and Secretary respectively.

To benefit by this new health plan, families now affiliated with the FSA are paying in a set membership fee to cover services that may be needed over a twelve month period. These fees are forwarded to Robert J. Marsh, manager, at Huntington, W. Va. It might be added too, that Mr. Marsh has had years of experience in managing health service. In Pocahontas County there are now 12 FSA families that are eligible for membership in the Farmers' Health Service, Inc. As only minimum fees are involved, it is likely that most of them will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to eliminate the over hanging hazards of unforeseen hospital and surgery bills.

Needless to say Orin J. Beard, FSA Supervisor, Agnes V. Shirley, Associate FSA Supervisor, and Virginia M. Kinnison, Clerk Typist are all able to give information in detail relative to the operation of this new health service. Therefore, many calls are anticipated at the Farm Security Administration Office in the Annex to the Court House in Marlinton, W. Va.

ELECTRIC SERVICE

DOESN'T LET YOU DOWN

The Electric Companies of America have always provided you with efficient service. This is possible only by business-managed companies that encourage personal initiative so dear to our American way of life. The faithful service of business-managed public utilities in the past is a certain guarantee of the efficiency and of the loyal service to be given in the future.

In industry, utilities already are planning for the future... planning for full employment and for the full utilization and production of modernized inventions. A wider distribution of devices which lighten factory and farm labor will be encouraged. From these activities a more modern and better America will arise in the post-war world. In the home too, electricity plans for the future. More efficient kitchens, healthful lighting and protective equipment are in the books. In the meantime make the best use of the things you have for the modernized versions will not be available until months after hostilities cease.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mrs. Sue Hannah of Marlinton received the following letter from her brother, Cpl. Ralph Hannah.

Received your letter today. Gee, I was glad to hear from you. I hadn't gotten any mail for so long, it seemed that I would never hear any.

Tell father not to let that cold get him down to just take of himself. I think Stat can do most of what has to be done. Wish I was there to help. I have to fulfill my duties over here first, and then I hope I can come home to settle down for good.

I always think of all of you about dad, or when I would like to have something good to eat.

I sure hope Frank has a good time for as long as he has been gone. I know what he has gone through. It could be a lot worse. I hope I never see anything again like I have seen to-day.

Sis, money is the least of my worries, for all I spend here is for air mail stamps. I have no need for it at all. There is no place to go. I have only been in one town one day since I have been here, and that was because I had to. Thanks a million anyway. There is lots I could tell you, but not in any mail, it has to be in person. Some day I hope to get home, but I am sure you will be home in the next hour. Just seven more days until I will be twenty-six; will be an old bachelor before long.

Tell everybody big hello and the whole town.

How the Eisenhower Times must seem, for I will help a lot.

It is raining here and lying conditions are not too comfortable. Here's hoping that I see all of you soon.

T-5 Clarence J. Kelly, who is with the U. S. Army, is the European Theatre sends the following article under date of January 4, '45.

With the Ninth Armored Division:

The 9th Armored Division recently removed from the secret list, had a flaming introduction to battle. It crashed head-on into German armor in the current Rundstedt offensive and emerged with the admiration of even the enemy himself.

The German finding combat teams of the 9th Armored Division fighting on such widely separated sectors of the front, gave the American division a name German prisoners spoke of the 9th as the "Phantom Division." It was everywhere, they said and they never could tell where its blows would be felt.

Utilizing its immense fire power to the utmost, the 9th Armored gave an admirable account of itself. In the vital sectors of the front, Bastogne, St. Vith, Echternach, there were 9th Armored combat teams fighting.

At one time in the battle, two bulges in the German lines stood out on the map. They were at Echternach and St. Vith. In each of these bulges there were 9th Armored Division battalions of violent German charges and even counter-attacks.

When the 9th's tanks were unable to get at the enemy armor, foot-troops repulsed German tanks with bazookas.

The 9th is commanded by Major General, John W. Leppard, who won the distinguished Service Cross in the last war as the Commander of an Infantry Battalion. He was wounded at Verdun and received the Purple Heart and two French Decorations.

One combat team of the 9th fought a battle just east of Bastogne.

After the German armor spearhead and the leading German armor moved westward, the 9th's combat team slowly back into Bastogne and continued to hold it and the city.

There were several all-frank and positions in the night team.

A second 9th Armored combat command, after a speedy march from the north, met the Germans below St. Vith, soon after they began their offensive. They smashed the German tank only to find that its tanks were exposed. It then began to find it necessary to fight a holding and delaying action. The effect of this determined stand below St. Vith split the wedge the Germans had driven into Bastogne and capped the force of their efforts to wheel northward and capture vital Belgian cities.

Still a third combat command, operating on the Southern flank, had a major part in confining the German steamroller, Echternach. The armored Infantry Battalion in this line frequently found itself fighting German lines. It was a confused melee throughout.

In the battles of St. Vith, Bastogne, and Echternach, the 9th Armored Division wiped out large numbers of hardened German troops. It captured hundreds of prisoners and destroyed many tanks. When the German offensive began the 9th Armored Division was the most powerful fighting unit present to oppose the initial onslaught.

Men of the 9th first faced the enemy in October in the hills of Luxembourg. General Leonard sent units of the Division into the line at that time, so they could become battle-conditioned even though they were technically in reserve. The Germans definitely were not facing green troops.

The 9th armored was activated at Camp Funston (Fort Riley), Kansas, July 15, 1942, after months of training there, it went through the California desert grind and participated in the Louisiana maneuvers. The 9th contains large numbers of former horse cavalry, men from the old 2nd Cavalry Division. There are other famous names in its origin to 1794.

Twice during the current offensive German reported by Radio that the 9th Armored Division "destroyed." The Germans don't mention it anymore. They think they are seeing ghosts.

Sgt. Craig Sharp writes "from somewhere in the European Theatre."

Just a few lines to let you know that my address has been changed and that I'd like for you to send the paper to the address above.

I have been getting the paper regularly and have enjoyed reading it very much. That is about the only way that I can keep up with the happenings around home I enjoy reading your "Army and Navy-Boys" column most of all, but I also like the "Field Notes."

Just keep the paper coming even though it will be a few days later than usual. I'll still enjoy it just as much. Tell everyone hello for me at Marlinton, and that I hope to be coming back soon. I remain, Craig Sharp.

IN THIS 4TH WAR YEAR... ESSO DEALERS FROM MAINE TO LOUISIANA SAY:

"Let's save that car!"

Your car is older than ever before... and it's still got far to go... how far no man can promise you. Keep that in mind as Spring comes on... care never meant so much as now!

It may seem hard to realize that the last new cars were built over 3 years ago... the average car in use today is over 7 years old! As a car owner, you never head a situation like this. NOW just to have that car call for the last one you can get. Whatever your past practice, however much or little you drive your car, this spring be sure to get (1) good, clean oil... (2) a good, thorough grease lubrication... (3) a good, careful check-up of battery and tires and valves. You know you can count on Esso Dealer care. You know you need it now as never before! Don't delay! Get a hand with your Esso Dealer today!

WAR NEWS

Wage War
The war has been a wage war for the most part. The war has been a wage war for the most part. The war has been a wage war for the most part.

Dear Father:
I'm thankful that at this time I can write you, for you are all in my thoughts. I pray that you are well, happy, and that soon I'll hear from you. I'm in Germany with my conditions very improved. The Red Cross gives me clothing, soap, books, and good food—over some chocolate. I am well and hope so are you. I'll be back in Hungary. O. K. Love, Earl.

Our Army and Navy Boys

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Thompson, of Millpoint, received word that their son, Private Hubert Thompson, had been wounded in the right shoulder on February 14th, at Manila. Then at the last of the week they received another letter stating that he has been wounded for the second time, this time in the head and shoulder.

Word has been received from Graham Tallman, of the Sea Bees, who was recently called to Cass by the serious illness of his father. He had made the trip safely back to California by plane, but that they had hit a terrible rain storm in the night and that it sure did lightning, and that he was going to make it. His wife had arrived at her home in Cass three days ahead of him after spending several weeks in Oakland, California with him.

Junior Dill, of the Navy, is at home on a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dill, of Hillsboro. He is the fourth son in the family.

Jack Kane and Olen Mayes, of the Navy, are home on a thirty day leave after serving sixteen months in the South Pacific. They are on the same ship and have seen plenty of action.

Frank Ray, of the Navy, is home on leave with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin, of Stony Bottom.

Alvin Richards, of the Sea Bees, is home on leave with his parents, at Huntington. He is stationed in Rhode Island.

Albert Kirkpatrick, of the Navy, is home on a thirty day leave. His father, J. A. Kirkpatrick, is at the University hospital at Charlottesville.

Ray Dahman, of the Navy, was home on a two day leave with his wife and little son and his parents at Cass.

Adam Talerico, of the Army Air Corps, is now back on his way to duty overseas.

Mr. John E. Mullenax, of Ashland, received a telegram on Friday, February 16, 1945, that his husband, Private First Class Mullenax, was killed in action in Germany on February 23, 1945. Private First Class Mullenax was inducted into the service on June 23, 1944, and received his training at Camp Blanding, Florida, after which he was sent overseas. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Mullenax, of Ashland.

BOARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our greatest thanks to our friends and neighbors for their sympathy during these dark hours of our deepest sorrow. The Family.

Allen Steward, of the Navy, is in California, enroute to his home in Durbin to visit his wife and parents, after serving sixteen months in the South Pacific.

Corporal Jack Sharp is home on furlough. He has been stationed at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. He expects his next place will be Winnipeg, Canada. His work is road construction and grading.

Paul Morris, of the Sea Bees, who has stationed at San Pedro, California, is home on a short leave with his family. He will report next to Jacksonville, Florida, where he will attend school.

Mrs. Howard Doss has received word that her husband, Private Howard Doss, has been promoted to Corporal. He is serving somewhere in the Philippines. Mrs. Doss and daughter, Pamela, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karmahill, in Monroe, New York.

Burton Wagner, of the Navy, stationed in New Jersey, is home on leave with his grandmother, Mrs. George Wagner, and other homefolks.

Private First Class Ralph W. Giffy, a patient at the Martinsburg hospital is spending a 15 day convalescent furlough at his home at Frost.

Ralph McClure, who received back injuries in Hawaii, has returned to the care of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. McClure with an honorable discharge. He has been in the service four years.

Corporal Clyde W. Carpenter, of the 15th Air Force, is spending a 30 day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carpenter, of Millpoint. He has 37 months in service and 28 months of it was spent overseas.

Private First Class Robert Busard, stationed at Camp Croft, South Carolina, was at his home at Mountain Grove, on furlough last week.

Sergeant George D. Thompson, who is stationed at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, spent the weekend with his wife at Millpoint.

Ralph Dilley, who has completed his "boot" training at Great Lakes, is home on leave with his wife and small son.

Fred L. Gwin, passed away Friday evening March 23, 1945, in Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient for the past ten days.

He was born July 23, 1884, near Marlinton, the son of the late David A. and Alice Brown Gwin, both of Bath County, Virginia. He had resided on the Drennis Ridge farm for the past forty years.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and was a member of the Board of Stewards of the Campbelltown Church at the time of his death. He was a Mason and had served as county school attendance officer.

He married Eva Susan Geiger, and is survived by four of their six children, Mrs. C. E. McClinton, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lawrence Hall of Rainelle; Harry E. Gwin of Wilmington, California; and David, of Marlinton; One grandson, Harry Hall of Rainelle; and a sister, Mrs. Harlow Waugh of Marlinton. Two daughters, Garnett and Agnes, passed away in infancy.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Campbelltown Methodist Church, with the pastor, Rev. R. H. Skaggs officiating, assisted by the Rev. Fred Oxendale of the Marlinton Church. Interment was made in the family plot in Edray Cemetery, the graveside service being conducted by the Masonic Order.

Mr. Gwin's mother, who became the wife of Alexander S. Robertson, after the death of her first husband, passed away July 17, 1944 at her home adjoining that of her son.

The family of Mr. Gwin deeply appreciate the many courtesies shown them by their friends and neighbors during the illness and death of their father and brother.

Relatives from a distance called here by the illness and death of Fred L. Gwin were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McClinton of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lawrence Hall and son Harry of Rainelle; Mrs. Florence Robertson of White Sulphur Springs, and Robert E. Rowan of Morgantown.

Sergeant Audrey (Fuzzy) Dilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dilley, wounded three times in action on the Italian front, is home on furlough.

Commissioner's Report

A. E. Cooper, of etc.

By virtue of a decree entered in the above styled cause at a regular term of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia held and continued at the court house thereof on the 21st day of March, 1945, the said cause was referred to the undersigned special Commissioner, who will on the 26th day of April, 1945, at ten o'clock in the forenoon begin to make, state and report the matters set out and promulgated in said decree to-wit:

FIRST: What personal property the said Sylvia Mullenax owned at the time of her death, the character and value thereof.

SECOND: What disposition, if any, was made of said personal estate by the said defendant, Ward Hudson, Sheriff of Pocahontas County, West Virginia; and as such, Administrator of the Estate of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, and how much thereof, if any, of said personal estate is now in the hands of said Sheriff.

THIRD: The settlement of the administration accounts of the estate of the said decedent by Ward Hudson, Sheriff of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and as such Administrator of the Estate of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased.

FOURTH: What debts, other than specific liens, the said Sylvia Mullenax owned at the time of her death, to whom they were payable, their nature and respective amounts and priorities, if any.

FIFTH: What real estate, or interest in real estate, was owned by said Sylvia Mullenax, at the time of her death, the quantity, description, value and location thereof, the liens thereon, by whom held, and the respective and priorities thereof.

SIXTH: Such other matters as any party in interest may require, same being pertinent, or such matters as said Commissioner may deem pertinent, whether or not required.

If for any reason the said report is not completed on said day, then the same shall be continued from time to time and from day to day until the same is completed.

Given under my hand, this the 26th day of March, 1945.

T. S. McNEEL,
Special Commissioner in Chancery.

Notice To Creditors and Lien Holders
To all the creditors and persons holding liens by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof, of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said Sylvia Mullenax, deceased to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, which are liens on her real estate, or any part of it, for consideration to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 30th day of April, 1945.

Given under my hand this the 26th day of March, 1945.
T. S. McNEEL,
Special Commissioner.

A GOVERNOR FOR ALL

Looking for a modern trend of progress in our country, Governor Charles W. Meadows, in office for only a short time, has made it apparent that it will be the fundamental policy of his administration to be the Governor of all the people and not any special group, in keeping with a fundamental principle of democracy.

He is following such a policy, not only in his speeches but in his acts.

That has become so well sensed that the reaction of the "man on the street" is most favorable to the course of the new Governor of the State in pursuing, and his administration of public affairs is receiving their approbation. That is perhaps the highest compliment that could be paid him—to know what the common people think of him and what they are saying about him.

The duties devolving upon a Governor of this State are most onerous. There are many people to see. Governor Meadows is seeing them. There are many problems to decide. Governor Meadows is deciding them promptly and with courage.

His training for the job of Governor has been most fortunate in that he served in all branches of the Government—the legislative, the judicial and now the executive so that he has a complete picture of the whole plan of government and is enabled to get a view point of all.

His public career started during the 1931 session of the legislature, at which time, the editor of this paper recalls that he wrote a little sketch of the "Blue-eyed boy from Beckley." He afterward became Attorney General of the State and resigned that post to become a judge of the Circuit Court of Raleigh County. He had been Prosecuting Attorney of his home county.

It will be encouraging to him and an incentive to him to know that his course and his courage are approved by the people, as he has become so apparent so early in his administration.

We think he realizes that he is in an office only and all have as much right in the Governor's office as he has. After all, that is democracy. Editor James W. Wier in his Randolph Review.

Compliance with the War Manpower Commission's recent mid night curfew regulations for amusement places has been exceptionally good in this section of the state, according to Mrs. Helen K. Turner, the WMC Acting Area Director for twelve counties of Southern West Virginia.

So far, only three alleged violations have been reported by police officials of the area, which includes Fayette, Raleigh, Summers, Greenbrier, Pocahontas, Monroe, Mercer, McDowell, Boone, Logan, Mingo, and Wyoming counties, Mrs. Turner said. Most of these violations were the result of a misunderstanding of the regulations and future compliance has been promised in every case investigated by the WMC.

Mrs. Turner commended the diligent efforts of the state, county and city police officials, on whom she has to rely for reports of violations. At least 98 per cent of amusement spot operators also are trying honestly to comply with the new order.

Scores of question, however, concerning the new regulations continue to come into the area director's office at 300 South Fayette Street in Beckley. Most of the inquiries relate to restaurants operated solely for dispensing food, Mrs. Turner said. She explained that only those restaurants which operated 24 hours a day previous to the order may continue open all night and that those which previously had been closing between midnight and dawn, must close now at midnight. Several inquiries have been received also from schools and private clubs, asking if they might hold dances or parties until past midnight. The answer is, "No, they must finish at midnight," Mrs. Turner said.

The Edray Farm Women's club met at the home of Mrs. R. H. Edray, March 15. Thirteen members and six visitors present. Rev. Thomas and daughter conducted devotion. The lesson from Seed to Sowing, was led by Mrs. LaRose, discussing agriculture from Mordecai, giving best ideas on planting. The husbands and daughters of the members served refreshments.

At the previous day, the club members were led by Mrs. LaRose, discussing agriculture from Mordecai, giving best ideas on planting. The husbands and daughters of the members served refreshments.

Our Army and Navy Boys

With the Fifth Army, Italy.

Corporal Ernest R. Sharp, 34, of Covington, Va., recently was awarded the Bronze Star for heroic achievement in action on the Fifth Army Front in Italy.

He serves as a surgical technician in the Medical Detachment of the 2nd Battalion, 361st Infantry Regiment of the 91st "Powder River" Division.

With three comrades, Sharp, then a private first class, braved intense German mortar and artillery fire to proceed more than 500 yards to the side of two wounded soldiers. After administering first aid, the medic carried the casualties out of the danger area.

Sharp's "heroic action reflects great credit on himself and the armed forces of the United States," the citation read.

In addition to the Bronze Star Sharp wears the Purple Heart for a wound received in action. After attending high school, he was a paper tester for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. His wife, Mrs. Vera L. Sharp, lives at 808 Highland Street, Covington. He entered the service June 22, 1943, at Covington, Virginia.

Cpl. Sharp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sharp of Frost, Pocahontas County.

Mrs. Lucy Davis, of Marlinton, received the following letter from her son, Clarence R. Davis, S. S. M. B. 3rd C., under date of Feb. 27, '45:

Dearest Mother:
Just a few lines to let you know I am okay. I don't know just when I will get this letter off but since we can only write one a day I am writing in advance.

I haven't received any mail for several days, but will probably pick up our mail soon. There has been a delay in our mail, but I will get it all in a bunch I hope.

Well I am proud to tell you that I am a S. C. P. O. now. I took my test yesterday and passed it okay. My new rate will be S. S. M. B. 3rd C. or Ship's Service man Barber 3rd Class. I don't care about the crew or the name but the money will come in very handy. I haven't sent home any money, as yet but it is on the books, and I will send some after the 5th of March.

Well, I sure hope L. W. enjoyed his birthday the 24th. I wish I could have been there but maybe I will be there next year. I thought that last year, but we are all mistaken sometimes.

I am real sorry I can't write home more often. I would like to write every day, but conditions does not permit, so be patient and don't worry. I feel safe as can be and figure on coming back in the future.

Have you heard anything more from Leo? How serious was he wounded? I hope not seriously.

Well, I guess I must close for now. Write when you can and I will try and write often. I will be thinking of you.

Yours as ever,
Clarence.

Mrs. Lucy Davis, of Marlinton, received the following letter from her son, Clarence Davis, under date of March 5, 1945:

Just a few lines to let you know I am still thinking of you and home. I am getting along just fine and having a lot of fun now.

The night "B" is back to the point where I really feel safe and good to be. I am getting over my love and now, I don't plan on coming back until the war is over. I really don't want to, for it is so hard to get broken away again.

Mother, I know you will have a big laugh when you get the picture I sent you. Those are the guys I have to work with. I it any wonder I'm half batty? Eddie, the head barber is sitting in my chair; Spud is standing to my right and Chuck is on my left. I hope you will be able to recognize the tall guy. The picture was taken in our shop. You keep one picture and give the other one to L. W.

I am glad to tell you I made a rate. I am now S. S. M. B. 3rd C. It went into effect March 1, and that means more money.

I am enclosing a $15.00 money order. If you have any need for it, please use it and forget about the bank account. Let me know when you get it, so I can feel safe to send money along.

I will have to close for now, hoping this finds all in the best of health. Don't worry about me, the Japs don't have my number and no way to get it.

So long and write when you can. With lots of love,
Clarence.

The Locust Creek Farm Women's Club held a covered-dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. B. M. Callison. There was a good attendance. Three visitors, Mrs. Elba Callison, Mrs. I. B. Shrader and Mrs. Edwin Bruffey, were present. Mrs. Esther LaRose, county demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on cleaning sewing machines. Their old machines that were cleaned are doing fine work. Several other topics of interest were taken up. The next meeting will be April 4th at the home of Mrs. Nola Jackson.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this way of expressing my thanks for the many nice letters and cards that I received after the loss of my dear brother, Sgt. Cecil Glen VanReenen.

Your messages of sympathy were highly appreciated and I only wish that I had time to answer each one personally. May God bless you everyone.

IS LIGHTNING? ZIG-ZAG

Old Jupiter's lightning was 2-shaped. Today's lightning-fast cameras prove that it really flashes beautiful curves. Shows how weather bears watching, and now in Spring, so does the car that must last you! It's time to drain unit. Winter oil, and you'll get far more than an oil change by having your engine's insides OIL-PLATED.

All you need is Conoco Nth motor oil to bond on PLATING direct to working parts—really a built-on layer of lubricant. This special wear protection—a great research achievement—is surfaced to metal by Conoco Nth oil's strong "power of attraction." And Nth oil provides tough liquid film, too.

OIL-PLATING and oil film are both fighting wear every mile.

Then after stopping, when add want to gnaw any engine, they're curbed by OIL-PLATING—the foe of corrosive wear!

What a big lot of safety from wear! ... to stretch engine life ... to make oil and gasoline last you ... to minimize carbon and sludge ... to help power! Yet Conoco Nth oil costs little more. Fast as lightning, change for Spring. Continental Oil Co.

Let's raid the icebox... Have a Coca-Cola

... a way to make a party an added success

At home, the good things of life come from the kitchen. And one of the good things is ice-cold Coca-Cola in the icebox. Here a Cola are words that make the kitchen the center of attraction for the warm-age set. For Coca-Cola abounds with the freshness of its appeal, and its unflinching refreshment. No wonder Coca-Cola stands for the power that refreshes from Maine to California,—has become a symbol of happy, satisfying times together everywhere.

MONONGAHELA SYSTEM

Don't waste food freshness and vitamin value by faulty preservation and cooking. It is remarkably simple to retain the flavor and practically all the vitamin content by keeping your food in an electric refrigerator and then cooking it with controlled electric heat. If you do not have time and temperature controls on your present range, plan to get them after the war is over. They make it so easy to achieve the essentials of healthful cooking.

IT TAKES AN EXPERT CHECK-UP NOW...

TO HELP YOU save that car!

If you let it slip this year... you may be very sorry! You probably never owned a car as old as yours is now. This means you've got a job to do... NOW!

Get that old winter oil out and fresh oil in. Give that winter-beaten chassis a thorough lubrication with fresh, protective grease. Let a man who knows how look over those tires and switch them around for longer life.

Have your spark plugs cleaned or replaced for greater gas economy, greater engine life. Look after that battery, radiator, lights and fenders! Spring's going and summer's near. Won't the time to get the care that will help you own your car make a date with your mind today?

KATE SMITH asked to write this message on Saving Used Fats!

The help of every woman is needed in saving used fats for hundreds of battlefields and home-front essentials. But some of us don't know all the ways we can do it. Here are a few points I've found helpful.

MANY WOMEN SAY: "But I never have fats left over." Certainly it's good economy to re-use your fats... but there's always something over even after that... and this little is more important than you can imagine. Only one tablespoonful of used fat will help make 5 machine-gun bullets. So there just can't ever be too little to save! Come on, everybody, scrape your broiling pan, your roaster, skillet. Save meat trimmings and scrap fat!

OTHERS TELL ME: "But my fats are often too dark to turn in." It doesn't make a mite of difference how dark or blackened... or what smells like onion or fish you've cooked in your fat. Every drop of it will help make parachutes, synthetic rubber, soap for the fighting men's fronts. I can't feel ashamed to hand it in to your butcher. It's a saving of all of fat you possibly can, you're doing a job for your country.

WHEN YOU HEAR: "But what sort of substitutes will I get?" Don't let this one tell you. The fact that you can't get a substitute for fat is a lie. The fact that you can't get a substitute for fat is a lie. The fact that you can't get a substitute for fat is a lie.

Mrs. Bertha A. Friel, has recently received the Purple Heart in commemoration of her husband, Paul C. Friel, who was killed while performing duty as a rifleman. The medal was presented by the War Department. The award was established by General George Washington, at Newburg, New York, on August 7, 1783, for military merit and for wounds received in action.

Another certificate received states as follows: "In grateful memory of Private Paul C. Friel, 35763417, who died in service of his country in the European Area. He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die, that freedom might live and grow and increase its blessings. Freedom lives and through it, he lives in a way that humbles the undertakings of most men."

Signed by: The President of the United States.

Mrs. M. C. Friel recently received an official report that her son Paul, was interred in the United States Military Cemetery in Epinal, France, plot A, row 7, grave 71.

Seaman First Class Eldon G. Galford of the Navy, spent Easter with his sister, Miss Ruby Galford, of Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. M. C. Arbogast, of Huntington, made the following letter of commendation from her son, S. Sgt. Dale E. Arbogast, who has been serving overseas since June 1944. He is the son of the late M. C. Arbogast. His wife, Inez Arbogast, resides at Montgomery.

SUBJECT: Commendation.

To: S. Sgt. Dale E. Arbogast, 35889810

(Through: Commanding Officer, 5th AACW Wing)

1. It is my earnest desire to commend you for the splendid contribution you have made towards insuring successful accomplishment of the task involved in establishing Detachment "H" 133rd AACW Squadron, on continental Europe, from your arrival on 21 June, 1944, to 1st October 1944.

2. Your devotion to duty, disregard for personal comfort and conventional working hours, cheerfulness when faced with situations which well could have been unbearable, and your ability to advise ways and means when improvisation was required, were outstanding factors in the success of the mission assigned to your unit.

3. Detachment "H" is accredited by the Medical personnel who were there with you, with having been of tremendous assistance in saving lives of wounded soldiers, by your conscientious efforts to control movement of air evacuation aircraft as the exigencies of the moment demanded.

4. It is a course of personal pride to the undersigned to commend you for the spirit, cooperation and efficiency demonstrated by you and the other members of your unit.

FRANCIS LEDOUX,
Major, Air Corps
Commanding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beverage of Loudonsville, Ohio, received a telegram from the War Department stating that their son, Floyd Beverage, had been slightly wounded in Germany, February 28, 1945.

Sgt. Beverage who is attached to the 44th Infantry Division was in action only 15 days before he was wounded. He entered service in March 1943, trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and was sent overseas in November, 1944. He attended Loudville High School. He has two brothers in service, T-5 Alvin Beverage, who is now in France, and Seaman First Class Edgar Beverage, who is also overseas.

Miami, Fla.—Two W. Virginia veterans, each with more than 2 1/2 years' overseas service, today were clearing Air Transport Command's Miami Army Air Field enroute to their homes.

They were flown here from India in ocean-spanning ATC planes. T-Sgt. James O. Morris, 26, was headed for his Morgantown, West Va. home after 34 months' service. A musician in civil life, Sgt. Morris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Morris, 41 West St., Morgantown.

T-4 Carl Sharp, 24, Rt. 1, Box 168, Marlinton, was returning after 36 months with the Signal Corps. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Sharp, reside in Marlinton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Heifer, of Millport, received the following telegram from their son, George E. Heifer, who is serving with the Coast Guards somewhere in the North Atlantic.

Best wishes for a Happy Easter. All well and safe.—Birthday Greetings.—Geo. E. Heifer.

Two Pocahontas County West Virginia men are receiving their initial indoctrination at Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. Their recruit training consists of general Naval procedure. A series of aptitude tests will be taken to determine whether they will be assigned to Naval service school, to a shore station or to immediate duty at sea. When their recruit training is completed they will receive a period of leave. They are Homer R. Robertson, 23, husband of Alice E. Robertson, RFD-1, Marlinton; Burley B. Fowler, 29, husband of Geraldine Fowler, of Frank, W. Va.

Base Headquarters, Germany.—The Bronze Star Medal was presented to Frank E. Burris, 35763135, Private First Class, Company L, 26th Infantry, for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy in the European theatre of operations from June 16, 1944 to December 1, 1944.

The Technical skill, dependability and zeal with which Private Burris performed his duty as communication wireman contributed immeasurably to the combat efficiency of his organization during the invasion of Western Europe. Residence at enlistment, Marlinton, W. Va.

Private Burris had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Beverage of Marlinton, for the past nine years before entering service the first day of November, 1943, and has served overseas since March 30, 1944.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slavin received the following letter from the War Department concerning their son, Sergeant "Barney" Slavin. "Am pleased to inform you report received from United States military mission in Moscow states your son Sergeant Earl W. Slavin, previously reported missing in action has been released from a German Prisoner of War camp. Further information will be furnished when received."

J. A. ULKO,
The Adjutant General.

Robert Lee Fitzgerald, S-1-c, stationed at Little Creek, Virginia, spent the weekend here with his wife and little son.

Preston McLaughlin, of the Navy, serving in the Pacific, is home on a months leave.

J. B. Graham is home on furlough. He is now at Woodrow Wilson Hospital in Staunton, recovering from a bad gun shot wound in the shoulder, received on the western European front.

Lieutenant Richard E. Curran, the Prosecuting Attorney, of Pocahontas County, now serving with the Navy in the South Pacific, has been promoted to Lieutenant, senior grade.

Technical Sergeant Clyde W. Woodell of the United States Air Force is spending his first furlough in three years at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Woodell, at Greenbank. Sergeant Woodell spent twenty-six months in the Southwest Pacific and took part in the liberation of the Philippines.

Private First Class Gerald T. Vandevender, of Arbovale, is home on a 30 day furlough with his father, Thomas Vandevender. He is just back from overseas after serving for 18 months with the First Army. He was wounded three times in combat.

William Cackley, Jr., is home from the Army with an honorable discharge.

Lake Beverage, of the Army, stationed at West Point, was at home on a short furlough last week.

Mrs. Nanette Wooten, of Seebert, received a lovely box of flowers for Easter from her son, Homer, who is serving with the U. S. Army in Germany.

Robert Lee McLaughlin has been promoted to Corporal. He is now serving overseas in the European area.

State Bonds
Our State of West Virginia is called up to back its War effort by the issue of twenty-three millions of dollars, in the form of fourteen billion bonds.

Of this amount our Pocahontas County is asked to subscribe for $187,000. Of this amount $120,000 is in E bonds; $47,000 in F and G bonds; $20,000 for corporations.

The E bond is the security for the person of modern means to invest in. The hundred dollar bond is bought for $95, and redeemed in ten years at face value. If necessary, it can be cashed in without loss at any time.

The drive proper begins May 14, but all sales of E bonds this week will be credited on our quota.

Sergeant Harold H. Allen, of the United States Marine Corps, accompanied by his wife, the former Miss Rebecca Thomas, of Marlinton, are spending a 30 day furlough with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thomas, of Hinton.

Sergeant Allen was serving in the Atlantic patrol duty when the United States declared war. After that he served two years in the South Pacific theatre and the Aleutian Islands. He has been stationed at San Diego, California, for the past year and will return to that post upon the termination of his furlough.

With a Fifteenth Air Force Service Command in Italy, Sergeant Ed Bright, of Marlinton, West Virginia, has recently completed his second year of overseas service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Bright, of Marlinton, West Virginia.

Sergeant Bright is in the Engineering Section of an Air Service Squadron in the Fifteenth Air Service Command and has served in Algeria, Tunisia and Italy. A graduate of Marlinton High School, Sergeant Bright was employed as a carpenter in civilian life. He earned the Army Air Service Medal.

Headquarters, 44th Infantry Division. Citation. For Award of the Bronze Star Medal.

Technician Third Grade Charles E. McElwee, 35749181, Medical Detachment, 324th Infantry, for meritorious service in action in Eastern France from 24th of October to 5th February 1945. During this period, Technician McElwee has performed his duties in a superior manner. As a surgical technician, Technician McElwee has provided rapid and effective treatment of the wounded, and by his coolness in tense situations he has been an inspiration to his colleagues.

Charles Edward is the son of Delegate and Mrs. June McElwee and is with General Patch's Seventh Army.

Richard H. Auldridge, serving with Patton's Third Army, somewhere in Germany, has been promoted to Sergeant. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Auldridge, of Millpoint.

Mrs. Anna H. Thomas has received letters from her son, Staff Sergeant Tappan Thomas, of the United States Marines, saying he had landed safely at his destination somewhere in the Pacific.

Artie Ray Gabbert, S-1-c, who was transferred to the Fleet in December has completed his training in Florida and is now aboard his new ship. He recently spent 17 days in a U. S. Naval hospital.

Latest word from "Barney" Earl Slavin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slavin, received Tuesday, April 10th:

"It's a long stretch from Man's Land back to you, but I made it well and safe. See you soon. Love."

Earl W. Slavin.

DEATHS
C. A. McMillan

Claude A. McMillan, aged 43 years, principal of Greenbank High School, died at his home in Greenbank, Saturday, April 7, 1945. He had been ill for several months.

Monday afternoon the funeral was held from the home by his pastor, Rev. B. B. Breitenhirt, assisted by Rev. Q. R. Arbogast. Interment was in Mt. View Cemetery at Marlinton.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Vella Lilly; a son, Claude Ashon McMillan; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. McMillan, of Hillsboro; three sisters, Misses Cleo and Drexel McMillan and Mrs. Gladys Moore; four brothers, Capt. Ovid McMillan, Sgt. Lester McMillan, Cpl. Leo McMillan and Cecil McMillan.

Paul Edward Cook

Paul Edward Cook, aged two years, seven months and twenty-eight days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cook, of Cass, died Friday night, March 30, 1945. The funeral services were conducted from the home on Monday afternoon by Rev. H. H. Blackhurst, assisted by Rev. Quade Arbogast. Burial in the Arbovale cemetery.

Surviving are his parents and three brothers, Everett Wayne, Arnold Lester and Schuller. One sister, Betty Ellen, and one brother, preceded him in death a few years ago.

Mary Lillian McPherson

Mrs. Mary Lillian McPherson was born August 30, 1887, and died April 2, 1945, after a lingering illness of 17 months. She was the daughter of Amos and Susan Wooddell.

She leaves to mourn their loss, three sons, Lyle W., of Cass; Charles A., of Dixon, Ill.; George E., of Richmond, Va.; and one daughter, Madge, of Richmond, Va. Four brothers, Willie, of Marlinton; El, of Linwood; Grover, of Beckley; and Frank, of Dixon, Ill. Also, two grand children, Patricia and Gary McPherson, of Cass, and a host of friends and relatives.

Funeral services were conducted from the Presbyterian Church of which she had been a member for forty years. Burial in Dunmore cemetery.

Ma V. Moore

Mrs. Ida Virginia Smith Moore passed away at her home on Back Allegheny, near Dunbar, on Wednesday morning, March 21, 1945, following an illness of more than a year's duration.

She suffered a paralytic stroke last March, but showed marked improvement for a short time. Last June she fell and broke her hip. She had been in a wheel chair ever since. Recently she suffered another stroke, and a sudden collapse on Sunday removed all hope of her recovery. Death followed early Sunday morning.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at two-thirty in the Bethel Methodist church of Back Allegheny, and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. M. N. DeHaven of Arbovale. She was laid to rest in the Gum cemetery.

Ida Virginia Smith Moore was born May 6, 1877, daughter of the late Jacob and Virginia Smith of Edray, W. Va. Age 77 years, ten months and fourteen days old at the time of her death.

She became the wife of Samuel Moore April 7, 1897. They moved to Hosterman where she spent most of her life. She joined the Methodist church at an early age, and was a faithful devout Christian all her life. She was a patient, kind and loving mother. Even though she was confined to a wheel chair, she never complained and took her afflictions in a gentle, understanding way.

Mrs. Moore is survived by her husband Samuel Moore, two daughters, Mrs. Viola Rennie at home; Mrs. Glenn Tracy of Boyer, two grandchildren, Marian and Helen Tracy of Boyer, and the following brothers and sister: Luther and E. M. Smith, of Edray, and Mrs. Alice Eubanks of South Point, Ohio.

Her many friends mourn the passing of this sweet and gentle lady. Sleep on Mother, we know you are at rest.

Her daughter,
Mrs. Vera Tracy.

Relatives and friends coming from a distance for the funeral of Mrs. Samuel Moore were Mrs. Lilly Shreeve, Detroit, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, Miss Virginia Lou Young, Edray; Mrs. U. M. Steele, of Charleston, and J. A. Curry, who recently returned from Belgium.

WORLD AT WAR

Some one sends me this clipping, name of the author not given.

The injuries done our earth by wind and flood, Or even by the forest fires that char

Whole mountainsides, have no lust for blood, Behind them, quickly mend and leave no scar.

But I will never live so long, nor you, For all our prayers, to see the green grass close

In her old flesh the wound of war, now new, Or trees root her bones so no break shows.

Men having with their hatred worked such ill On unsuspecting wood and trusting field— The mutilated valley and maimed hill

Would go forever with their scars unhealed. But for the tenderness and skill of One Who cures with nothing more than rain and sun.

O. H. A.

With the Fifth Army, Italy... Two soldiers from Frost, West Virginia, who had not seen each other for three years, met on the Fifth Army front in Italy recently when both were assigned to the same unit of the 91st "Powder River" Infantry Division on the same day.

They are Corporal Rex Sharp, jeep driver for a medical aid station, and Private First Class Ralph H. Sprouse, a member of a war crew. They were assigned to the 2nd Battalion of the 361st Infantry Regiment.

Mrs. Emory H. Adkison, of Second Avenue, Marlinton, received the following letter of commendation in reference to her son, Preston Summers Adkison, of the U. S. Navy.

Mrs. Emory H. Adkison, Second Avenue, Marlinton, W. Virginia.

My dear Mrs. Adkison:

It is a pleasure to tell you that your son, Preston Summers Adkison, Midway Second Class, U. S. N., was awarded a special commendation ribbon this morning for his excellent service in the line of his profession during operations against the Japanese.

This commendation was presented your son personally before the assembled officers and men of this command at a formal parade, and had been made a part of his official record.

The citation, signed by Fleet Admiral C. W. Nimitz, U. S. Navy, Commander in Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet, reads as follows:

"For excellent service in the line of his profession on board a United States Warship in connection with radar operating during seven successive combat operations against the Japanese in the Pacific Ocean Area. By his skill, energy, and devotion to duty, he contributed materially to the success of these operations. His conduct was at all times in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service."

In winning this recognition, your son displayed great bravery, and, to our country at war, rendered a distinct service in which his family and friends may well take a just pride.

Very sincerely yours,
C. E. Braine,
Commodore, U. S. Navy,
Commanding Officer.

James A. Shinaberry S. F. 3-C writes from somewhere in the Pacific, under date of March 11: Dear Mr. Price:

As I have some time this afternoon, I will write a few lines. But I guess this will be short, because I can't say much.

I heard over the radio last night that there was big rains and floods back in old West Virginia and Ohio. But that the Greenbrier river was rising. Bet all you people will be glad when spring comes. Sure have had a long winter. Here, I can't say anything more than it's plenty warm at times.

I have been getting The Pocahontas Times and boys they sure make the days go by. I haven't got any mail for some time, but we always have hope everyday.

How have you been this winter? (When you will be fishing soon) I have been doing very well, about as good as could be expected. Well, I guess I had better stop for this time. Hope to say all of you sometime this spring. Keep The Times coming every week. I sure read them over and over.

A friend,
James A. Shinaberry.

HIGHEST PLACES COLDEST?

YES NO

Mountaineers and balloonists have sampled weather from here to the stratosphere. Is it "colder than Siberia" up there? The Siberian town of Verkhoyansk (spelled Verkhoyansk) has known ninety below zero—this planet's official record, established only 400 feet above sea level! Weather is always temperamental, yet you needn't let this Spring weather cheat you out of any of your motor car's life! Today's modern protection comes from having your engine's insides OIL-PLATED with patented Conoco Nth motor oil, containing a special wear-fighting substance!

This added ingredient—an envied product of research—acts magnet-like! And that's how metal is surfaced with OIL-PLATING—lubricant fastened direct to your engine's inner finish!—right where you need a dependable shield!

With OIL-PLATING and high-strength liquid film too, jointly fighting wear, you get extra-safe starts—extra safety every mile. Furthermore, you get advanced protection against sly corrosive wear! Limit wear to get power, oil economy, gasoline mileage—and battery life. Limit wear to beat heavy carbon and sludge. Limit wear this Spring with Conoco Nth oil. It keeps earning back the little extra you pay. Change today. Continental Oil Company

Commissioner's Report

A. E. Cooper, et al. vs. Belya Mullenax and others.

By virtue of a decree entered in the above styled case at a regular term of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia held and continued at the court house thereof on the 21st day of March, 1921, the said cause was referred to the undersigned special Commissioner, who will on the 20th day of April, 1945, at ten o'clock in the forenoon begin to make, state and report the matters set out and promulgated in said decree to wit:

FIRST: What personal property the said Sylvia Mullenax owned at the time of her death, the character and value thereof.

SECOND: What disposition, if any, was made of said personal estate by the said defendant, Ward Hudson, Sheriff of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and as such Administrator of the Estate of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, and how much thereof, if any, of said personal estate is now in the hands of said Ward Hudson, Sheriff of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and as such Administrator of the Estate of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, available for the payment of any debts owing from the Estate of said Sylvia Mullenax, deceased.

THIRD: The settlement of the administration accounts of the estate of the said decedent by Ward Hudson, Sheriff of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and as such Administrator of the Estate of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased.

FOURTH: What debts, other than specific liens, the said Sylvia Mullenax owned at the time of her death, to whom they were payable, their nature and respective amounts and priorities, if any.

FIFTH: What real estate, or interest in real estate, was owned by said Sylvia Mullenax, at the time of her death, the quantity, description, value and location thereof, the liens thereon, by whom held, and the respective and priorities thereof.

SIXTH: Such other matters as any party in interest may require, same being pertinent, or such matters as said Commissioner may deem pertinent, whether or not required.

If for any reason the said report is not completed on said day, then the same shall be continued from time to time and from day to day until the same is completed.

Given under my hand, this 26th day of March, 1945.

T. S. McNEEL,
Special Commissioner in Chancery.

Notice To Creditors And Lien Holders

To all the creditors and persons holding liens by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof, of Sylvia Mullenax, deceased.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, to the satisfaction of the lien thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Sylvia Mullenax, deceased, which are liens on her real estate, or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 20th day of April, 1945.

Given under my hand this 26th day of March, 1945.

T. S. McNEEL,
Special Commissioner.
